and other minorities can no longer be barred from so-called white neighborhoods.

The Justices ruled, 7 to 0, that "jim crow" real estate agreements cannot be enforced by any court or police power and need not be observed.

While this news was being flashed over local radios from another less pretentious news agency, there came a report from a family on East 90th Street that a mother and her nine chi'dren were being threatened by fire unless they moved.

The same agencies that went to the rescue of the Henry Laws family when it was thrown out on the sidewalk, have gone into action to protect the rights of Mrs. June Beckles and her nine children.

The question of minorities might be treated two ways—as separate complete units in themselves, with each group to improve its own lot; or as a more comprehensive study of the struggle of all minority groups,—Orientals, Jews, Mexicans, Indians, Italians or Negroes,—in the wider field of race relations.

I view minority problems not from a selfish, self-centered interest in one particular group, but rather as an integral oneness—an inseparable whole.

In the matter of property restrictions, the Negro has seemingly been singled out as the main target for persecution: hence, he becomes the symbol in the fight for minority rights. Thus when we speak of the Negro, we are speaking of all minority groups.

Let's remember this and many other things that are happening in our world today:—

The 14th Amendment

"The 14th Amendment guarantees all citizens equal protection under the law and forbids any State to 'abridge' the privileges or immunities of the United States."

When Associate Justices Robert H. Jackson, Stanley F. Reed and Wiley B. Rutledge disqualified themselves to serve the American people as members of the highest Court in the nation, they proved themselves unfit to remain members of the highest tribunal of the land. It is said that this action was taken by the Justices because they, themselves own restricted properties.

We, the people, must protest loudly such un-American activities—our most effective weapon is the ballot. Let's use it!

I have often heard that history is constantly repeating itself. Now I am reminded that when that great American, Thomas Jefferson, passed—the Democratic Party became dominated by the slave-holders. Madison and others who had followed the Jeffersonian Party line saw only one way out of what threatened our democratic way of life.

Hence, in 1854, steps were taken to organize a new political party created by Northern Democrats, the Whigs, the free soldiers, and all Americans who hated the enslavement of human beings and were willing to sacrifice to destroy slavery.

What happened when Jefferson passed, when this country was in the making, is being repeated today.

The people who control

Wife Says Hubby Is Cruel; She's Seeking Divorce

They were married Sept. 22, 1934, Marjorie L. Erwing, that is, and Harris James Erwing. But now their ways have parted. So, to make it legal, Mrs. Erwing filed a petition in the Court of Domestic Relations for divorce from Harris, with temporary and permanent alimony, the household furnishings and all other relief proper in the premises.

She says that Harris is cruel and abusive too. He works at a nite club in San Dimas, California, leading a dance orchestra at a nice little figure a week. Several other little accretions in the way of odd dollars come in monthly to him, she says, but they don't do her any good as he fails and refuses to cut her in on any of it.

Along with the divorce, the household goods and community property, consisting of real estate holdings in Fontana, California, and a 1941 Oldsmobile automobile and all further relief proper, she seeks temporary and permanent alimony.

He, too, awaits only a hearing to tell how she has been cruel to him, and to enumerate other acts of misconduct against her. He has always demeaned himself, he says, as a good and faithful husband toward her.

They have five children and he is well known in local music circles as being one of the hottest sax players in and around California.

Mrs. Erwing's attorney is David W. Williams. Attorney for Mr. Erwing is Walter L. Gordon, Jr.

Educators Refuse Hearing on Racial Discrimination

The Los Angeles Board of Education this week refused a public hearing on charges that racial and religious discrimination is found in the Los Angeles City School System. Such proceedings are against board policy, said Maynard J. Toll, president of the Board of Education.

The request for a public hearing was made by Sanford Goldner, chairman of the Committee to Combat Discrimination, and Harold S. Orr, president of the Los Angeles Federation of Teachers. The charges state that there is evidence to show that an ele-

Race Covenants Ban By High Court Wins Wide Approval Here

The Supreme Court decision voiding restrictive covenants this week was being hailed as the culmination of a long and bitter fight waged by Negroes and other minority groups, the majority of whom are hemmed in in whettos and living under unsanitary conditions in most metropolitan cities.

Organizations and individuals, also who have taken active part in this fight through the years, had many positive statements to make concerning the victory.

Judge Ben Rosenthal, Southern California regional president of the American Jewish Congress, had this to say:

"Restrictive covenants, grounded in racial and religious prejudices, are an out-and-out violation of the 14th Constitutional Amendment. The Supreme Court, in its decision nullifying these pacts, advanced the cause of democracy here in the United States at a time when the world is looking to the United States for leadership."

In a public statement on the United States Supreme Court restrictive covenant decision, Superior Judge Stanley Mosk stated:

"I am elated to learn of the decision of the United States Supreme Court declaring that courts may not enforce race restrictive covenants.

"Judge Thurmond Clarke and I have consistently ruled that the 14th amendment to the Constitution prohibited state courts from barring persons from their own homes on the basis of race or color, and it is highly gratifying to have the highest court

CHARGE COPS BEAT MAN IN DAYLIGHT

An almost unbelievable story of police brutality was called to the attention of The California Eagle this week.

According to the report made by Mr. B. L. Alexander, who owns and operates a filling station on corner of Griffith and Jefferson, he saw three burly police officers beat and stamp an unidentified Negro lad about 3 p.m. Friday, April 30.

Mr. Alexander said the boy appeared to be about 18 or 19 years of age, and his actions caused Mr. Alexander to feel that he was mentally unbalanced.

The beating incident occurred at the time of day when the streets were crowded with school children and pedestrians returning from school and work. Mr. Alexander and other eyewitnesses whom he named are: B. L. Alexander, 1850 East Jefferson blvd.; Webster Marshall, 1132

Southerners Jail Senator for Passing Thru 'Wrong Gate'

When Senator Glen Taylor attempted to go into a church, through an entrance marked "Negroes" to attend a youth conference rally in Birmingham, Alabama, a few days ago, he was beaten, cuffed and thrown into jail by police officers, fined fifty dollars and given a 180 days suspended sentence.

Senator Taylor has declared this to be an outrage upon democracy in this country and states that he will fight the case to a finish.

Glen Taylor is the vice-presidential candidate running on the Third Party ticket with presidential nominee Henry A. Wallace.

Said Henry Wallace, upon learning of the incident:

"This act against Taylor is a sure sign that the Democratic Party, as such, is weakening.

The Independent Progressive Party of Los Angeles yesterday hailed Senator Glen H. Taylor's courageous action in defying un-American segregation laws in Alabama and pledged full support to his fight in the following telegram sent to him in care of the Birmingham Municipal Court, Birmingham, Ala.:

"We congratulate you on your stand for human dignity and liberty and condemn your arrest and mishandling as an act of native American Fascism. Your action in defying the unconstitu-

National Maritime Union Begins Strike Vote

SAN PEDRO, Calif.—Monday, May 3—Members of the National Maritime Union, CIO, began voting May Day on a 30-day national referendum for a strike policy in line with other CIO maritime unions. Voting booths and ballot boxes were prepared in all ports, as members began casting their ballots on the following referendum: "According to Art. 27, Sec. 4, of the new Constitution, the National Council and National Negotiating Committee be empowered to call a strike on or after June 15 to maintain the Union hiring hall, secure a satisfactory contract with improved wages, hours, working and living conditions.

"Are you in favor of the decisions taken by the membership meetings and the National Council?" The strike referendum was based on a resolution passed unanimously at a New York membership meeting and approved by all ports:

The San Pedro Branch of the National Maritime Union has elected a Strike Preparations Committee, which has already held several meetings and elected sub-committees.

The committee has set up a food bin in the NMU Hall in San Pedro and reports that donations to the bin are already coming in from local merchants and members of the union. Large banners, calling for maritime unity for June 15 to save the hiring hall, defeat the Taft-Hartley Bill, and stating other demands were placed in the NMU hall on Palos Vedes St. last week.

Banquet Marks Beginning of California Eagle's 69th Birthday Celebration at Zion Hill Church

Colorful, brilliant, delightful — these are only a few of the adjectives used to describe the celebration of the 69th Aniversary of The CALIFORNIA EAGLE, the nation's oldest newspaper.

The celebration took the form of a banquet held in the large annex of the Zion Hill Baptist Church, made homelike yet with a lovely tinge of formality that was all the more beautiful with flowers, lights, other decorations—everywhere. The long tables, the high ceiling of the banquet hall, the walls, the windows, the little niches and corners.

They were all friends who had gathered there—friends of the EAGLE and of Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, its editor and publisher. And the 200 or more guests told in one message after another how much they appreciated the continued effort of the EAGLE and its publisher in the fight for the rights of the Negro, of all minority groups, and of the Common Man.

Attorney Crispus Wright acted as master of ceremonies, and wittily kept the program moving with clever remarks and bright witticisms as he introduced the different speakers to say "only a few words" or to "take a bow."

The early history of The California Eagle was told by Mrs. Idell Batermann, former employee of the EAGLE. It was first organized, she said, by John J. Neimore to fill a much-needed place in the Negro community. Mr. Neimore had come to Los Angeles from Texas, where he had been connected with newspaper work, and he realized at once that L. A. people would appreciate a newspaper of their own. Out of this came The California Eagle.

Then, while Mr. Neimore was still the publisher, a young girl came to Los Angeles from Providence, R. I., became interested in

HPA RALLY

The Home Protective Association will hold a rally Friday, May 7, at 8 p.m. in St. John Church, 10003 Wilmington ave., near 103rd street. Rev. J. J. Hicks, pastor of the church, will be the principal speaker. Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, president of the HPA, will preside.

The HPA was organized to fight restrictive covenants, especially the case of the Laws family ordered out of their home on East 92nd street because they are Negroes. The case was taken through the municipal courts, the county courts, and finally to the State Supreme Court, where it has been pending for some time. With the decision of the United States Supreme Court that restrictive covenants are unconstitutional, the HPA feels the battle is won, although there may still be much fighting to do to make that victory effective.

Everyone interested is urged to attend the rally on Friday. Come and bring your neighbors.

THE SIDEWALK

the Democrats and Republican Parties hailed the passing of Franklin D. Roosevelt as an opportunity to return to state of slavery. This time, it is slavery not only of Negroes, but the working class.

Like Lincoln, representing the Third Party of that time and lashing out against slavery, comes Henry Wallace, heading the Third Party of our time, lending his voice to protest jimcrow as it is practiced against Negro Americans, labor legislation such as the Taft-Hartley Bill, which denies all labor a free voice in arbitrating prices, wages and hour regulations.—and the denial of free speech.

Glen Taylor

The drastic measures in use to control thought and to develop a Fascist State in our own free America, was seen in full force this week. Glenn H. Taylor, vice presidential candidate on the Tihr Party ticket with Henry Wallace, believes that America cannot remain part slave and part free and hold its place in the family of nations as the symbol of Democracy.

Just who has the right to tell an American what door or entrance he should use in entering any public place? Here is what happened to a United States Congressman:—

Glenn H. Taylor, who believes that discrimination as it is directed against Negro citizens in Alabama is a blot on our civilization and a denial of democratic rights guaranteed by the Constitution to all American citizens was given ample proof of his belief.

A few days ago, when he attempted to go into a church through the entrance marked "Negroes" to attend a Negro Youth Rally in Birmingham, Alabama, he was roughly treated by the police, taken to jail, fined fifty dollars and given a 180 days suspended sentence. Senator Taylor has declared that he will fight the case to a finish.

For the first time in our history we, the Negro people, have among the candidates aspiring for high office men who are willing to accept us as part of the American family an have launched out on platforms of equality for all under the law.

Will we sacrifice the plums offered by our traducers and poin the march leading up the road to freedom by Wallace and Taylor?

ARTHRITIS

RHEUMATISM—NEURITIS

Don't be discouraged. Read what this famous doctor says:

"Mild attacks of muscular rheumatism may occur when subjected to exposure of cold, when the circulation of fluids in the body becomes congested and the elimination of toxins retarded. The congestion may occur in the muscles, and such cases the trouble is called "muscular rheumatism." This condition may exist for years, with varying attacks of shooting pains and soreness of the muscles, until finally the congestion of toxins locates in some joint of the body. The fingers and toes are usually affected first, but it often spreads to the elbows and shoulders, and in this stage is called "articular rheumatism."

"If the disease is not arrested at this stage, the soreness spreads to the hips, and finally to the spine. In this latter stage it is most serious. Every effort must be exerted by the patient to attempt to keep the inflammation from developing to this dangerous point. If the rheumatisms in the joints continues, the bones will throw out a liquid bone formation which will solidify around the joint, apparently in an attempt by the body to protect the joints against the irritation of acid toxins in the blood. This produces enlargement of the joints, twising them out of shape, and producing a disease called "arthritis deformans."

"The muscular form of rheumatism is usually to be found in the lower back, over the lumbar section of the spine, where it is called "lumbago," or in the muscles attached to the ribs, in which case it is called "intercostal neuralgia." If the inflammations extends to the nervous system, and deposits of irritating material accumulate around the nerve trunks, it will develop the disease commonly called 'sciatica' or 'neuritis.' Real neuritis is an inflammation of the nerve cells, and is a very rare disease, but rheumatism of the nerves of the arm is so often called neuritis, that I am simply referring to this form of the trouble by the name under which it commonly passes.

"In addition to the toxic condition of the blood being a cause of sciatica, it will be found that a certain amount of pressure is being exerted upon the nerves going to the legs by an impacted feces in the rectum, or by the pressure of gas on one or the other or on both sides of the colon. If a tumor exists in the womb this may be an irritating cause of pains in the legs because of the pressure exerted upon the pelvic nerves. If the gas pockets in the colon exist only on one side, it will be noted that there is a poor circulation in the leg on that particular side, often enough to produce sciatic pains."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M. D., eminent physician, says: "The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me, it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time, nor is the testimony in its favor confined to th elaity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

The stadium meeting is co-sponsored by Democrats for Wallace, Progressive Citizens of America, Students for Wallace and other groups. Mr. Wallace is expected to appear briefly before the state convention of Students for Wallace, an unaffiliated student organization supporting his candidacy.

May 17 — Arrival in San Francisco by plane. A large business and professional luncheon at the Fairmont Hotel, San Francisco.

An evening mass meeting at the Oakland Auditorium Arena. Mr. Wallace's scheduled subject is "Youth, Security and Peace."

We pledge same fight against jimcrow and racial prejudice by every method, and will back you if necessary in taking your case to the Supreme Court."

The new party called for federal action in ending the evils of jimcrow wherever it may appear in the United States and urged that a campaign be launched which would culminate in final victory, exemplified by the recent Supreme Courte decision regarding the equally un-American "restricted covenant" practice.

Rural Negro Women To Observe Home Demonstration Week

Approximately 250,000 rural colored women will take part in the observance of National Home Demonstration Week, May 2-8, by reviewing their past achievements and making plans for future home improvements, says M. L. Wilson, director of Extension Service.

Highlights of this year's observance will be a series of home tours, group discussions, luncheons, and radio broadcasts in which 3,500,000 rural women will participate. Of this total, 250,000 will be rural colored women in the 17 Southern States. Their program will be focused on the achievements of home demonstration work.

Reports received by the U. S. Department of Agriculture from State Extension Services show that rural colored women carried out extension home improvement practices last year under the leadership of home demonstration agents and volunteer neighborhood and community leaders. Organized in 6,000 home demonstration clubs, they canned 30 million quarts of fruits, vegetables, and meats, and stored an additional 20 million pounds of foodstuffs.

Other achievements of rural women under the guidance of home agents and volunteer leaders last year included improving the diets of their families, refurnishing some of the rooms in their homes, and making-over garments. Reports show that home agents assisted 156,000 rural colored families in improving their diets, 30,000 in constructing or repairing their homes, 6,000 in obtaining electricity, 191,000 in improving their food preservation methods, 73,000 in making neater garments, and 46,000 in planning and carrying out recreation activities.

The afternoon event at Lincoln Park Stadium, adjoining Magnolia Park, is sponsored by the Amigos de Wallace, a new national organization of Mexican-American and other Spanish-speaking groups. The night mass meeting is under the auspices of the Independent Progressive Party of California and the Progressibe Citizens of America.

Wallace's afternoon speech will be in the Spanish language at his own request. It follows the policies announced by the new party's presidential candidate of making the new party's stand for peace known to all American cultural and minority groups in their own language. Wallace, Senator Glen Taylor, and all other new party candidates are also well known for their categorical refusal to appear before segregated audiences, and for their insistance on the equal right of all persons to attend their meetings.

Both the afternoon and evening events will be part of the "I Am an American Day" celebrations, and will be dedicated to the American traditions of free speech, free assembly, and historic opposition to militarism and war.

H. A. Howard, President Broadway Loan Ass'n. Lauds Court Decision

H. A. Howard, president of the Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles hailed the decision of the U. S. Supreme Court that Restrictive Covenants are un-Constitutional, as welcome news not only for those directly affected but also as being "good business" for the community in general.

Mr. Howard's statement follows:

The decision of the United States Supreme Court outlawing restrictive covenants as a bar to legitimate real estate transactions, is indeed welcomed news. The effects of this decision are going to be felt for a long time.

To begin with, we can expect almost immediate certain transfers of property to Negroes by those whites who have all along been willing to make such sales, but who were prohibited by virtue of these clauses. Promptly, too, we can expect price increases on those dwellings which do become available. Ultimately, "last-ditch" whites will relinquish some of their property, either because they want to take advantage of a seller's market or because they would rather not live among Negroes. All in all, we can anticipate in the not-too-distant future an expansion of Negro communities, all over the country, which have been hemmed in by restrictive covenants on their borders.

There is also going to be an increased demand upon lending facilities by Negroes seeking finance for the purchase of homes in areas opened by the Court's decision. The reluctance of the usual neighborhood institutions to make loans to Negroes is well known. This fact alone should encourage more Negroes to see the wisdom in supporting their own savings and loan associations, and borrow from themselves. Another reason would be that it is good business.

And upon his death, she and her husband the late J. B. Bass, took over, and built it up to be one of the largest and most important weeklies in the United States.

It was the EAGLE, said Mrs. Baterman, which initiated the slogan "Don't spend your money where you can't work," and led the fight for the employment of Negroes in the various shops and department stores. That fought for the employment of Negroes by the Telegraph and Telephone Co. For the employment of Negro nurses in the General Hospital. As teachers in the public schools of Los Angeles. As conductors and motormen on the street cars of the Los Angeles Transit Co.

Mrs. Adelia Anglin told how she, as a neighbor, shared in the early development of The California Eagle.

"We lived on Birch street," she said. "My parents owned property where the Coca Cola Bottling works now stand. The California Eagle office shop was located directly in back of our house, and the building was on the rear of the lot which faced Central avenue. In those rugged days the EAGLE people carried water from our House to their shop, until they received their own supply. Thus we became very neighborly and friendly.

"The late Mr. J. J. Neimore, founder of The California Eagle, and Mrs. Bass, were the publishers of the paper. My brother, the late Oliver Davis, best remembered as "Ollie" as a boy at nine years of age, received his first training as a printer in the office of The California Eagle, under the supervision of the late Mr. Neimore.

"Our association with Mr. Neimore was very pleasant. He realized that man could not live by bread alone, and so he would seek the friendship of the neighbors and would visit with us often.

"As years went by and his health began to fail, Mr. Neimore worried much about The California Eagle, and asked Mrs. Bass to keep the paper alive. True to her promise she never missed a publication of the EAGLE. She worked hard and seemed to have unlimited strength and patience to carry on the publication of the paper, and throughout the years she has been the principal speaker for our group and was instrumental in opening many doors of industry to our race."

Among the many others who spoke and brought greetings were: Mrs. Charlotte Simpson, Mrs. Mabel Gray, Mrs. Ruth Slade, Mrs. Jean Siority, Mr. Lorenzo Bowdoin, Mrs. Lucille Simmonie who came all the way from San Diego to attend the anniversary; Mr. Caldwell, Mr. Yonuge, who is leading the fight against discrimination against Negroes and Jews in the public school system of Los Angeles; Atty. Walter L. Gordon, Jr.; Dr. Brandon Bowlin, Pasadena; Mrs. Hazel Whitaker Moore, former employee of the EAGLE; Titus Alexander, Toussaint L. Jennings of the Y.M.C.A.; Atty. George Cannady, Dr. H. Claude Hudson of the N.A.A.C.P.; John Forrester of the National Negro Congress; Sidney Moore, candidate for Congress for the 14th District; representatives of the Jewish Labor Gouncil, the CIO, the Carpenters Union, the Daily News, the Daily People's World, and scores and scores of others.

Jessie Mae Brown, society editor of the EAGLE, brought the reminiscing and congratulating back to earth by saying all need to help in pushing this great paper onward and by urging all present, if not already subscribers, to subscribe for and read The California Eagle in order to keep up with the latest news and to keep abreast of the progressive principles which the EAGLE has always advocated and fought for.

"I rejoice and feel happy to know I have so many friends," said Mrs. Bass, when at last given a chance to speak. "But the victories you have accredited to The California Eagle were won only because we all worked together and fought together. We must continue to do the same.

"All of us have a big job to do. We are living in a day when every person must stand up and be counted. Counted on the side of the forces that are working for the people, to bring a better world into existence, or on the side of evil to destroy what we have already gained, and to bring darkness and despair.

"I've been told I'm a radical," she said, as she looked around the large room at others who doubtless had been accused of the same "un-Americanism." Then she went on, "I've been called a Communist. Well, I want to say," was her comment, "if fighting for the cause of my people, for all minority groups, for the cause of the people of America and of the world is being a radical and a Communist, then I'm proud of that term and I'm going to try to continue to deserve it."

Referring to the chaotic political conditions in America today, Mrs. Bass declared: "I believe God always raises up a man to lead us out of any great crisis in which we find ourselves. In this great crisis in America today, and in the world, He has raised up a man who can and will lead us out to firm land again. That man is HENRY WALLACE, candidate for president on the Independent Progressive Party ticket."

Mrs. Beulah Johnson is given much credit for helping to make the affair a success. She furnished flowers and helped in other ways in the delightful evening. The Helen Jane Flower Shop gave the beautiful floral center piece which graced the speakers' table, and the corsages for members of the EAGLE staff.

Rev. Grant Harris, pastor of Zion Hill Baptist Church, Mrs. Harris, and all the members of Zion Hill were most cooperative in making the occasion a never-to-be-forgotten happy affair.

Williams Sought For Playground Improvements

Moving ahead on its plans for the provision of an outdoor community clubhouse, [illegible] pool and bathhouse development in South Park Playground, the Los Angeles City Recreation and Park Commisssion has authorized the retention of the service of Paul R. Williams, noted architect, it was announced today.

The Commission is requesting the services of Williams to design the floor plans, elevation, working drawings and specifications for the playground club house and bathhouse building to be built in conjunction with the proposed swimming pool at South Park Playground.

Williams is well known for his architecural accomplishments and in addition to the many private buildings which he has designed, has been the architect for one of the housing developments of the City Housing Authority, playground clubhouses for the County Recreation department, the 28th Street branch of the YMCA, and other public structures.

Heights Jail, and both children to Juvenile Hall.

Pursuant to technical objections by F. Charles O'Leary, Attorney representing the defendants, in Judge William M. Byrne's court in the Hall of Justice, on March 26, Attorney John Bland of the City Attorney's Office, appearing for the State, agreed to amend the complaint.

When the matter again came into Court on April 30, O'Leary again filed a special demurrer to the State's amended complaint, claiming the charges were vague, indefinite, uncertain and unreasonable, thus violating the 5th, 6th and 14th Amendments to the Federal Constitution, and to Sec. 13, Art. 1, of the State Constitution, and at the same time raising the question—what is the meaning of the word "might" and what is the meaning of the phrase "might be endangered"?

In fact, he contended that the complaint—" . . . did wilfully and unlawfully . . . cause and permit said child to be placed in a situation whereby its life and limb might be endangered and the health of said child was likely to be injured"—was so utterly vague, that if the penal provisions of this law were enforced, every person having the care of a child would violate the law many times daily.

Judge Byrne, participating in the extensive argument, indicated that the complaint was far from being definite, stated that he would hand down a decision in a few days, after he had made an exhaustive search of the legal authorities.

APPRECIATION IN VICTORY OVER RESTRICTIVE COVENANTS

Loren Miller, who together with Thurgood Marshall, argued the Michigan race restriction case in the United States Supreme Court today issued the following statement in regard to the Court's decision holding that court enforcement of such agreements violates the equal protection clause of the Fourteenth Amendment:

"The victory that we have won in a triumph not only for Negroes and members of other minority groups but for all Americans. The right vindicated by the Court is the historic right of an American citizen, of whatever race or color, to purchase, and to occupy, a home where he wills. Such a right makes democracy more secure and every American is freer today than he was yesterday by force of the decision.

"As I read the opinion, it effectively disposes of the many cases pending in the California Supreme and lower courts and it nullifies the hundreds of existing race restrictive covenants. I see no possible loophole that will permit the enforcement of existing agreements or the imposition of similar covenants.

"Credit for this victory belongs to literaly hundreds and thousands of people—in the labor movement, in the churches, in fraternal orders, in civic organizations—who kept up an unending fight against this evil. Briefs on our behalf were filed by the A.F. of L. the CIO, churches, the Elks Lodge, the American Jewish Committee, The American Jewish Congress and the American Indian Congress, to name only a few.

"Above all, I want to thank my colleagues and my clients; my colleagues at the bar because of the aid and encouragement they gave me, my clients because of their faith and their willingness to risk their savings in a fight that however valiant sometimes seemed hopeless."

NAACP Reaffirms Non-Partisanship

NEW YORK — Clarifying and reaffirming the non-partisan position of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, a committee of the organization's national board of directors this week adopted the following resolution:

"It is the policy of the NAACP that neither officers nor members of its branches shall use the name of the Association or that of a branch for the aid and assistance of the candidacies of themselves or of any other candidate for political office. Whenever officers of any branch run for political office, it shall be the duty of such officers and of the branch to make it clear to the public that neither the Association nor the branch supports such candidacy since the Association does not support any political party or candidate whatsoever."

The committee reaffirmed a resolution passed by the board at its March 1944 meeting which banned partisan political activity. "The National Office of the NAACP may not officially support any political party," this resolution asserted. "The branches of the Association may not, as organized groups, support any political party; but the branch officers and members as individuals may work for and support any political party or candidate of their choice. They may work as individuals on party committees, speak for political organizations, and engage in any other activity in support of their political choice," the resolution concluded.

Museum To Display Rare Diamond

A rare mineralogical specimen of a diamond in the rough partially enclosed in the original rock matrix in which it was found, has been acquired by the Los Angeles County Museum in Exposition Park, according to James H. Breasted, Jr., director.

The specimen, according to Dr. Rene Engel, is rather unique in that it shows well developed octahedral crystal faces with triangular depressions and is enclosed by its original agneous rock matrix of kimberlite, an olivine porphyry, from the famous diamond locality of Kimberley, South Africa, where the stone was found a number of years ago.

The diamond in its natural setting will be on view to the public in the permanent mineralogical exhibit in the rotunda on the main floor of the east wing of the museum.

Coroner Fails To Answer Call

An indignant neighbor called the EAGLE office when the coroner, who was called to 2817 Griffith avenue at 7 a.m., had failed to respond by 9:30 a.m. The victim was T. J. Glover, elderly ice-man in that community for the past 15 years.

C. I. Estes, neighbor and friend, found Glover sprawled out on the floor, where he had apparently dropped dead. Estes had gone over to Glover's place to take him to the doctor around 7 a.m. when he was found.

The policemen, ambulance and doctor responded almost immediately upon being called. Relatives had not been informed at the time of this printing so neighbors and friends had taken over temporary arrangements to settle his immediate affairs.

Doubt Germans See Real Democracy

FRANKFURT, Germany — The high command in Europe are agreed that the best way to teach democracy to the Germans is by the example set by our occupation forces, but fail to see that a segregated army is defeating the very thing they're trying to achieve.

That is the impression this writer got following a press conference Monday in the impressive EUCOM (European Command) Headquarters building with top military government and Army officials.

Lt. General Clarence H. Huebner, deputy commander-in-chief of the European Command, who appears to be sincerely interested in improving the lot of colored soldiers, indicates that he saw nothing contradictory in our teaching democracy to former Nazis while failing to practice it ourselves.

Although he did not state it in so many words, he did express his belief that the German people were gradually learning the democratic way of life under a program which with but few exceptions, calls for rigid racial segregation of the armed forces which are doing the teaching.

The press conference, which was followed by a dinner attended by Gen. Huebner and other officers, was held in the high ceilinger velvet draperylined conference room of the headquarters building.

How the sprawling building covering some 25 acres managed to escape bombing is one of the mysteries of World War II.

Some express the belief that it was spared while destruction was rained all around because it housed the gigantic I. G. Farben Chemical combine.

One of the world's largest monopolies, the Farben Co. held trade agreements with many large American and British corporations. Manq American bankers also owned stock in the cartel.

Negro Woman Arrested After 5 Years Search

BOSTON, Mass., May 5.—FBI agents this week arrested Edna White, Negro woman, 34, for a murder she was accused of committing in Pittsburgh five years ago.

Mrs. White was indicted in 1943 after the ice-pick slaying of James Cummings on a streetcar in Pittsburgh. She was found in Boston after a search through Ohio and the South, the FBI said. She has allegedly confessed the crime.

Conference To Consider The World Situation

Three thousand people, representing every shade of opinion and every level of society, will attend the conference being called by the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization to be held in San Francisco, beginning May 13. Delegates will come from the seven Western States, Hawaii and Alaska.

The question to be considered at this gathering will be: "What can the people do about the world situation?"

The conference will be headed by Dr. Clarence A. Dykstra, Provost of the University of California at Los Angeles and by Dr. Hugh M. Tiner, president of Pepperdine College. All universities, colleges and high schools will be represented by faculty members and spokesmen for the student body.

One of the major five subjects to be discussed during the UNESCO Conference is Human and Social Relations. UNESCO believes that there can be peace only when tensions are reduced which are born of misunderstandings among peoples, conflicts among nations, and sharp differences of ideology.

Delegates will inquire into the sources of social tensions in our own communities and in the world, which lead to misunderstanding and strife. They will seek to develop practical answers to the question: What can people do in their own communities, and in the United States, to remove sources of tension among themselves.

Lest We Forget— New Radio Series

The State of New Jersey Division Against Discrimination will present throughout the state the transcribed radio series, "Lest We Forget — The American Dream," produced by the Institute for Democratic Education and designed to combat discrimination and promote better inter-group relations, it was revealed yesterday by Joseph L. Bustard, assistant commissioner of education for the state of New Jersey.

"The material covered in the American Dream programs," Bustard stated in announcing the division's state-wide sponsorship, "will not only aid the work of the division but should also be of great help to the citizenry at large in understanding the importance of the problems of human relations and the necessity for being conscious of the democratic rights of all citizens."

Broadcasts will be a half hour long, the last 15 minutes of which will consist of panel discussion of the issues projected in the dramatization.

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Appointment of Stephen Fischer, former labor writer for the San Francisco Chronicle, as press relations Director for the National Wallace For President Committee, was announced today by Ralph E. Shikes, the Committee's public relations director.

A member of the Chronicle staff for the past eight years, Fischer resigned his post there to take his present assignment.

Fischer was a Nieman Fellow at Harvard University 1946-47. During the war he served as an aerial navigator in the South Pacific. He was decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Halt Mail Rate Increase

WASHINGTON, D. C.—At the request of the U. S. Circuit court of appeals, the Civil Aeronautics Board has withheld, pending court scrutiny, a $545,000 retroactive increase in mail rates granted to National Airlines, whose pilots and ground forces are on strike.

Joining the protests of the Air Lines Pilots Assn. and Intl. Assn. of Machinists, the Workers Defense League described the Board's action as "using public funds to subsidize strikebreaking." Recalling that before the start of the strike the Board had refused to increase the line's mail rates, the WDL pointed out: "In violation of its own regulations, the CAB failed to submit any specific data which might show the basis for its decision to raise the rates."

Threatens to Leave So Woman Kills Him

"I killed him because he told me he was through and threatened to leave me. He had disgraced me by promising to marry me if I would live with him as his common-law wife, and when he broke his word and said he was leaving the next day, I got up and got my pistol and shot him."

These are the words which were sobbed out to him by Essie Hawkins, 316 E. 60th st., on the morning of April 25, according to testimony of Officer Howsley of the 77th st. police station at the coroner's inquest over the death of Willie Johnson, 37, who met his death as the result of three bullets fired into his body by Miss Hawkins.

The officer further testified that Miss Hawkins tried to kill herself by firing a bullet into her own head, but the gun refused to go off.

Cleveland McDowell, landlord at the 60th st. address, and his wife, both testified that they were awakened by the firing of shots and when both ran to Miss Hawkins' room she was standing at the doorway sobbing, "I tried to kill myself, but the gun will not go off," whereupon after a brief struggle they wrested the gun from the possession of the hysterical woman and called the police.

Miss Hawkins was represented by Atty. Curtis C. Taylor who informed the court that she would stand on her constitutional rights and not testify.

Immediately thereafter a charge of murder was filed against her by the district attorney.

WATER SUPPLY CONTROVERSY ENDANGERS NATIONAL DEFENSE

California, as one of the greatest national defense areas of the United States, must be assured of a dependable and adequate water supply, two high ranking Army and Navy officers stated in a conference with representatives of the California Congressional delegation.

Admiral J. J. Manning, chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, and Major General R. C. Crawford, Deputy Chief of Army Engineers, jointly stressed the importance of eliminating the danger of both power and water shortages such as those which were a serious burden to the services, as well as to industry, in California during the last war.

Reps. Harry R. Sheppard and Norris Poulson, representing both the majority and minority parties in the California delegation, held a lengthy conference with the Army and Navy officials in Washington last week, and reported that as a result of the Arizona-California controversy over division of the waters of the Colorado River, national defense plans are dangerously imperiled.

Legislation to carry the interstate controversy before the United States Supreme Court for final adjudication has been introduced in both the House and the Senate by California and Nevada senators and congressmen. It is opposed by Arizona.

Taylor Calls For Action, Not Words

GREENSBORO, N. C.—Senator Glen H. Taylor, of Idaho, candidate for vice-president on the Independent Progressive Party ticket speaking before the students of the Greensboro State College, attacked the leaders of both old parties for their hypocrisy and failure to protect civil rights.

Senator Taylor said the recent action of the Senate Judiciary Committee, composed of both Republicans and Democrats, in supporting the interstate compact to establish segregated educational institutions in the Southern states, demonstrated that neither party was genuinely willing to defend civil rights.

"In denying to Negroes their right to equal educational opportunities within their own states, this bipartisan action goes far deeper than at first appears. It is part of a consistent pattern to subvert the efforts of the Supreme Court to uphold civil rights by methods of evasion. It affects the rights of all men and women under the Constitution.

"Actions speak louder than words. I can predict that the same bipartisan devotion to words rather than deeds will be followed in the important legislation on poll tax, anti-lynch and anti-discrimination bills. The people must demand that this filibuster stop and that all these important bills pass this session."

The axe was one of the first tools designed by primitive man.

Parents Faculty Games Gain in Interest

In an exciting game played before an overflowing crowd, the Parent-Faculty Team of Main Street School returned victorious over the Girls' Team by the score of 20 to 11. It was an exciting game which kept the spectators on their feet throughout the game.

Mrs. Beckwith, Mrs. Narcisse and Mrs. Dillingham lead the Parent-Faculty team to victory. Mr. Thomas, playground supervisor for Central District, gave further emphasis to the importance of the game by officiating.

Due to many requests for another such game, we are glad to announce that the Parent-Faculty team will play the Boys' team on June 10th.

Sidney Moore Urges Rep. Douglas Fight Police State Bill

Telegram to Helen G. Douglas:

Urge you join immediately Rep. Holifield and others in public opposition to Mundt-Nixon Police State Bill designed to strip people of all hard won Civil Rights.

The above telegram was sent to Rep. Helen G. Douglas by Sidney Moore, IPP candidate for Congress in the 14th Congressional District.

Moore subsequently stated that the Nixon-Mundt Bill if passed will be the worst piece of legislation ever to pass Congress in all of our history. The Bill puts into the hands of the Attorney General the authority to decide the fate of individuals and organizations throughout the country. Ten years in jail may be given a person who knowingly or unknowingly supports an organization which can be construed by the Attorney General as being subversive. The Attorney General is the judge as to whether an organization or the acts of an individual are subversive or not. If one wishes to appeal his case, he must appeal to the Attorney General, thus by-passing the courts, even the Supreme Court of the United States.

This Bill would silence any opposition to the administration's plan for Universal Military Training, or opposition to the Marshall Plan, or to military aid to Greece or Turkey, or Franco Spain. The fight for Civil Rights in the United States would become illegal. This means that the fight against Jim-Crow, Segregation, for FEPC, or the fight against Anti-Semitism would become illegal, and anyone engaging in these activities could be given 10 years in prison.

The Thomas-Rankin UnAmerican Committee is sponsoring the Bill. They admit that it may be ruled unconstitutional, but said that the Bill would be tied up in the courts for two years, and by that time they would have accomplished their aim. And the aim of Thomas and Rankin from Mississippi is to destroy Democracy in the United States, and establish in its place a police state.

CHICAGO—According to Doris Helfenberger, careers and hobbies mix very well — and she should know. Before Doris was out of high school she had become an expert silversmith and her talent was in commercial demand.

Then came the war and Doris started out to "capture caps". Her first was an army cap which she donned at 19 and became a pilot in the Civilian Air Patrol, flying regularly with her squadron over Illinois and Indiana.

At 22 she has just won a brand new cap, starched and white. She has entered first year duty as a student nurse at Cook County Hospital here. Doris considers this the first step in her serious life work and medicine was her first love. She plans to specialize in anesthesiology.

There is a course for summer credits opening at the school on June 21st, and Edna S. Newman, director, also announces that several scholarships are available for students planning to enter the September classes. Men as well as women are welcomed in the training course for nurses, and many opportunities are open to them in the nursing profession, especially at Cook County, said to be the largest institution of its kind in the world.

Judge Baird Wins Lawyers Support

A judge of the Superior Court since 1932, Judge William S. Baird is again a candidate to succeed himself in the June 1 primary, and many hundreds of the most prominent attorneys of Los Angeles county are actively assisting in the campaign.

Judge Baird has been a resident of Los Angeles county for the past 47 years. He was admitted to the bar in 1909 and was appointed Justice of the Peace shortly thereafter. He became a Municipal Court judge in 1926 when that court was established. He was elected to the Superior Court judeship in 1932 and has occupied that office ever since.

Judge Baird is a member of the various Masonic Orders, including the Shriners; B.P.O. Elks; City Employees Masonic Club; Acacia Club; Past Royal Patron Amaranth; Builders Club; and Jonathan Club. He is an honorary member of V.F.W. and active in Welfare of Youth.

With a new headquarters office recently opened in the Stowell Hotel in Los Angeles the campaign for re-election is in full swing.

Frances Williams

Father George H. Dunne's play about racial discrimination, which has moved to the Radio Center theater at 600 Sunset blvd., is attracting such community support that it has caught the attention of some political candidates.

Frances O. Williams, a condate to the Assembly from the 63rd district, has booked the entire house for May 14 and is selling the tickets at her campaign headquarters, 1724 W. Jefferson street, PA. 6479.

"This is a play that deserves the support of every liberal", says Miss Williams, whose interest in the theater is more than academic—she is a well-known actress.

Candidate Williams' precinct workers are taking the tickets house-to-house in their canvassing, and report great enthusiasm for the play among both the white and Negro people of the district. They feel they are killing two birds with one stone—as part of the proceeds will go to the West View Hospital.

Will Issue Title For Tax Property

With the first of a new series of public auction sales of city-owned properties set for Thursday, May 6, Commissioner Louis M. Dreves of the Board of Public Works announced plans have been completed to provide a policy of title insurance to all successful bidders instead of tax-deed titles as in previous sales.

Reports to the Board of Public Works from the Bureau of Right of Way and Land disclose the city now holds title to many properties ranging in price from $100 to $60,000 and an attempt is being made to process these holdings as rapidly as possible. When this task is completed the parcels will be offered for sale.

The group to be offered for sale at 10 o'clock a.m. on May 6 will be the first of approximately 450 parcels now being processed by the Right of Way and Land Bureau to offer guaranteed titles to all buyers. The auction sale will be held in Room 150, session room of the Board of Public Works in Los Angeles City Hall.

Taylor, Paul Robeson and Mrs. Rebecca Styles Taylor, Negro newspaper columnist. In the center are Mrs. Earl D. Dickerson, Wallace, and Mrs. Pauline Kigh Reed, chairman of the women's committee which sponsored the reception. A similar affair is being planned by Negro women in this section for Henry Wallace, upon his arrival here.

Support for Washington for Assembly Mounts

Support and enthusiasm for the campaign of Leon H. Washington for state assemblyman from the 67th district, in which Watts is located, is continuing to mount week by week.

Among those pledged to give him unstinted backing are the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance, composed of ministers of all creeds throughout the city; the J. B. Bass Elks Lodge, No. 1004; Rev. M. Harley Duvall, pastor of the Macedonia Baptist church in Watts, one of the largest churches in the area; the Women's Progressive League of the Macedonia Baptist church; Citizens Committee to Abolish Second Class Citizenship; and numerous other prominent individuals and groups.

Support for Washington is due both to his widespread reputation for battling consistently through the years for the rights of Negroes and members of other minority groups, and to the program on which he is running.

Washington, through his own experience, as well as through his intimate knowledge of the problems that beset Negroes in Los Angeles learned from his many years of activity here as publisher of The Los Angeles Sentinel, has a keen understanding of the needs of the people of the 67th district.

His program, based on that understanding, calls for low-cost public housing, the elimination of the State sales tax, health insurance, Fair Employment practice legislation, extension of social security, permanent child care centers, support of labor's right to organize and bargain collectively, and substantial increase in pensions.

He also advocates improved lighting, transportation, police and fire protection for people living in the area; better highways and freeways servicing the district; a civic center in the Southeast part of the city; development of the San Pedro-Long Beach harbor; and the establishment of a state Juvenile Protection Bureau to combat delinquency.

Judge Baird Says Vets No Problem

"Veterans probably have more legal problems than other people, but the veterans, themselves, do not constitute a problem to our courts," Superior Court Judge William S. Baird stated this week at a meeting of a large group of property owners.

Judge Baird, who is a candidate for re-election at the June 1 Primary, further declared that in his court, at least, cases concerning veterans entail less confusion and better understanding than those in which the litigants are non-veterans.

"I have found that veterans know their rights and are willing to stand up for them—but I have also found that, if shown that they are in the wrong, the vast majority of veterans are reasonable and fair."

"These men fought for America and they act as Americans ought to act," Judge Baird concluded. "They state their cases clearly and concisely and they do not whine when a decision is against them."

Judge Baird has been awarded an honorary membership in the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Mrs. Carter Delegate To UN Conference

Mrs. Blanche Carter, president of the Women of the Western Baptist State Convention, was selected as a delegate to the Western Regional Conference of the U.N.E.S.C.O. to be held in San Francisco May 13, 14, and 15.

Representatives of many nations will attend the conference, and international problems will be discussed, especially the problem of world peace. The Women of the Western Baptist State Convention feel very proud of the honor bestowed upon them. They feel that Mrs. Carter has the ability and charm to cope with any situation, and to bring back to them the high points of the conference.

Mrs. Leighton is the national president of the Women's Auxiliary.

Democracy the Cure Says Walter White

"Apparently it is not possible for you to realize how bitterly Negroes in America feel about Jim Crow in the armed services," said Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, in reply to U. S. Senator Wayne Morse.

Senator Morse stated previously, in a telegram to Walter White: "If you give any such encouragement to Randolph's point of view it will set back several years our fight for Civil Rights Program."

Continuing his reply, Mr. White stated:

"The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will never cease its fight for the abolition of the vicious and undemocratic discrimination and segregation in the services. We would have valiant allies if you and some of your colleagues in the Senate could darken their faces and don a uniform for six weeks. Our Association is not advising Negroes to refuse to defend their country if it is in danger. But those who expect them to be enthusiastic fighters should remember that their memories of mistreatment in the last war are bitter green.

"Negro veterans returned home to be terrorized in Columbia, Tenn., lynched in Walton County, Ga., denied the ballot in most southern states, barred from taking GI courses in many schools, and slandered on the floor of the United States Congress. Consequently there is sympathy in many hearts for the Randolph point of view. The remedy is not to threaten treason trials, but to give these loyal citizens the democracy they are expected and asked to die to defend."

L.A. To Obesrve 22nd World Trade Week, May 16-22

Screen Star Alexis Smith yesterday was appointed Miss World Trade for 1948 by Alfred E. Hopkins, general chairman of Los Angeles' 22nd annual observance of World Trade, May 16-22.

The spirit of World Trade will be symbolized attractively by the tall, blond actress, who will act as official hostess during the numerous meetings, luncheons, and public events scheduled for World Trade Week, Hopkins reported.

World Trade Week, which originated in Los Angeles in 1927, will use the slogan "Part of Every Dollar You Get Comes from World Trade" during the 1948 observance, Hopkins said. National observance of the Week takes on added significance this year, he pointed out, because of the present critical condition of international commerce and its vital importance to U. S. post-war economy.

Meekness excludes revenge, irritability, morbid sensitiveness, but not self-defense, or a quiet and steady maintenance of right.

"UN-AMERICAN PRACTICE SWEPT AWAY," SAYS ATTY. RICARD IBANEZ

Attorney Richard A. Ibanez, candidate for Superior Court Judge in the coming June first elections, today hailed the Supreme Court decision forbidding enforcement of restrictive covenants.

"Another un-democratic and un-American practice, making for second-class citizenship, has been swept away by the highest tribunal in the land." the young Mexican-American attorney declared.

"The supreme Court without one dissenting vote, has restored dignity to decent fellow Americans, by ruling that the practice of restrictive covenants will no longer be enforced by the courts," he stated. "This historic decision, which forbids official sanctioning of segregation on the basis of race or creed, is a great step in implementing true democracy in our country."

Richard A. Ibanez was born in Texas 37 years ago but his family came to Southern California in his first year and he has resided here ever since.

While attending Redlands High School, where he was active in athletics, drama and debating, he won the 1927 Southern California Oratorical Contest for High Schools. He worked his way through school at Bericeley, where he studied law as a graduate student. Employed as a conductor on the inter-urban trains in San Francisco he joined the Railroad Brotherhoods union and became interested in the entire trade union movement.

Graduated in 1937, Ibanez was admitted to the bar the same year and started a successful law practice for himself. Public offices he has held include city councilman of Uplands, where he was also chairman of the Police and Fire Commission and a member of the Library Board and Planning Commission.

He has also been on the advisory board of the Mexican-American Movement, Community Service Organization, and the Community Health Association. A veteran of World War II, he is a member of Amvets and the American Legion, and has been active in such fraternal organizations as the Masons, Elks and Eagles.

How Will the Marshall Plan Work

Some people who have doubts about the political meddling in other nation's affairs, which so evidently is an integral part of the Marshall Plan for aid to Europe, are nevertheless for it because they believe that the spending of so much money in Europe will surely do somebody some good.

Like working on the principle of some thirty or forty years ago of feeding every "tramp" who came to the door upon the theory that among the scores of fakes who asked for aid, there would be at least one who was worthy.

There will doubtless be some good done. But that little some is cleverly hidden among the big evils that are so manifest, although boosted to the skies by the pro-Marshall Plan advocates that it hides the real issues.

Among the countries which will benefit by this plan are Germany, Austria, Turkey, the present government of Greece, Italy—all pro-Fascist, all enemies of the U. S. World War II.

The people of Europe are hungry. They requested farm machinery in order to be able to raise food for themselves. But their request was cut 50%. They do not need very much oil, and asked for only a comparative sum to rehabilitate their oil refineries. Yet we insisted upon giving them three times what they ask for.

Why such generosty? The oil of the Middle East can be refined and stored more cheaply over there than here—and be ready for immediate use. For the United States, of course.

We do not care so much about housing in Europe. The representative of the United States specifically criticized the Paris budget for housing as being unrealistic.

The U. S. is opposed—very much so—to any attempts at nationalizing any industries. Even though the people of those nations of Europe know nationalization of basic indstries is their one hope of salvation.

No. 1. The Marshall Plan will not create a free and prosperous Europe. It will only bring about a semi-colonial Europe, tied to the apron strings of American imperialism. It will make the nations of Europe entirely dependent upon the U. S., and WE—not the Big Brother in reality that we pretend to be—will force those fearful nations of Europe to do our bidding, whether they like it or not.

Henry Wallace has a different plan. His plan is to send aid to all the nations of Europe as needed. To help them get on their economic feet again. To help them to help themselves by sending them farm implements instead of guns. And by minding our own business so far as their politics are concerned, and let them have whatever form of government they choose.

And, according to Henry Wallace, this aid would go through the United Nations, not through one member of the UN. And no one nation would be under obligations to another nation.

Demand Housing Bill Passage

The Taft-Ellender-Wagner General Housing Bill has passed the United States Senate. This is good news. It now goes to the House of Representatives, where it will be considered and voted upon.

And if the House passes the bill, and President Truman signs it, it will be a law of the land. Then much of the difficulties of the housing situation in this country can be solved.

But the House has very often blocked legislation, even if adopted by the Senate. Jesse Wolcott (R) is chairman of the House Committee on Banking and Currency which will have to consider the bill before it comes before the House for general discussion and voting. That committee is holding hearings this week. They will probably last more than a week.

What can we do about it? You and I.

Write our representative in Congress to work overtime in getting it before the House. And then to be sure to vote for it, and get others to vote for it. The National Reality Association is working overtime to defeat it.

Silent Poison

Very quietly and unobtrusively the House Un-American Activities Committee has submitted to the House of Representatives one of the most poisonous pieces of legislation in all American history.

The very fact that this committee is working so quietly to day, in direct contrast to its usual loud plea for publicity, is a warning of the supreme danger of the legislation.

The House un-American Committee has asked the House to pass a bill, the Mundt-Nixon bill, which if passed would establish a legal police state in this country.

Its ostensible purpose is to outlaw the Communist Party. In reality it will outlaw all freedom of speech. It will permit no criticism of the government—a right guaranteed to all American citizens by the Constitution.

Under this bill a scientist or civic leader could be jailed for advocating the outlawing of the atom bomb. It would be a crime to oppose universal military training. It would be a crime to work together with anyone else in behalf of any matter of public policy.

A worker could be sent to jail for fighting for wage increase. For striking. For picketing. The Attorney General alone would be given the power to say what organizations are "Communist front." What are not. And anything could be called "Communist" in the present mood of our Attorney General.

This bill would be worse than the Alien and Sedition laws adopted by Congress in 1800. The people then arose against the tyranny which they thought they had licked in the Revolution, and elected Thomas Jefferson as President of the United States, instead of John Quincy Adams under whose administration the laws were passed.

But we may not have a chance to elect another president if this vicious bill becomes a law. If it became a law before November, the Independent Progressive Party could be driven out of existence. Henry Wallace could be ruled off the ballot. Whether or not you were a member of the Communist Party, if you happened to support some measure such as housing, which the Communist Party also supports, you could be sent to jail for doing so.

How can we avert this silent poison, creeping so stealthily upon us? Write, wire to your congressman to vote Against this nefarious bill. The call is urgent. Write at once. The bill is now in the House. It can be defeated there. If it goes to the Senate, the fight will be harder. Write your Congressman now.

Helen Gahagan Douglas represents the 14th Congressional District in which most of the EAGLE's readers live. Write her at once. House of Representatives, Washington, D. C.

CIO Activities

Among the many activities of the CIO during the past few months to which it points with pride is exposing of employers to split Negro and white strikers.

In the present strike of 2500 Packinghouse Workers against the "Big Four" packers, the packers were caught red-handed, according to the Los Angeles CIO Council Report, in an attempt to incite race prejudice against Negro strikers who constitute nearly one-third of United Public Workers of America membership.

Company agents circulating in crowds at the company employment offices, offered Negroes "good jobs" if they would scab on their fellow workers.

To combat this propaganda, the CIO Council distributed leaflets telling the issues of the strike. They held a luncheon for Negro community leaders, who pledged support to the strike. In the press, from the pulpit, in meetings, by every means possible the CIO brought home to Negro workers the necessity of supporting the strike. Do not scab, said they.

This action bore fruit. Negroes are refusing to scab, and are supporting the strike instead. The CIO is to be congratulated upon this action. For it is only by united effort of both Negro and white that the ultimate goal can be attained. And enlightened workers and strikers will be the only ones who can unite intelligently in such a fight.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

Sixty-nine years of service!

That was the keynote to all the paens of praise poured out in honor of The California Eagle at its 69th anniversary, celebrated last Friday evening in Zion Hill Baptist church.

Sixty-nine years of service fighting for the rights of the Negro, of all minority groups, for the rights of the Common Man!

A few of the past struggles in this up-hill fight were cited by speakers at the anniversary banquet. They told of threats of the Ku Klux Klan, when some of those hooded monsters even dared to invade the office of the EAGLE, and were driven back by the courage of one woman.

They mentioned trials in court when the EAGLE stood like the bird of freedom for which it was named, and fought tenaciously for the liberties of the little men and women, almost friendless and alone if it had not been for the EAGLE.

"The California Eagle has been an ally and helpful friends in every fight that labor has ever had."

"The California Eagle is a paper that tells the truth."

"The California Eagle stands not only in Los Angeles, but in all America as one of the great newspapers which has rendered great service to all forms of social work."

"The California Eagle initiated the slogan: 'Don't spend your money where you cannot work.' And continued to fight until stores and shops which were patronied by Negroes, gave Negroes the opportunity of working in those shops and stores."

"The California Eagle fought three years until the telephone and telegraph company agreed to employ Negroes in its service."

"The California Eagle fought for the employment of Negroes in the General Hospital. As teachers in the public schools of Los Angeles. As conductors and motormen on street cars of the Los Angeles Transit Lines."

Etc., etc. etc.

But all this is history. The present? The future?

"All of us have a great big job to do," Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, present editor and publisher of The California Eagle, reminded her many friends. "We are truly living in the time of great decision. Men and women everywhere are beginning to realize what is going on. They are wondering why we have troops in Europe, in China, in Greece, in Turkey. Why we are sending billions of dollars to control elections in Italy, and spending so little to take care of our own here at home. We must see to it that our boys get out of those countries, and come back to the United States where they belong.

"I shall always fight for what is right," declared Mrs. Bass. "But we must all work and fight together. You, who are the readers of The California Eagle; the members of the staff; our friends our neighbors—all of us. If we are going to have that world for the Common Man that we have so ardently hoped for."

Truly, we shall have to keep on fighting. For at this writing, even while the radio and the headlines in the newspapers are proclaiming the glorious news that restrictive covenants are banned forever by the decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, we can read in the very next column of Negro families ordered to move—not by the court of the land this time, but by neighbors who threaten to "do something" if they don't get out.

Thank God we have the law on our side this time. But we must nevertheless work and fight just as hard. Perhaps even a little harder than we ever did before.

Verily there is no rest for those who are fighting the wicked.

BOOKS & AUTHORS

"The Art of Selfishness," by David Seabury, is a new edition of this popular book. According to the author it aims to "help you get out . . . and stay out of trouble." Each of the 50 chapters deals with a specific human problem and each problem is fully discussed in the light of an enlightened and practical selfishness. Two solutions are given in every case—real solutions out of real life. One of the solutions given is the one which worked and the other one which did not. David Seabury is a clear thinker and a lucrid writer.

"No Trumpet Before Him," by Nella Garner White, is a prize-winning novel by a minister's daughter who manages to be a good wife, a good mother and a good writer. It is the story of a 31-year-old Methodist minister who is a misfit in a small town and a failure in his wife's eyes. When appointed to First Church in a more worldly community his simplicity and humility displease his new congregation. It is an absorbing sympathetic story of a real Christian who refuses to compromise with his way of life.

The United States Bureau of Standards has put out a most useful book, "Safety for the Household." It tells of all kinds of hazards—chemical, electrical, fire, gas and many others, and cautions o nwhat to watch for as well as how to make the home as safe as possible. Beside the chapters on precautions there is a section on first aid giving simple measures which may be followed in case there is an accident.

"AWOL the Rajah," by Bertrand Shurtleff, is a new story of the Doberman pinscher dog of "K-9 Commando." Here his master, a journalist, takes him to Australia where his courageous attack on a panther makes him famous. He is stolen and his master, who has been stricken with malaria, despairs of ever seeing him again. This is the account of how the brave dog courageously and intelligently finds his way back through dangers of the jungle to rejoin the one man he loves.

"How It's Done: Hairstyles for You," by Ivan Anderson of Hollywood, shows how to select the most becoming haircuts and hairstyles for your particular face type. It suggests ways to minimize facial and head irregularities, how to finger wave and make sculpture curls, how to set and comb flattering hairstyles for all ages, and how to set and comb rolls and bangs. With his superb illustration he gives all the fine points so that even a non-professional can grasp the ideas.

"Sorry, Wrong Number," by Allan Ullman, is a novelization from the screen play by Lucille Fletcher which was expanded from the radio drama—the most repeated performance in radio. Over the phone Mrs. Stevenson overhears the plans for a murder to be committed that very night. Frantically she tries to interest the police, who are very indifferent since there are no clues and the victims are unknown. What can she, alone, afraid, and bedridden, do to prevent the crime? With the telephone as her only contact she becomes a part of the mystery and the unspeakable evil climaxed by one of the most terrifying moments in current fiction.

"Adam's Rib," by Ruth Herschberger, is "a defense of modern woman"—a frank analysis and a serious challenge. It is a witty reply to those who blame women for all the world's troubles. While giving the differences between the sexes it also affirms their biological equality. The author tells logically the basic fallacies underlying both the scientists' and the laymans' definition of male and female. Many will welcome this book, which stresses the basic similarities between the sexes rather than their differences. The author has contributed to scientific journals on this subject and is a keen logician and psychologist. This book is much more popularly written tha nthe currently popular title by Alfred Kinsey — "Sexual Behavior in the Human Male."

"The Great Trace," by Vingie Roe is a story of the covered-wagon days. Capt. Matt Shannon rides his white horse proudly at the head of the train rolling steadily westward along the Great Trace while the reckless and handsome young scout, Dave, keeps close watch for lurking dangers. Tancy, driving her own team and carrying her own rifle, looks squarely at life—and love. Both the brave men fall in love with her and become bitter enemies in spite of their common interest in the survival of the people in their care and dissension grows. The primitive struggle of two men for the love of a girl brings their train to the brink of disaster. It is ap epic story of an heroic time and of indomitable men and women and a tumultuous love.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Leavenworth, Kansas.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I am most desirous of finding the whereabouts of George Palmer, with whom I served in the army in France. A matter of the gravest importance has arisen and its solution depends entirely upon my contacting this man.

It is my fervent hope that you will do everything possible to assist me in locating this young man, George Palmer. All that I know relative to providing data in finding this man's whereabouts is that he has a father and one sister living in Los Angeles. He is approximately 23 years of age, lived there before entering the army somewhere in Los Angeles. The last I saw of him was in the latter part of 1944, at which time he was about 18 or 19 years of age.

This is all I have to go on, except that we were in a quartermaster's unit serving the First Army in France. The unit, 3275 Quartermaster Service Co. His approximate height is 5 ft. 9 in.; color, brown skin; weight approximately 165 or 170.

I have learned that he was mustered out of the army, and it is reasonable to believe that he returned to Los Angeles. I will greatly appreciate any effort made to locate this young man.

Very truly yours,
L. C. WILLIAMS.

(Editor.—If anyone knows anything in connection with George Palmer, please contact The Eagle office.)

Mrs. Charlotta Bass.
My Dear Friend:

While reading THE CALIFORMIA EAGLE, I read about your unhappy experience on the campus of City College. I am sorry that such demonstrations can be worked up on our fair city, but so many things are happening now that one ceases to wonder about anything.

I am still confined to the Ranch, but am so much better. Business is very bad here, and we don't seem to understand the cause. This time of year we are generally filled up with our progressive friends, but for some reason they have stopped coming now and are going to other Ranches who openly say they don't want their business.

I know our prices are cheaper and accommodations better, so I am writing to you. We are trying hard to get to the public, and there is no better way than through THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE.

You need a rest. Why don't you come up for at least a week-end?

Yours sincerely.
Lela O. Murray

San Diego, Calif.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

You will find enclosed an order for one year's subscription to The California EAGLE. I do enjoy reading it so much, and look forward to Friday when I receive it.

Congratluations on the 69th anniversary.

Mrs. L. C. Hayter

A Hunger Strike - Why?

Why We Went on a Hungry Strike, a pamphlet written by the five men who were on a hunger strike at Ellis Island has been published. Written by Charles A. Doyle, Gerhart, Irving Potash, Ferdinand C. Smith and John Williamson, it relates the reasons for their arrest and detention at Ellis Island and their experiences while incarcerated there. It is being issued by the American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born and the Civil Rights Congress.

Why We Went on a Hunger Strike stresses particularly the resentment of these men to their unwarranted arrest and the unconstitutionality of their being held without bail. It gives a picture of the lives of five men, locked in one cell, continually under guard, at Ellis Island, which the Justice Department tried to turn into America's first concentration camp.

W. J. Wheaton Says

It was a bright Sunday morning, and I was undecided whether I should go to Golden State Park, and the DeYoung Museum or the Legion of Honor and listen to Uda Waldorfs Organ recital: The Golden Gate finally won. So slipping a book in my pocket, in case, we started on our pilgrimage. I was waiting at a transfer point for a bus when we felt a gentle pull on our coat, and turned to see the two Mary Anns on their way to church. I told them my destination, but after a bit of persuasion, we compromised; I go with them to church, after the service we would go to the Museum, and the Beach, and Mary Ann suggested a "snack" when we returned from the Beach. Needless to say, that we readily agreed. We enjoyed the church service, especially the singing. There was a young lady who sang that most beautiful song, "Trees." Then the audience, or congregation, sang a Spiritual, "I Didn't Hear Anybody Pray." Mary Ann's magnificent voice rang out as she seemed to put her soul into the song. Little Mary Ann's voice is just in the sttage of development, and it is going to be like her grandmothers. We don't consider ourselves musical critics, but we have an opinion that if, properly trained, that girl's voice will carry her far. The sermon was interesting, but not convincing, if you know what we mean. We had a delightful time at the Park and the beach. Grandma had to caution granddaughter about mixing hot dogs and ice cream. We confess to one of the most pleasant days in years. We arrived at the home pleased, but tired, and ready to enjoy one of Mary Ann's "Snacks." While Mary Ann was preparing the table, little Mary Ann, whispered something in her ear. "Huh Huh," she responded; but honey it's imperlite to whisper in company, so 'scuse yourself, which she did. It turned out that she wanted to invite the little girl in the flat above to share the "snack." Mary Ann said the child was neglected by the mother, and that she had never seen the father. Presently Mary Ann appeared leading a little girl, about 9, who, after a bit of diffidence, made herself at home. We chatted about different subjects, mainly about objects of interest we had seen at the museum. Mary Ann's interest, and her close observation of paintings and antiques, was astonishing. She would linger before some painting of an old Master, or some primitive sculpture: then resume the sight-seeing, without comment. When she and little Mary Ann, had finished the dishes, we listened for a while to music over the little table radio; then said Mary Ann, "Was looking at them wonderful things out there in that museum, and some of 'em 5 and 6 hundred years back, and they's wonderful, 'course we've got more things like this radio 'n 'frigerators 'n the likes, but them old paintings 'n them figures made out of stone 'n that white stone, its wonderful. I couldn't catch on to what that man was saying, something 'bout the 'tomic age. What is it?" she asked. "I think that he was describing the different ages in man's progress toward civilization," we said, "Historians have divided those ages into periods of achievements such as the Stone Age; the Iron Age; the Golden Age, and now the Atomic Age. Each of those periods have noted the progress of man in knowledge; in the never ceasing search for the mysteries of life. Men have risked their lives, even died, in their endeavor to solve a mystery. Science, somehow, believed that there was an unknown energy wrapped up in the Atom, then known as the smallest discernable object. Curiosity was so great that they invisioned a power that would smash the Atom and release the energy encased therein. They were succesful: But to sorry to say; the first use made of the discovery was destruction. Cities were laid low: Erased. Lives were snuffed out, and havoc reigned. It was war, and that justified the act. Instead of being used for progress, it was used for destruction. It may be, when reason returns to man, that the potency of this newly discovered power will be used to further our march toward civilization," we said. That, for me, was quite a lengthy speech, and we wondered if Mary Ann had followed me. "Well, the Good Lord, He knows best, and maybe after all it will bring peace to this troubled world," she said. "We are having physics next period and we girls will need some help. Will you help?" she asked. "Yes," I said, "if nothing intervenes in the meantime." "You girls shan't impose on the gentleman, and that settles it." said Mary Ann. There was noise of a tussle, and some vile language overhead. The little girl that was little Mary Ann's guest, looked frightened, and Mary Ann said "for the sake of the bringing up of my grandchild, I hope to be leaving here soon."

On the political battle front, things have been quiet. Stassen has kept the political news from stagnation. His search for delegates which he hopes to carry him safely through the breakers, and land his political ship safe in the nomination harbor in the tempestous sea, that so many are seeking to calm in Phila., when the GOP meets to select the captain they hope to guide their ship into the harbor of the White House on the hill, Washington, D.C., in November. FRANCK R. HAVVENNER: Incumbent and candidate for reelection, 4th Congressional District, bids fair to be elected at the primary in June. In this present world crisis we need the service of seasoned and experienced law makers. This is no time for inexperience. No time for one to be taught the intricate problems of legislation. Elect HAVENNER AT THE PRIMARY.

Justice Frankfurter, United States Supreme Court, has appointed Coleman, Negro, as clerk.

The Road to Health

Mr. Graham was in pain as I treated him for a badly-sprained back one night last week, but there were no groans or protests from him.

As a matter of fact, the injured man had a sheepish expression on his face. It was plain that he was enbarrassed when I asked him how he had been hurt.

"Doctor, I was going into the cellar to fix the furnace and I tripped over our cat on the stairs," he said. "You see, we've never had a light on those dark stairs. I counted on habit to guide my steps but I guess I reckoned without the cat this time."

"But you are an electrician by trade, Mr. Graham," I interrupted. My patient squirmed uncomfortably.

"That's just it, doctor, you sound like my wife," he confessed. "Bessie's been telling me for almost a year now that the dark stairs were dangerous for both of ous and for the children. She begged me to put a light at the top of the stairs many times, but I kept putting it off. It will be a case of locking the barn door after the horse is stolen, buf I'll do it as soon as this back of mine is better."

"It's not too late to avoid future accidents on those stairs," I assured him. "But I'm sorry you had to learn the importance of such precautions in so painful a way."

"I couldn't ask for a better husband, doctor," said Mrs. Graham who had been listening to the conversation. "But he does take too many chances. For example, he hangs the curtains for me, but he insists on using a broken-down, old ladder to do it."

"I am treating a patient right now who injured his right hip in falling off a ladder with a broken lung," I told Mrs. Graham.

The three of us continued to talk about home accidents and the Grahams listened gravely as I told them of other experiences. There was the five-year-old boy whose handsome little face was badly burned after he got hold of some matches left carelessly within his reach. A middle-aged woman had injured her spine when a "scatter rug" on her highly-waxed floor slid from under her. An old gentleman whom I knew was in the hospital with a brain concussion after he had slipped on a cake of soap on the bathroom floor.

Mr. Graham declared that he never realized how foolish it was t neglect needed repairs in the home. He said that he would spend the time while his back was healing in "taking inventory" of the accident possibilities in his home, so that he could correct them. His wife luaghtingly told him that she could give him a good start by reminding him of the broken board on the front porch, the kitchen window without a sash cord and the 'skidding carpet" in the front hall.

Before I left the Graham home my patient and his wife had a notebook and pencil and were jotting down their list of repairs and purchases that had to be made for acting on their new "Safety First" motto.

The home is the source of more serious and fatal accidents than any other place. Accidents are the fifth leading cause of death in this country and the majority of those fatalities are the result of hazards in the home. Common sense is our best guide in observing possible dangers in our homes and taking immediate measures to correct them.

How Safe in America?

When John Jones, a Negro veteran of the War, was beaten to death by a white mob in Minden, Louisiana, it was one of "only" six lynchings in 1946.

Six lynchings—a remarkably low record compared to the sixty-four mob murders of 1921. Stys the President's Committee on Civil Rights: "The Committee believes that the striking improvement in the record is a thing to be devoutly thankful for; but it also believes that a single lynching is one too many!"

Jones and his companion, Albert Harris, were released from jail by a deputy sheriff who turned them over to a white mob. Both were beaten. Jones was beaten to death. Five men, including two deputy sheriffs, were brought to trial—and acquitted.

Although J. Edgar Hoover called the case "the best case we have ever made out; we had clearcut, uncontroverted evidence of the conspiracy," all five men were acquitted.

The grim fact is that it is almost impossible in the South to bring lynching cases to trial; completely impossible to get a conviction. The Civil Rights Section of the Department of Justice meets a solid wall of resistance in every case. The Justice Department has no separate staff of investigators for this work and ie trying to enforce federal laws that are vague in application.

To remedy this condition the President's Committee calls for more concrete legislation—laws with teeth in them—for a Federal anti-lynching bill, for more severe penalties for private persons and public officials who interfere with the Constitutional and legal rights of others.

Six lynchings in 1946—and unmeasured thousands of beatings, the innumerable indignities visited upon millions of our fellow men, the shadow of fear that makes it impossible to get a Southern Negro to testify against a white man.

Says Mr. Hoover: "The arrogance of the white population of that county was unbelievable." And elsewhere he says that "it was seldom that a Negro man or woman was incarcerated who was not given a severe beating, which started off with a pistol whipping and ended with a rubber hose."

Negroes are the minority group most sinned against; but others, too, have lost their personal safety without legal redress.

Jehovah's Witnesses beaten by police—Southern prisoners farmed out to serve as virtual slaves of private persons—Eskimos and Indians "railroaded" to prison in Alaska—Mexicans getting stiffer fines and severer sentences than others—friendless boys given the "third degree"—persons of Japanese descent "evacuated" from their carefully tended farms and orchards on the Pacific Coast; it is a degrading record!

Fear is the one emotion ominating the hearts of unfortunates who may have been created equal . . . but who do not have the same rights as other men.

Labor unions, too, have suffered vialence at the hands of police and injustice in the courts. Hence they are fighting side by side with minority groups in the struggle for civil rights.

In succeeding articles we shall follow the Report into other fields where the rights of Americans are not yet secure. Meanwhile, we must realize with the Committee that "Freedom can exist only where the citizen is assured that his person is secure against bondage, lawles violence, and arbitrary arrest and punishment."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I have just finished reading the April 22 issue of The California Eagle, and I am compelled to commend you on your stand for the political rights of the people. I am a correspondent for ANP here in Chicago. I write theatricals and am very interested in the progressive trend of thought.

I was a delegate to the State convention of the Progressive Party and a member of the Wallace for President Committee. I find that the folk of this section of the country are waking up and I am sure the third party will enable the people of America to see the light.

Here's hoping that the EAGLE will continue to be a progressive newspaper for progressive people.

Sincerely,
Dave Clark.

Dear Mrs. Bass:

Thank you so much for your generous treatment of my post office policies in this week's California EAGLE. It is very encourgaging to know that one's efforts are observed by the important people in the community one serves.

With support like yours I shall find it easier to continue my policy of substituting racial justice and friendliness for the atmosphere of prejudice I found existing here. With sincere appreciation I am,

Very Sincerely
Mike Fanning

Dear Friend:

It has been proven that there is a need for at least 1,300 more hospital beds for tuberculosis pateints in Los Angeles County. Because of this need, the Outdoor Life and Health Association is endeavoring to expand the facilities of their demonstration rest home in Duarte.

In order that any plans which we may make will be sound, realistic plans, I am inviting you to sit with other community leaders to develop such plans. The Los Angeles County Tuberculosis and Health Association has already gathered considerable data to guide us and has offered the continued services of a number of its staff members in working out a program.

The Association has offered the use of its meeting room at 117 West Ninth Street, Room 323, for this meeting of the community leaders. The meeting will be held on May 7, 1948 and I hope that you will attend.

Sincerely yours,
Leonard Stovall, M.D.
President

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I want to thank you personally for your fine contribution in our recent Crime Prevention Week. Your active participation in this campaign aided immeasurably in emphasizing civic and individual responsibility in combating crime.

Only with the support from persons such as yourself can we hope to educate the public on crime preventive procedures. So thank you again for your time and influence. Please express my sincere thanks also to members of your staff.

Very truly yours,
C. B. HORRALL,
Chief of Police.

Fire Safety

Fires need fuel; without it they die. When you allow combustibles to accumulate around your home, you are inadvertantly adding fuel and contributing to the rapid spread of any fire that might occur.

During your spring cleaning, give some thought to fire safety by disposing of old clothing, rags, newspapers, magazines, old paint cans and so forth.

Peace Party Points Thumbs Down on Monopoly Reaction and Fascism

The great issue confronting the American people is—"peace or war." That the two "old" (monopoly-ruled) parties are for war is a fact clear to anyone sensible enough to see through their pretension that they are "arming for peace." The Tihrd Party, the party of opposition to monopoly reaction and fascism, therefore makes its most effective appeal as a "peace party," as the anti-war party.

This, it can be and should be. But it seems to me that effectively to fight war, requires that we who support the Third Party should know something of the causes of war. Otherwise, we may make grave mistakes, our efforts to prevent war not only may be futile but actually help the war mongers, and bring upon us the mockery of the disillusioned.

What, for instance, do YOU know about the causes of war? The air is full of explanations, over 99 per cent false; some are silly, such as the assertion that wars are "caused by sun spots," or "the length of women's skirts." Then, there is that vile libel on the human race which holds that "people naturally love to kill."

Normal persons don't like to kill other persons. Soldiers know they have to be trained to kill. Even then, they accept it with deep loathing, when the warmongers and brass hats have led them into the dread dilemma where they have to "kill or be killed."

We are told that wars are caused because "evil" men lust for "power." But this really tells us nothing, because it leaves us ignorant of WHY men—who start life as innocent children—become 'evil," or what they have to gain by winning "power."

To find the cause of war, we have to explore its relationship to human slavery, chattel slavery, serfdom, wage slavery. For there has never been a war, including the so-called "religious" wars, which was not based upon some form of human slavery, some kind of expolitation by men of their fellow men, some economic classes by other economic classes. And to end war, we must end exploitation and the last remaining form of slavery—wage slavery.

Karl Marx, founder of scientific socialism, pointed out a century ago, that: "In proportion as the exploitation of one individual by another is put an end to, the exploitation of one nation by another will also be put an end to. In proportion as the antagonism between classes within the nation vanishes, the hostility of one nation to another will come to an end."

Today, we see living proof of this in the harmony in which the racially different nations and peoples of the Soviet Union live with one another, because their common economic system of socialism permits no antagonisms for the sound reason that it permits no expolitation—and there remains only one economic class—the working class.

More, the socialist system of the Soviet Union, by providing social ownership of all social production, eliminates the existence of any class of monopolist capitalists, whose impulse for ever greater and greater profits impels any (capitalist) nation which they rule to economic, and therefore military, aggression.

Still more, the socialist economy of the Soviet Union provides a sound economic basis for international peace, because it does not require, as does the capitalist economy of other nations, the government to enter into conflict with other governmens for a share in or dominance over world trade. The reason for this is that, under socialism, the consuming or purchasing power of the people cannot do otherwise than be equal to the productive power of their commonly owned industries.

To accuse the Soviet Union of "imperialism" is, therefore, utter nonsense, for there is no economic motive for "aggression" against or conquest of other nations and peoples. What What foreign trade it carries on, is based upon giving value received. Literally nobody in the Soviet Union can gain one cent by any war of aggression. Matters are quite the contrary, however, if we examine the economy of the capitalist countries.

Capitalism means an economic system where many "work for" a few, the many remaining poor, the few becoming richer and richer—from the "profits" of this arrangement. The many who atandCP labor are not paid enough in money wages to purchase the total volume of goods they produce, otherwise there would be "no profit" for the few capitalists who privately own the means of production.

Because of this discrepancy between social production and social consumption, economic crises—unknown to a socialist economy—periodically bring disaster to every capitalist country, and, as periodically, the capitalist class government of such countries seek, as their chief "solution" the seizure of a bigger share, if possible the dominant share, in the world market for the sale of its "surplus" goods and the investment of its "surplus" capital.

That this leads to "trouble" between nations is self-evident. Firstly, where other nations have their own capitalist class, which has the same "solution" for their same difficulties, there is a fight between them for dominance of the world market. Where some nations have, as in the USSR and, to some degree in eastern Europe, ended capitalism internally, they object to having it thrust upon them from abroad.

American capitalism is right now entering an economic crisis, and its Wall Street government is trying to "solve" the problem in the above fashion, by economic aggression backed up by military threats. But, it must disguise any such raw behavior with sweet words. So it has the Marshall Plan to "aid democracy" in Europe and Asia, and to "save the world from Communism."

Simultaneously, the vast propaganda machine of Wall Street sets up a tremendous clamor to justify its own expansionist aggression by accusing the Soviet Union of expansionist aggression, of having "no democracy" in the land of socialism where there is, in fact, a thousand times more democracy than in the U.S.A. because it is a socialist democracy and not a capitalist democracy(it should be known that there are different kinds and degrees of "democracy," as a glance from North to South will prove.)

Now, it is clear that the strength of the "bi-partisan" war-makers heading the two "old" parties, and the dangef of war itself, increases in direct proportion as they succeeed in convincing the people that their lies against the Soviet Union are not lies, but the truth; and that "America" (Wall Street) has a heaven-born mission to "save the world from Communism."

It is equally clear that it weakens the anti-war appeal of the Third Party if it yields to this Wall Street manufactured hysteria and concedes in any way, shape, form or degree, that the anti-Soviet propaganda lies are true; even if such concession is done honestly from mistaken judgment of what the facts are, or merely to get votes from people whom Wall Street has frightened with its "red scare," and by way of proposing a "better way" to "stop Communism."

Wall Street imperialism, with its dominance of power in national affairs, has only to decide to make war now, and it would destroy overnight the moral and logical basis of the Third Party opposition to itself. For it could turn upon us and say:

"You have agreed that the Soviet Union is expansionist and aggressive; you have agreed that Communism must be stopped; you have agreed that there is 'no democracy' where socialism wins; well, then, we are leading the (capitalist) democracies to put an end to all that. And we demand that you fall in line and support this war, or by lynched by your own followers whom you have helped us convince that our war propaganda is just and righteous."

It has well been said that "Give the devil a finger and he will seize the whole arm." Hence the anti-war Third Party movement must guard its fingers.

Trail Blazers: Bertrand B. Bratton

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

Throughout his life, Bertrand B. Bratton has had but a single motto—Forward. And always he has been driven on by this burning desire. To him, accounting, which has earned him a sound and mighty reputation, is more than a business. It is an opportunity to train men who will be the backbone of other businesses. He believes this, preaches it, works for it.

Born in West Virginia but raised in Colorado and Wyoming, Bratton loves passionately all that is Western. Spurred by a will to create, build, produce, he is almost obsessed with any undertaking thrust upon him. Coal mining, laboring jobs, he has known them well. He is a man that, despite his share of early hardships, is able to smile. It is his generous smile by which he is known to be one of the "most regular." Tall, muscular, with the perennial pipe or cigar, he has the combined appearance of an artist and businessman.

It was a sudden revelation that impelled him to give up a boyhood ambition. Realizing that the business field hadn't been completely exploited by Negroes and very few had been trained to evaluate business problems, he laid aside law ambitions for higher accounting and business administration at the University of Chicago.

In 1920 he accepted a position in the Supreme Lodge, Knights of Pythias, in New Orleans, thereby becoming the first certified public accountant to break into a former lily-white field. Again, five years later, he was the first to so qualify himself. When he arrived in Los Angeles in 1925 Louis M. Blodgett gave him his first job.

He opened up offices with the late E. Burton Ceruti and became an auditor of the Lower California Mexican Land and Development Co. and the People's Realty Co. These were his only two jobs for six months. In order to make ends meet he took a job as a hotel night clerk so that he could keep his offices open days. He even accepted miscallaneous janitorial jobs.

Before he went to the State Board of Equalization in 1933 he organized the California Sewer Co. He remained with the equalization board for over 10 years working in various supervisoral capacities. He won new honors throughout the state for his work in this field. And when he resigned in 1943 to run for Congress on the Republican ticket, nothing seemed able to stop him.

Bratton was defeated. But his ambitions goaded him on. He opened up offices at 2514½ S. Central ave., in the Blodgett Building, where he spent long hours building up a volume business. One of the finest, modernly-equipped offices anywhere, Bratton's staff enjoys some of the most liberal, advanced benefits.

His affiliations with civic projects are as well known as his enviable talent for enjoying colorful stories with the boys. The Urban League, NAACP, YMCA, Budget Committee of Community Chest, president of Republican Assembly, 62nd district. Elks, Masons, Forester, Pacific Town, Knights of Pythias and Wesley Methodist church are all part of the organizations with which he is affiliated. Professionally, he is assistant secretary and board member of the Liberty Savings and Loan Association and president of the Carver National Life Insurance Co.

Success has given him new assurance. For he has thrown his heart and soul into putting over Carver National Life Insurance Co. At the outset it seemed a hopeless task but amazing things have been happening since he took over the presidency. This dream has been translated into a reality . . . with even greater deeds promised for the future. Bratton is an aggressive businessman, who moves with the times.

Married to the beautiful Anglique de Lavallade, he favors bridge and pinnocle games, bowling, and reading in his leisure moments.

Urge That Unions Will Protest Rider

Abram Flaxer, International President of the United Public Workers, C.I.O., today issued the following statement commenting on the enactment of a rider to an appropriations bill by the House of Representatives yesterday forbidding payment of wages to any government employee affiliated with a union whose officers have not filed under the Taft-Hartley Act:

"The Congressmen who are responsible for the rider to an appropriations bill denying payment of wages to public employees who belong to a union whose officers have not filed under the Taft-Hartley Act, seem to be legislating in the realm of utter confusion.

"It is no particular secret that the Taft-Hartley Act does not apply to unions of government employees. That section of the Taft-Hartley Act which requires unions to file applies only to unions which want to make use of the services of the National Labor Relations Board in elections for a collective bargaining representative, or for certification as exclusive bargaining representative.

"The Congressmen who voted for this rider ought to be aware of the fact that a union of government employees is unable, under any circumstances, to use the services or facilities of the National Labor Relations Board. Public employees and their unions were excluded from the provisions of the Wagner Act. Public employees are specifically excluded from provisions of the Taft-Hartley Act. The N.L.R.B. says it has no jurisdiction over public employees."

In a special communication today to over 400 locals of the union throughout the country and to various leaders of C.I.O. and A.F.L. unions, President Flaxer urged that communications be sent to all members of the Senate calling for elimination of this unconstitutional rider when Senate action is taken on the bill.

Chicago Has First Negro Radio Station

CHICAGO—(CNS)—An all-Negro station, the first of its kind for the city of Chicago, is now merely waiting for its license from the Federal Commerce Commission before it becomes a reality. Once the license is granted, it will be on the air within 90 days.

Vice President A. R. Carter of the Afro American System state that 28½% of station WVON's time will be devoted to live commercial shows. Said he, "There are any number of talented Negro musicians and entertainers who have not had adequate opportunity to demonstrate their talents. We plan to provide them with an opportunity to do so on the air."

30% of the time of this 1,000 watt station will be devoted to non-sponsored programs of a public service nature. This is double the FCC requirement which makes it unique indeed. Carter feels that "there is a distinct need for public service programming, including classical music, vital speeches and church programs. Afro American has already completed arrangements for the building of a huge transmitter in Hopkins Park, near Kankakee, Ill., which will enlarge the station's range.

The Independent Progressive Party warns citizens against the proposed Fascist police state in America.

The Un-American Activities Committee's new bill "to control subversive activities" approved for submission to the House by that committee on Wednesday was denounced as a bill to create "a Fascist police state in America in one act," by the 233 Los Angeles candidates of the Independent Progressive Party for County Committee, Assembly and Congress, in a meeting at the Embassy auditorium, last Thursday evening.

Pledging an all-out fight by Independent Progressive Party members, clubs and candidates to defeat the measure, the candidates charged in a resolution which passed unanimously, that this bill is intended to outlaw support for Henry A. Wallace for president, and to outlaw the Independent Progressive Party or any other party opposing the Wall Street military-clique's war drive.

It would make it a penal offense to participate in any strike, to oppose segregation in the armed forces, to oppose draft legislation, to support a Jewish State in Palestine, or demand outlawing of the atomic bomb. All of these positions would bring individuals and groups into conflict with the national policy of our present government leaders and under the language of the bill, would make an individual liable to ten years in prison or a $10,000 fine, a charge that by arbitrary rulings of the Department of Justice, liberal citizens could be deprived of jobs, passports and the right to speak or assemble.

This bill would place the United States of America under a regime of terror perhaps even worse than that of Hitler in Germany.

The representatives of IPP wired all members of Congress to fight against this bill. We must do likewise. No matter with what political party anyone is affiliated, this bill is one whose danger transcends that of party loyalty. America is at stake. And he who is loyal to the ideals of America will wire, write, and work with all the power he possesses to see that this bill is defeated.

Evil thoughts, lusts, and malicious purposes cannot go forth, like wandering pollen, from one human mind to another, finding unsuspected lodgment, if virtue and truth build a strong defense. —Mary Baker Eddy

Walter White Brands Congress Inactivity on 'Rights' Shameless

NEW YORK, April 22.—The use by some members of Congress of A. Philip Randolph's proposal of non-participation in military service as an excuse for inactivity in the fight for civil legislation was today branded as "quite shameless" by Walter White, secretary of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Mr. White's statement was in reply to a letter from the Oregon Senator in which Mr. Morse maintained that the Randolph "proposal gave some people in Congress a rationalization escape from standing up to be counted in favor of a civil rights program, and there is no doubt about the fact that the civil disobedience suggestion has greatly weakened the poslelon of those of us in Congress who are sincerely trying to secure favorable consideration of civil rights legislation."

In reply, Mr. White charged that the retreat on civil rights legislation had begun before Mr. Randolph testified on March 31 before the Senate Armed Service Committee. "Six weeks prior to that date news had been published that at a joint secret conference on policy, House and Senate Republican leaders had decided to support only an anti-lynching bill, preferably one without provisions for punishment of lynchers and to shelve for the year Congressional action on anti-poll tax, fair employment practice or other legislation including segregation and discrimination in the armed services."

Said Mr. White, "I am convinced from quite close asscIation with the Washington scene that many of those who now say that they are handicapped in working for civil rights legislation because of Mr. Randolph's testimony are quite shamelessly using that as an excuse for non-action."

This week, also plans were made to have the affair televised over one of the city's television outlets. It is believed that this will be the first televised ground-breaking ceremony in the nation.

Meanwhile, all the auxiliary groups of West View Hospital are bent on special projects to insure a successful event on May 23. The members of the Community Advisory Board met Tuesday evening of last week at Allena's Club House with Wallace Braden, a new member of the group, as host for the dinner meeting. Detailed plans for active participation of individual members were laid out and a meeting scheduled for May 11th to report progress. Community leaders present at this meeting were: Mesdames Lala Brock, Earline A. Carson, Ursula Murrell, Emily Brown Portwig, Jean Sieroty, and Frances Williams, Dr. Joseph Gaster and Messrs. Edwin C. Boehler, Dale Gardner, Harry Levette, Harvey Mydland, Bernard Shore and John R. Williams. Allen C. Woodard, 3rd president of West View's Board of Directors, Doctors H. A. McPherson and R. C. Race Covenants in the land sustain that identical position."

Minority groups in Southern California remember Judge Stanley Mosk and Judge Thurmond Clarke well for the courageous stand they have taken through the years on this matter of restrictive covenants; most specifically in the case brought by nine white residents of the Wilshire area to oust six Negroes from their homes in the Wilshire district, one of them a Purple Heart veteran, and the Sugar Hill case in which several prominent Negro actors and actresses were involved.

From the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People both locally and nationally, which organization has waged an unceasing, unrelenting battle for this cause, come the following statements:

From Thurgood Marshall, special NAACP counsel, came these words:

"Today's decision of the Supreme Court of the United States in holding racial restrictive covenants unenforceable is a complete justification of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People's 31-year fight to outlaw discrimination in housing. This ruling by the court gives thousands of prospective home buyers throughout the United States new courage and hope in the American form of government. . . .

"It is obvious that no greater blow to date has been made against the pattern of segregation existing within the United States."

The Los Angeles branch commented:

"Monday's United States Supreme Court decision banning enforcement of race restrictive real estate agreements marks the close of a long and vigorous national effort on the part of the association to knock out the vicious evil of segregated housing in the United States."

As a culmination of this victory, the local branch is sponsoring a Victory Mass Meeting, Sunday, May 23, 3:30 p.m., at the Second Baptist church, at which Henry Laws and his wife, Anna Laws, who went to jail rather than to obey an order to move out of their home, have already consented to be present.

It was in 1944, at the end of the campaign for the re-election of Franklin Delano Roosevelt, that a malicious fight by real estate sharks to oust Negroes from their homes on one pretense or another, began. Spectacular among these was the Henry Laws' case, or the famous 92nd Street case, so-called. Laws and his family were thrown out on the sidewalk by agroup of citizens in the neighborhood, threatened and intimidated in numerous ways. The Laws appealed to the editor of the California Eagle and was advised to go back into their home, stay there and defy the little neighborhood mob who had been spurned on by two real estate brokers who agitated the trouble. The injustice in this case was so terrible that around it was organized what has since come to be known as the Home Protective Association. Coming to the rescue, also, was the local branch NAACP and the CIO, with Slim Connelly in the lead. These organizations joined with others in throwing a picket line past the Laws' home.

While the case was carried through the lower courts of California, because Mr. and Mrs. Laws refused to obey the court order to abdicate, Mrs. Laws and her daughter, Pauletta Fears, were thrown in jail for a week. While the family was incarcerated, the organization quietly watched and guarded the premises. From the lower courts the case was taken into the Supreme Court of the State of California, where it has rested for more than a year and where it was when the memorable decision of this week was made.

A review of the bitter restrictive covenant controversies of the past few years, in our own city alone, makes this Supreme Court decision a piece of the best news to resound through our land in a long time; and the implications and ultimate effects are destined to have stupendous and far-reaching influence upon the establishment of a real democratic way of life.

NMU Votes on Strike Question

The National Council of the National Maritime Union of America, CIO, which met in New York April 21st to April 29th.

The council unanimously voted to issue a strike call referendum to the membership. Voting on this referendum takes place from May 1st through May 30th in all of the Union's branches. Members will vote whether they want to go on strike, if necessary, to maintain the union rotary hiring hall, to win a wage increase, and to improve the manning scales, working rules, and other provisions.

The shipowners' counter-proposals in current negotiations call for the complete elimination of the union hiring hall, no wage increase now and no wage review clause in the contract, revision of working rules to eliminate the overtime payments and a set of "management prerogatives" which would give the employers sole right to set manning scales, transfer men from ship to ship, lay off, suspend, or fire crew members at will.

Shaw University Seniors Practice Teaching

Raleigh, N. C.—Fifty-five seniors of Shaw University are engaged in practice teaching this semester in 15 elementary and high schools throughout the Eastern part of North Carolina, according to a report released by Dr. Nelson H. Harris, Director of Education at the institution. The practice work is done under regular teachers who supervise and evaluate the student teaching. The largest number of students are assigned to the Raleigh area; others are in Goldsboro, Garner, Rocky Mount, Mt. Olive, Warrenton, Enfield, Wake Forest and Selma.

In places other than Raleigh students live in the community during the practice-teaching period. They attend church, work in the Sunday School, and integrate themselves into the life of the community. Many write Dr. Harris telling him of the assistance and encouragement given them. One student wrote: "The principal is trying to acquaint me with the entire curriculum. I find him very helpful and sympathetic and yet positive. I feel that my experience as a student teacher will enable me to better cope with situations I may encounter in the future."

Protest immediately through public statements and wires to State Department, Congressmen, and Greek Embassy, Washington.

(Signed) M. Mendelenakis, secretary American Council for Democratic Greece.

The above telegram came into the office of The California Eagle yesterday, just as we were ready to go to press. We pass it on to our readers, knowing full well they will do all possible to prevent this horrible massacre of the patriots of Greece, fighting for a free country.

Production Notes On 'Trial by Fire'

Father Dunn's now famous play, "Trial By Fire" returns to the West and opens at Radio Center theatre. First produced in 1946 at the Wilshire Ebell, it moved to the Musart in Los Angeles, and later to the Blackfriars theatre in New York. It returned West and played to capacity audiences for several weeks at the Pasadena Playhouse.

The present production of Frank Scully and John Barnes is an entirely new production with a revised script, new sets and several new members in the cast. Joe Rice of the Catholic Theatre Guild and the Loyola faculty, who staged the original production, is now directing the Scully-Barnes presentation at Radio Center theatre.

Wherever it has played, "Trial By Fire" has met with almost unanimous cirtical approval. In New York critics gave it wonderful press notices. "Trial By Fire" is a heart-gripping tragedy based upon a real case history of racial prejudice. Although this is the first production of John Barnes and Frank Scully, both have been close to show business for many years.

Another Citizen Fights Eviction

A pledge of support in her fight against a restrictive covenant eviction was made today to Mrs. June Beckles by a Los Angeles CIO Council delegation headed by Council President William S. Lawrence who visited her at home. Mrs. Beckles, who recently purchased a home at 1250 E. 90th Street was recently called upon by a vigilante group who intimated that harm would befall her and her family if she did not move within 30 days.

Participating in the delegation with Lawrence were Judy Dunks, United Electrical and Machine Workers; Sidney Moore, United Public Workers; and Oscar Castro and Robert Sombrano of the United Furniture Workers.

Lawrence offered the assistance and support of the Council to Mrs. Beckles in her fight. He stated that as in the King case of last December the CIO Council would direct a personal communication to all CIO members living in the neighborhood of Mrs. Beckles pointing out the un-American, anti-democratic, anti-union character of restrictive covenants and calling upon all CIO members to support the right of all citizens to live where they choose.

The Sunday School of the First Baptist Church of Venice, cordially invites the public to attend a "Mothers' Day" Tea, Sunday, May 9th, from 3 to 6 p.m., at 606 Westminster Avenue. Mrs. Margaret Revoal is hostess.

"WORLD'S LONGEST SPEAKING TUBE"

now pipes calls East

1. Imagine packing 500 voices together in a tube no bigger than a pencil and sorting them out distinctly at the end! That's what we're doing with coaxial cable. Radio-type waves whisk calls through pipes...instead of on wires...allowing one "co-ax" to to do the work of a number of the more usual kinds of long distance cable.

2. We plant "co-ax" with giant plows that lay the cable in one operation. Every eight miles a "booster station" keeps calls going through clearly. For—incredible as it seems—high frequency waves fade so rapidly in the cable that all the sun's energy, if it could be funneled into the pipes, would not carry half-way across the country.

3. "End of the line."...it takes huge panels of complex equipment like this to sort out the calls carried by just one cable. Since December, calls have been going back and forth from the Coast to the East over 2300 miles of "co-ax." And we're adding still more cables to augment long distance service for the growing telephone population on the Coast.

Millions of new working dollars, needed to extend and improve service, must come—not from telephone bills—but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. We can do this only if we sell our services at fair and adequate prices.

Anderson Phillips-Lela Gipson Say Vows in Elaborate Church Setting

The edifice of historic Independent Church of Christ was the chosen setting for the elaborate wedding ceremony uniting Lela Mae Gipson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gipson, and Anderson Phillips Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Anderson Phillips Sr., on Sunday, April 25. The Reverend Clayton Russell officiated from the altar that was artistically decorated in the crisp whiteness of gladioli, stock and larkspur flowers complete with a background of fern. The vows were spoken beneath an arch, centered with huge white wedding bells and flanked by rows of tapering white candelabras. The beautiful strains of Clare De Lune could be heard softly in the background throughout the double ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was a picture of beauty in a traditional white satin gown. Detail of the neckline was emphasized with a chiffon yoke and satin applique design. A dainty peplum featured the applique and tiny buttons were used down the back, that was complete with a long formal train. Her veil was fingertip length, held in place by a halo tiara of orange blossoms and seed pearls. The veil was edged with lace. A double string of pearls, a family heirloom, completed the bride's attire. Her bouquet was a profusion of white roses, centered by a white orchid.

The color scheme of the wedding was all white with contrasting red bouquets carried by the bridesmaids. The gowns were of white chiffon and taffeta featuring a dropped neckline, bouffant skirt and white ruffled maline hats with red rose trim. Each carried a huge bouquet of Amer-

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

Home Protective Association members have all the reason in the world to feel as proud as punch over the decision of the supreme court in behalf of restrictive covenants. This week we say Orchids to this group of workers, for it is the one organization that has carried on a constant fight against restrictive covenants. Am quite sure most of you remember the Old Timers Dance, all star show, a Bakery and Jelly sale, raffles and a host of other events given by the group to make money with which to fight against restrictive covenants, with special emphasis on the Henry Laws Case. As big attorneys and national organizations take bows for bringing the decision about, we don't want Mmes. Tommie Reeves, Virginia Alexander, True Appleton, Pauletta Laws, Charlotte Preston, Minnie Atewilder, Nel Higman, Mrs. C. A. Bass, president of the Association and the rest of its members to go unrecognized for their efforts. Membership into the Home Protective Association is still open. All home owners, young and old, are urged to join the group, that will now center its efforts toward seeing to it that properties will be protected.

BIRTHDAY CELEBRATING

Coming off with first-place honors as outstanding social affairs last week-end was the birthday party honoring Walt Loving and Louise Collier, the Cris Wright's Splash Party, the Cosmos picnic and the John Coleman's gathering after the game.

So happens that Walt Loving Jr., and his very charming wife motored down from Northern California in the sheer luxury of a new convertible Buick, to bask in the sun light of much Southland festivity. A native Angelino, Walt, back in his kiddie days shared birthday honors with Louise Spanks Collier, both born on May 2. Early Saturday evening a dinner party held sway at the Spanks residence on 6th Avenue. This was followed by a dancing party, given by Walt's very charming mother, Mrs. Edith King. Several of the younger married couples of the city were invited to the affair that lasted until one a.m. By the way, a few betrothed couples as well as several who still enjoy the fruits of the single life, were much in evidence.

Among those enjoying the dancing and dining were Corine and Ballinger Kemp, Elizabeth and Carl King, Martha Cushney, Bob Kennard, Nita Hippard, Odessa and Vance Jones, Anna and Joel Price, Bob Edwards, LeRoy A. Beavers Jr., and many another. Introductions were the order of the evening it seemed, with all of Walt's Angel City friends enjoying the pleasure of meeting his bride of a few months.

Guests who chatted with Lt. and Mrs. King, were Mr. and Mrs. Paul R. Williams, Mrs. Alice Harvey, and I could go on and on, for it was a wonderful party and well attended by many of the city's social leaders . . . Many happy returns of the day to Walt and Louise who enjoyed a nostologic interlude of days gone by when they celebrated with ice cream and cake and kiddy games.

After the final Inter-frat game, John and Evelyn Coleman opened the doors to their rumpus room for a perfect after party. The green lights of the swimming pool and the recreation furniture of the rumpus room added that perfect atmosphere that helped to make the party quite the thing. Most of the stars from the championship Alpha team were much in evidence. Don Barksdale and Emerson Chatman had much to chat about, while Joe Oliver served as chief bartender. Sammy Miller, the wonder gent of the closing moments of Alpha playing, took much kidding from the gang, which included Ish Evans, Clifford and Bessy Wilson, Cris and Helen Wright, and many another. By the way, Evelyn Coleman has quite a culinary nack, for her guests enjoyed hot rolls made from her own recipe. Camille and George Cannady came on the scene at a fashionable hour with a honeymooning couple from Chicago. Dr. Coleman made a perfect host and all present had the expected grand time. In passing, the Walt Loving Jrs., also stopped by the Coleman's after their party. They left Sunday afternoon for their home in Oakland.

SPLASH PARTY

The weather man, must have whispered the good word into the ears of Cris and Helen Wright, for Sunday afternoon was ideal weather for their initial "Splash" party, that ran a few days ahead of the official opening of the summer season. Atty. and Mrs. Wright greeted more than 150 guests between the hours of 3 and 7 p.m. Their modern home is definitely the show place of the Pico district. I hardly know just how to explain its beauty, not being on the know of architecture and what have you, but believe me, its beauty is breathtaking with all the earmarks of a dream home.

Most of the gents enjoyed a dip in the pool, while the ladies graced the patio chairs looking charming and otherwise. Helen greeted her guests in the "new look" done up in white piquet and eyelet. A string Cambo furnished music throughout and the food and drink was fit for a king. By the way, so happens that Hadda Brooks was guest listed, and did herself proud when she sang a few of her hits for those attending.

The Cosmos picnic was quite the outing on Sunday. The gents and their company gathered at Leonard Grimes' home for coffee and doughnuts around 8 a.m. Sunday, then made a caravan all the way to Irvine Park in Orange County. Vacation laughter is still echoing on the spot of the picnic, as you can gather with Leonard Beavers, Felix Williams, Ivan and Norman Houston, Nate Shaw, and the rest cracking joke after joke. Bicycling, boating, and the other things that make a picnic memorable went hand in hand with the Cosmos affair. Responsible for the very tasty lunches were, Phylippa Houston, who brought her darling little daughter on the outing; Symanthia Williams, Sara Jones, Gloria Shaw, Fay Hopkins and many another. New Cosmos president, succeeding Joe Oliver is Wallace DeCuir, who has a program planned for much activity this summer . . .

Alpha Kappa Alpha Presents Mystery Melodrama on Campus Of Florida A. and M. College

Tallahassee, Florida, April 29—Delta Kappa Omega chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority presented the three-act mystery melodrama "Spider Island" by John Spaulding in Lee auditorium of Florida A and M College April 27. The dramatist personae consisted of members of the graduate chapter of the sorority and as directed by Mrs. Hertha Taylor, a soror ad manager of the Veterans Housing Project.

These amateur actors are to be thoroughly commended for giving a well integrated portrayal of life in an abandoned lighthouse on a deserted island where mystery and the threat of death by violence prevailed. It was evident that each character had been well studied, and the resulting life-like impersonations were surprisingly real.

Christine Jenkins gave an amazingly acute portrayal of Abbie Mayo, the aging spinster who suffered queer lapses of memory; Rosa Lee Snell, as the domineering sister, Salem Mayo, was most effective; Charlotte Griffin as the partially demented Meg Crosby gave a decidedly individual and satisfying performance; Marolym Warner depicted the subdued yet independent New England servant; Eleanor Young, as the unexpected claimant to Spider Island, was engaging and real; and Aquiline Howell, as Patsy, supplied with verve and delight the desire relief from the sombreness of the general picture.

Each individual performance emerged as a well analyzed segment of a well coordinated whole which bespoke competent and imaginative direction.

The sorority is to be congratulated not only on the presentation of a delightful evening's entertainment; the purpose for which the drama was presented, the giving of a scholarship to a worthy high school student that she might spend two weeks at some recommended camp, is most commendable. One left with the feeling that he had profited doubly: not only had the evening been delightful entertainment, the cause for the entertainment was amply justified.

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

Once upon a time the Republican and Democratic parties in Washington united to ignore the traditional policies of American democracy. As a result of this union, which has been referred to as the UNHOLY WEDLOCK, came many bills, which were soon passed into laws, that completely closed the American people out. One of those bills was the Taft-Hartley law. In my estimation, that bill was the final straw which caused the formation of a new American political party.

The new party originated in California, headed by a few citizens who were not afraid of being called everything from Communists to thugs. Those who were afraid stayed on the outside. Some are still there, watching and waiting to see who is actually going to win the fall election before they announce the person or party whom they support. To those former democrats who can't be democrats any more because the party doesn't stand for the things they want any more and who are afraid to join the new policial party, I say if you can't do the new party any good, please don't do it any harm.

One of the things that accentuated the growth and power of America was the ability of the people to choose their own representatives, according to the records of these people, rather than according to tons of propaganda laid down by other interests. It must be no different in our modern day; we must think of the future of America as a nation, and in a stronger sense, the world as one big community of peoples. Wealth and riches are meaningless in the midst of chaos to poor suffering peoples, but to the rich, money will always have its value in one nation or another. For no other reason are certain sources fighting the new party so hard. Before you join those who condemn the members of the new party, analyze the propaganda that you read and hear. Review the source of that propaganda before drawing your conclusion. Ask yourself who stands to gain through the third party, if anyone. After you have done this, regardless of the conclusion you reach, I'm certain that you will find a clear conscience more valuable than anything else.

But I assure you, the Independent Progressive party is more than a handful of people trying to gain political power for the election four years away. The new party, like a rolling stone, is gathering more and more moss, and the most conservative writers and commentators are promising the party ten million votes in the presidental election, ten million votes, before the conventions and the campaigns begin. Too, the large corporations and the two other parties would not be interested to the tune of thousands of dollars if they did not fear the new party. By that, I mean they would not be spending 'valuable' money in publicity that tends to tear down the reputation of the new organization. They wouldn't be throwing every available stumbling block in the path of Senator Glen Taylor and Mr. Henry Wallace—that path that is going to lead them directly to the White House in November if the people of America actually elect the next President, and vice-president.

Every loyal American had faith and confidence in the work and in the decisions of President Roosevelt. Now Henry Wallace served one successful term under him as vice-president. When he wasn't re-elected to the office, he was appointed to the position of Secretary of Agriculture. It seems strange, indeed, that after the death of Mr. Roosevelt Henry Wallace suddenly turned 'bad.' I think a mistake has been made somewhere, because Mr. Roosevelt and Henry Wallace were able to get along. When vice-president Truman came to office, Wallace was ousted from the department of Agriculture, although Truman was supposed to follow the course of Mr. Roosevelt. Yes, a mistake was made, and it's apparent who made it. The Democrats, had they actually meant to follow the course of Mr. Roosevelt, should have found Henry Wallace a valuable man. Instead, Wallace was all but kicked out of the party and then came that UNHOLY WEDLOCK of the two parties.

So we see how the Third Party came about. It is no marvel, or miracle of the century. It is merely a party through which the American people can express their wishes and desires for World Peace and freedom. We are reminded of the days when Roosevelt first ran for President against Herbert Hoover. Mr. Roosevelt lost the first election, and had he lost the others the United Sates might well have lost the war. In the next elecion, if Wallace isn't put to the White House, we might well lose the peace.

History proves that at many dangerous points in American history, God has sent a man to save the nation and the people. Men like Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, and Thomas Jefferson were sent for the purpose of building the thirteen colonies into a nation. When it appeared that freedom would be ignored through American chattel slavery, Abraham Lincoln appeared to free the slaves and pull the union back together, the Second World War, and Franklin D. Roosevelt to lead us to victory, and the opportunity to establish peace, and world government.

We must not allow ourselves to become infiltrated with the false accusations that this is a Communist party. The term "Communist' was put into circulation some years ago by Wall Street, and has been used to fight anyone who dared to buck the wall finance and personal gains in the race problem and in politics. The use of that term, before the new party was formed, was the cause of my first article for this newspaper more than a year ago. They are still using that term to fight the people who are giving all they have in the fight for world peace and against American imperialism. They will continue to use the term until the sincere American citizens like you and I stand up and say we've had enough; until we show them, through the third party, that America has had enough mockery of its ideals and moral principles of freedom and equality; until we have brought a better day to the world and humanity through the new part . . . not really a new party, for the ideals of freedom, equality, and prosperity are as old as America itself.

PRINCE HALL MASONS SUPPORT BOY SCOUTS

Two of the leading organizations in the City of Los Angeles gave their hearty approval to the program of the Boy Scouts of America this week: the Prince Hall Masons of Los Angeles County, and the Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity.

Mr. Archie Herbert, President of the Masters and Wardens Association of Prince Hall Masons, Los Angeles County, recommended that the Prince Hall Masons go on record this year supporting the Program of the Boy Scouts of America and encourage each lodge in Los Angeles County to accept the challenge of sponsorship for Boy Scout Units. There are at least twelve lodges in Los Angeles which would mean twelve or more reliable organizations available for sponsorship. Furthermore this effort on the part of the Masons would mean that we would not only be exposing the boys of our community to a wholesome and worthwhile program such as Scouting provides but that these boys could be fashioned into material for future Masons and leaders. Mr. Herbert stated that "Today we are being continually faced with a compelling demand to devote more and more of our time and attention to the urgent and immediate need of our youth for adult companionship and guidance, love and understanding."

The Association placed approval of Mr. Sam C. Bottler as an official representative of the Prince Hall Masons of Los Angeles on the Field Commissioner Staff for Inter-racial Service. A directive was sent out to the various lodges wherein the approval was confirmed by the Prince Hall Masons. Mr. Bottler is the Director of Public Relations for the Prince Hall Masons, California Jurisdiction and Editor of the Prince Hall Abnet.

The problem is presented in two films "Children of the City," produced by the British Information Services, and "Children on Trial," made for the Central Office of Information by the Crown Film Unit. Both give a frank portrayal of the problem.

'Education-Democracy Hope of World,' Says Local Educator

Boy Scout News

Under the supervision of Mr. McClelland several high caliber men such as Mr. Wm. R. Melton and Mr. Robt. Williams, both of whom are Pilots and Captains in the Air Force, have been recruited to staff of the Los Angeles Area Council, Boy Scouts of America. These men show great interest in making a valuable contribution to Senior Scouting.

At the present time, scout leaders are working on the camping plans. B. Clarence Cooke is to serve on the Camp Staff at Thousand Pines, which is a camp under the sponsorship of the Western Baptist State Convention. Baptist Churches all over the State of California, and especially the City of Los Angeles, are expected to send their Boy Scout Troops to this camp.

THE REALM OF RELIGION

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: Ezra Leads a Religious Revival, Lesson Text and Outline. Nehemiah 8:1-3, 5-6, 8; 10:28-32. Motto Text James 1:22.

(Introduction)

In 536 B. C. Zerubbabel led 50,000 Jewish captives from Babylon to Jerusalem and rebuilt the Temple. Seventy-eight years later (458 B.C.) Ezra with about 7,000 of his people came back to inaugurate needed reforms. After fourteen years (444 B.C.) Nehemiah with real authority and a military escort came to surround the city with a strong wall and, with the aid of Ezra, to lead in a needed religious revival.

(Comments)

1. Divine favours which are fresh in mind, and which we ourselves have been witnesses of, should be, and usually are, most affecting. Ezra call to the service was very clear; for being in office as a priest, and qualified as a scribe, the people spoke to him to bring the book of the law and read it to them. God gave him ability and authority, and then the people gave him opportunity and invitation. Knowledge is spiritual alms, which those that are able should give to every one that needs, to every one that asks. The book of the law is not to be confined to the scribes' studies, but to be brought before the congregation and read to them in their own language. Ministers, when they go to the pulpit, should take their Bibles with them; Ezra did so; thence they must fetch their knowledge, and according to that rule they must speak and must show that they do so. Let those that read and preach the word learn also to deliver themselves distinctly, as those who understand what they say and are affected with it themselves, and who desire that those they speak to may understand it, retain it, and be affected with it likewise. The word of God commands attention and deserves it. If through carelessness we let much slip in hearing, there is danger that through forgetfulness we shall let all slip after hearing.

Ezra brought it forth with a sense of the great mercy of God to them in giving them that book; he opened it with a sense of his mercy to them in giving them leave to read it, that it was not a spring shut up and a fountain sealed. Let us learn to address ourselves to the services of religion with solemn stops and pauses, and not to go about them rashly; let us consider what we are doing when we take God's book into our hands, and open it, and so also when we bow our knee in prayer; and what we do let us do deliberately. It is becomes servants to stand when their master speak to them, in honour to their master and to show a readiness to do as they are bidden. Ezra blessed the Lord as the great God, gave honour to him by praising his perfections and praying for his favour; and the people, in token of their concurrence with him both in prayers and praises, said, Amen, lifted up their hands in token of their desire being towards God and all their expectations from him, and bowed their heads in token of their reverence of him and subjection to him. Thus must we adore God, and address ourselves to him, when we are going to read and hear the word of God, as those that see God in his word very great and very good. God's mouth to the people, and they attentively hearkened to him. It is requisite that those who hear the word should understand it, else it is to them but an empty sound of words. It is therefore required of those who are teachers by office that they explain the word and give the sense of it.

3. Every oath has in it a conditional curse upon the soul, which makes it a strong bond upon the soul; for our own tongues, if false and lying tongues, will fail, and fall heavily, upon ourselves. When we bind ourselves to do the commandments of God we bind ourselves to do all his commandments, and therein to have an eye to him as the Lord and our Lord. Those that covenant to keep all God's commandments must particularly covenant to keep sabbaths well; for the profanation of them is an inlet to other instances of profaneness. The sabbath is a market day for our souls, but not for our bodies. That they would not be severe in exacting their debts, but would observe the seventh year as a year of release, according to the law. Those are stubborn children indeed that will not amend the fault for which they have been particularly corrected. The people therefore agreed to contribute yearly, every one of them, third part of a shekel, about ten pence apiece for the bearing of this expense. When every one will act, and every one will give, though but little, towards a good work, the whole amount will be considerable. The tirshatha did not impose this tax, but the people made it an ordinance for themselves and charged themselves with it.

(Comment on the Motto Text)

Hearing is in order to doing; the most attentive and the most frequent hearing of the word of God will not avail us, unless we be also doers of it. If we were to hear a sermon every day of the week, and an angel from heaven were the preacher, yet, if we rested in bare hearing, it would never bring us to heaven. There must be inward practice by meditation, and outward practice in true obedience. It is not enough to remember what we hear, and to be able to repeat it, and to give testimony to it, and commend it, and write it, and preserve what we have written; that which all this is in order to, and which crowns the rest, is that we be doers of the word.

A distinctive record of success in concert, radio and films will be crowned by a unique achievement when the Luvenia Nash Singers, famed Southland negro choral group, participates in the first interacial production of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" in Embassy Auditorium on May 20.

Two years ago the group sang in the first presentation in Italian of "Cavalleria Rusticana" by a mixed negro and white cast, but the May 20 production in Embassy auditorium will mark the first time both parts of the usual operatic double-bill have been done in Italian by an interracial group.

Christian Science Theme 'Adam and Fallen Man'

"If thou return to the Almighty, thou shalt be built up, thou shalt put away iniquity far from thy tabernacles." This verse from Job will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Adam and Fallen Man" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

As related in the Gospels of Mark and Matthew, Jairus, a ruler of the synagogue, came to Jesus "And besought him greatly, saying, My little daughter lieth at the point of death: I pray thee, come . . . that she may be healed; and she shall live. . . . While he yet spake, there came . . . certain which said, Thy daughter is dead: why troublest thou the Master any further?" "And when Jesus came into the ruler's house, and saw the minstrels and the people making a noise, He said unto them, Give place: for the maid is not dead, but sleepeth. And they laughed him to scorn. But when the people were put forth, he went in, and took her by the hand, and the maid arose."

Mary Baker Eddy writes in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "The fact that the Christ, or Truth, overcame and still overcomes death proves the 'king of terrors' to be but a mortal belief, or error, which Truth destroys with the spiritual evidences of Life; and this shows that what appears to the senses to be death is but a mortal illusion, for to the real man and the real universe there is no death-process."

Missionary Praises Work Of Spelman College

ATLANTA, Ga.—Lauding Spelman college and its president Dr. Florence M. Reed, for the encouragement given to Spelman graduates serving as missionaries in Africa, Mrs. Ora Milner Horton, a native of Atlanta who has spent 30 years in missionary work in Africa, returned to her alma mater last Wednesday to address the students and tell of her work at the Bassa community school in Monrovia, Liberia.

Since she left this country in 1917, Mrs. Horton has returned to the United States only three times. In talking to the students at Spelman, she pointed out the difference in the meaning of the term missionary from wat it was 30 years ago. She stated that although there are economic, agricultural and public health government missions from the United States of America distributed throughout Liberia, the personnel of the missions do not always live up to the full meaning of the term missionary. Mrs. Horton believes that peace would come throughout the world and the problem of Christianizing Africa would be expedited if the persons who represented the government missions including the Marshall Plan were in their lives and actions Christian missionaries.

Apology to Rev. Buford And Dr. Foster Driver

The article which cast aspersions upon the names of Rev. K. L. Buford, Dr. Foster E. Driver, and others, was published without the knowledge of the editor, for it has never been, nor is it now the policy of the California Eagle to make personal attacks upon any citizens through its columns.

Rev. Buford and Dr. Driver are both known to the editor and respected by her as representative citizens of the community, and she knows of no just cause for any slur to be cast upon the name and character of these two gentlemen.

Therefore, on behalf of the editor and staff of this newspaper, we ask that you, Dr. Driver and Rev. Buford, accept our sincere apology for any embarrassment or inconvenience which the afore-mentioned story may have caused and know that it was done without our knowledge and, certainly, without our consent.

In Memoriam

In memory of our loving mother and grandmother, Mrs. Sarah Edwards, who passed away ten years ago, May 9, 1938.

Ten years have passed since that sad day
That called the one we loved away.
Forget her? No, we never will,
For in our hearts she liveth still.
The blow was great. The shock severe.
We little thought the end was near.
And only we who knew her well
Can of the parting tell—
She bade no one a last farewell.
She said good-bye to no one.
The Heavenly Gates were open wide. A gentle voice said, "Come." Her loving face is ever enshrined in our hearts. Her soul to God, her memory to us. Rest, Dear One.

Her devoted daughters, sons, and grandchildren, Mrs. Cora Spencer and Mrs. Jennie Ford, and family.

T-Bone Opens at 'Word'

SONGSTRESS MAGGIE HATHAWAY, who recently finished a stellar part in the Pearl Bailey Paramount picture, "Isn't It Romantic?" returns to her singing chores next week following a lengthy layoff due to illness. La Hathaway, as she is known in the entertainment world, will do a guest column for the California EAGLE in next week's edition.

Record Crowd Expected To Attend

Fresh from a record breaking theatre-night club tour, T-Bone Walker, The Daddy of the Blues, brings his guitar and band to the Last Word night spot for a two weeks engagement beginning May 7.

Walker, who won the Artist's Magazine poll as top blues singer of the year, has made suite a rep for himself in nitery circles, and should prove a definite click at the famed Central avenue nitery. He plays guitar, sings the blues and does everything but clown. On the bandstand he personifies a bundle of atomic energy, and works hard from opening tune to the finale.

Following his Last Word stint, the popular King of the Blues leaves for an extended tour throughout the eastern states, and has been signed as featured star in the Cafe Society (NY) show beginning in June 3.

ETHEL WATERS, long heralded as the top delineator of song, opened to a capacity crowd last week at the Florentine Gardens. Miss Waters' style of toying with a ballad has long kept her on the top of the musical heap, and from all indications (as witnessed by the rousing ovation given her on opening night) se'll continue pleasing patrons with her inimitable style of singing for many years to come.

"All My Sons" In Final Week

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

As Arthur Miller's "All My Sons" goes into its final week at the Las Palmas theatre, playgoers are still finding it exciting theatre. Miller has created a profoundly moving drama that reaches the gamut of emotional depth.

Revolving around the theme of how corruption causes the moral deterioration of a fine, close-knit family and finally ends in tragedy for two of its members, is aptly expressed in the Actor's Lab production.

Roman Bohnen carries the heaviest part of the play. He seems to proceed effortlessly—increasing the emphasis upon the enduring theme. The transition from the tragic to the comic is wonderfully relieved and a rare piece of work by Bohnen. Lloyd Bridges, Georgia Backus, and Mary Davenport develop their roles in heart breaking and honest portrayals.

Count's Newest Is Tribute To Angel City Nitery Host

By J. T. GIPSON,
Theatrical Editor

The newest tune to soar the heights on the Harlem Hit Parade is Count Basie's recording of "aBckstage at Stuff's." The song, written in dedication to the Angel City's top night club impresario, Julius "Stuff" Crouch, is a solid click and proving to be the Count's biggest hit since his famed "One o'Clock Jump."

Any man who has a song written in hi shonor rates an interview. So I decided to drop in at the Backstage club for a chit-chat with Mrs. Crouch's little boy Julius.

"Hello," I said, as I waddled in, and seated myself in a darkened corner of the Backstage club, "may I see Julius "Stuff' Crouch?

"If you're not blind," a voice from a 200-pound frame roared. "I'm Julius Crouch."

"I understand the Count (meaning Mr. Basie) has a new tune on the market written in your honor."

"Oh that," he said.

"Yes that," I replied.

"Well," he well'd, as the waiter filled our glasses with a lot of water and a little scotch. "The Count is a friend of mine, but seriously, I didn't even know he had dedicated a song about me until I read about it in Downbeat magazine."

"What prompted the Count to dedicate the tune to you?" I asked in all seriousness of a good interviewer.

"I dunno," Stauff stammered, "unless it was . . . well, I dunno . . ." he said.

The guy is modest and wouldn't give out with the information, so I got up to leave.

"Okay," he said, "if you don't put it in the paper, I'll tell you."

"I won't put it in the papers," I lied, so give with the facts.

And here are the facts.

The Count (meaning Basie) and "Stuff" have been friends from way back, and one night during the band's stopover in the city of the angels, he (still meaning Basie) dropped in at the Backstage club and started sippin' on a little scotch.

Crouch, who manages the top local after dark spot, was celebrating his birthday.

"What'dya want for a birthday present?" Count asked Stuff.

"Lena Horne's phone number, but you don't know it, so I'll settle for a drink."

"I gotta better idea," Count retorted, "how'd ya' like a tune dedicated in your favor?"

"Okay," Stuff said, and that's how "Backstage At Stuff's" was hatched.

The record is now a Harlem Hit Parade favorite and the only thing Stuff complains about is: "Basie's getting all the royalties, and I get nothing but a dedication!"

That's what comes from being famous!

And that, kiddies, is what is known as an interview.

Lilliam Hellman Play Opens Fri. At the Musart

When the Actors' Lab worship production of Lillian Hellman's play, "Another Part of the Forest" opens up tomorrow night at ehe Musat theatre, playgoers will see Marjorie Elliott in her first professional performance. Marjarie, who has been a student at the Lab for the past eight months, will be cast as Corales in the Hellman play.

Coming out for his second professional Lab show will be Chuck Boswell, who will play the part of Jake. The role of Jake is a small one. But Jake assumes body and form in the third act. Caught in a gripping situation of the play, his action decides the outcome of the play. It will be interesting to note his treatment to the role since his approach to the role of a blind Negro Vet won him wide and hearty acclaim.

The play deals with the disintegration of a Southern aristocratic family in the pre-slavery period. Written by the author of "The Little Foxes" this play portrays, the same family 20 years earlier. Miss Hellman has done little with her Negro characters except to show them as people. But they are good people, dignified people.

First produced on Bspadway in 1946 the Lab production marks its West Coast premiere engagement. "Another Part of the Forest," scheduled for a five day run, introduces the new idea in theatre of one dollar top price. Tickets bought in blocks of ten sell for sixty cents and secured individually at the box office.

The entire production is being staged by John McLinn Ross.

A cast of fity students, headed by Richard Hicks in the role of De Lawd, John Pitts as Gabriel, Henry Williams as Moses, and Clarence Haines as Noah, make up the total acting ensemble.

DADDY OF THE BLUES is T-Bone Walker, who opens at the Last Word May 7th. Following a successful theatre-nightclub tour, the popular blues singer returns to the Angel City for a two-week engagement, after which he embarks on an extended cross-country tour culminating at the swank Cafe Society club, N.Y.

SHARPS 'N FLATS

By Albert McNeil, California Eagle Music Critic

Last Sunday's presentation of "Great Moments in Opera" in the Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church proved to be one of the most exciting musical afternoons that we have spent in many weeks. The concert was presented by Clothilde Woodard, local city school teacher and sponsor of Louise Meza, Wilfandel Club popularity contestant. Opera in its most polished form can be tiring; one can image what an afternoon of operatic excerpts can be if the presentation and the performers are not completely convinced of the merits of this medium. This presentation, however, with few exceptions, was excellently rendered.

James Warren, local music student, opened the series of excerpts with "Madamina" from Don Giovanni. Warren cannot be ranked with the other participants for there were many vocal discrepancies which were quite obvious to the listener; however, we may add quickly that perhaps with study the vocal talent may be cultivated. His piano selections were smooth, although we noted a little difficulty with the Debussey "Soiree Dans Granada."

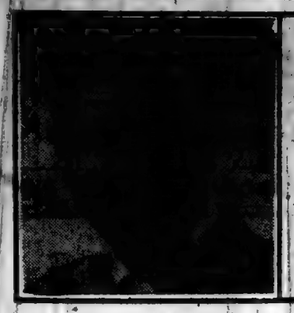
The duet from La Traviata "Un di felice" could have been more interesting and coherent if the tenor William Gordon had attempted to blend with Mary Martin Young, the soprano. There was a great feeling for the text, but because of this uncontrolled vocal production the entire excerpt was unsuccessful.

The surprise of the evening came with the singing of "Il mio bel faco" from Marcello as sung by Jeanne Jackson, contralto. This young lady has been studying a little over a year. Readers of this column will remember that several weeks ago we mentioned the dearth of contralto soloists in this community. With serious study Jeanne will undoubtedly become one of the outstanding singers in her field. At this time, however, there is a lack of feeling or significant interpretation of the text. There is a tendency to flat on the higher tones; the lower register is warm and colorful and although in the developmental stages is extremely satisfying. She sings with confidence and with accuracy.

Another significant highlight of this performance was the singing of the aria "Adieu Forets" from the opera Jeanne D'Arc by the young soprano Ella Mae Hilson. It has been almost a year and a half since we have had the privilege of hearing her voice. With great power and although over anxious or perhaps nervous, Miss Hilson gave a superb demonstration of a voice that has been cultivated through the sole efforts of its possessor for this young woman through personal sacrifice has developed, in my estimation, into one of the most outstanding and creditable sopranos in this area. Her singing of Puccini's "Un Bel Die" from the opera Madame Butterfly, left us gasping. We are a little worried over a tremulo which is developing perhaps unconsciously. This, if avoided, can be overcome.

Unfortunately the Rigoletto "Quartette" sung by Louise Meza, Jeanne Jackson, William Gordon, and William Valentine, lacked balance or coherence. There was no attempt made at blending or even interpreting. The persistence of Mr. Gordon completely destroyed the total effect.

The duet "Deh Non Parlare" from Rigoletto, as sung by Louise Meza and Hubert Herrman was warmly received, if not too thoroughly, understood. Miss Meza, has a most unusual voice. It is very fine, perhaps described as thin. Italians would probably classify her a "Spinza." The high register coloratura, is flexible and rings clear and crisp. Her high tone in the Quartette, was thrillingly and easily produced. The lower registel is immature and lacks power.



In Mary Martin Young, there is the embodiment of a vocal element that needs great cultivation. This soprano has great possibilities; she has marvelous control, and innate understanding of vocal production.

5th Concert at Ebell

From the twang of an archer's bow to the singing strings of a Stradivarius—the story of our stringer instruments will be featured in an event called "The Soul of the Orchestra," to begin at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre, Sunday afternoon, May 9, at 2:30 p.m. by Arts and Artists, Inc., as the fifth event in their current series of seven programs for children and adults.

The facts will be woven into a story which will hold and stimulate the children's interest and imagination, Dr. Leonard Walker, noted musicologist and conductor, will narrate the event.

The series, entitled "Highways and Byways to Music," has been planned to bring children and the arts closer together, helping the child to understand that music and musical instruments were once very young themselves, and that the arts also develop and mature.

ON THE TURF

CALIENTE, Old Mexico—Sevenofive, the dark brown son of Kayteekel-Lady Ethelyn came to life after failing to win a race in more than two years, scored in the main attraction at Caliente last Sunday. Beating some of the best sprinters on the grounds. Altho the horses that he beat had been throwing dust in his face for nearly two years. But it was different last Sunday the old fellow took on a new lease of life under a bammy summer day to revenge for his past performances. Breaking first in the eleven horse field and under a hustling ride by Jockey K. Taylor who took him to the front just lasted to win by a neck over the fast closing Ghost Hunt and Ti Juana. Sevenofive paid in the mutuels $11.80. 6.00. 5.00. In the secondary event "The Domingo" at six furlongs was won by Val Zun and a mild killing was made on the son of Zuncho-Lady Valentime. Opened on the morning line at six to one the good thing was played down to three to one, those that were in on the know bet their big bills on him across the board. Going down the back stretch he laid fifth but when they turned in the home strech for pay dirt Jockey G. Yeutter took him to the outside where he passed the fast sprinter Double Drip who had set all the early pace to win going away. Paying in the mutuels $9.00. 6.60. 3.80. The big surprise came in the fourth race when Lizzie T. who hadn't been in the money for a year scored a hollow victory over the pace seeting Brownie Park ridden by the only Negro jockey on the west coast E. O. Johnson. And to the surprise of the fans she paid $124.80. 42.00. 15.80 across the board. This was the longest price winner at the border course in years. Johnson who only had two mounts was second with Brownie Park and third with Victor Rose two longshots. Another surprise was sprung in the last race when King of Castle a castoff from the stable of the Fred Astaire star of stage and screen won handily. It was the first time in four years that this steed had been to the post. But the old saying class will tell did just that. Before he went wrong this horse was running with the best of them on the New York tracks. The daily-double combination of Big Town winner of the second race and Burande victor of the third paid $21.60 while the quniela backers received $13.40. This Sunday General Manager Walter C. Marty's featured events will be "The Mother's Day handicap at six furlongs.

THE NITERY WHEEL: The nitery going slump is still in a rut. Last week we mentioned four taverns that are on the block. By the time you read this, THE LAST WORD will be readying a change of management . . . AND WHILE WE'RE ON THE SUBJECT isn't an Eastern syndicate dickering for THE CONGO CLUB? . . . The sin dens I visited the weekend last past were as bare as Mother Hubbard's cupboard. . . . THE CONGO BANDLEADERS were nearly snow-blinded by the white tablecloths from the empty tables. . . . Not too much moolah music is emanating from the cash registers. . . . WHY?? . . . That, chum, is the $64 query that has most of the nitery ops pulling out what's left of their hair! . . . BILL COVETTE, who needs money like you need a hole in the head, WAS A CALIFORNIA VISITOR last week. Won 3-figures at the races and hit the digits for a coupla grand. HE'S THE GAMBLING BOSS from FLINT and other parts of MICHIGAN . . . NO CHANGE in the entertainment lineup at the Downbeat. JIMMY SMITH on vocals and Jay McShann's combo continue to prevail, much to your chronicler's satisfaction. . . . FIVE BITS OF RHYTHM at the LAST WORD are just that. Five bits of rhythm. SWING PERSONIFIED! . . . CHUBBY JOHNSON, the barneep (and one of the town's most likeable characters) is doing a beautiful job (with LOOIE BROWN) in making the PARADISE CLUB one of the most talked about jernts—and rightfully so. I like the place. DYNAMITE JACKSON, ex-heavyweight champ of California is managing the spot. . . . MAGGIE HATHAWAY is the "guest" artist featured on the JOE ADAMS "MAYOR OF MELODY" show tomorrow (Friday) noon. SHE'LL CHAT AND SING, which is good enuff for my dough!!! . . .

THE BALLERINA BALL was postponed from SUNDAY LAST to 5/16. SOME SORTA MISUNDERSTANDING WITH THE UNION, so'm told. Tennyrate, it'll be worth waiting a coupla Sundays for!! . . . OVERHEARD in the MEMO: "Are you drunk or sober?" . . . "What else can you be?" . . . This repartee was overheard and passed along to me: "Why don't you get JT to put it in his column?" . . . "Oh, it costs too much to put it in there." . . . IT WHAT??? . . . If anyone can ever prove THAT AT ANYTIME, (during the 11 years I've been scribblin' this drivel) I've accepted A DIME for a mention here, I'll push a peanut to WATTS AND BACK! I've never hustled off the column, and will never lower its standards by doing so. And (JUST FOR THE RECORDS) whoever started the rumor should D.D.T. (Drop Dead Twice!) . . . BANDLEADER J. BELL offers this explanation for a discolored orb: "I was living the life of Riley—and Riley came home!" . . . From the Sentinel's Classified Ad Section: "For Rent. One large room. Can be made into an apartment." For who? Midgets?? . . . TERSE VERSE: ETCHINGS IS FETCHING . . . BUT LIQUOR IS QUICKER. . . . In his more playful moods, COUNT BASIE calls ART TATUM "Arturo." . . . MARION MANN is one mann I like more than any other mann I've met since I've been in this mann's town. Wotta man! . . . TIP: DON'T DRIVE while you're drinking whiskey. You might hit a bump in the road and spill some of it! . . . SINCE A MENTION HERE, MONTE EASTER's aggregation has plucked several particularly good plums during the past week. THEIR MUSIC is 2-2-divine. I'M TELLING YOU. . . . They'll also be on the bandstand at the BALLERINA BALL! That wonderful Monte and his wonderful trumpet!! . . .

REG MARSHALL (he's the Hollywood agent) WIRED LUCRATIVE OFFERS to singer HELEN HUMES and pianist MARY LOU WILLIAMS for an early date in Calif. A package deal. . . . ETHEL WATERS opened Monday last at the FLORENTINE GARDENS. Personally, I hope she packs 'em in. She's always been one of my faves, AND SHE'LL ALWAYS BE one of my faves! . . . Madeline Green (who the L. Hampton ork a coupla made a noise like singing with seasons ago) opens at the DOWNBEAT with JAY McSHANN'S crew Thruz evng. . . . AND LENA HORNE (thass muh gal!) is in San Francisco at the FAIRMOUNT HOTEL, holding down the star spot. AN EXCLUSIVE interview with Lena next issue. . . . NADINE COLE is entertaining guests from the East. Wotta pal she's been for all these years!! . . . Ran into AVANELLE HARRIS at EDDIE GREEN's the other sundown. It's been ages since we've chit-chatted. She's a grand gal and, inciwentally, her loveliness WAS SQUEEZED FROM A DREAM! . . . Comes Thursday next, the CALIFORNIA EAGLE will be worth a dollar! MAGGIE HATHAWAY will do a "guest" col'm titled: "I Remember When." She gave a few of us privileged bums a sneak preview (of the contents) a few days ago, and I'm telling ya' SHE REALLY REMEMBERS WHEN. Frinstance. . . . But now, wait'll you read the col'm next week. TERRIFIC!!! . . . A GROUP OF PROFESSIONAL friends and pals, known as SPORTSMEN SYNONYMOUS, are readying plans to stage a gala HOMECOMING COCKTAIL soiree for your corpulent and collapsible niteclub correspondent. It'll be held within the next few weeks, and we'll keep you posted here. . . .

Ray Albrieton (Ted's pretty Frau) oughta be looked over by a talent scout. She's one of the loveliest (and nicest) people we've met in this or any other town! And wotta personality!! . . . Eugene Carter and Adam Colver ARE IN THE HOUSE-PAINTING B'SNESS. THEY rate your patronage. Two swell guys. . . . LOYALTY TO SHERMAN WILLIAMS is what's keeping vocalist IONA WADE out of the Big-Time. She's spurned several tempting offers to remain with Sherm at six-bits per, 'cause he gave her her start in show biz. I love people like thae!! . . . RUTH FREEMAN is one of the reasons sooo many people flock to THE K-H CAFE. EVERYBODY loves her, and she's a sweet gal, but def! . . . ART ADAMS and GEORGE MOSBY (at Kunin's Furn. Co.) are really on the ball! Tops, too, in every sense of the word! . . . YVONNE SHELTON (she stenogs so efficiently at McCLAIN'S Bail Bond agency office) is another reason we like people. No high falutin' stuff about Yvonne. She's either for you or against you, and she's myyyyyy pal! . . . THE HARLEM CAFE (with C. A. Barber host) is where the Railroad waiters etc. hang out, in case you're a stranger in town and wanna know where the Railroad waiters etc. hang out. . . . HERMAN HILL and L. B. MAYER (MGMagnet) feted "Miss Spirit Of COTTON" out on the METRO lot last week. A feast fit for a king and his queen!! . . . JOE HARRIS' book (about nite-life on Ceneral ave) has been set back for an October release date. Thev tell me SOME OF THE CHAPTERS are Heyyyyy Now!! If Joe wrote it, you can bet you'll be entertained!! . . . This IS AS GOOD A SPOT AS 'ANY to remind you that T-BONE WALKER is at the LAST WORD. And that will be our after-dark address. . . .

All 'Series 5' As Picked By C. W. Hill

DOUGLAS SHAW-GUARD-PHI BETA SIGMA-HEIGHT, 6.3 WEIGHT, 190—Things never looked to bad for the Sigmas but Doug Shaw wasn't there to rally his teammates. When passees went wrong and set shots missed, Shaw could be counted on to square things with his trusty right arm. Shaw also will not be soon forgotten, by the people who watched him or the men that guarded him out on the court. For his outstanding play, exemplary like sportsmanship, sterling team play, and plain old hustle, Douglas Shaw of the Phi Beta Sigma was named to the All Series Team as selected by C. W. Hill.

LOWELL STEWART, FORWARD, KAPPA ALPHA PSI, 5.9, WEIGHT 160—Although not especially tall as basketball players go, Lowell Stewart was the spark behind the fighting Kappa team. For his outstanding accuracy with his deadly two handed push shot, his all around team play, Lowell Stewart was named to Dr. Hill's All-Series Five.

TO DAVEAGE MINOR of the Alphas goes this beautiful trophy pictured above, for being selected by Dr. C. W. Hill as the "outstanding player of the 1948 Inter-Fraternity Basketball Series. The cat like Alpha guard was elected on the basis of having played in all seven games, and his steady and yoeman duty for the Champion Alpha squad. Although no runner up trophy will be awarded by Dr. Hill, the battle for the most outstanding trophy was hotly contested between Don Barskdale of the Alphas and Doug Shaw of the Sigmas along with Minor.

IVAN ROBINSON, FORWARD OMEGA PSI PHI, HEIGHT, 6.3, WEIGHT, 180—Long after they gather to talk about the 1948 Inter-Fraternity Basketball Series, the deeds of Ivan Robinson of the Omegas will be remembered and discussed. Robinson played best when the chips were down and things weren't going right. For his all around and especially outstanding play, Ivan Robinson of the Omega Psi Phi was named to Dr. Hill's mythical All Series Five.

DAVEAGE (DAVE) MINOR-GUARD-ALPHA PHI ALPHA-HEIGHT; 6;2-WEIGHT-175. Dave Minor is without a doubt one of the finest basketball players ever to trod upon a basketball court. Because of his sterling, steady guarding cool, level headed consistency, and teamwork, Dave Mi has been selected by Dr. C. W. Sims Star as Cubs Win WSC Title; LaBeach Equals Coliseum Record

To list the reasons the big Alpha Center was elected, would require reems and reems of print. Because of space, not because of ability, a small picture of Barksdale is shown above.

It Happened Here

LINCOLN, Pa.—One of the oddities of sports—a tie in a track and field meet—happened here last week when the Lincoln University thinclads and the West Chester State Teachers College battled to a 59½-59½ tie on a rain soaked track. A third entrant, Shippenberg Teachers, was third with 35 markers.

Despite the rain soaked and muddy track, Flyin' Fred James, fleet footed Lincoln sprinter, galloped the 100 in 9.8s.

Marshall Heads Golfers

The re-election of Lee Marshall, prominent local golfer to to the presidency of the Cosmopolitan Golf club, was announced this week.

Marshall was elected to his second term of office at the club's regular meeting last Friday night. Other officers elected for the coming year were: Roscoe Jines, first vice-president; William Lane, second vice-president; Helen Broyles Smith, secretary-treasurer; Don Walker, recording secretary and public relations officer; James DeVoe, tournament director; Atty. Ivan Johnson, rules and regulations director; Jessie Hutton, legal adviser; and Oliver Fritz, membership chairman.

A report from the Colored Golfers' Asscoiation, the annual Cosmopolitan trip to San Francisco and a proposed golf tournament with the Vernondale Golf club, were discussed at the meeting.

CUBS TO PHOENIX

Coach Wendell Smith's Los Angeles City College track squad, unbeaten in jaysee competition this season, embarked Wednesday morning for Phoenix and the National Junior College Track and Field Championships to be held May 6-7.

The All-Inter-Fraternity Series Basketball team pictured above, was selected by Dr. C. W. Hill, local denist and sportsman, and should not be confused with the team that will be announced by the Inter-Fraternity Council on May 15. The showing of the team on this page does not necessarily constitute endorsement by any member of the Eagle Staff.—ED.

Bruins End Practice With Alumni Fray Sat.

A whole host of former Bruin grid stars have answered Bob Waterfield's call for ex-UCLA rock and sock boys to form a team to meet Coach Bert LaBrucherie's current crop of Westwood strong arm boys in a tilt to be held this coming Saturday on the Bruin campus.

With men like Bob Mike, Don Paul, Burr Baldwin, and Ernie Case scheduled to be on hand when the opening whistle sounds Saturday, and with LaBrucherie boasting one of the strongest Spring squads since the days of the '46 Rose Bowl machine, the game that will be part of the 1948 Spring Homecoming, shapes up to be a real rough set to.

Among the present college boys who will see plenty of action are: Harry Thompson, bull necked tackle, light footed Bill Duffy, star '47 frosh back, 145 pound scatback from Santa Ana JC, Chuck Danniels, and '47 reserve tackle, Emerson Cabbell.

The kick off is scheduled for 2 p.m.

Grid Star Willis Married

COLUMBUS, Ohio—The secret marriage in Kentucky last February 6 of William "Bill" Willis, All-Conference guard on the Cleveland Brown professional football team and Miss Odessa Porter of Chicago, was revealed here this week.

Willis, former All-American tackle at Ohio State and currently writing a sports column for a local newspaper, said that he and the new Mrs. Willis will make their residence here while he is working for his masters degree in physical education at Ohio State.

Mrs. Willis is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Porter, of 1128 Roosevelt Rd., Chicago. She is a graduate of Lincoln (Mo.) University.

Sports of All Sorts

By Stanley Robertson, Eagle Sports Editor

On the Pacific Coast this month, there's been more interest in baseball in any minor league since a kid named Jackie Robinson became the regular second baseman for the Montreal Royals of the International League. Of course, the reason for and the center of this re-interest in baseball is a 23 year old Negro lad from San Diego, one John Ritchey, reserve backstop for the San Diego Padres of the Coast League.

Last Fall when the signing of the hometown boy by the Padres was made public, the event was hailed far and wide as the breaking down of another barrier in the Negro's hard and bitter fight for equality in America. But things have changed. The Fall has ended and Spring has come to the land with its sound and sights of Ring Lardenish "rookies" and Alibi Ike's taking part in what has been called The Great American Pastime. One of these young "rookies" trying to make good is Johnnie Ritchey.

By the first week in April, The Grapefruit League ends and John Ritchey lands a regular berth with the Padres. Fine, everyone knows the kid has the stuff to make the ball club.

But now, here early in May, things are a bit confused. Although he's batting fourth with a healthy .367 in the Coast loop standings, Ritchey has been warming the bench for the border city outfit. Ritchey's benching brings forth from a few newspapers and fans loud cries of "discrimination and prejudice" hurled at the San Diego moguls.

But are the people throwing mud pies at the San Diego Baseball Club being fair?

Ask any baseball coach, scout, or authority and they'll tell you that the catcher is the most important man on the squad. He's the man that directs the team from the field. He should know the weak points and faults of all the batters in the league. In short, he should be bathed in experience.

Although a fine hitter and base runner, John Ritchey just doesn't have the experience to be a first string catcher. It's not his fault, bue only the fault that he was born 23 years ago instead of 28.

Some people are saying that Ritchey should be traded or possibly shifted to the outfield, but I disagree. I think the Padres backstop should remain right where he is. Stay on as a reserve catcher, getting into the starting line up now and then, and at all times observing the actions of the veteran Padre catchers. Stay around and get all the experience and knowledge of the Padre managers, and I'll bet a dollar to a life saver, that it won't be long before John Ritchey will be up in the biggest show of them all; the major leagues.

Roy Campenella hung around Montreal until he got a starting berth. You know what Camp's doing right now don't you? Just second string catcher behind Bruce Edwards of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

Yes, I too agree that Ritchey is the big drawing card that has almost doubled the Padres home and road attendance, and I also agree that he should be used more, but I don't think he's ready just yet to be a regular catcher, and the fans should realize that. It won't hurt him to wait around a year before becoming a starter. Larry Doby had a real severe case of benchities last year, but look at the box scores of the Cleveland games these days and notice Doby's a starting center fielder with a awful healthy average.

I'm for John Ritchey and any other Negro youngster who can break into organized baseball, but I'm against the people who think just because a man is a Negro, he's supposed to start every game. Come on, let's give Ritchey a fair break. Let's pull for him sure, but let's not go off the deep end. It was the same type of partial, unthinking, sincere rooting that almost brought ruin to Jackie Robinson when he first started with "dem Bums."

We agree with the All Star Inter-Fraternity Basketball Team as selected by Dr. C. W. Hill to the man except for one position. . . . Although he's a fine player and sometimes is as hot as a firecracker, we just can't see Lowell Stewart of the Kappas over Emerson Chapman of the Alphas. . . . Yes, Barksdale was the man who got all the applause and attention from the fans on the Alphas championship squad and Dave Minor, with his great guarding ability and "showmanship" came in for his share, but personally, the guy who stood out in my mind was Chapman. . . .

Protest Ban In Western Germany

Protesting against the arbitrary ban of "The German American," progressive German language paper, in the American and British occupation zone of Germany, Abraham L. Pomerantz, James Stewart Martin and Russ Nixon, former officials of U. S. Military Government in Germany, had this to say:

"This arbitrary action by Military Government censors Americans who wish to send "The German American" to Germany; inasmuch as a large part of the subscription going to the Western zones are paid for by friends and relatives in the United States, this ban constitutes a virtual gagging of a segment of our citizenry."

Mr. Pomerantz was formerly Senior Trial Counsel for U. S. Military Government, Mr. Nixon acting Director, Division of Investigation of Cartels and External Assets and Mr. Martin, Chief of the Decartelization Branch of American Military Government.

The editors of "The German American" announced that they will continue protest action until the ban is rescinded or acceptable reasons for the ban offered, and appeal to the public to help wipe out this infringement on the Freedom of the Press.

Plans for County Fair Announced

Officials of Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona have selected "100 Years of Progress" as the theme for the return of the big exposition following its wartime service as an important military installation. Cooperating with the state centennial commission the affair will be presented as Southern California's major fall contribution to the centennial year commemorations.

Through the preceding months Marshall's historic discovery of gold at Colusa has been reenacted in theme and pageant. At the fair the epic story of the agricultural, industrial and cultural achievement which followed will be portrayed in a gigantic panorama of some 40,000 exhibits and displays.

Again the fair will run 17 days, opening Sept. 17 and continuing through Oct. 3. The centennial theme will predominate throughout the 20 major divisions. It will be used in an elaborate decorative scheme over the 350-acre exposition park. A program of special events will be punctuated with reminders of Spanish-California days. Many organizations throughout the southland will participate.

In the huge palace of agriculture the magnificent feature displays will tell a dramatic story of the transformation which has turned a semi-arid region into a garden spot of the world. A notable public school exhibit will be presented under the title of "The Expanding Role of Education". Here the present day accomplishments of 750,000 students in 860 schools will be contracted with the simple advantages of the past. Boys and girls in a novel junior fair will carry on the same idea.

Responding to hundreds of inquiries President-Manager Jack Afflerbaugh also announces that premium books containing detailed information and directions for prospective exhibitors will go into the mail within the next few days. Copies can be had by addressing Los Angeles County Fair in Pomona.

Plan Now for Future Says Atlanta U. Prexy

At the annual Kappa Alpha Psi observance of Guide Right Week at Morehouse College on Friday, President Rufus E. Clement of Atlanta university, warned the students that unless they buckled down to hard work and gave serious attention to their future, they would not be able to get into the highly competitive fields after graduation.

To find out the students' interests, the distinguished educator conducted a mock Gallop Poll. Scoring the lack of interest exhibited in the field of library service, he pointed to the shortage of trained librarians and urged his listeners not to overlook the opportunities in this area. He expressed surprise at the few who signified an intention to enter into religion and spoke of the highly remunerative salaries paid to ministers as well as the great need for men of deep piety, vision, and insight today. Those who professed to have an interest in law were advised to be concerned as well about good government, and to look beyond the practice of law to the seeking of offices in the legislature and in other branches of government.

The large number of students who signified an interest in entering medical school were advised by President Clement that of the 1,700 Negro applicants to medical schools last year, there were probably less than 10 per cent who got in and many of these were far from what could be desired as most desirable physical material. He stressed the need for being "controlled and motivated by dreams" because no man will ever reach a goal unless he first dreams that he will.

Others appearing during the week's observance were Dr. J. Max Bond, director of Atlanta university's school of education; and William Jefferson of Nashbille, Tenn., a student in the Meharry Medical School.

Award To Porter

A. Charlie Linton, train porter on the Man o' War of the Central of Georgia Railway, has received the first railroad Employe's Courtesy Award presented by the Federation for Railway Progress, it was announced today by William C. MacMillen, Jr., president of the Federation.

The award, a $25 U. S. Savings Bond, is presented each month to a railroad employe responsible for an outstanding example of good passenger relations, and is designed to encourage courtesy and thoughtfulness on the part of all railroad employes who come in contact with the public.

The basis of the award is the passenger service reports received by the Federation's Passenger Relations Department. The department, established early last summer, has since that time processed more than 1300 comments from American travelers who have offered compliments, complaints, and suggestions about the railroad service they receive.

The Central of Georgia Railway is one of the five railroads which cooperates with the Federation through the distribution of passenger service report cards.

It was an accumulation of favorable passenger service reports that won this first award for Charlie Linton.

TAYLOR TO TOUR

Johnny Taylor, formerly of the team Rutlege and Taylor, is set for a tour of the niteclub and theatre circuit starting early in June with Eddie "Rochester" Anderson.

Taylor, who formerly assisted Rochester in his zany act at the old Frank Sebastian Cotton Club in Culver City, is now in his fourth week at Paul Rubin's Cricket Club.

TRUE FRIENDSHIP

A friend, represents the name of intimacy and confidence, and if this person is sincere and honest he expects us to accept it fully. There is a peculiar personal affection and fellowship that exist between true friends, you may lean upon him and confide your most intimate feelings and thoughts, for they will remain within him, no other will know.

There are very few friends such as this however, but Prof. Herman, is willing to be that kind of friend if you will but let him. Why not confide in him and let him share your burdens and help you.

Mrs. B. J. Dear Sir: quite sometime ago I wrote to you concerning the actions of my husband. I am quite happy to inform you that at this time he has changed in his attitude and temperament. Thank you sincerely for your advice in the matter, for without it my home may have been broken up.

M. A. W. Why has he changed?

ANSWER. Probing into the matter I find that you are wondering what has caused the change in your baby's father. It seems that he is dissatisfied with the present conditions and wishes to make a change. I suggest you have a talk with him, requesting his being perfectly frank with you, so that you will know what to do regarding the baby's future.

F. S. Will we have to make any changes soon?

ANSWER: Concentrating upon your question it comes to me that you wish to remain where you are now, until you are ready to build your own home. If you can obtain a lease this would give you the security you wish. I suggest you try to obtain one as soon as possible.

Mrs. B. B. What became of my gold knife and chain?

ANSWER. A careful analysis of your question indicates the fact that these articles were picked up by someone visiting in your home. You should always place your valuables in a place for safe keeping, even in your own home, in order to safeguard them.

G. F. Will I be able to return to school next fall?

ANSWER. Your Lucky Stars and Guiding Planet indicate many changes taking place within the next few months, which will enable you to finish your course of study.

Say You Saw It in The EAGLE

which will be announced at the Trophy Dance on the 15th at the Elks, we hope that Chappie isn't left off.... Yes, we agree with Dr. C. W. Hill's team all the way except we like Chapman over Stewart. . . .

We hope when the Frat Council comes to naming the official team

Lou Bittner, owner of the famed Oakland Bittners of the AAU circuit, is going to sponsor a three man track and field team for the National A.A.U. meet next month. The team will consist of Don Barksdale, in the hop-step-and-jump, and Lloyd LaBeach and Roland Maples, ineligible Cal star, in the dashes. From here it looks like a strong squad. As a postscript it's about time somebody began to notice local Negro track and field athletes who aren't connected with any school. . . . You know that the famed and austere Los Angeles Athletic Club won't accept dark skinned athletes no matter how good they are. . . . I think Mr. Bittner is doing a fine thing by helping these three young Negro lads go to the nations, but it seems too bad that a group of Negro business men and professional men can't get together and form a brown skinned edition of the Los Angeles Athletic Club. . . . I'll bet my last shirt that they could field a team that would give Larry Houston's boys a pretty tough afternoon. . . . Instead of buying that extra Cadillac or financing that next formal, why not some of you fellas who are in the "chips" so to speak, invest your money in building a better and brighter future for the Negro race by fostering an athleeic program for Negro youth, which is the future of our race?

LOCATION

This is a new Country Homesite Subdivision located within forty miles of, or one hour's drive from Los Angeles, a few hundred feet east of Highway No. 99 - the busiest highway in the world. Where cars pass every second and buses pass every few minutes, where you have the convenience of city life, but only county taxes; no city taxes. Where you are actually in the front or back yard of Los Angeles, being only thirteen (13) miles from the City Limits of Los Angeles, one mile south of Castaic, Calif., where there are schools and where you can purchase most of the dire necessities of life. Work may be obtained in nearby communities, such as Castaic, Saugus, Newhall, San Fernando, Burbank, Van Nuys, Glendale and parts of North Hollywood.

PROPOSED ATTRACTIONS

Here in this beautiful terraced Subdivision, we are geographically located from twenty-five to two hundred feet higher elevation than the highway, therefore most of the homesites overlook the highway. Just far enough away not to be bothered with noise and traffic, but close enough to enjoy the benefits of transportation. Here in this secluded spot, at the very opening of Charley and Tapia Canyons, we propose to erect, build, and maintain as permanent attractions; 1st, community club house; 2nd, a large swimming pool finished with tile and shower bath building annexed; 3rd, a full double-sized tennis court; 4th, parking area of approximately one and one-half acres; 5th, a five acre lake for fishing and boating; 6th, riding academy with access to five miles of Canyon Riding trail; 7th, picnic grounds; 8th, baseball park for the kiddies just opposite and adjoining the picnic grounds.

UTILITIES

At present, we have perhaps one of the very best water wells in the Community. The well is located in one of the highest water basins in Southern California, where you can get surface water three feet deep. The well is only 112 feet deep, but water stands within six (6) feet from the top surface. It has produced 1550 gallons of water per minute, without phasing the source of supply. Enough water to supply a community of several hundred families. Electricity is now on the property. Natural gas is only a few hundred feet away, right on Highway 99. Approximately two and one-quarter (2¼) miles of four inch water pipe is already placed over the property involving an expenditure of approximately Thirty Thousand dollars ($30,000). The roads will be put in according to the requirements of the County Road Department. These subdivision roads will be from forty (40) to sixty (60) feet wide, which will prevent traffic congestion and permit curbs and sidewalks if desired in the future.

PROTECTIVE BUILDING AND OTHER RESTRICTIONS

We propose to protect the lot or homesite buyers in this subdivision by and through certain building restrictions, business and residential sections, uniform building set backs, sanitary septic cesspools and other protective features which are designed to protect property owner's investments; also enhance and secure the values, architectural approval and supervision on all buildings.

O. L. BANKS, OWNER AND SUBDIVIDER of Banks Terrace which, when it is completed, will be one of the nation's outstanding playgrounds and recreational centers. Mr. Banks was subdivider of Central Gardens and many other tracts. This tract consists of 180 acres, 98 of which is being subdivided now.

MODERATE PRICES for HOMESITES

Prices of the large lot country homesites range from $400 to $650 with terms of 10% down and $10.00 per month including 6% (Six per cent) interest. A $10.00 deposit will be sufficient to secure your lot, the balance of 10% in 30 days will give you a contract payable $10.00 (Ten dollars) per month at a bank. Title insurance furnished by a reputable Title Company.

DIRECTIONS: HOW TO GET THERE

Go out North Figueroa, turn to left at Last Tunnel (See sign "Riverside Drive") Stay on Riverside Drive past Griffith Park; cross Lockheed Airplane Factory to San Fernando Blvd., then stay on Highway 88, through the town of San Fernando. When you get to Castaic Junction or Tips Cafe; go straight North on 99 approximately 2 (two) miles, then turn to right off Highway, where you will see a sign "Banks Terrace"; then only a few hundred feet to sub-division.

FREE BUS TRANSPORTATION

Sunday Morning 10:00 A.M. 1948 — LEAVING OFFICE AT 4922 SOUTH CENTRAL.

Public Fight Rises On Mundt Bill

Organizations and individuals are becoming loud in their protests against the drastic Mundt bill, popularly known by the name of its sponsor, Rep. Karl E. Mundt, Republican of South Dakota, and a member of the Un-American Activities Committee.

Officially titled "The Subversive Activities Control Act, 1948," this bill is "a bill to protect the United States against un-Ameri-

Santa Monica NAACP Head, Post Office Employee Dismissed

Frank Barnes, president of the Santa Monica Bay Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, stated today that his dismissal last week from the Santa Monica Post Office for "disloyalty" will be challenged by the NAACP. Attorney Loren Miller, who represented the NAACP at the U. S. Supreme Court hearing which led to the recent decision against legal support for race restrictive covenants, will represent Barnes.

The NAACP has been leading a picket demonstration on Friday nights since last November 14 in protest against refusal of the Sears Roebuck & Co. store in Santa Monica to employ Negroes as sales clerks and elsewhere in the store on the basis of ability. Barnes is charged with enlisting the support of "subversive" groups in the picketing of the store.

The Santa Monica Bay Branch of the NAACP will hold a public meeting on the suspension order and the Sears campaign, Tuesday, May 25, at 8 p.m. in the Calvary Social Hall, 1907 20th street Santa Monica. NAACP Regional Director Noah W. Griffin of San Francisco and Attorney Miller will be the principal speakers.

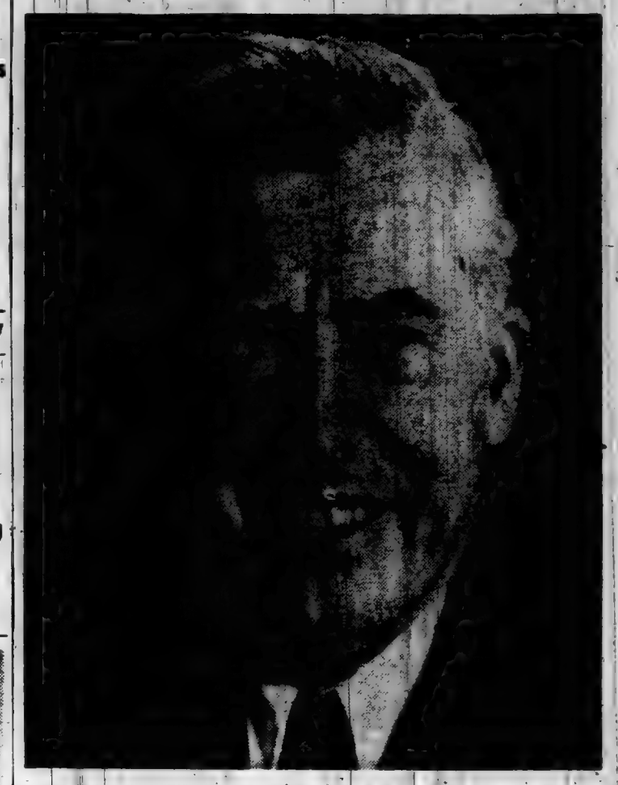
George Cannady Appointed Asst. U. S. States Attorney

Attorney George E. Cannady, brilliant young barrister of this city, was this week appointed to the office of Assistant United States Attorney.



Young Cannady, who resides at 1209 South Arlington Avenue, and has law offices at 2902 South Western Avenue, has established an enviable record for himself in a few short years.

Having attended public school in Portland, Oregon, Mr. Cannady went on to further his education at Willamette University, Salem, Oregon, from which institution he became the first Negro ever to graduate. Following this he received his L.L.B. from Howard University, Washington, D.C., and went on to graduate from the Forrest Cool Law Service of Los Angeles.

In addition to his law, Mr. Cannady has been engaged in the real estate business in Los Angeles since 1940, and is at present the president of the Golden West Real Estate Board.

Negro Youth Sue Greyhound For $70,000

George Edgar Wallace and John Wesley Grant, both of Chicago, filed suits totaling $70,000 against the Greyhound Corporation.

These youth allege in their complaint, which was filed in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Illinois, Monday, May 3, by their attorney, William Henry Huff, of 520 E. 35th st., that they purchased tickets at Detroit, Mich., Dec. 13, 1947, to Clarksdale, Miss., and that when they reached the neighborhood of Covington, Ky., a bus driver—agent, servant and employe of the Greyhound Corporation—approached Wallace in a menacing manner and said, "Get to the back seat where niggers belong."

They also allege that another Greyhound bus driver brandished an ax and said, "If either of you resist I will kill you with this ax"; that they were unlawfully, maliciously and falsely caused to be arrested by the Kentucky authorities, lodged overnight in a dingy jail at Covington, Ky., and fined by a justice of the peace.

One of the boys alleges that he was compelled to pawn or sell his overcoat and other valuables in order to pay the fine, and by reason of which has suffered an impairment in health. The other alleges that he was almost immediately hospitalized as a result of the treatment received at the hands of the company employes. They were recommended to Attorney Huff by an ex-member of the Illinois state legislature.

THE MUNDT BILL

As one who assumes the responsibility of trying to develop an enlightened public opinion on its behalf, I am interested in the Mundt-Nixon Police State bill now in the House.

So few people seem to sense the underlying motive of the bill. The newspapers which keep us frightened about some enemy nation's intent to overthrow our government, have said practically nothing about this police state bill.

There is no question in my mind but that the Negro people will be among the first to feel the sting from the master's lash. As a matter of fact I experienced a taste of this week, even before this drastic measure has assurance of passage.

I had been invited to speak before a student gathering at the East Los Angeles City College Tuesday. A few hours before my scheduled appearance I was called, and notified not to come.

It seems that the faculty felt that I was too much on the radical side to discuss race prejudice with college students.

Be that as it may, I am right on speaking out racial prejudice and [illegible] practiced against my people and other despised minorities as long as breath remains in my body.

I know that some of my own people feel—as also do those who throw decayed fruit at Averil Bermin and this writer—that we should keep our mouths closed on issues and utterances that offend Jack Tenney, J.

Claudia Jonas Urges People To Keep On Fighting; Scores Police State Bill

"Fight! And keep on fighting!"

This was the message Claudia Jones, chairman of the National Women's Commission of the Communist Party, left with the people in Los Angeles both in a meeting that crowded the Embassy auditorium to capacity and in a press conference the next morning in the Clark hotel.

Commenting on the recent decision of the United States Supreme Court that restrictive covenants are unconstitutional and therefore cannot be enforced by any court, but that nevertheless people can enter into covenants among themselves as to whom they will rent or sell their property, she said:

"That decision is, of course, a cause for rejoicing. But we mustn't be too hilarious. There are too many loopholes in a decision like that to feel we can rest on our oars. We have been given another implement to fight with. It's a splendid piece of warfare. But we must use it."

The Mundt-Nixon bill which would ostensibly outlaw the Communist Party, but in reality hold the shadow of prison walls over the head of every progressive individual, is the most dangerous piece of legislation that Congress has attempted to pass in years, in Miss Jones opinion.

St. Louis Man Looking For Children in L.A.

Mr. Weathers is of the opinion that the children were spirited away from St. Louis last January 27, by Jay D. Turner, operator of the Reliable Detective Service, 4473 Enright St., St. Louis.

Keyes Held for Manslaughter

Policeman William Keyes who shot and killed Augustine Salcido, Mexican youth, on March 10, will be tried for manslaughter June 16, in Superior Court Dept. 41. This is the ruling of Judge Thomas Ambrose who presided at the preliminary hearing.

This is believed to be the first time a policeman has been held on a criminal charge for killing a Mexican-American.

DISTRAUGHT HUSBAND—Lensman Howard Morehead caught Tony D. Higsey examining the broken windshield of his car. He was stopped by police officers when they thought that bullet-holes had shattered the windshield. To their surprise they learned that the holes were the markings of Higsey's wife.

Angry Wife Puts Hammer Holes in Hubby's New Car

Riding along thinking of troubles, more troubles came to Tory D. Higsby of 200 West Vernon avenue. He was stopped at 40th place and Central, Tuesday afternoon when policemen discovered the windshield of his '41 Buick covered with bullet-like holes.

Higsby told officers that his recently purchased car had been damaged by his wife, who, in anger, had broken the glass with a hammer. Looking over Higsby's record, it was found that a warrant was out for his arrest for failure to pay a traffic fine.

Police officer Angel of the Accident Investigation department said that there are many people in this area who are failing to appear for traffic violations.

Parnell Thomas and the Un-American Committee.

And this leads me back to the question of what should be our position on this Mundt-Nixon police state bill?

Without any doubt the objective of this bill is to destroy what freedom we now enjoy.

Freedom of speech, freedom of press, and freedom of worship are the pillars supporting the foundation upon which our Democracy was built and rests now.

But today we are witnessing thought earthquakes that rock and even threaten to destroy this citadel of our Democracy.

Every American willing to face facts knows that the Un-American Activities Committee has brushed aside the real evils that threaten the peace, and instead is making an all-out attack on the people and the issues united in the struggle to establish a friendly relationship with our European neighbors, and to destroy such Fascist elements and uprisings as anti-Semitic and anti-Negro in the government.

Not content with the fine job of creating confusion and building fear in the hearts and minds of many of the American people on the Communist scare hugaboo, the Un-American Activities Committee is now attempting to broaden its scope of attack on the people's constitutional rights by establishing a police state through this Mundt bill.

Mr. Common Man, you have neither read nor heard much about the Mundt bill. I say to the Negro people, if you cherish the small portion of freedom which you now enjoy, wire your Congressman demanding that he or she vote against the Mundt-Nixon bill.

If you live in the 14th Congressional District, Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas is your representative.

Wire NOW. According to schedule the bill is to come before the House Thursday, today. After only a few hours' debate, it will be voted on perhaps today, or the latest tomorrow, Friday. It is to be rushed through, so the people will not have a chance to write their Congressmen what they wish.)

GOV. WRIGHT ORDERS NEGROES OUT

An invitation to abide by the rules of segregation or get out of the state was the way Gov. Wright put it to Mississippi Negroes this week.

"I am your friend," Wright told the Negroes, who make up half of Mississippi's population.

But he warned that nothing the President or Congress could do would end segregation in the state.

"With all frankness," he said, "I must tell you that regardless of any recommendation of President Truman, despite any law passed by Congress, and no matter what is said to you by the many associations claiming to represent you, there will continue to be segregation between the races in Mississippi.

"If any of you have become so deluded as to want to enter our white schools, patronize our hotels and cafes, enjoy social equality with the whites, then true kindness and true sympathy requires me to advise you to make your homes in some other state."

Councilman Hahn Secures Vital New Traffic Lites

This week Councilman Kenneth Hahn was informed by the Street Traffic Engineer that his request for traffic signals along Long Beach Boulevard was approved and the work should be started in the very near future to put traffic signals at 55th Street, 48th Street, Vernon Avenue, 41st St. and other important intersections along Long Beach Boulevard.

Councilman Hahn is also glad to announce that in the near future there will be one-way traffic on each side of the Pacific Electric right-of-way, enabling safe and fast movement of traffic.

The Councilman of the 8th District is interested and is fighting for adequate safety devices in this area. He already has secured many traffic signals at dangerous intersections and has as his program to offer more safety and traffic signals to the people of the Southeast.

In the very near future he hopes that Alameda will have traffic signals on the dangerous corners, cooperating with the City of Vernon.

The Councilman warns the district to plan to notice the one-way routing of traffic on the streets and also the installation of new traffic signals on these dangerous corners.

Discovery Aids The Mentally Retarded Child

Directors of several schools for retarded children claim that the use of Glutamic Acid, given under direction of a physician in connection with classroom work, has resulted in raising the I.Q. of mentally retarded children from one to seven years within a six months' period.

A few children at Frances Williams' School for retarded children are now using this acid with striking results.

This school, which is non-segregated and non-profiting, is operating at 249 East Vernon Avenue.

Sickness and Its Causes

(NOTE: These articles are true and authentic and are run as a public service for you and your family. Additional articles will be added from time to time. Study them and keep them for a family reference.) Don't be discouraged. Read what this famous doctor says:

ARTHRITIS: "Mild attacks of muscular rheumatism may occur when subjected to exposure of cold, when the circulation of fluids in the body becomes congested and the elimination of toxins retarded. The congestion may occur in the muscles, and in such cases the trouble is called 'muscular rheumatism.' This condition may exist for years, with varying attacks of shooting pains and soreness of the muscles, until finally the congestion of toxins locates in some joint of the body. The fingers and toes are usually affected first, but it often spreads to the elbows and shoulders, and in this stage is called 'articular rheumatism.'

"If the disease is not arrested at this stage, the soreness spreads to the hips, and finally to the spine. In this latter stage it is most serious. Every effort must be exerted by the patient to attempt to keep the inflammation from developing to this dangerous point. If the rheumatism in the joints continues, the body will throw out a liquid lime formation which will solidify around the joint, apparently in an attempt by the body to protect the joints against the irritation of acid toxins in the blood. This produces enlargement of the joints, twisting them out of shape, and producing a disease called 'arthritis deformans.'

"The muscular form of rheumatism is usually to be found in the lower back, over the lumbar section of the spine, where it is called 'lumbago,' or in the muscles attached to the ribs, in which case it is called 'intercostal neuralgia.' If the inflammation extends to the nervous system, and deposits of irritating material accumulate around the nerve trunks, it will develop the disease commonly called 'sciatica' or 'neuritis.' Real neuritis is an inflammation of the nerve cells, and is a very rare disease, but rheumatism of the nerves of the arm is so often called neuritis, that I am simply referring to this form of the trouble by the name under which it commonly passes.

"One of the principal causes of rheumatism is toxemia produced from the fermentation of an excess of carbohydrate foods, or from poison generated by fermentation when these foods are used in wrong combinations.

"In addition to the toxic condition of the blood being a cause of sciatica, it will be found that a certain amount of pressure is being exerted upon the nerves going to the legs by an impacted feces in the rectum, or by the pressure of gas on one or the other or on both sides of the colon. If a tumor exists in the womb this may be an irritating cause of pains in the legs because of the pressure exerted upon the pelvic nerves. If the gas pockets in the colon exist only on one side, it will be noted that there is a poor circulation in the leg on that particular side, often enough to produce sciatic pain."

FEMALE DISORDERS: "Many women suffer from genital derangements. There is undoubtedly no class of disorder which has so far-reaching an effect upon the nervous system as derangement of the genital organs. Chief among the irritating sources are:

"1st. A sluggish state of the blood stream which is productive of congestion in the womb and ovaries, and creates an engorged state which interferes with the normal functioning of these organs.

"2nd. The pressure of prolapsed abdominal viscera upon the reproductive organs and the distension and irritation of intestinal gas.

"3rd. Repression of the normal instincts and function through psychological resistance, physical malformation, or misplaced position of organs.

"4th. Rectal disorders, Piles, Hemorrhoids.

"In each individual case you may look for one or more of the above causes, which must be removed if the patient is to enjoy perfect health. The digestive disorders may be corrected through proper attention and the prolapsus caused by weakened muscles of the abdomen may be overcome through development of muscular tone.

"Women who suffer are unhappy. They reflect their entire attitude and in many instances destroy the happiness of their home and family. Those who suffer from painful, scanty, irregular, or profuse periods—uterine fibroids; prolapsed, sagging or misplaced organs; childless, complexes — you would do well to take steps to correct the cause immediately.

"It is impossible to estimate the amount of evil caused by an engorged colon (pot-belly), monopolizing several times its allotted space, crowding and hampering other organs in their work."

HEADACHE: "The cause of headache seldom can be found in the head itself, but must be understood to be the symptom of some other disorder located in another part of the body, which affects the nerves in the head by reflex action. If the ache seems back of the eyes, it is either caused by constipation or eyestrain. If the ache occurs only on sunny days it indicates suitable glasses should be worn. If not manifested in this way, you may expect that constipation is the cause, and often you will find a pressure in the rectum of impacted feces.

"BILIOUS TICK" headache is accompanied by nausea, and can only be cured when biliousness is overcome. Anemia produces a peculiar dizzy feeling in the head, and will persist until the proper changes are made in the blood. Low blood pressure headache is caused by fatigue. High blood pressure headache is usually evidenced by a feeling of pressure around the head, as if a band of iron were being drawn tightly round the skull. Headache at the top of the head is caused by some disorder of the bladder.

"The form least understood is that which occurs at the base of the brain, and is always brought on by uterine congestion. The principal causes of this congestion in women are troubles of menstruation, prolapsed uterus, constipation (which makes pressure against the uterus), and congestion in the womb.

"MIGRAINE is a form of headache which makes habitual visits at certain definite times. I have never treated a case which could not be cured by the methods used in the ordinary form of headache. Cases of many years' standing, which have resisted all medicinal remedies used, are often cured as quickly as an ordinary bilious headache."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M.D., eminent physician, says:

"The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time; nor is the testimony in its favor confined to the laity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

George Cannady

with Attorney Earl Broady from December 1947 until February 1948.

Cannady is very active in progressive civic affairs, being the vice president of the Association for the Abolition of Second Class Citizenship, a member of the Westside Chamber of Commerce, the Vermont and Jefferson Business Men's Association, the Century Club of the Y.M.C.A., The Pacific Town Club, Guardian Lodge No. 50 of the Masons, Alpha Phi Alpha Fraternity, and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He is the son of Edward Daniel Cannady, who edited and published the "Advocate," the first Negro newspaper in the Pacific Northwest. His mother, Beatrice Morrow Cannady, was very active in social and civic movements in the State of Oregon and personally made the whole Pacific Northwest section aware of the great cultural gifts of the Negro, thus promoting better race relations. She was the first Negro woman attorney in Oregon. She is now the owner and manager of Hu's dress shop at 3512 South Western Avenue.

MAKES APP'T. — Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas this week appointed Attorney George Cannady to the office of Asst. U. S. Attorney. (see story)

Attorney Cannady was married to Camille Roane of Los Angeles in 1941.

During his school days he was very active in athletics. He was a four year letterman in track and football at Grant High School in Portland; a four year letterman in track and football at Willamette University. He also received many scholastic honors. He was a senior scholar in Political Science at Willamette University, a member of Pi Gamma, National Honorary Social Science Society, and Salutatorium of his graduating class there. He was also Salutatorium of his graduating class at Howard University Law School, and received a scholarship from both Willamette and Howard Universities.

While he is engaged in the United States Attorney's office, his private practice will continue with the assistance of his associate, Mr. Edward S. Hardwick.

Prudential Home Loan Squeeze Demands Support of New Co. in East L. A. Community

B. B. Bratton, president of Carver National Life Insurance Company, views the lifting of racial curbs on property as a boom for sound and legitimately-operated property loan facilities.

He pointed to the increasing tightening up of loans extended to Negro home buyers which began long before the Supreme Court decision that outlawed restrictive covenants last week. For one reason or another, even veterans who were to all appearances entitled to loans, found such long delays and red tape "that many were discouraged altogether."

Bratton, who as a certified public accountant is known throughout the state for his business acumen, supervised the auditing of $500,000,000 worth of accounts for the state during his office with the Board of Equalization.

His private office handles accounts for Eastside business and professional men, alone, that run into three-quarters of a million dollars annually. With deep conviction, Bratton declared that the California home owner needs to look more favorably upon racially-owned building-loan and insurance companies for their financing.

"One of the main reasons why the newly-organized Carver National Life Insurance Company is stressing the purchase of its remaining capital stock," he explains, "is to enable us to use our assets for assistance in this regard.

"The current building boom has not reached the prospective Negro home owner—who is the worst housed and the most exploited—as it should, mainly due to financing bottlenecks. The lifting of restrictions will ease matters very little unless we have access to financing as have other investors.

"Carver Life Insurance Company is a step towards creating a new source of financial assistance, once it begins operation according to our plans. But we need immediate public support in completing the sale of our capital stock before this goal can be reached," Bratton declared.

An intensive stock sales campaign is under way at the Carver National Life Insurance headquarters, 2514½ S. Central ave. Shares in the company are priced at $20. When fully paid, they are non-assessable and can be used as collateral or resold by the owner.

A certificate of Carver stock carries with it partial ownership in the company and voting privileges. The company is a state corporation with an authorized capital of $500,000.

Prominent Easterners File On Third Party Ticket

Many prominent Negro leaders are counted among those filing for Congress on the new Wallace Party ticket across the country, a cursory survey this week revealed.

Included are Magistrate Joseph H. Rainey of Philadelphia, Dr. John E. T. Camper of Baltimore, Maryland, Dr. Ulysses Campbell of New Jersey, and Margaret Bush Wilson in Missouri. In California, the new Independent Progressive Party has nominated seven prominent Negroes for Congressional posts.

New Party forces are nominating their own candidates for Congress only in those districts where voters are provided no choice between equally reactionary old party candidates, national Wallace headquarters has announced.

Magistrate Rainey, New Party candidate in Philadelphia's 4th Congressional District, is President of the Philadelphia NAACP. He served as State Athletics Commissioner from 1935 to 1938, and as Magistrate since 1938. He is a grandson of one of the first Negro Congressman in the U. S. —Joseph H. Rainey of South Carolina.

Dr. John E. T. Camper, Wallace Party candidate for Congress in Baltimore, Maryland's 4th Congressional District, is a 54 year old practicing physician a veteran of World War I, a draft board physician in World War II, and a co-chairman of the Progressive Party of Maryland.

Announcing his acceptance of the New Jersey Wallace Party designation for Congress, Campbell declared: "Wallace, the man who risked his political career at the '44 Democratic Convention to demand full equality for the Negro people, is our only hope."

NMU Now Taking Vote

"The National Council of the National Maritime Union of America, CIO, which met in New York April 21st to April 29th, after planning the Union's policy of mobilization for possible strike when present contracts expire on June 15th, recessed until results are received on a membership strike referendum.

Between the biennial National Conventions of the National Maritime Union, the National Council, consisting of National Officers, National Directors, Port Committee members, and agents from seventeen ports, acts as the governing body of the Union.

The Council unanimously voted to issue a Strike Call Referendum to the membership. Voting on this referendum takes place from May 1st through May 30th in all of the Union's branches. Members will vote whether they want to go out on strike, if necessary, to maintain the union rotary hiring hall, to win a wage increase, and to improve the manning scales, working rules, and other contract provisions.

The shipowners' counter-proposals in current negotiations call for the complete elimination of the union hiring hall, no wage increase now and no wage review clause in the contract, revision of working rules to eliminatet overtime payments, and a set of "management perogatives" which would give the employers sole right to set manning scales, transfer men from ship to ship, lay off, suspend, or fire crew members at will.

Foreign Program Band Concert

TALLAHASSEE, Fla.—The Foreign Language division of the Florida A. and M. College gave a program in French and Spanish in the Lee Hall auditorium.

The offerings consisted of songs and dances from French and Spanish speaking countries as well as playlets. The program ended with remarks by Dr. John Carter, head of the foreign language departments who expressed gratification over the responses accorded the performers.

Dr. Carter and the members of his staff, Miss Ruth Everett and Miss Azilee Kimbrew, of the French department, and Mr. Herman Hudson, assistant professor of Spanish, are to be congratulated on the splendid work they are doing in languages at Florida A. and M. College.

Under the dynamic leadership of William P. Foster, the Florida A. and M. College Band presented the second concert of the season in Lee Hall auditorium Monday evening, May 3. The program was composed primarily of request numbers.

The first movement of Grieg's famous A Minor Concerto was played by John Carter at the piano. Young Carter, who incidentally is only 16 years of age, revealed a tremendous technique and a maturity of interpretation that was little short of astonishing.

Plastic Surgery Aid For Delinquents

Civic officials and representatives of community organizations met at the Town House last week to formulate plans for activating the Children's Plastic Surgery Foundation. The Foundation, which will work in conjunction with all organizations handling children, such as the Crippled Children's Hospital, Welfare agencies, etc., plans to use plastic surgery in the combating of juvenile delinquency.

The committee agreed that such an agency has long been needed, because facial and bodily defects often make children the target of ridicule, and result in psychological unbalance which easily leads to delinquency.

Dr. Simon Schroeder, prominent Los Angeles plastic surgeon, and one of the founders of the Children's Plastic Surgeon Foundation, offered to donate his office and services two days a week for such work.

"I hope other surgeons will see the importance of giving their time to this important project," Dr. Schroeder stated. "If we can save but one child out of a hundred and return him to normal living, we will have accomplished enough to repay us for our time."

Att'y. Maynard J. Omerberg

Candidate for Congress from the 15th District, Maynard J. Omerberg is basing his campaign on the Henry Wallace program of "Peace, Progress and Prosperity."

A 30-year-old attorney, Omerberg is running on the Independent Progressive Party and has cross-filed Democratic. He has been endorsed by the IPP, the Progressive Citizens of America, the Los Angeles CIO Political Action Committee, the Railroad Brotherhood and many other liberal and progressive organizations and individuals.

Since graduating from the University of Wisconsin, he has represented many labor unions, and has served as a special agent for the U. S. Department of Labor. Married, and a resident of Los Angeles for six years, he has been admitted to the bar in Wisconsin and California.

Omerberg is opposed to the European Recovery Program (Marshall Plan) as now constituted, but is in favor of an overall relief and rehabilitation program under the United Nations. He is opposed to monopoly control of the United States and world economy, restrictive covenants, UMT, the Draft, and the 'Police State Bill' now before Congress.

His program calls for a peaceful settlement of our differences with Russia without the loss of American honor or integrity, full employment, the repeal of the Taft-Hartley Bill and for control or runaway prices.

LaFrance Business College Instructor Commends Two Outstanding Local Leaders

Miss Lemie P. Fortson, instructor in the secretarial department at the LaFrance Business college, congratulates two of California's outstanding figures in the persons of Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass on the occasion of the many years of services as publisher of the California Eagle, and Atty. Loren Miller on the recent victory won in Washington, D. C., settling the problem of race restrictive covenants.

The state of California should pride itself in producing some of the nation's most outstanding top representatives of the people. I should like to single out two such representatives, the endeavors of whom I have followed for some considerable time.

Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, who for many years has done such a commendable service in the field of publication, and who has doubled her services by using publication facilities in her possession to stage and fight the battle for equal rights in so many fields of endeavor, has also given years as a public servant to whom anyone could go and freely discuss problems and hardships to which she found solutions in many cases and gave assistance in others, mattered not how infinitesimal or how great the cause.

During the time that I have kept abreast with her activities, I have had the occasion to talk with people old and young, great and small, here and elsewhere, who have at some point turned to Mrs. Bass and the California Eagle for help or consideration on almost every conceivable occasion and almost every type of circumstance, and never a time has one said to me that she was too busy or otherwise occupied to listen attentively to their story. Once she is convinced that it is right she is willing to make a total sacrifice for its promotion. No one could fight a harder battle or stand any more firmly by what one believes than the California Eagle's Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, "a great listener and a positive actor."

The recent victory scored by Atty. Loren Miller and associates in Washington, D. C., is one of the greatest contributions that could have been made to any people at any time. When I say people, I do not narrow the word to that of Negroes alone, for this magnificent fight and those years of precedential struggles so gallantly braved by our own hero representative of the people opened a door heretofore tightly closed against many, but now, whosoever finds himself in need of the enforcement of the rights set forth in the 14th Amendment may benefit by this decision.

Miller has worked and fought hard and long for this decision and his efforts and victories will rightfully be recorded in history as one of the greatest services ever done the minority groups of the United States of America.

The accomplishments of our fearless fighters for the prevailing of justice everywhere can and should be applauded by the public through seeking more information about the work in general and by making ourselves available to render service wherever we can and by becoming supporting members of such organizations as the NAACP, the Urban League, and the Home Protective Association. A greater move in that direction will assure all of our great leaders that we are grateful for their services.

NEW YORK CITY—Negro life insurance companies gave generously to last year's fund-raising campaign of the United Negro College Fund, it was announced this week by W. J. Trent, Jr., Executive Director of the Fund. This statement by the Executive Director comes as a prelude to the approaching National Negro Insurance Week, May 10 to 15.

According to Mr. Trant, 26 of the 52 companies belonging to the National Negro Insurance Association contributed to the Fund. With 32 accredited Negro colleges participating in affiliation, the Fund raises more than one million dollars a year, which goes to aid its member schools in meeting operating costs and providing scholarship aid for deserving students.

"Our life insurance companies," stated Mr. Trent, "are our biggest businesses. The Fund finds it quite signifcant that these solid companies consider it wise to assist Negro education, and we are grateful for their support in the big job which the Fund is doing."

Eastside Shocked By Rape Outrage

LOS ANGELES, (NPB) — Joseph Jones 30-year-old parolee from San Quentin prison, was ordered held to answer charges of rape and assault in Superior Court, when he made his appearance here Thursday in Division 3 of the Municipal court for preliminary examination. He was accused of having beaten and roped 40-year-old Lilly Pearl Hobson, late the evening of April 25 after she left a bar with an escort.

Mrs. Hobson's accusations directed at Jones, proved most shocking and revolting. A crowded courtroom heard the testimony during the preliminary examination last Thursday, as witnesses for the defense and prosecution related circumstances leading up to the outrage.

Attorney Walter L. Gordon, Jr., appearing for the accused Jones, excercised every ounce of his legal skill in his attempt to win freedom for his client. Most of the testimony introduced to the court in an attempt to support Mrs. Hobson's charges, failed to identify Jones definitely as the woman's attacker.

Sidney Marshall, who accompanied Mrs. Hobson as she left the Jack Pot Cafe and Bar, on S. San Pedro street, the night of the attack, and who himself, had been assaulted and robbed by two men, told the court he was unable to postively identify Jones as his assailant.

A large portion of the testimony introduced at the preliminary, tended to show Mrs. Hobson was addicted to heavy drinking. A bartender at the bar told the court the woman was drunk, and that he had refused to sell her anymore drinks just prior to her leaving and the subsequent attack. Lafayette Nelson, a friend of both Mrs. Hobson and the accused Jones, testified that Mrs. Hobson confided to him the day after the attack, that she did not know who had raped her.

The preliminary was further heightened when Attorney Gordon produced photographs showing Mrs. Hobson at the same bar she frequented on the night of the attack taken the day before. The court set May 22nd for Jones' appearance for arraignment in Department 45 of the Superior Court.

Street Brawl Death Ruled Manslaughter

PASADENA (NPB)—The street brawl that ended tragically in death for 33-year-old slightly-built Floyd Finley Smith the night of February 16 at Dayton and Fair Oaks ave., will result in one of the participants, Ernest Frank Parks, standing trial for manslaughter. A Pasadena municipal court judge ruled that the injuries sustained by Smith which resulted in his death on March 5, was manslaughter and in denying Parks' lawyer's plea for a dismissal of the charges on the grounds of insufficient evidence to support the case, ordered the defendant to stand trial in superior court on June 3.

Atty. Walter L. Gordon Jr. and his associate, Atty. Vince Monroe Townsend, made a brilliant plea on behalf of their client in an effort to have the case dismissed at the preliminary examination.

Parks, it was disclosed, had engaged in a wine-drinking argument, involving the deceased Smith and another man. During the fight that followed, both Smith and the other man were knocked unconscious by Parks. Parks was arrested and convicted on an assault on the other man.

Following the death of Smith on March 5, Parks was arrested on March 11 and charges of murder lodged against him. Last April 9 during a preliminary examination, the charges of murder were reduced to that of manslaughter. At the same time, arguments advanced by Atty. Townsend that his client had already been in jeopardy and therefore should not be compelled to again stand trial, was overruled by the court.

Henry Wallace to Speak In Los Angeles Sunday

Henry A. Wallace will return to Los Angeles Sunday, May 16, to speak to the people of Southern California from the Gilmore Stadium.

The new party's Presidential candidate will speak on "An American Program for Peace" almost a year to the day of his last appearance here which drew an overflow crowd of 28,000 supporters. Wallace's address will be the first here since he assumed leadership of the nationwide movement to form a new party, and will precede the party's first national convention which has been set for July 24-25 in Philadelphia. Since Wallace's last tour of California in May, 1947, his supporters gathered almost half a million signatures to qualify the Independent Progressive Party for a place on the ballot.

The IPP and the Progressive Citizens of American, which first endorsed Wallace's independent candidacy, are sponsoring the May 16th rally, supported by trade unions, church, students' and community organizations, and the entire Wallace movement in Los Angeles.

"The American traditions of free speech and free assembly, and historic opposition to sabre-rattling militarism and devastating wars profitable to a handful will keynote the occasion," said Mrs. Ruth Slade, coordinator of the rally. "That is why it will take place on May 16, 'I am an American day', the day set aside for the observation of American ideals."

Tickets for the rally are priced at the California Eagle, 4071 S. Central ave., and all PCA and IPP chapters, and by calling MA. 1784.

DRINKS MAKE HER EASY PREY FOR RAPISTS. According to frequenters and employes of the Jack Pot Cafe and bar, no one would ever dream that a convivial scene like the one above, enacted practically every evening by scores of patrons, could end in such near tragic incidence, as that experienced by Mrs. Lillie Pearl Hobson, 40 (left facing camera) when she left the bar the night of April 25. The woman was badly beaten, raped by two men, and her clothing hurled atop a building. A male companion with her was also beaten and robbed. Bar hangerson said Mrs. Hobson was intoxicated when she left the cafe.

Says Anti-Semitism On The Increase

A "very real" increase in prejudice, resulting in unfriendly acts, social restrictions and economic and educational discrimination against Jews, is disclosed by the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith in its annual survey of anti-Semitism in the United States, released today.

The nationwide study, covering the 1947 period, was made public by Jacob Grumet, national chairman and Arnold Forster, director of the League's Civil Rights Division. It analyzes and evaluates the trend of anti-Semitism in all sections of the United States, coordinating reports received from trained field observers.

While Americans overwhelmingly rejected association with professional anti-Semites, and there was less "organized" anti-Semitic activity than in previous years, the public nonetheless "exhibited a disturbing lack of insight into and an unthinking acceptance of the activities of less overt bigots who, under cloaks of respectability, spread hatred of Jews," the survey declared.

It noted that there was "no wide denunciation" or "expressions of resentment" by the American community where "obvious acts of an anti-Semitic nature were prompted by the 'gentleman's agreement' type of bigotry—an unfortunate trend on the American scene."

A-D League Hails U. S. Court Decision

The recent U. S. Supreme Court decision on racial covenants was "a milestone in our long road to make the Bill of Rights a reality," said Benjamin R. Epstein, national director of the Anti-Defamation League, in an address before the 500 delegates gathered for the 35th anniversary conference of the League in the Wilshire Boulevard conference last Friday.

But, said Mr. Epstein, it is urgent for "America to achieve full employment, full housing, and educational opportunities for all before the efforts to erase intolerance can have significance."

"Encroachment on the rights of any minority in America is an attack on the rights of all minorities," is the major premise upon which the next year's program will be established, it was decided.

Neier Steinbrink, State Supreme Court Justice of New York, spoke of the danger of the United Nations failing if the independent Jewish state is further throttled through behind-the scenes propaganda. Governor Earl Warren said it was the job of all Americans to suppress intolerance wherever it "rears its ugle head."

Awards were given to the following Americans for having contributed the most to America's democratic legacy: Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt for her work as delegate to the Commission on Human Rights of the UN; Barney Balaban for his work in connection with the Freedom Train; Dore Schary, RKO vice-president, for his motion pictures containing messages of high social import; Darryl Zanuck, for his film "Gentlemen's Agreement;" and Charles E. Wilson, president General Electric Co., and chairman of the President's Committee on Civil Rights.

Justice Steinbrink was re-elected national chairman of the League for his third term; Barney Balaban, honorary vice-chairman; and Atty. I. B. Benjamin, of Los Angeles, vice-chairman.

Mendel Silberberg, Hollywood attorney, was chairman of the West Coast host committee.

Wife Charges Bang Tails Broke Up Home

After 21 years of married life, comely Mrs. Mamie Fortier, 2198 West 29th place, was awarded a decree of divorce from her husband, Leonell Fortier, well known post office employee, in Department 3 of the Superior Court last Friday morning.

Under the questioning of her Attorney Curtis C. Taylor, Mrs. Fortier testified that in his declining years her husband has become a gay Lothario, over fond of sports and particularly horse races. She testified that he was a constant loser at the races and at one time lost over $200 while neglecting his home and three beautiful daughters, Janice, Francine, and Tanis Fortier, two of whom were anxious to pursue college courses after they finished high school.

She told the Court that Fortier refused to contribute to the education of his children and they were forced to work to pay their tuition. She was awarded the furniture and the exclusive right to occupy the home. The husband was ordered to vacate within 30 days. He was also ordered to pay for the support of his minor daughters.

Jimmy Baskett

Long recognized as one of the leading Negro actors in America by critics and theater and stage-goers alike, James Baskett reached the pinnacle of success recently when he was awarded a special award and won his academy Oscar for his fine portrayal of the role, "Uncle Remus" in the Walt Disney picture "Song Of The South."

This makes an important transition in the career of the soft-spoken congenial and well-liked actor who five years ago caught the eye of the local public when, as leading actor of the Lincoln Theater stage shows, he appeared with the famous comedian, Pigmeat Markham. His rise in popularity and public fancy since then has been phenomenal as he has registered with startling success in pictures, stage and radio shows to become the undisputed King of the Negro actors.

Baskett has also appeared on the Amos and Andy radio show and was offered a long term contract but had to cancel a few dates because of ill health. However, he is again feeling in the pink and is being spoken of as the possible portrayal of "De Lawd" in a proposed re-issue of the film, Green Pastures." Although a newcomer to movies, Baskett is a veteran stage and radio actor.

Baskett was first hired only to do voices for the animals in the film, and his work caught the eye of the Director who immediately signed him for the starring "live" role of the picture. He is the second Negro to win one of the coveted "Oscars."

'Boy Supervisor' Likes His Job

Seventeen year old "Boy Supervisor" Jack Corrigan, who replaced Supervisor Leonard J. Roach on Tuesday in observance of Boys' Week, says he likes the job well enough to make it a career.

Jack, Fremont High senior, plans to attend University of California at Los Angeles where he will study law. On learning that Supervisor Roach is an attorney, he was assured that he is on the right track.

President of the student body at Fremont, young Corrigan is also ex-president of the Organized Social Service Clubs, is a member of the California Scholarship Federation, Boys' Court, Student Health Commission, Hi-Y, and is a Southern Council Red Cross officer and a winner of the Harvard Book Award.

Measles Increasing

Los Angeles has had more than twenty times as many measles cases so far this year than in 1947, Dr. H. C. Pulley, chief assistant city health officer, reported today.

The city reported 2,290 cases from New Year's Day to last Friday (April 30), as compared with 119 for the same period last year, Dr. Pulley said.

"The greatest danger for the child who gets measles is secondary infection. That's why immediate medical attention and considerable home care is necessary for the patient," the health official declared, adding:

"Children who have been exposed to a known measles case should be taken to their private family doctor within 5 days of exposure for a protective "shot" of immune serum to lessen or prevent the measles attack."

Robinson-Burns Bout Rumored

SYDNEY, Australia — Torrid Tommy Burns, Welterweight Champion of all Australia, will climb into the ring against Welterweight Champion of the World Ray "Sugar" Robinson, sometime next summer in the United States, according to a syndicated story which appeared in the Sydney Daily Mirror early this week.

In making the announcement of the Robinson-Burns go, the Mirror made no mention of a possible site or on contract terms. According to sources close to Burns however, it was asserted that the young welter would meet the Sugared One either at Chicago's Soldier Field, Cleveland's Municipial Stadium, or the Los Angeles Coliseum. Burns it is also asserted is to be guaranteed a "confortable sum" to tangle with the rocket armed Robinson.

Burns is regarded as the most promising fighter to come from "the land down under" since Tommy Burns; the old Tommy Burns who was Heavyweight Champ of the world until he lost it to Jack Johnson in 1908.

City Health Officer Urges Better Housing

Los Angeles must make long range plans for housing low income groups, or the city may eventually have one of the nation's worst slums, Dr. H. C. Pulley, chief assistant city health officer, said today.

"It would be far easier and less expensive to prevent the development of slums by careful advance planning than to try to correct them after they have developed into noxious problems," he said.

"What we do today in housing planning will determine the quality of housing for many years to come. Since low income groups usually get the lowest standards of housing available, we should make certain those standards are not conducive to the breeding of disease and crime now found in our poorer districts," the health official declared.

College Nixes Bid On Racial Ban

NEW YORK—SPECIAL—Manhattan College here has accepted an invitation to participate this week in the National Association of Intercollegiate Basketball in Kansas City, Mo. This decision was reached in view of the fact that Negro players will in the future be permitted to participate in the annual tournament.

Earlier, Manhattan had turned down an invitation to participate in the tournament when N.A.I.B. officials at Kansas City refused the college's request that the clause prohibiting the use of Negro players be rescinded from the tournament contract.

Manhattan does not have any Negro players on its squad, but the college administration felt that participation could be regarded as tactical endorsement of a condition that is in direct violation of Catholic principles of racial equality. The college is conducted under Catholic auspices by the Christian Brothers, Catholic Teaching Order.

NAACP Head Blasts Jimcrow Policies of AMA

Discrimination against Negroes and other minority groups in the medical profession became a major issue at The National Health Assembly, recently held in Washington, D. C.

On May 1, at the opening of the section on Medical Care, Walter White, raised the issue of Negro discrimination. He stated that there were two main bottlenecks which limited the number of Negroes who could enter the profession of medicine.

He asked what could be done about the American Medical Association's discrimination against Negroes in their association and in hospitals. He stated that 75 to 77 medical schools in the country barred Negroes as students, either through exclusion or through quota system.

White declared that doctors have responsibilities as citizens and that, if they are to command despect and gain financial support for schools, and other projects, they must live up to the nation's democratic ideals of citizenship, he declared that doctors should attack the two bottleneck problems of discrimination openly and unashamedly.

Dr. Howard Schriver, defending the American Medical Association, said that this discriminatory practice was not a matter of policy in the over-all body, but was the individual policy of state groups.

Edgar S. Browne Stricken Suddenly

Edgar S. Browne, known widely in local business circles and one of the originators of the Angel Bowl Football game was stricken with sudden illness while visiting Oakland last week. Browne, who was also first president of local Chapter of Phi Beta Sigma fraternity, had gone to Oakland for State Conference of American Woodmen. He was acting as business manager of the social club connected with Los Angeles Camp No. 2.

Miss Elizabeth Lewis, the contestant from the Camp's social club had just been crowned "Miss American Woodmen of California for 1948" when the club's manager complained of feeling badly in the Oakland City Auditorium. He was rushed to a hospital the following day. News from Oakland states that an emergency operation was performed.

The name of the hospital nor exact diagnosis of illness was not given in early reports from Oakland.

Important Musical Notes

Stan Kenton's interpretation of the old-timer, Peanut Vendor, finds his famous orchestra in an entirely new rhythmic mood. There is a Latin flavor throughout, a strong touch of progressive jazz stuffs subtly blended to maintain a popular type arrangement.

In a melody which is entitled Thermopolae, Stan Kenton, presents a number which is purely progressive jazz.

The title G-String Boogie by Alvino Rey and his Orchestra is concerned with the G-String of burlesque show fame.

The old classical number, "Anitra's Dance," finds a modern cloak in Alvino Rey's arrangement of what he has chosen to title Anitra's Boogie.

Leap Here is published by King Cole Music and gets a particularly notable treatment by the All Stars. Featured on this side are Dizzie Gillespie on trumpet, Bill Harris on trombone, Buddy DeFranco on clarinet, Flip Phillips on tenor saxophone, Nat Cole on piano, Billy Bauer on guitar, Eddie Safranski on bass, and Buddy Rich on drums. Each of these outstanding contemporary musicians has a featured spot on the record while the others continue the instrumental backgrounds.

Metronome Riff just about identifies itself by the title and the billing of Metronome All Star. It includes the eight musicians headed on the other side plus the entire Stan Kenton Band.

There is heart-thrilling emotional appeal in the lovely new ballad, I've Only Myself To Blame, as interpreted by the incomparable Nat "King" Cole and His Trio.

Fans of King Cole Trio will find something really different in The Geek. With the exception of a word or two here and there, the number is entirely instrumental.

That's What I Like is Julia Lee's own composition. Lyrically, it is in a double entendre groove which will bring chuckles to all and offend no one. One of the finest piano choruses yet heard by Julia is between vocals on this side.

Crazy World is a novelty song in which Julia laments the condition of things in general and winds up by pointing out that the world will be a great place when an atomic kiss is found.

Hitler-like Bill Would Establish Police State

Plans to scrap the Constitution and the Bill of Rights, and to place the life of every individual American under the rigid scrutiny and control of the FBI are now under way in Congress. Embodied in the Subversive Activities Control Act of 1948, soon to be presented by the House Un-American Committee, this sweeping Hitler-like legislation would establish the domination of the federal police over every phase of organization and individual activity—economic, political and social.

Under the screen of anti-red, war-mongering hysteria all the American people would be deprived of the basic democratic rights guaranteed by the United States Constitution. The proposed bill defines "communist conspiracy" in such vague and broad terms that no individual or organization that disagrees with government policy on any question, domestic or foreign, is safe from its reprisals.

In determining whether individuals or organizations are guilty of "communist conspiracy" as deceptively defined in this bill, the FBI becomes the combined accuser, judge, jury and court of appeal with arbitrary authority to destroy the organization and imprison the individual.

Low Cost of Garbage Envy of Netherlands

Los Angeles' garbage collection and disposal system is so good that the Netherlands Embassy at Washington has asked for details, Mayor Fletcher Bowron proudly said this week.

And in reply his honor wrote of the frequent collections — twice a week for residences, three times a week in apartment districts, and daily downtown—all at a net per capita cost of 42 cents a year.

Last year, the mayor said, the city picked up 217,854 tons of garbage, an average of 239 pounds per person, at a cost of $4.56 a ton, a total of about $900,000. But the city gets back $237,478 by selling this waste to hog farms.

Tin cans are heaved into ravines and swamps by other cities but not by Los Angeles, said the mayor. We flatten 'em and sell 'em to Arizona copper mines which melt them down and recover the copper. Even whole and broken bottles are sold.

What's Happening to Us?

While we rant, rip, and snort about the Communist invasion—let's stop long enough to see what is happening to us on the home front.

Read this government report on Housing, and decide for yourself what is happening on the home front.

The non-white population increased faster between 1940 and 1947 than the number of dwelling units it occupied. This was particularly true in urban areas, where the population rose by a third and the number of dwelling units for non-whites increased only a fourth. The result has been more doubling up and less space per person among the non-white population during this period.

In certain respects, the housing situation for non-whites showed improvement. The non-white population showed a greater proportionate increase in home ownership, reflecting in part improved incomes, and the relative condition of housing occupied by non-whites showed proportionately greater improvement than that for whites.

Even with this improvement, however, the report shows that non-whites are still below the level of whites, both in the quality of housing they live in and in the amount of space they occupy per person.

This is indicated by the fact that 15 percent of dwelling units occupied by non-whites had more than 1.5 persons per room, compared with only 4 percent for whites, and 12 percent of the non-white households consisted of seven or more persons, as compared with only 5 percent of the white households.

The proportion of dwelling units lacking one or more of modern facilities (i.e. electric lights and running water; flush toilet, bathtub, or shower; and installed cooking and heating equipment) was found to be about three times as large among non-whites as among whites.

Statistics on the income distribution of non-farm families and individuals show that approximately half of the non-whites had annual total money incomes of more than $1,600.00. For whites the halfway mark was $2,700.00. The comparable medians for nonfarm families were $1,800.00 for non-whites and $3,100.00 for whites.

So, what is happening to us at home, while we're raving about the Communists in Europe? What is happening? And where do we go from here?

A Solid Platform

The many splendid resolutions adopted by the National Wallace for President Committee, when combined in a fighting front, will form a solid political platform upon which the people of America can stand unafraid.

Here are just a few, presented as a foretaste to the feast of good things one may expect when the national convention of the Independent Progressive Party meets in Philadelphia and organizes definitely for the presidential election in November.

First and foremost is the resolution for world peace. "Our peace and our security and our traditional liberties are menaced by the fomenting of war hysteria. The American people are frightened into the belief that war is inevitable. War is not inevitable. The paths of peace are still open. They lead back to the United Nations."

Here are a few other planks: Support of FEPC, anti-poll tax legislation, anti-lynch legislation. Opposition to anti-labor, anti-progressive activities of the Administration; the hoodlumism organized by the Ku Klux Klan and kindred tions by local and state reaction; the organizations, the denial of free elec- Fascist danger which comes from the Committee of un-American Activities.

A pension of $100 per month for everyone 60 years of age or more.

And there's the National Students for Wallace Committee, whose principles will also be incorporated in the IPP platform. Those students want: a free high school and college education for all young people; the right to participate to the fullest extent in political affairs; and opposes any limitations on freedom of inquiry through such devices as book banning and censorship.

All this and much more will be combined in a living, workable organization in Philadelphia this summer. The delegates who attend that IPP convention are brimming over with enthusiasm. And they have convictions, deep-rooted, that will bring forth the platform for all the American people to stand upon.

Democrats Oppose Police State Bill

Members of the Democratic County Central Committee went on record at their meeting last Tuesday as being unqualifiedly opposed to the Mundt-Nixon House bill, which would virtually create a police state in the United States of America.

This bill, supposedly outlawing the Communist Party, would place a gag on the free speech of everyone in America, one speaker after another declared. It would defeat its own purpose by making Communists out of those who are working for the welfare of the people. It would make the Attorney General a dictator, since it would be he who would decide what constituted a "Communistic organization."

A scorching editorial from The New York Post, asking what had become of the liberal members of Congress, was read by Committee member McKay and upon motion was incorporated into the resolution condemning the Mundt-Nixon bill.

"It was a left to Vito Marcantonio, a 'Communist,' " and the editorial, "to organize resistance against this vicious legislation."

The resolution opposing the bill and urging all members of the House to vote and work against it, was wired at once to all members of Congress from Southern California.

This is heartening news to all who are working to keep America free, who are fighting with might and main to prevent the threatening cloud of Fascism to obsecure the sum of liberty. We must unite in this fight. We dare not let the enemy divide us, and so open the path to the conqueror.

Iron Curtain— War Hysteria

The motion picture, "The Iron Curtain," has been termed the "latest incident in the manufactured campaign of war hysteria," by the National Wallace for President Committee, which has gone on record as condemning this film the same as it would a picture that provokes race hatred, mass violence, or crime.

The story is based upon the so-called Soviet spy case in Canada, which was condemned by leaders from all Canadian political parties and civil rights groups, and in spite of the fact that defendants in that case since won libel suits against magazines which drew their articles from this story.

The Wallace Committee has called upon 20th Century-Fox, the producers, to withold "The Iron Curtain" from distribution, and has asked exhibitors not to show it. It calls upon the millions of supporters of Wallace who are dedicated to the cause of peace to make known their objections, and to visit their neighborhood theaters to ask them not to show it.

An organized drive against this vicious piece of propaganda will be the only means of defeating it. So let's begin NOW. Before it can reach the public and poison the minds of theater-goers. Visit our neighborhood theaters. Most of the managers are our friends. Tell them they must not show the film.

Cheating in Education

In one of his recent speeches, Henry Wallace said that life's span for the Negro child is 10 years shorter than that of a white child.

A government summary gives this information on elementary and secondary education of Negroes in 17 Southern states and the District of Columbia. The states are: Alabama, Arkansas, Delaware, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Maryland, Mississippi, Missouri, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas, Virginia, West Virginia.

These states have a separate school system for Negroes and white children. The average current expense appropriated per white pupil is $104.66 per year, and a Negro pupil, $57.57 in those states where segregation exists.

Such inequality in education is responsible for the health, economic, and social shortcomings of our Negro citizens. This should invite the attention of the House Un-American Activities Committee. But we doubt if anyone will pay any attention to it, except Henry Wallace, and the Independent Progressive Party.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

The experiences of a deportee were described graphically by Claudia Jones, of the National Communist Party, at a newspaper conference held in the Clark Hotel the morning following her appearance as the principal speaker at a mass May Day rally in the Embassy auditorium Wednesday evening.

"The attempt to deport me," she remarked laughingly, "has acted as a boomerang. I'm out on bail, and I'm traveling all over the country, telling people of the dangers of Fascism that are threatening, where if they had let me alone I'd still be in New York, living quietly and doing nothing to arouse anyone."

The newspaper confrence, by the way, was held in the Clark Hotel on CENTRAL avenue, not in the one on HILL street. Why? Because Claudia Jones whose intelligence would fit her to stand before kings and who has a certain regal bearing in her own natural poise, is a Negro. No, there were no accomodations for her in any of the "white" hotels —the Biltmore, the Clark on Hill Street, the Rosslyn, the Alexandria—none. Not when they found out she was a Negro.

This question of segregation is what induced Claudia, still a young girl, to join the Young Communist League. When she went to school in New York, and especially to high school, she mingled with the other children and with the young people, the same as anyone else—in the class room.

"But outside the class room," said Claudia, as her eyes darkened, "It was different. I was made to feel I belonged to another race. That I was inferior. And so, she added, I learned finally that the members of the Young Communist League did not think of me as being 'different.' They thought of me as a friend. I became their friend. And then I joined the League."

But the fact that Miss Jones had joined the Young Communist League in her teens, was counted against her when she applied for citizenship in the United States when she was 21.

Claudia Jones was born in Trinidad, British West Indies, and came to the United States with her parents when she was a little girl of 8 years old. But was not an American citzen until she herself had been granted citizenship papers. Yet when she applied for them, she was refused. Why? Because she was a Communist. An alien Communist, according to the un-American Committee, who had come into the United States to 'overthrow our government by force and violence."

"We are not citizens," said Miss Jones speaking for herself and thousands of others in the same class, "not because we don't want to be but because they won't let us."

Well, in this present hysteria when everyone is looking under his bed at night for fear an awful Red may be hiding there, the FBI arrested Claudia Jones together with hundreds of other "undesirable aliens" for deportation.

"They came into my apartment at 12 o'clock at night," she said, "and took me away to Ellis Island. After a lot of questions I was sent to what they called the 'hotel', in reality a jail. It was an immense room, with bars over the windows. Hundreds of other women were there. Wives of GI's, some with children. Most of them pacing up and down, up and down, wringing their hands, wondering what on earth they are to do."

All of Ellis Island is something like this, Miss Jones said. Buildings everywhere where immigrants trying to come to the United States, the land they have heard so much about, are held until the authorities decide whether they can enter and become American citizens. Other "aliens," like Miss Jones, are kept there until the courts decide whether or not they shall be deported as being "undesirable." That is, if they wish to contest the FBI attmept to deport. If they wish to do nothing, of course they are shipped out on the first boat.

Miss Jones and others who have been arrested for no crime but living in the United States for years as individuals who wish to raise the standard of American life, are contesting the arbitrary arrest of the FBI. Some, like Miss Jones, are free on bail. Others who do not have enough money must stay in those jail-like buildings on Ellis Island until their case is taken to the cours.

The concentration camp of America.

Revival of 'Trial By Fire', Challenge to Do-Nothings

By RAND BROOK

Father Dunn's "Trial By Fire," now playing at Radio Center theatre, 6000 Sunset Blvd., is a good play — carrying with it a message that has become nothing new to the American Negro. To often works of this sort are previewed by groups that need it least — the intellectual, the tolerant, and the truly concerned.

It is unfortunate that a work with this force and vividness should go unnoticed and unheralded by so intelligent group as "the American people." And the persons so realistically portrayed in the drama — what of them?

Have the people become so immune to tragedy that it must sear their own precious hides to bring to light these injustices? Must they too become the Johnson of Acacia, the Woodwards of South Carolina, or the Ingrams of Georgia to seek a voice and redress for the uncounted wrongs heaped upon them? Must they all seek martyrdom before the rest of us join in the battle before it is lost?

When will we become enlightened to the plight of all minorities throughout the world? When will we thrust aside the shackles of reaction and disinterest? When will we support those who seek to offer forward, progressive leadership? When will we begin to do for ourselves that which we so weakly applaud?

Playing to vacant seats is not a heartening thing, even the stouthearted of the Father Dunn type. For us to call ourselves not only interested but profoundly concerned we need to do more than pass a pleasing comment on the efforts of those media that proclaim our fight.

Though sometimes overly dramatic in an already dramatic situation, Earl Smith's "Ray Johnson" was indeed satisfying. None the less was the performance of Dick Farmer's "District Attorney Applegate." Phyllis Nelson as Rita Johnson was something that we should have more of along with the shrewish, forthright role of Margaret Kelly as witness "Fitch."

Of interest also were the performances of Arthur Bias and LaVerne Croyer Jr. as the Johnson children. Of the latter's unaffected and pleasing offering, playgoers may well take notice of her for bigger and better things to come.

If we are to make use of such victories as that in the recent Supreme Court decision on restrictive covenants and the President's pronouncement on Civil Rights—let us toss aside our indifference and complacency and "take up arms against a sea of troubles —to live and fight to death, if necessary, for the dignity of all mankind.

GIDEON'S ARMY MARCHES AGAIN

Dedicated to Wallace & Taylor & Gideon's Army

Tune: Marching Through Georgia

Words by Frank W. Wise
Riverside, Calif.

In 1250 B. C. Gideon's Army vanquished the Midianites. Judges, Chap. 7

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF
In 1948 A. D. Gideon's Army marches against the Facist Free Enterprise

1. Tell me, brother, have you heard the news that's going 'round
In the Wallace Foreign Policy a square deal plan's been found;
'Twill loosen all the fetters with which we now are bound,
While we are marching to victory.

CHORUS:

Hurrah! Hurrah! We bring Democracy—
Hurrah! Hurrah! The plan makes all men free;
We'll have no more depressions, neither war nor poverty,
While we are marching to victory.

2. A modern Gideon's Army our motto, "Right is Might";
Armed with truth and justice, it's peace for which we fight;
We trust in God, not atom bombs, He'll help us in our plight,
While we are marching to victory.

3. The "Gold Dust Twins" are frantic, try to suppress the news,
Free Enterprisers, Fascists and gangsters take their cue;
They're raving, ranting, slinging mud; call us Communists N Jews,
While we are marching to victory.

4. Verily, the ocean now is tearing up the beach,
'Tis but Nature's protest but the Un-American preach,
Roos'velt and Wallace are to blame, what a silly thing to teach;
While we are marching to victory.

5. If Wallace should be elected there will be an awful time,
The earth will be in darkness, the sun refuse to shine;
He'll empty all the prisons—what a grand regime of crime!
While we are marching to victory.

6. Hear that distant rumble, soon 'twill be a mighty roar;
The march of Wallace voters, a million score and more,
They stand for true Democracy like patriots of yore,
While we are marching to victory.

7. Victory's within our grasp but still there's work to do,
Cast out the Fascist traitors anad all warmongers too;
We'll vote for peace instead of war and make our dreams come true,
While we are marching to victory.

More Homes or Slums Warns Health Dept.

Los Angeles must make long range plans for housing low income groups, or the city may eventually have one of the nation's worst slums, Dr. H. C. Pulley, chief assistant city health officer, said this week.

"What we do today in housing planning will determine the quality of housing for many years to come. Since low income groups usually get the lowest standards of housing available, we should make certain those standards are not conducive to the breeding of disease and crime now found in our poorer districts," the health official declared.

The health department is noting, he added, that poor housing units are generally accompanied by poor recreational facilities, leading to destruction of property and vandalism by youngsters with nothing else to do.

Attends UNESCO Conference

Attending the regional conference of the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organizations in San Francisco on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week was Mrs. Helen Maupin, 2106 E. 31st Street. Mrs. Maupin, who is employed by the Los Angeles County Tuberculosis and Health Association as a field representative, is a member of the Alpha Gamma Omega chapter of the Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, and attended the conference as a delegate from that organization.

Also at the meeting was Edward Roybal, a delegate from the Community Service Organization, of which he is chairman. Roybal, who has been named to the UNESCO committee on education, heads the Latin-American program for the Tuberculosis Association.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I thought that it might be of interest to you to know that there is to be held a Youth's Congress in Los Angeles May 15. The Congress will be held at the Shrine Auditorium.

On the evening of the 15th, there is to be held an oratorical contest, consisting of six people. Three of these are from Pacific Union college, my father's alma mater, and three are from La Sierra college, in Arlington, California. Included in the group from PUC is one colored student that has defeated several white students here, and has wonderful prospects of being the winner there. He is Earl Canson, from San Bernardino.

Thanking you in advance for noting this item, I remain,

Sincerely Yours,
Owen A. Troy, Jr.

W. J. Wheaton Says

"I want to be like Jesus every day." That was the song that greeted us as we stood ready to knock for entrance. But we are ahead of our story. We were looking at floral displays; we are fond of flowers; Yes: We plead guilty of being very fond of them. At the time we were remembering an incident some years ago, the late Mrs. Wheaton (Ida) and I had an elderly lady friend who was confined to a hospital. We were on our way to visit her and was looking in the window. . . . Of this very same florist window . . . to decide what flowers we would take her. The Missus, reminded me that it was Mother's Day, and I said, "It's her birthday. Do you know how old she is?" "Let's see," she replied, "think it's 92." We remembered taking a deep breath. But on entering the shop the first thing that caught our eye was a plant of Tea Roses, prolific, in bloom. We counted the blossoms, and, coincident or no, there were exactly 92 blossoms on the plant. We never will forget the "God Bless You!" that came from her lips, and there was just a wee bit of moisture in all eyes. We were waked from our reverie by a "Howdy" and looked down to see little Mary Ann and Rosetta her Italian girl friend. "Just over your way, or should we say, just going over your way, and this being Mother's Day thought we would take your Grandma some flowers." Oh! That will be fine: I've got 50 cents, said Rosetta. Come on let's. We told Rosetta she and Mary Ann could save that for their class fund. We had a huge boquet of roses and snow plants made up. On the way it was decided that Little Mary Ann should make the presentation with a little speech; telling how greatly we appreciated her. That's when we heard her singing. Making our presence known we entered. When Mary Ann sighted the bouquet, it was the signal for Mary Ann III to make her speech, but her tongue was paralysed, and she looked at me, and blurtted out, "the gentleman bought them!" Well! Well! What you crying for? said Mary Ann, as she gathered the child to her bosom. There was a trace of tears in her eyes as she exclaimed, ain't them beautiful. As we had never known a mother, (died when we were born) we felt doubly happy to make somebody's Mother happy. Here is a woman whose environs had been of the lowest type, yet, by force of character had grasped the opportunity, given in her new surrounding, to better her own condition, but prepare her offspring for the fuller enjoyment of citizenship. Her interest in national and civic affairs is commendable; it puts to shame those, who having had the benefits of opportunities, denied her, but are too negligent, to apathetic, to fight for the elimination of discriminations, made by egoistics, so called majorities, against other, so called minorities, because of religion, race, color, and sometimes, origin. It is really astounding how negligent the native born are in using the ballot to register their opinions. They will declaim their indignation, hold indignation meetings berating discriminatory acts, and political inefficiency, but will not register, and use the ballot to erase or remedy them. Mary Ann says some of these talking folk remind her of old Stewart Hackley, who always talked big but done nothing. He was, what they call a exorter or something like that "Back Home," she said. He had a pair of pants he called his Snuday go to meeting pants. You know "Back Home" most of the cabins are built of logs 'en wasps, leyler jackets 'en even hornets build their homes in the corner. Well one day, just before Sunday one o' them critters got in Brother Hackley's Sunday pants, and lay very still 'till he got to exorten. All at once Brother Hackley commence to slap the tails of his coat and as growed more and more exorten he stopped all sudden, and said, "Brothers, Sisters, the word of God is in my mouth, but the devil's in my pants." Amen. Mary Ann gave one of her peculiar chuckles, and broke into laughter as she reminissed. If I had my say so I'd put one o' them yeller jackets or wasps, in the rear end of lots o' folks I know 'en turn 'em facing the register place 'en say git," she continued. We have been for years trying to inform some folks of their civic duties. Many's the time we have gone blocks out of our way to escort a prospective voter to the registration booth. Register: even though you fail to vote. Register. There is an intensive drive on to elect FRANK R. HAVENNER at the primary. It can be done: That is, should every supporter place their shoulder to the political wheel, and push hard. The 4th Congressional District can not afford to lose HAVENNER. In this crisis we need an experienced legislator, one who knows the intricate workings of the legislative mill. Make an analysis of his voting record and you will be convinced why we should elect him at the primary this June. The drive is on for the recreation building fund. The quota for the BOOKER T. WASHINGTON SERVICE CENTER should be supported earnestly. The Center is a Community Chest agency and will be benefitted greatly in the building program. Dimes and even nickles make dollars. And most of us can give one dollar. One noticeable thing is the interest taken by the varied associations and clubs in awarding scholarships. Contests for the awards are interesting as well as educational. Due to our inability to attend we fail to note how the young Miss from Jefferson Hi, Los Angeles, came out in th eessay contest held at Commerce Hi, San Francisco, came out. The Carpe Diem Club, one of the pioneers in civic betterment has resumed activities. Their Round Tables and Forums are intellectual and their interest in higher education is proven by their scholarship awards. The club's membership? Some of the brainiest young women in town.

At Least You Can Vote—But Can You?

"If you don't like anything in America," we are often told, "you can vote to change it."

HOWEVER—

Are you a resident of the District of Columbia? Or Guam—or American Samoa? Or an Indian in New Mexico or Arizona? THEN YOU CANNOT VOTE.

Were you born in Japan or Korea? Then you cannot become a citizen. You lose many important economic privileges—and YOU CANNOT VOTE.

But don't lose hope. Since World War II, Chinese and Filipinos can become citizens. Maybe your turn is next.

• • • •

If you are a Negro in the deep South, your government says that you can vote. But YOU know well that YOU CAN'T VOTE.

Perhaps you can't aford a poll tax that eight Southern states levy. Then, white or colored, YOU CAN'T VOTE. If you are a Negro and can pay the tax, you still can't vote. You may be lucky to get off with a beating if you try. The result is that in the last Presidential election, while states without such a tax had a 7-out-of-10 turnout of eligible voters, only 2-out-of-10 voted in poll-tax states.

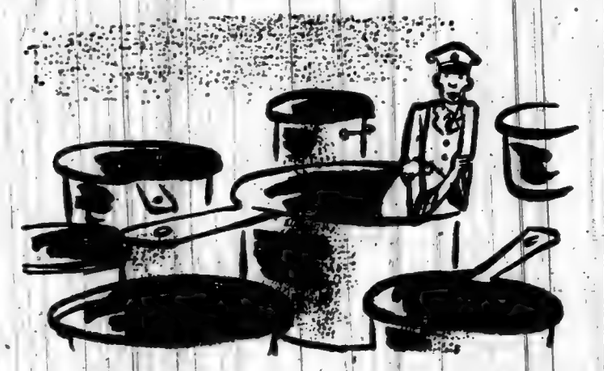
In many Southern states you must pass a fake "literacy test" in order to vote. The President's Committee tells us that "The tradition is to ignore such tests with respect to white voters but to apply them to Negroes."

In most Southern states, winners in a Democratic primary are as good as elected. Therefore "white primaries" have been the rule. Now they have been declared illegal by the Supreme Court of the United States. Some states have tried to get around the decision; if they can't they use threats of intimidation to keep Negro voters away from the polls.

The Governor of South Carolina has said, "White supremacy will be maintained in our primaries; let the chips fall where they may."

Behind the disfranchisement of minority groups is the ever present menace of violence and of mob rule.

• • • •



The Federal government must take vigorous action to enforce the Constitutional right of every citizen to vote—to legislate against abuses that exist. But the Federal government must also take steps to put its own house in order.

Posters around us call upon young men to enlist in the Armed Service. Yet to Negroes and other racial minorities only the most menial of positions are usually open. For example, they can enlist only in the stewards' branch of the Marine Corps. Their chances of promotion are slim; in the Navy there is one white officer to every seven white enlisted men—but only one Negro officer to 5,000 Negro enlistees!

However, a change is in the air... Labor and other liberal groups are joining the minorities in the battle for the upholding of Constitutional rights. Even courageous Southern liberals have joined the battle. The right to vote and the right for equality in the service of the government is basic in a democracy.

Vigorous federal action is required to dispel the shadow of fear that makes these abuses possible. Even when a courageous Negro, denied the right to vote, is willing to testify before the Department of Justice, he needs advance notice. You see, when he does testify, he will have to move his family away from his home community. Only thus can he protect them from the inevitable violence that will follow.

The County Democratic Central Committee has adopted a "hands off" policy regarding the coming visit of President Truman to Los Angeles.

"The boys of the Greater Press Club will have him in charge," said Rollin McNitt, chairman of the Committee. "They'll meet him in the morning, take him to luncheon, entertain him, and see him off when it's all over. That's all I know about it."

In the monthly letter to members of the Committee, McNitt had said he had asked President Truman to stop off in Los Angeles on his western tour, as a guest of prominent Democrats in Los Angeles. But the President did not answer. Said he never received the invitation. And so accepted the invitation of the Press Club.

So what? say the Democrats, many of whom are not for Truman for another four years in the White House anyway.

NEW YORK CITY—U. S. Judge T. Alan Goldsborough's recent decision against John L. Lewis and the United Mine Workers was called "erroneous in law" by Rowland Watts, secretary of the Workers Defense League's legal committee.

Senator J. Howard McGrath, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, charged the Republicans with playing election-year politics by their refusal to act on a plan to make the Virgin Islands self-supporting.

The Republican-dominated House Ways and Means Committee has shelved a Senate measure, McGrath says, which would have furnished a much needed $800,000 annually to the Islands by returning taxes on liquor produced there and shipped to the continental United States.

The name of Henry A. Wallace will not appear on the Democratic ballot for the June primary election, much as his many friends in the Democratic Party wanted him to let them use his name. Only the name of Truman is there, as head of a list of delegates "favoring Truman."

But you can write the name of Wallace on the ballot, if you choose, or any other person's name you might prefer to be president instead of the present little man in the White House. 'Twill be a protest.

HOW TO FIGHT A PREJUDICE

On Tuesday, May 18, the Committee on Intercommunity Relation of the American Jewish Congress will present a program showing the psychology of a prejudice and how to fight it.

Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas of the Fourteenth California District was one of those who stood up to be counted when Congressman Adam Clayton Powell of New York offered his non-discrimination amendment to the recently passed Women's Reserve Corps Bill.

Just previously, Powell had offered the same amendment to the bill authorizing a 70-group air force. Here, also, Mrs. Douglas had supported him strongly, taking the floor to ask sharply why there should be any discrimination in living when there had been none in dying.

Both amendments were overwhelmingly defeated, one getting 12 votes, the other 13, but again the Congresswoman from our district had demonstrated that to her "Representative" means representation of ALL—not a select few.

● Claudia Jones

"Representative Nixon, by the way, is from California," she remarked slyly. "And from Southern California, at that."

This bill, if passed, Miss Jones declared, would establish a police state. "If the people knew what was cooking, they would arise in wrath to stop it."

She maintained that the real purpose of this police state bill is to destroy the Independent Progressive Party, the one party that stands unequivocally for peace, progress, civil liberties, and that shows a crusading aspect.

"Its aim is to intimidate the people. The loyalty tests are but a faint sample of what you can expect if that bill passes. Any organized opinion of which Tom Clark does not approve will be prosecuted. It is the first step to Fascism. And have no illusions that it can't happen here. It can happen here. It is happening here now. Their purpose now, they say, is to outlaw the Communist Party. If they succeed in that it will be but a few years until they outlaw the Democratic Party."

A representative of The Christian Science Monitor at the press conference asked incredulously at this point, "Do you really believe that?"

"I do," said Miss Jones, firmly. "It will brand anyone as being Communistic, and so subject to deportation or prosecution, who believes in a Jewish state in Palestine, who votes to strike, who fights jimcrow, who disapproves of the present foreign policy of the government, or who belongs to any organization which believes really in freedom of speech and of religion, and from want and fear."

A spirited discussion then took place between Miss Jones and The Christian Science Monitor representative. The C.S.M. seemed to think the entire policy of the administration, both foreign and domestic, was O.K. It was perfectly fair, in his opinion, to spend billions of dollars to influence the election in Italy. It was all right to send troops to China and Greece and Turkey.

"But why not send troops to Georgia?" Miss Jones inquired. "When those lynchings occurred, and the state did not seem able to bring the perpetraters to justice?"

"But you wouldn't interfere with state's rights?" he again inquired incredulously, as if state's rights were a sacred institution in America.

Miss Jones, aided now and then by Pettis Perry, of the Los Angeles County Communist Party, patiently tried to show him that people's rights stood above everything, even the rights of the state. That the welfare of the people should be the concern of all government, and that what the people want is what they should have.

But the C.S.M. could see no difference between the revolution in Russia in 1917, and what Hitler tried to do in 1939, or what the Soviet Union is reputedly trying to do today. He saw no difference between Communism and Fascism. "Would you prefer Europe to become Communist?" he asked wonderingly, and when Miss Jones answered "Yes," he looked completely flabbergasted.

"You need have no fear of the masses overrunning the capitalists," she told him, when he worried about those "hordes coming down and destroying civilization." "What the people decide upon, that is their right to have, and it can all be established in a democratic way. In a Communist system in society the people own the means of production. We can get that without any destruction or overrunning of anything or anybody."

The rally in the Embassy auditorium showed where it stood on some of the burning questions of the day. Nemmy Sparks, who acted as chairman for the meeting, urged a barrage of letters and telegrams to members of Congress to defeat the Mundt-Nixon bill. The huge banner over the stage read: "The Mundt Bill Must Not Pass—Act Now! Save the Bill of Rights—No Police State Bill for U. S." Other banners said: "Free the Ingram Family. "Punish the Killer of Salcido." "Defeat the Bi-Partisan Plot for World War III." "Greetings to the People of Mexico on Cinco de Mayo."

Other speakers at the Embassy meet were: William Taylor, Mexican working class leader; and Alvin Averbuck, chairman of the 13th Congressional District Communist Party.

● Eastside Council

The committee plans on May 27th to hold a meeting of employers and craftsmen of the East Side community at the Vernon Bublic library at 46th and Central. At this meeting the Coordinating Council will endeavor to set up advisory committees for various trades in the community, whose activity will be to influence members of their trade eo give on-the-job training opportunities to veterans of this community. At present, the Coordinating Council is conducting a survey of the trades in the community in which on-the-job training opportunities may be established.

Rev. Lloyd Galloway, chairman of the Coordinating Committee, at its last meeting stated, "The East Side community has unfortunately not been as alert as it could have to the needs of veterans for training. Our efforts will be directed to stimulate the community to provide such opportunities. With increased subsistence for veterans, there is a great opportunity for the community to help our young men to earn a decent wage and secure training.

"Many of our veterans are in training under Joint Apprenticeship Committees; for example, the building trades. However, there are many activities that are unorganized which afford training opportunities. I think of administrative positions in business, salesmen, auto mechanics, and various other service industries that are located in our community. I urge businesses in the community to secure information as to how they may become approved for the training of veterans through the Division of Apprenticeship Standards at 357 S. Hill street.

"Several businesses in the community are to be commended for their activity already under this program. Among those to be commended are the Golden State Mutual Life Insurance Company, The Goulson's Plumbing, Stevens & Lewis Plumbing, and Garcia Super Service. There are many others but yet not enough." The Coordinating Council invites all employers and tradesmen to attend the meeting on May 27th, at 8 p.m., at the Vernon Library.

Rev. W. P. Carter of the Santa Monica Calvary Baptist Church will be chairman.

In his statement today, Barnes said:

"I consider the order suspending me from the Post Office for 'disloyalty' directly attributable to the management of the Sears Roebuck & Co. Santa Monica store, and a part of their attempt to stop our picket protest against their discriminatory employment policy.

"The Friday night picket demonstrations in front of the Sears store will continue and the NAACP will challenge the order suspending me from my job at the Santa Monica Post Office, which I have held for the past six years. A formal answer to the charges against me will be filed shortly by Attorney Loren Miller of the NAACP.

"The suspension order did not state that I am a member of a 'subversive' organization, but charged me with accepting the support of groups so designated, in picketing Sears.

"What is involved here is the question of whether the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People may continue to fight discrimination with the support of any individuals or groups who will aid our fight, or whether our struggle for the advancement of Colored people is to be crippled by dictatorial intervention by others.

"As long as discrimination exists it is the height of moral hypocricy to condemn us for any other minority group for soliciting widespread public support to wipe out this social evil.

"Also involved is the question of whether a private corporation shall be permitted to utilize government agencies to help it maintain policies of discrimination.

"In taking this action against me the officials responsible play directly into the hands of those who seek to deprive us of our constitutional rights to life, liberty an the pursuit of happiness.

"We shall continue to invite every person who wants to oppose job discrimination to join our picket line in front of the Sears Santa Monica store."

can and subversive activities," it is claimed.

The Mundt bill, however, is being vigorously attacked by a group of trade unions, who recognize in it a thought control, speech control measure which, if passed, will virtually "legislate" freedom out of existence.

A recently established "Committee of One Thousand," speaking for 167 artists, clergymen, writers, scientists, and educators, charges that te bill is "a request by the UnAmerican Activities Committee for legislative sanction to accelerate its drive to squeeze all opinion and activity into the channels of conformity."

The Greater New York CIO Council called on all New York City Congressmen to "fight actively against the Mundt Bill.

"If the bill becomes law," according to the Council, "it will make members and leaders of labor unions and organizations which in any way fight Administration policy on housing, discrimination, Palestine or other vital issues, subject to severe jail penalties."

The National Council of the National Maritime Union, CIO, the United Furniture Workers of America, CIO, and labor unions in general are waging an organized, serious fight against this drastic piece of legislation.

In Brooklyn, New York, a street corner meeting was held this week to rally the people of Flatbush against the bill. Various groups, including the Flatbush Progressive Citizens of America, the ALP and the National Lawyers Guild, sponsored the appearance of sound trucks and a petition booth at Flatbush Avenue and Linden Boulevard.

Also, in New York, an "Action Conference for Freedom" summoned a State-wide Conference of Democratic and American Labor Party congressmen, for the purpose of considering "immediate unity and action on the part of all who love and respect our Bill of Rights regardless of differing opinions on foreign and domestic questions" to defeat the Mundt Bill.

ELIMINATES THE NOISE

The motorist who is annoyed by whistles and squeaks and other noises should take it as his cue to get busy with the oil can, state officials of National Automobile Club's Service Department. It really is amazing the amount of silence contained in a few ounces of thin lubricating oil. Applied to parts that move when they are supposed not to do so, oil will work wonders. It will induce silence where tightening of bolts fails.

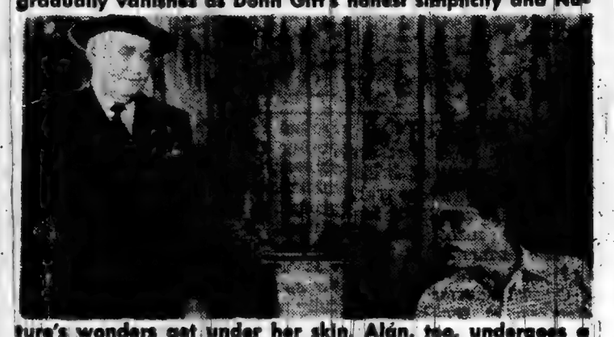
"THE ENCHANTED VALLEY"



Eagle-Lion presents Alan Curtis with Anne Gwynne, Charley Grapewin, Donn Gift and 30 animal stars in a story of redemption amid Nature's wonders. In Cinecolor. (An Equity Picture.)

Seeking a hideout after a robbery, Alan Curtis, Anne Gwynne and Joe Devlin invade the valley cabin of Charley Grapewin, who lives alone with his young grandson. Anne's hardness gradually vanishes as Donn Gift's honest simplicity and Nature's wonders get under her skin. Alan, too, undergoes a similar change in character. Police inspector Joseph Crehan tracks the fugitives and offers a deal if Alan will return the money and give himself up. Alan refuses. As Grapewin lies dying, he pleads with Alan to take care of Donn, who will now be otherwise alone. Alan accepts and gives himself up, on Crehan's assurance that the reward money will go to Donn for a needed leg operation. Promising to return after paying his debt to society, Alan says goodbye to Anne.

Inside Hollywood

By IRWIN ALLEN

A lasting Hollywood superstition that has become gospel among actors is the belief that to die on the screen at the start of a movie career is an omen of good luck.

Film newcomers and ambitious young players welcome their first death scene as the stuff from which stars are made. While struggling for a place in the Hollywood sun these thespian hopefuls much prefer to have the camera record their demise than to carry on to a they-lived-happily-ever-after ending.

IRWIN ALLEN

There is, of course sound logic in this somewhat morbid attitude. Death bed scenes and violent fadeouts carry a dramatic wallop which is sure to register with the cash customers. And a highly convincing array of Hollywood case histories can be marshaled to demonstrate the advantages of dying young, cinematically speaking.

It is a matter of record that Humphrey Bogart first struck movie pay dirt in "Petrified Forest." Bogey was a plenty tough guy who got rubbed out in the film right into the popular spotlight. Alan Ladd hitched his star to a rod and caught the public fancy after he died of "lead poisoning" in the arms of Veronica Lake for the blazing climax of "This Gun for Hire."

Violent deaths during the late and unlamented cycle of gangster pictures were turning points in the careers of the coin-flipping George Raft, the cigar-chewing Edward G. Robinson and James Cagney. Their sudden and ruthlessly executed ends in "Scarface," "Little Caesar" and "Public Enemy" respectively turned out to be the beginnings of bigger and better things for all three.

The film that made Spencer Tracy a star who was to voice the ever-lasting credo of Father Flanagan was "The Power and the Glory." In it death came, as it has to all good actors.

Many other reigning masculine favorites now look back with ratitude upon their original screen passing. There is Robert itchum, who found his Hollywood winning ticket in the role the embittered captain of "The Story of G. I. Joe."

Yes, all of these graduates from "lately departed" roles will estify that an early mortality is a promising beginning for ongevity on the screen.

On the Sets

With LUIS ROSADO

On the set of Paramount's "A Foreign Affair" only two or three crew members were at work, lining up the next scene. The scene depicted a bomb-scarred cellar in Berlin which had been converted into a smoky, crowded post-war night club.

LUIS ROSADO

Between scenes, the huge doors of the stage were opened so that the pungent "bee" smoke used to get the proper photographic effect could escape. The hundred or so players in the scene flocked outside for a breath of fresh air.

Marlene Dietrich, glamorous in a white evening gown, strolled into the set where Troy Sanders, musical adviser in the picture, sat idly at the piano. Marlene was carrying an ordinary carpenter's saw and a cello bow.

She sat down near the piano, placed the saw's handle between her knees, and began to bow on the untoothed edge. There was a plaintive wail like the sudden memory of a lost love from the odd instrument.

Marlene adroitly manipulated the carpenter's tool so that it gave forth a haunting melancholy tone. Troy picked up the piano accompaniment. They played "Song of the Islands" and "When a Gypsy Makes His Violin Cry" and other tunes of that type.

She had learned the trick or the art, depending on how you consider musical shows, when she was a young girl on the Vienna stage. In recent years, she revived it as part of her act while entertaining troops overseas.

The music flowed through the stage, reached those standing near the opened doors. They quickly returned to the set so that soon Marlene had a huge audience. There was an enthusiastic ovation when she finished.

Director Billy Wilder stood by, joined the applause, then remarked:

"That's the best method so far to get the people back to the stage. Why didn't I think of that?"

John Lund, who plays opposite Marlene and Jean Arthur in this comedy, picked up the saw, and said:

"I never see one of these things that I don't remember that old tongue-twister: 'The finest saw I ever saw saw was the saw I saw saw in Arkansas.'"

Marlene went to her dressing room as the laughter died down, but she was muttering and from the lip-reading we could tell she was trying to say the tongue-twister to herself.

"You know," she said as we sat down, "I sing a song in this picture in four languages, English, French, German and Russian, and none of the words have tricked me, but I don't think I will tackle John's tongue-twister."

She told me that she will soon start writing a book on her war experiences. Several publishers had approached her on the subject, but it wasn't up until recently that she decided to do it. The assistant director came and told her they were ready for her. She applied a dash of lipstick to her lips, picked up a doll from her dressing table and started to walk out.

"What am I going to do with this doll?" she said to my querry. "Well, in every picture I have made since 'The Blue Angel,' I have always used the doll for one scene. I'm not superstitious, but I think it brings me luck—or do you call that superstition?"

She lowered her eyes, smiled devilishly as much as to say, "You figure that one out!"

Hollywoodities

Jane Powell has a pet skunk named Jasmine that nobody fears. The little animal is perfectly tame and, more importantly, completely deodorized.

Bing Crosby and his four sons have an annual Yuletide custom of getting around to singing carols in the homes of their friends and relatives. And the Crosby kids all claim their caroling would be much sweeter without their father's baritone.

Alan Ladd is expertly critical of the kind of hamburger sandwiches one so often gets around Hollywood these days. When he was in high school he owned and operated a hamburger stand, and so knows what he's talking about.

Maria Montez, who once sued Universal-International over billing in a picture, is now assured of no more of those battles. She's free-lancing now. Maria and husband Jean Pierre Aumont co-star in "Atlantis." She's top billed over him.

"FORT APACHE"

Argosy-RKO presents John Wayne, Henry Fonda, Shirley Temple, Ward Bond, Pedro Armendariz, Irene Rich, George O'Brien and introducing John Agar.

"Fort Apache" is the title of the magazine story "Massacre" which brings back to the screen the opportunity to tell a lusty, vigorous chapter of frontier history.

There is the colorful Army post background of the days after the war between the States, the picturesque characters who make up such a post, and the ever-present air of danger from the savage red men, mounting eventually to an all-out massacre climax.

John Wayne as the star, and such as Shirley Temple and Henry Fonda to help along, the picture presents a sharply chosen cast throughout, with the John Ford direction and treatment giving all an opportunity to sock home a scene or a sequence. Pedro Armendariz, who is currently also seen in the "Fugitive" scores in a bigger opportunity, while such stalwarts as Victor McLaglen, Dick Foran, Jack Pennick and George O'Brien grab tight hold of meaty roles. Grant Withers, Guy Kibbee, Irene Rich and Anna Lee are seen to advantage.

Central point of "Fort Apache" story is the conflict of ideas between John Wayne, experienced Indian fighter, and the post's new commander, Henry Fonda. The latter's role of sometimes brilliant eventually erratic general, is an unsympathetic one, at times too much so, but it furnishes the dynamite that explodes in the magnificently staged massacre climax. Some of the picture's best moments are in the build-up, and director Ford taking rich advantage of the warmly human moments in the life of these soldiers of the frontier. Shirley Temple gives appealing romantic interest, and John Agar a clean-cut and personable juvenile.

This is one picture to which you can safely take the entire family.

Gal About Hollywood

By MARGARET MORTON McKAY

What a feminine and romantic season in clothes! The fashion scene in the movie capitol looks sentimental, nostalgic and very "I Remember Mama-ish!" More and more the gals are looking like the "lass with the delicate air." I like it! Women are looking pretty, as they were meant to be. No one looks as though she went to a man tailor. She's just plain female and fragile. Here are the new, fascinating fashion tricks I've spotted lately.

Margaret McKay

The bolero-sacque is a new short coat type. It has a fichu neck, slit arm holes and pockets. Diana Lynn wore one on her recent trip to Mexico. It was in navy blue wool with lemon taffeta plaid lining. A full navy wool skirt had a yellow taffeta lined hem that flashed as she walked. She wore a smoke-grey scarf of chiffon at her throat.

Chiffon, the most feminine of fabrics, is back in every way possible. It's in evening clothes, it's a swirling scarf twisting from your side-draped hat or it may be your new blouse. Combined with yellow, it's subtle. June Allyson has a yellow baku side-swept bonnet with the grey chiffon drapery looped through it and swishing under her chin. She adds a tiny old-fashioned nose-gay of yellow mimosa at the waist of her grey flannel bolero-jacketed suit.

The jacket-stole, turned out by Designer Irene, is a new line. It's especially effective worn over a print dress. For spring, they are made of wool or broadcloth. For summer they will divert to linens, shantungs and cool materials. Paulette Goddard, just back in town from Paris, was briskly walking down the Sunset Strip a recent afternoon, in a plum colored crepe wool jacket stole over a grey crepe frock. She had a cluster of violets whimsically at her waist and wore a half-hat completely covered with violets.

You'll be seeing Swiss muslin, daintily embroidered, in summer evening dresses. And they will frequently have old fashioned satin or taffeta sashes. Ella Raines has one in white with a peach colored satin sash and will wear satin pumps dyed the same shade of peach.

Maria Montez, who wears exotic costumes in "Atlantis," that may soon affect some of our styles, has been wearing the plateau hats. When I was in Paris last October I saw Maria and there wasn't a French woman there who looked better in her clothes than Maria. The plateau hat is especially good with bangs and an interesting back coiffure. Maria's was a ginger-brown straw with white dotted veiling tied impishly under the chin.

INTERIOR DECORATING NOTE: Marguerite Chapman, who recently showed her first two paintings at the Beverly Hills Hall of Art show for movie stars, gave me a good picture framing tip. "When you're ready to frame the pictures you've chosen for your apartment or house," she advises, "pick at least one of the colors in the picture and have that color on your frame. Perhaps you may want a white shadow frame, but at least outline the green or the burnt orange or the plum color in your picture on the outer edge of the frame. It will give your picture and its frame a look of belonging together."

BEST DRESSED this week: Esther Williams in a navy blue twill suit with the new hitched-at-the-side skirt. Crisp white pique collar and cuffs, fastened with pearl cuff links, a fresh white carnation was pinned to one collar and she wore short white cotton gloves. A dainty camisole hat of starched white organdy adorned her upswept coiffure. Off-blue sheer stockings made an exciting new touch.

SCOREBOARD FOR SELECTION: 1. Skirts that hitch to one side are new. 2. Pique is fresh, springlike touch. 3. Wearing fresh flowers, the mark of a smart looking woman. 4. Camisole hats are newest idea introduced by Hat Designer Sally Victor. They're in white, dainty fabrics. 5. Colored stockings are still highly fancied.

REEL ONE: THE FILMTOWN GOSSIP • • •

Another second generation Hollywood success story is be demonstrated by Jerry Briskin and Matt Rapf. These two bri young men, who are the sons of veteran big-time producers S Briskin and Harry Rapf, have joi their talents and formed Creativ Productions. Their first film, "R page," was viewed the other night, w such gratifying results that their leasing organization (Eagle-Lion) now seeking to pact them for an ditional four pictures annually. Lo time friends, Jerry and Matt working together a natural. That bring fresh vitality and ideas to Hollywood scene is reflected in workmanlike job turned out in t first Cinecolor film.

Motion picture production has been at its lowest ebb in during the past three months. Even the commissaries have b shuttered on several of the lots. Gradually, now, with the inco tax deadline past, the caterpillar that was Hollywood is ginning to emerge from its cocoon of lethargy in true Sp fashion. Sound stages all over town are slowly coming to with new pictures starting, and the skeleton crews that have k most studios going at a minimum pace are being augmented the return of regulars as the tempo shows signs of stepping All of which prompted a wag at a certain studio to quip: "T lot is officially in business again—even the bookie is back!"

REEL TWO: HOLLYWOOD WHISPERS • • •

Those loud, late-at-night sounds heard in a certain section Beverly Hills emanate from the home of Margaret Roach cowboy actor-husband Bob Livingston. The parties that have b going on for a week without let-up are the talk of the col And some of the uninvited neighbors aren't just talking—the screaming in despair!

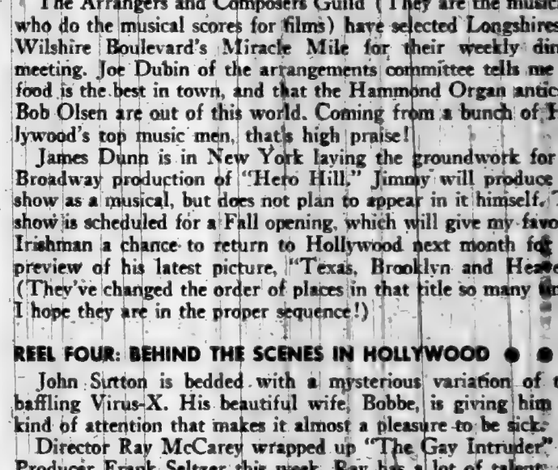
Bobby Jordan, former "Dead End Kid," has gone in for q a bit of radio acting lately. The severe leg injury Bobby suffe in that New York elevator fall has kept him from stepping be the cameras for several months. The kid is now ready to resu his film work, but has come to like the radio racket so well t he'll be doing double-duty between the cameras and the mi phones from here on in. Well, Bobby came to the movies fr the stage, so all he needs to complete the cycle of entertainm media is a crack at television!

William Bacher tells me he has a nice part in mind for Car Lopez in his next movie production, when she returns from dancing engagement at the South Seas Club at Honolulu. lovely Lopez lassie assisted in the staging of dance sequences Bacher's recent "Carnival in Costa Rica" and danced a cou of specialties in the film, as well. Bill says he considers he "good luck charm" and wants to give her a straight acting cha if she would like it. Carmen writes that the folks on the Isla are wonderful, and that she and the team of Carla and Ferna are enjoying a wonderful engagement at the South Seas.

REEL THREE: THE MOVIETOWN NEWS • • •

Your reporter has a checkered sport coat of which he is proud. (Friends say it isn't fit to be worn anywhere excep the race track!) At any rate, this particular jacket almost the title role in a new movie this week. It all happened whe ran into Hurd Hatfield, while visiting at Motion Picture Ce Studios the other day. Hurd took one look at the coat snatched it from my back, declaring excitedly that it was what they had been seeking for his new picture, "The Ch ered Coat." But alas, he was back with it in ten minutes— director and the wardrobe man decided the checks weren't lo enough. Guess the coat isn't as loud as some of my friend jealous, no doubt—tried to make me believe!

The Arrangers and Composers Guild (They are the music who do the musical scores for films) have selected Longshire Wilshire Boulevard's Miracle Mile for their weekly din meeting. Joe Dubin of the arrangements committee tells me food is the best in town, and that the Hammond Organ antic Bob Olsen are out of this world. Coming from a bunch of H lywood's top music men, that's high praise!



James Dunn is in New York laying the groundwork for Broadway production of "Hero Hill." Jimmy will produce show as a musical, but does not plan to appear in it himself. show is scheduled for a Fall opening, which will give my favo Irishman a chance to return to Hollywood next month for preview of his latest picture, "Texas, Brooklyn and Hea (They've changed the order of places in that title so many ti I hope they are in the proper sequence!)

REEL FOUR: BEHIND THE SCENES IN HOLLYWOOD • •

John Sutton is bedded with a mysterious variation of baffling Virus-X. His beautiful wife, Bobbe, is giving him kind of attention that makes it almost a pleasure to be sick.

Director Ray McCarey wrapped up "The Gay Intruder" Producer Frank Seltzer this week. Ray has a lot of talent; this may be the break to cause big brother, Academy Award W ner Leo, to look to his laurels.

It had to happen! Now they are making dresses out of pa Virginia Grey wears the first one for her role with Henry Fo gan in "So This Is New York." Studio press agents tell us several paper goods manufacturers want to put such dresses o mass production basis. It is claimed they could eventually be m for a few cents each and that the women's wear industry will revolutionized. This column will go along with the revolut when they start making them out of cello—But whatever c we be thinking about!

If you want a perfect definition for glamour, Marlene Di trich is it. Hollywood is proud of her magnificent wo during the war. As soon as she finishes in Paramoun "A Foreign Affair," she leaves here for a trip to Franc

Many Attend 25th Anniversary Celebration of E. H. Munfords

The silver anniversary, significant of 25 years' marital bliss, was celebrated on Sunday, May 9, by Mr. and Mrs. Earle Hicks Munford, socially prominent couple of Los Angeles. The affair was staged at Casa Rafael and was elaborate in every detail.

From 6 to 9 p.m. more than 400 guests were greeted by the Munfords, who were assisted in the receiving line by Miss Blanch Quarles and Mrs. O. R. Hickox, sisters to Mrs. Munford; Messrs. Cesco H. Johnson of Kansas City, Mo., who arrived in the city especially to take part in the celebration, and O. R. Hickox, brother-in-law to the couple.

Mrs. Munford, who is known to her many friends in the East and West, as Claudia Munford, was very charming in an off-shoulder long-sleeved gown of white chiffon, trimmed with sequins. Significant was the retaking of marital vows that were spoken 25 years ago in Detroit, Mich. Rev. Mansfield Collins of the local Neighborhood church officiated at the ceremony on Sunday evening.

The floral decorations were breathtaking. Highlight of the occasion was the "Money Tree" designed by Mrs. Irene Bradford, featuring colorful roses blossoming out with hanging silver dollars. The tree stood three feet tall. The couple received many beautiful gifts as well as money.

The Munfords are the parents of one daughter, lovely Betty Munford, who is a member of the Beta Pi Sigma sorority. Assisting as hostesses were some of the members of the organization, who also formed an honor guard when the vows were recited. Included were Juanita Jones, Dorothy Landry, Mary Jane Neeley, Ameera Clark, Gwendolyn Valentine, Bernice Nance, Louella Dent, Mary Caldwell, Margaret Weaver. All wore pastel shade evening gowns. Miss Rena Nelson also assisted as hostess.

Old Fashioned Cameo Plays Part in Puente Hostess Club's Annual Formal Dance

On Saturday night, May 8, at 9 p.m. the doors of the Elks Hall were opened to admit a host of the friends, relatives and club associates of the Puente Hostesses Social Club. The occasion being the first formal dance of the club since pre-war days.

The hall was beautifully decorated by Mr. James Brown carrying out the Gay Nineties theme selected for this dance by the club. Music was furnished by Sammie Franklin's Orchestra with old favorites among their repertoire such as "Bicycle Built for Two," "Surrey With the Fringe on Top" etc. Just before the introduction Mr. Alfred Smith husband of the business manager Mary Smith delighted the audience with his exceptional rendition of "Memories."

Master of Ceremonies was Attorney Crispus Wright, who in his own suave style introduced the club at the appointed time of 11:30 p.m. The club colors of black and white were carried out with all girls wearing white dresses, black lace gloves, cameo pins at neckline and carrying nosegays of Sweetheart roses made by Dostey's Florist. As their names were called each girl stepped through a large cameo, pausing just outside to form a life-sized portrait in a study of black and white. In the order of their introduction they were: Mary Blackwell in taffeta with bustle on side, Myrthene Foreman figured taffeta with back bustle, full skirt and Bertha collar, Dorothy Bridgewater, brocaded taffeta with ruffled net at bottom of skirt, Ruth Beane net with fullskirt attached wih pink rosebuds at waist and hemline, Virginia Johnson white crepe with side drape, Thelma Aldridge white net with raised dots and ruffled back from waist to hem, Margeret Varnado white taffeta with all around bustle draped at side, Grace Williams strapless figured taffeta with full skirt, Eloise Scott figured crepe with side drape, Wilma Deane, lace bodice with crepe skirt, Mary Smith figured organza with bustle on back, and Pres. Mabel Troy, aqua chiffon with low cut neckline and draped skirt. Pictures were made by Mr. Williams Duke. The financial sec'y Mrs. Mae Tramel was unable to attend but was sent a growing Hibiscus plant by the club.

Special thanks go to Mabel Troy, Pres. for her work and guidance in making this affair a success, to Wilma Dean, Sec'ty for taking care of all correspondence and double thanks to Mary Smith, business manager in whose capable hands all arrangements for the dance were placed. To all club members thanks for all around cooperation with afore-mentioned officers whenever called upon.

Glimpsed among the guest were mothers of some of the club members, namely, Madame Mozelle T. Outley, Mother of Thelma Aldridge, Mrs. Phelps, Mother of Eloise Scott, Mrs. Jim Millir and A. B. Foreman, Mothers-in-law of Mary Smith and Myrthene Foreman, respectively, also Mrs. Verginia Kimbro friend of Mrs. Philps and active in social circle throughout the city. The Puente Hostesses hope to make this an annual affair.

GIFT CARDS prove very interesting at bridal showers. The above picture was taken by Vera Jackson at the Crystal Shower honoring Jessie Mae Brown on last Sunday afternoon. Elaborate Crystal Shower Is Pre-Nuptial Event for Eagle's Society Editor

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

The pre-nuptial fetes that are being given in honor of bride-elect Jessie Mae Brown, are truly significant of the wonderful sentiment of her many friends. Three of her former U. C. L. A. chums played hostess to a very elegant Crystal shower on Sunday afternoon at the home of Atty. and Mrs. Crispus Wright. Included were Althea Warren, who has personality plus, Ernie Mae Maxley, the vivacious little lass of Pasadena, and the very lovely Helen Wright, lady of the house. The hostesses all wore the "new look" in white dresses. In fact, the white wedding theme was carried throughout with a huge white garden spray can filled with beautiful flowers as the center of attraction. The glass bay window, that looks out over the Wright's swimming pool, was put to effective use, in that it showed the many gifts of boxed crystal, attached to white satin streamers that fell from the garden can, imitating streams of water.

The whole of the spacious residence was used for the affair, the catered luncheon was served around the swimming pool, that during the early hours of the shower, was decorated with a miniature sailboat with bride and groom figurines as passengers, embarking on the "sea of life." A profusion of white balloons was used to decorate the overhanging balcony of the beautifully modern home.

The honoree, who will speak vows with LeRoy Beavers on June 27, also wore white, and spent the afternoon chatting about the pending wedding and stepping into the new role of housewife.

The guests attending were indeed smartly dressed for the occasion. To name a few, the recently married Winifred Toney, Gloria Bunch, Norma Lee McDaniel, Mattye Bluett, Fay Hopkins, Jane Hampton, Lucille Boswell, Virgie Fexico, Emma Manuel, Helen Hodge, Ruth Jones, Sara Lumpkin, Cornelia Scott, Odessa Jones, Ann McClain, Lepla Beavers, Lucy Ewing, Mary Jackson, Ruth Mars, Edith Price, Fannie DeMan, Marion Jackson, Gloria Vaughn, Clori Ann Young, Mrs. Lilyan Beavers, and a host of others.

Socially speaking, the affair was quite the thing, honoring the Eagle's Society Editor. Very smart indeed, with the background of classical music softly playing throughout the whole afternoon.

Eleanor Winston Crowned 'Miss Wilfandel' In $4,811.19 Popularity Contest; Community Club House Soon to Be Erected

BEGINNING in majestic manner, is Queen Eleanor Winston and her ladies in waiting, Joyce Robinson, Dolores Bell, Nonie Moore. These debutants and the others taking part in the contest, may always feel proud that they have done their bit for bringing a Club House to the local community.

The answer to a community need will come from the Wilfandel club of women who are working hard to give us a direly needed clubhouse. Not yet five years old, this club of women organized to do this one thing, today see the way very clearly, and are to be commended for going ahead and doing a fine job with funds that have been amassed through public support, for the specific cause of building a clubhouse.

Guided by the steady hand of Mrs. Fannie Williams, sponsor and advisor, the Wilfandel club recently closed one of its biggest money-making ventures, the popularity contest, that on last Thursday evening was brought to a close by club president Mrs. Della Williams. A spectacular coronation ceremony red-lettered this occasion in the history of the Wilfandel club.

Because the amount of money raised by each contestant was such a guarded secret, the audience was breathless with anticipation. The 24 debutantes in the contest advanced down the long aisle of the Polytechnic high school auditorium to the majestic music of the organist, John Harrod, and pianist J. W. Sanford, carrying arm bouquets of spring flowers. Even they had no knowledge of who would be queen. When all were seated an the stage, Mrs. Della Williams stepped forward and called the name of Miss Eleanor Vera Winston, reporting that she had raised $764.30. What a girl, what a lovely queen.

IRENE BRADFORD SPONSOR

Mrs. Fannie Williams did the honors of crowning Miss Winston, who knelt on a pillow and was decorated with the ribbon which acclaimed her "Miss Wilfandel of 1948." A beautiful silver crown was placed on her head and she was escorted to the throne. Queen Eleanor was sponsored by Mrs. Irene Bradford, truly one of the most diligent workers in behalf of community interest in the city of Los Angeles. No crown could be placed on her head, but to her goes a bouquet of orchids.

The other prize winners were: Miss Joyce Robinson, whose total figure was $690.70, sponsored by Mrs. Leontyne King; Miss Leonora Moore, third, with $407.70, sponsored by Mrs. Fannie Casmon; Miss Dolores Bell, fourth, wth $355.70, sponsored by Mrs. Irene Morris. The three runners-up were seated around the queen's throne. Completing the royal court were the other lovely contestants.

HANDSOME PRIZES GIVEN

First prize was a round-trip ticket to New York City, or the money; second prize was $100; third prize was a round-trip ticket to San Francisco and fourth was a Bulova watch. The Wilfandel club was thoughtful of all the girls in the contest. Each one received a gold jeweled compact.

Too much praise can not be given these women for the unbiased and equitable manner in which the contest was conducted. There was no last-minute collecting of funds by any contestant. The books were closed promptly at noon on Thursday, after which time the contestants could not apply any funds gathered for her candidacy.

Again Wilfandels thanks the public for its patronage. The real thank you will come when the clubhouse is built for mutual benefit. The total funds raised for this worthy project by the popularity contest was $4,811.19.

QUEEN ELEANOR is crowned by Mrs. Fannie Williams, sponsor and advisor of the Wilfandel Club. Looking on are third and fourth place winners, Nonie Moore, and Dolores Bell, respectively. (See story.)

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

THE DOORS OF THE CITY Schools will soon close, and many a youngster will be out in the summer suns, with the constant study of the three-Rs, a thing of the past. Many will join their parents in hying off to summer resorts, some will visit the eastern or southern cities, the masses of the community, however, will be left with nothing but a desire to do the things that the more fortunate children are enjoying. The minds of most philanthropers and child social workers has turned toward making summer camping a reality for a goodly number of these children. The aid of the various social and charity clubs is needed. To date, several affairs have been given to aid with the camping funds. The Club Festival benefited the Woodlawn Branch YWCA, and at present, the camping chairman, Mrs. Betty Hill is making an appeal for more funds. The YWCA Follies is another affair that is being given to send Y girls to camp. Mary Lou Roberson, director of the Henderson Center has compiled a list of qualified camps that will take children throughout the entire summer months. She has also completed a list of youngsters in need of this camping experience. Other club groups intereste I in helping are urged to contact Mrs. Robeson at the Henderson Center.

It so happens that the Cabaret Dance, to be given by the Turnabout Charity Club at the Congo Club on May 20, ties in with the camping appeal, for the girls, led by Joyce Stewart, are giving the affair for the sole purpose of sending children to camp. At the last meeting of the group, held at the Joe Green's home, Mrs. Faustina Johnson, noted charity worker, brought a very interesting talk on the charitable work that could be done with girls in the various detention homes. This information gave way for the Turnabouts to complete a year round program of worthwhile doings. The girls are expecting the May 20 benefit to be one of the biggest yet. . . .

TAKEN BY SURPRISE

Attended a very elaborate dinner party given in honor of Ramona Robinson on last Saturday night. Places were marked for twelve guests, with little white cards that told of marriage plans for the honoree, and Mr. C. L. Coffee, a handsome young Louisiana mortician. Believe me, we were definitely taken by surprise, when just before press time, the news reached yours truly, that the couple had eloped to Yuma, Arizona. A wedding reception has been planned for June 6, at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Alice Harvey. At this point we say, years of happiness for Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Coffee. . . .

Saturday night must have been the night of big surprises, for over Pasadena way, Mrs. Fay Bartlett gave her lovely daughter, Odella a surprise party that left the honoree speechless. Aside from the party, she was presented, among other gifts, a beautiful combination radio set that topped all. My girl Friday mentions it being a swell party with the guests having a hilarious time of it. Guest listed were, Abbie Jones, (naturally), Yvonne, Teddy and James Bartlett, Gerri McFarland, R. B. Porter, Stella and Gloria Wolfe, Henry Jones, Alma Phillips, Don Betney, Jay Brown, Alvin Johnson, Weldina Heffiin, Mabel Duncan, Leonard Beavers, Dorothy Edwards, Aledge Penlin, Alfred Muton, Janet Collins and oodles more. . . .

Another affair of special interest on Sunday evening, that found your weekly chronicler so busy putting away shower gifts she just couldn't be among those present, was the unique apartment "Warming" over at the newly married John Bowdions, Meriposa Abode. Young married couples and potentials were much in evidence. The Jimmy Lewises sorta acted as official hosts to the guests who dropped in from 3 to 9. Quite an affair so they tell me.

On the serious side, and taking place on Friday, from morn 'til night, was the "open house" birthday celebration of Rev. J. R. Henderson of the Second Baptist Church. You can imagine the number of guests attending and what a grand time they had. Mrs. Henderson, the perfect housewife, played her role of the day to perfection, brewing tea and fixing little tasty sandwiches for those attending. During the early hours, she was assisted by Mrs. Mays.

EVENTS AHEAD

On Saturday night, all roads will lead to the Elks Auditorium, and reason enough, for that will be the night that the Inter-Frat Council takes over with the big trophy dance. With lovely Hadda

U. of Washington Holds 1st Race Relations Seminar

History was made in the Pacific Northwest last week when for the first time in the 60 years of existence of the University of Washington, an institute of Race Relations was held on its campus and sponsored by the University and civic groups throughout the Northwest.

Dr. Robert C. Weaver, consultant, American Counsel on Race Relations and lecturer at University college, Northwestern university, Chicago, was the key speaker at the institute's seminars and on several radio forums.

Out of the seminars and reports came the basic theme that "education through action" was the way to greater racial harmony. It was the purpose of the institute to crystalize opinions and clarify techniques of operation in race relations in the Northwest, especially in the fields of employment, housing, restrictive covenants and minor community problems.

IN THE SOCIAL SET

Brooks doing the honors, it just can't help but be an ideal gathering. Most invites were detached from the Souvenir programs during the series. . . .

Invites have been received by many a Greek to the Phratere's annual Sweetheart Ball, May 27 is the date and the setting will be the Riverside Rancho. The hours are from 9-2 and the gay gathering will be semi-formal. Bernice Regard is Phratere president, with La Verne Weaver, Bette Linley, Lady Mark Williams, Jacqueline Rigard, Ona Ross, Vivian Towns, Geraldine Barnum, Sally Jones and Gloria Crouch in the cabinet, and a complete roster that reads like the debutant presentation of seasons to come. Corine Kemp and Violet Thomas, are Alpha Kappa Alpha advisors to the sorority interest group. . . .

By the way, Regional Confabs are in the news, with the Iota Phi Lambda's Far Western Regional taking place in Denver during the second week of June, and the Alpha Kappa Alpha Far Western Regional scheduled to hold sway down in San Diego over July 4. So happens that the National President will be among key speakers at the conference. . . .

By the way, don't forget the Ballerina Ball, Saturday, May 29, at Elks Hall. The affair is being given by the West View Women's Guild, and all proceeds will go to the building fund. Verna Bean is general chairman and is very anxious that the affair clears $2,000. Assisting on the committee, are Mmes. Pearl Taylor, Gertrude Hicks, Mildred Hawkins, Angelle Stratton, Rita Burney, Clothilde Woodard, Stella Rae Williams, Ann Brown and Laura Carpenter along with the other guild members. . . .

WELL! WELL! WELL!

The Elbert Hudsons are proudly announcing the arrival of their son Paul Claude, named after the two well known grandfathers, Paul Williams and Dr. H. Claude Hudson. Bet many a cigar has been passed. . . . Regina Mingleton and Henry Milton will say "I Do," on May 27, in Catholic ceremony at 8:00 a.m. A bridal breakfast will follow. . . . Speaking of weddings, Maxine Clark and Paul Beck will do the same, on June 27. . . . In my opinion, Jane Hampton is still "Miss Bronze America" of any year. Althea Warren could take any prize for personality, Ernie Mae Maxey is the last word for poise and charm, and Irene Bradford has the right community spirit. These gained my attention over the past week-end. . . . Hear that the Bib and Tucker group has big happenings set for Sat. night. . . . The Nurses Sorority will give their formal at El Sombrero club on May 20. . . . Joe and Betsy Green have adopted a darling baby boy. They have named him Lee Anthony. The Greens will soon be moving into their new home at Malibu. . . . Gloria and Andre Vaughn have a regular little showplace. Their new apartment is done in the popular Chinese Modern. . . . Helen Hodge has a wardrobe lined up for her first trip East, that calls for that old second look. She will leave L. A. during the early part of June, to attend an Insurance conference. . . . With this we make deadline. . . .

'Till Next Week.

Flora B. Chisholm Takes New Position With Howard Tresses Co.

Miss Flora B. Chisholm, formerly with A.K.A. Sorority merly with A.K.A. Sorority Health Project joins the Howard Tresses staff as Field Representative.

In order that women outside of the Metropolitan Area of New York may have first hand information about the use of hair attachments, this progressive company recently employed Miss Flora B. Chisholm to contact Beauty Salons who will sell and interprete Howard Tresses to the thousands of fashion-conscious women over the country.

Howard Tresses has been well known in the real-hair industry for 40 years. Recent trends in fashion and the now fully accepted fact that hair attachments can add much to the beauty, poise and personality of the American woman, have created an even greater popularity for Howard products. Confidence in a company which assures each customer of its personal attention has resulted in a clientele of discriminating women who are well known for their good taste and distinctive appearance. This group, however, represents only a portion of the women who could improve their personal appearance with hair styles created by Corinaldi exclusively for Howard. Reaching these women will be the job of Miss Chisholm as field representative.

Howard Tresses chose its new staff member as carefully as it has the quality of its real hair and the high standard of its finished products. Miss Chisholm is college trained, holding a Masters Degree in Health Education from the University of Michigan. Her years of experience in group work and building health for beauty and personality development enable her to serve efficiently the many women who are interested in improvement of their personal appearance. Howard Tresses is happy to present the capable Miss Chisholm as its representative to its customers and to the general public.

For the immediate future, Miss Chrisholm's itinerary will be limited to salons in the larger cities where high styles in hair attachments are created. Later, Howard Tresses hopes to reach every section of the country.

THE NEXT GENERATION

The Second World War, within the course of its five years, had an effect upon the American citizens that will show in politics within the next five to ten years. Most of the boys actually saw combat on the war fronts. Such an impression will not wear off easily. However, the same might have been said after the last war. But it could have hardly been possible, because America was only in World War I a year.

The war probably made much wiser citizens and voters. The people who will be voting and serving in political offices a few years from now, and who were actually in the war, will have a much keener insight as to the need of prevention of war. They will make every effort to lead the nation away from war and toward peace. Some of our American leaders, even the American President himself, were in the last war. But too many of us have been overcome by the present "scare" or fear that has arose from ourselves and the atomic bomb. We fear and accuse Russia, when it's actually ourselves we fear.

BIRMINGHAM'S DEBT TO L. A.

Perhaps the people of Birmingham, Alabama, just don't believe in democracy and the principles of justice and free speech. All such indications were made last week when Senator Glen Taylor was assaulted and arrested for entering a door marked "Negroes" at a colored church. I don't think the police chief cared which door Mr. Taylor entered, or why. But it is my opinion that the chief didn't want the vice presidential candidate to talk of freedom and democracy to the people in Birmingham.

Maybe the people of Los Angeles don't believe in Fascism either. But some time ago, when Gerald L. K. Smith (and I was there) spoke at Polytechnic High School, the Los Angeles police provided him with every protection. They were armed with riot helmets, night sticks, guns, tear gas, and mean expressions for anyone who said anything against Gerald L. K. Smith. And it so happened that Mr. Smith didn't go in or out the front door. He took to the rear each time, and no one saw him except the people inside the auditorium. He would have seen more people on the outside, for right across the street, a giant peace rally was being held by the citizens of dissenting opinions of democracy.

Now regardless of whether or not the people of Los Angeles believe in what Gerald L. K. Smith talked about, they gave him the opportunity to say it, and they treated him with respect. They considered him a man of different political conbictions and respetced his right of free speech. I do believe the people—represented by the Chief of Police—of Birmingham, Alabama, could have given Senator Taylor as much respect. That was Birmingham's unpaid debt to Los Angeles.

HENRY WALLACE TO SPEAK HERE

Presidential candidate, on the third party ticket, Henry Wallace will speak in Los Angeles Sunday, May 16, at Gilmore Stadium. Frankly, I think the Coliseum would have been more appropriate, had it been available. There will be no small number of people present at the meeting, which will take place at one o'clock in the afternoon.

With the California Primary only a few weeks away, I think every effort should be made by the peace-loving people of the state—and of the nation—to prepare to elect the third party candidate to the office of the presidency. With the present so-called Dixie Revolt over President Truman's rather abrupt Civil Rights program, nothing can hope to be accomplished along the lines of the Democratic Party, and I think a great number of people are aware of that. Too, with the Republican Situation what it is, the nation's only hope lies in the Third Party—the Independent Progressive Party of California, and rapidly becoming "of the nation." The people of the world want peace, more than anything else, and the Third Party had peace to offer.

If handled properly by the American people, the present "Red Scare" will die away completely. Some among us have always tried to mention the Third Party and Communism in the same sentence, in an effort to impress the two terms in the minds of the people. But the people won't be fooled, not with the present juggernaut of the Un-American Activities committees and southern revolts. Peace and American freedom are not so easily thrown to the four winds as some would like.

Too, all the people who believe Henry Wallace and the Third Li... are Un-American will be present to criticize and find fault Co..., at Gilmore. But the truth is a powerful weapon, and Wallace is armed with nothing less.

THE REALM OF RELIGION

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: Malachi Demands Sincere Religion. Lesson Text and Outline. Malachi 1:1, 6-9; 13-14; 3:7-12. Motto Text Luke 6:46.

(Introduction)

The book of Malachi first takes account of the surrounding darkness with its unrequited love, its polluted offerings, its impious priests, and its unfaithful husbands; and then looks to the light ahead with its promise of the coming Messenger, its duty of returning to God, and its warning against forgetfulness of God.

(Comment)

1. It was of great weight and importance; what the false prophets said was light as the chaff, what the true prophets said was ponderous as the wheat. This burden of the word of the Lord was sent to Israel, for to them pertained the lively oracles of prophecy as well as those of the written word. Many prophets God had sent to Israel, and now he will try them with one more. By the hand of Malachia, as if it were not a message by word of mouth, but a letter put into his hand, for the greater certainty. God will have a saying to unfaithful ministers; and it concerns those who speak from God to his people to hear and heed what he says to them, that they may save themselves in the first place, otherwise how should they help to save those that hear them? We are every one of us to look upon God as our Father and Master, and upon ourselves as his children and servants. Our relation to God as our Father and Master strongly obliges us to fear and honour him. If we honour and fear the fathers of our flesh, much more the Father and Master of our spirits. There cannot be a greater provocation to God than the profanation of his name; for it is holy and reverend. His purity cannot be polluted by us, for he is unspotted, but his name may be profaned and othing profaned is more than the misconduct of priests, whose business it is to do honour to it. Sinners ruin themselves by studying to baffle their own convictions; but they will find it hard to kick against the pricks. Those greatly profane and pollute God's name who devise the business of religion, though it is very honourable, as not worth taking pains in, and the advantages of religion, though highly valuable, as not worth taking pains for. Those who live in a careless neglect of holy ordinances, who come to them and attend on them irreverently, and go away from them never the better and under no concern, do in effect say, "The table of the Lord is contemptible; there is neither virtue nor value in it, neither credit nor comfort from it.

2. Let us be faithful both to God and to all with whom we have to do, that God himself is a witness both to all our covenants and toll our covenant-breaches; and he is a witness against whom there lies no exception. It is highly aggravated by the consideration of the person wronged and abused. First, "She is thy wife; thy own, bone of thy bone and flesh of thy flesh, the nearest to thee of all the relations thou hast in the world, and to cleave to whom thou must quit the rest. "Secondly, "She is the wife of thy youth, who had thy affections when they were the strongest, was thy first choice and with whom thou hast lived long. Thirdly, 'She is thy companion; she has long been equal sharer with thee in thy cares, and griefs, and joys. "The wife is to be looked upon, not as a servant, but as a companion to the husband, with whom he should freely converse and take sweet counsel, as with a friend, and in whose company he should take more than in any others: for is she not appointed to be thy companion? Fourthly, "She is thy wife of thy covenant, to whom thou art so firmly bound that, while she continues faithful, thou canst not be loosed from her, for it was a covenant for life. It is thy wife with whom thou hast covenanted, and who has covenants with three; there is an oath of God between you, which is not to be trifled with, is not to be played fast and loose with, "Married people should often call to mind their marriage vow, and review them with all seriousness, as those that make conscience of performing what they promised.

3. God takes notice what returns our hearts make to the calls of his word, what we say and what we think when we have heard a sermon, what answer we give to the message sent us. When God calls us to return, we should answer as those did. It is with those who thus count reproofs reproaches, and kick against the prick. They are ignorant of themselves, and of the strictness, extetnt, and spiritual nature, of the divine law, that they see nothing in themselves to be repented of, or reformed; they are pure in their own eyes, and think they need no repentance. Many ruin their own souls by baffling the calls that are given them to repent of their sins. Robbing God is such a heinous crime that those who are guilty of it are not willing to own themselves guilty. They rob God, and know not what they do. They rob him of his honour, rob him of that which is devoted to him, to be employed in his service, rob him of themselves, rob him of sabbath-time, rob him of that which is given for the support of religion, and give him not his dues or their estates; and yet they ask, Wherein have we robbed thee? Those that deny God his part of their estates may justly expect a curse upon their own part of them. Those that will deal with God must deal upon trust; and we may all venture to do so, for, though many have been losers for him, never any were losers by him in the end. God has a blessing ready to bestow upon us, but, through the weakness of our faith and narrowness of our desires we have not room to receive them.

It is not enough to hear the sayings of Christ, but we must do them; not enough to profess relation to him, as his servants, but we must make conscience of obeying him. It is putting an affront upon him to call him Lord, Lord, as if we were wholly at this command, and had devotted ourselves to his service, if we do not make conscience of conforming to his will and serving the interests of his kingdom. We do but mock Christ, as they that in scorn said, Hail, King of the Jews, if we call him ever so often Lord, Lord, and yet not walk in the way of our own hearts and in the sight of our own eyes.

Church and Democracy Challenges AME Conf. 12 Bishoprics Planned

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—Dr. James W. Eichelberger, head of Religious Education, A.M.E. Zion church, gave the state of Kentucky and the nation a stirring challenge to make democracy work or suffer the rising favoritism of Communism, in his response to the welcome address of the 33rd quadrennial meeting of the General Conference of the A.M.E. Zion Church which began here last week.

Dr. Eichelberger told acting Mayor Dan Byck and the audience that the time had come that Louisville, Ky., and the world would have to accept the teachings of Jesus Christ or both democracy and the world would be a dismal failure.

Mrs. William J. Halfter (white) sat down amid thunderous applause when she told of her organization, the United Council of Church Women, where nothing is ever said of color or origin. "The only prerequisite to being a member is to be a Christian" she said.

Bishop W. J. Walls of Chicago, called for a social action program that would start among the people and be for the people. H said the Church should take the lead in this great fight for human rights and spoke of the "small" ministers with their privations as the "men in the trenches" in the warfare for the world.

In a special interview Bishop Walls told of his recent trip abroad and what America could do to aid the war-stricken people. He attacked the Taft-Hartley bill, and said he felt that Labor was entitled o a tbetter deal than that which it gets from the T. H. law.

Bishop Walls also read a telegram from Roy Wilkins in which he called upon the church to continue its support of the NAACP. The conference went on record as endorsing the NAACP, and praised the association for the many battles it has won for the rights of Negroes.

Bishop J. W. Martin delivered the quadrennial address for the Board of Bishops Thursday morning, in which he recommended that 12 episcopal areas be set up. If this rule is adopted there will be two new bishops elected. There are many members of the conference, however, who wish three new bishops elected: 12 for continental America, and one for Africa.

Christian Science Text 'Mortals and Immortals'

"Mortals and Immortals" will be the Sunday Lesson-Sermon subject in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. This declaration by Paul to the Corinthians will be the Golden Text: "As we have borne the image of the earthy, we shall also bear the image of the heavenly."

It is recorded in II Kings that "Elisha sent a messenger unto" Naaman, the leper, "saying, Go and wash in Jordan seven times, and thy flesh shall come again to thee and thou shalt be clean. But Naaman was wroth, . . and went away in a rage. And his servants came near, and spake unto him, and said, My father, if the prophet had bid thee do some great thing, wouldest thou not have done it? how much rather then, when he saith to thee, Wash, and be clean? Then went he down, and dipped himself seven times in Jordan, according to the saying of the man of God: and his flesh came again like unto the flesh of a little child, and he was clean."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" Mary Baker Eddy says, "Willingness to become as a little child and to leave the old for the new, renders thought receptive of the advanced idea. . . . The purification of sense and self is a proof of progress."

Labor Radio Committee Rallies Aid To Berman

The benefit party sponsored by the Los Angeles Labor Radio Committee "to keep Averill Berman and other liberal announcers on the air," held at Park View Manor, Saturday night, was a great success.

There were some 500 persons in attendance and Mrs. Lena Hammer was chairlady-in-charge of the program. Seated at the speakers' table were Ellis Patterson, Rev. Hugh Weston, Rev. Owen Geer, Judge Stanley Moffatt, Peter DeLima, Norman Smith, (financial secretary of the Los Angeles Labor Radio Committee) Phyllis Ziffren, Mrs. C. A. Bass, Averill Berman, Lloyd Goff, who emceed the program, Penn Vendervoort, chairman of the Los Angeles Labor Radio Committee, and Ben Dada, representing Carpenters' Union, Local 769 of Pasadena.

A very interesting and enjoyable musical program was rendered. Lee Winter sang two numbers, "Ole' Man River," and "I Am a Jew," which were enthusiastically received. He was accompanied by his wife. Dr. Sal Mattlin played an accordion selection.

The main address of the evening was delivered by Peter DeLima, outstanding radio commentator.

In response to the committee's request for contributions to keep Mr. Berman and other liberal announcers on the air, a total amount of $2100.00 was raised during the evening.

To Celebrate Birth of Jewish State

Confident in the ultimate victory of the just decision of the United Nations for the partition of Palestine and the establishment of a Jewish State, the American Jewish Labor Council and the IKUF will celebrate the historic event on the eve of the official proclamation for the Jewish State of Palestine, and to rally support for its defense, and development of Jewish culture, Saturday, May 15th, 8:00 p.m. at the Embassy Auditorium, 9th and Grand Ave.

Addressing this meeting will be Mrs. Phyllis Ziffren, president of the Los Angeles Chapter of Hadassah, and Henry Sazer, Executive Secretary of the Los Angeles Chapter of the AJLC, who recently returned from the National Pilgrimage to Washington where he led a delegation to the State Department, and attended a meeting of the Special Session of the United Nations of Palestine.

This celebration will be fittingly coupled with the reception originally scheduled for the famous Jewish Poet and National Secretary of YKUF, Mr. Z. Weinper, who will be a guest of honor at this occasion.

Creation of House of Justice at Baha'i

Creation of the House of Justice is the subject of the talk to be given by Mr. Robert Thiess at the Los Angeles headquarters of Baha'i World Faith, 331 South New Hampshire Avenue, on Sunday afternoon, May 16, at three o'clock.

Baha'u'llah, Founder of the Faith, declared that a house of Justice must be established in each community. This body, elected by the people, is to be composed of men and women so qualified that they may be "trustees of the Merciful among men."

When the Universal House of Justice is organized the members will do their utmost for the realization of greater cordiality and comity amongst the nations.

Fraternal Officer on Organizational Tour

Dtr. Alberta D. Parker, the Imperial Oriental Guide of the Daughters of Isis, journeyed to Phoenix, Ariz., May 4 to establish a new Court of Isis, having been deputized by the Imperial Commandress of the Jurisdiction.

ALBERTA PARKER

She charged this new court to ever uphold the rules and regulations, and diligently persevere the practice of each law, bearing in mind that they are never to be infringed upon by a similar organization's statutes. That sisterly love, charity and respect are due each officer and member, and to preserve and enjoy, by example, the high moral status, convincingly to all people.

She is a tireless worker, full of activity, and enjoys people, as demonstrated by her varied connections. She is a Past Dtr. Ruler of Hiawatha Temple No. 91, Dtr. Elks; Past Gr. Nat. Directress of the Shrine of Gr. Dtr. Elks; a member of Deborah Chapter No. 13, O.E.S.; Past M.A.M. of Poinsettia Court No. 16, Heroines of Jericho; Past Princess Captain of Palestine Guild No. 1, Templar Crusaders; Gr. Chaplain of Gr. P.H. Guild of California Jurisdiction; Loyal Lady Secretary of Los Angeles Assembly No. 7 of the Golden Circle.

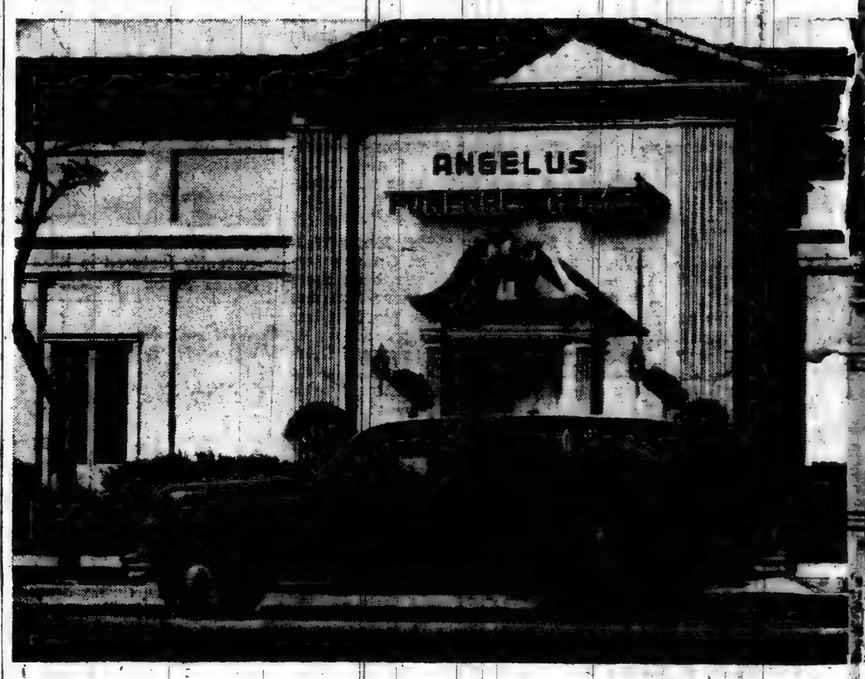
Dr. Barber Elected To General Assembly

Dr. Jesse B. Barber, Dean of the Lincoln University Theological Seminary, was elected by the Presbytery of Chester as Commissioner to the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. The General Assembly meets this year in Seattle, Washington. Dr. Barber is going as one of the two ministerial delegates from the Chester Presbytery.



The trip to Seattle will be in the nature of a homecoming for Dr. Barber, because it was in this city he held his first pastorate after graduating from Lincoln.

In addition to his commissionership, Dr. Barber goes to the General Assembly as a member of the Appraisal Committee of the Council on Theological Education and as Co-Director of the Institute of Racial and Cultural Relations. In the latter project the Dean is associated with Rev. William M. McConaghy, who is the director.

Mayor Pransky Honored At Testimonial Dinner

The Nickabob Restaurant, 875 So. Western Avenue, was the colorful setting for the elaborate Installation Testimonial Dinner tendered Mr. Myer Pransky, outgoing president, by the American Jewish Council, Monday evening, May 10.

Judge Ben Rosenthal acted as chairman for the meeting and also performed the installation ceremony.

The affair began with dinner at 6:30, followed by national convention reports, speaking, and headline entertainment by Dave Barry, film and radio comedian and Jack Hilliard, musical comedy star.

Many words of praise and commendation were extended Mr. Pransky for the fine work he has done in this and many other organizations with which he is connected. Gracious words were forthcoming from Mrs. Anne Pollock, past president of the Women's auxiliary, as well as Mrs. Pransky, wife of the honoree, and other members of his family who shared in the honor.

Among the speakers, also, was the incoming president of the Women's Division, Mrs. Harris.

Incoming officers installed were: President, Max Lipin; Vice-Presidents, John Best, Eliezer Ettinger, Morris Leibowitz, Fred C. Pollock, Morris Pollock, Herschel Rosenthal and William Strong; Treasurer, Henry Corby; Financial Secretary, Harry Spitzer; Recording Secretary, Carl Weiner, and Corresponding Secretary, Morry Schoenfeld.

Press representatives present were J. Weisman, of the Jewish Press; Ben Gash of the Jewish Voice; George Spiller of Spiller Associates, and Charlotta A. Bass of the California Eagle.

Official Tribute and Special Award to Mr. Pransky were made by Judge Ben Rosenthal on behalf of the members of the American Jewish Council.

Dr. Jordan Boosted For AME Bishop

The election of the members of the Episcopal committee of the A.M.E. church was one of the first orders of business at the 33rd session of the General Conference of that church which opened in Kansas City, Kans. last week.

Members elected are: Dr. Harry M. Davis, of the Southern California Conference; Dr. George F. Mantix, Nebraska Conference; Mr. George City, Southern California; and Mr. Chester L. Gaskin, Kansas.

All bishops must appear before this committee before election. Friends of Dr. F. D. Jordan, pastor of the First A.M.E. Church, Towne avenue, Los Angeles, are boosting him for bishop of the 5th Episcopal District. Dr. T. J. Burwell was elected general chairman of the 5th Episcopal District delegation.

A concert, "The Ordering of Moses" by Nathaniel Dett was rendered in the Kansas City Philharmonic orchestra.

If you have great talents, industry will improve them; if but moderate abilities, industry will supply their deficiencies.

Church Conference Hits U S. Policy

BOSTON, Mass.—Bishop Alexander Preston Shaw, head of the Baltimore area and one of the five Negro bishops of the Methodist church, presided over the business sessions of the quadrennial general conference of the Methodist church here last Saturday. Tis was the second time a Negro bishop has presided over a general confrence, the first time having been in 1940.

Bishop G. Bromley Oxnam, of New York, serving as secretary of the conference, lashed out at the foreign policy of the United States by declaring that "sabre rattling" could never be counted on to defeat an ideology because weapons of war which might serve as a block to imperialistic armies could not stop "the infiltration of an idea."

He insisted that "What we are becomes more important than what we are against, because it is the practice of democracy and the creation under freedom, of justice and of brotherhood that will eradicate communism. An attack upon communism, unaccompanied by a democratic program, is not likely to be successful."

TOMB OF THE BAB

The construction of the arcade of the tomb of the Bab on Mount Carmel in the Holy Land, is the one great project commanding the attention of the international Baha'i community, as reported at the Baha'i convention held in Wilmette, Ill., near Chicago last week. It was the Bab who in 1844 sounded the dawn of this world era.

Mrs. Robert W. Kenny, one of the 19 delegates from Southern California who attended the Baha'i convention, reports that recent developments show the steady growth of the Baha'i faith in the world.

Central and South America and ten countries of Europe were represented at the conference, in addition to the delegates from the United States and its territories.

Other delegates to the convention from Los Angeles and vicinity were: Mrs. Virginia Foster, Mr. Winston Evans, Mrs. Jesma Herbert, Mrs. Clyde Longyear, Mr. Robert Thiess, Dr. Charles Witt, Miss Georgina Fitzgerald, Mrs. Nellie French, Mrs. Holsinger, Mrs. Anedee Gibson, and Mr. Charles Wolcott.

Nearly 600 delegates registered for this 40th annual convention of Baha'i.

Success in life depends upon persistent effort, upon the improvement of moments more than upon any other one thing.

In addition, there will be games, a fish pond, country store, needlework and miscellaneous booths, parcel-post packages, religious articles, cakes, ice cream, soft-drinks, hotdogs, and entertainment and music each evening by prominent stars of the screen and radio.

Laymen's Hour Is Popular Radio Fare

Recently recognized by the University of Chicago as being the nation's most outstanding worship-type of radio program, the Laymen's Hour advances to a new station, KFWB (dial 980) and a new listening time, 9:30 p.m., this Saturday, May 8, and every Saturday thereafter.

Winner of many awards for its refreshing format of a four-to-one preponderance of music over speaking, the Laymen's Hour is distinguished by its sponsorship by non-clergical, all-laymen business men rather than by a religious organization.

The Baptist Men's council of Southern California, the sponsors, is headed by insurance men, voice teachers, personnel directors, steel corporation supervisors, and other laity in various walks of professional life.

The choral music of the Laymen's Hour on KFWB Saturday evenings bids for listening pleasure among all music lovers, regardless of denomination.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of my darling mother, Fanny Billoups Brown, who passed away 4 years ago, May 17, 1944.

Deep in my heart is a picture worth more than silver or gold,
It is a picture of that Mother of mine, that will never grow old.
I cannot stand where Moses stood and view the landscape over,
But I shall meet you, Mother,
in Canaan land when my life's work is over.

Mary Bowden Wins Coast Oratory Title

In an intellectual wave of majestic eloquence Jefferson High School's dynamic oratress Mary Bowden made it a clean sweep in her conquest of the Pacific Coast finals in the Benjamin Franklin oratorical contest. A huge crowd in the ornate, hall of Mills college, thrilled to the eloquence of Miss Bowden and Irving Sulmeyer, both Los Angeles contestants who made it a tripple-winning feat. Each of these Southern California orators were recipients of first place on the score sheet of all three of the Judges.

Both Miss Bowden and Sulmeyer won the right to appear in the National finals of the Hearst Oratorical Awards at Chicago May 14. They left Saturday enroute to compete at Chicago.

Miss Bowden had at her command such appeal, that her gestures held her audience spellbound, she built her speech steadily to a resounding climax that won her both the popular verdict from the huge crowd and the judicial nod.

In awarding the two Southern Californianians their triumph, the judges expressed extreme gratification over the talent of the speakers and the excellence of the training which helped them to reach their present perfection. A gala entertainment program had relaxed the young contestants and helped prepare them for the gallant efforts they made in the contest.

New Policies Of Watts Youth Center Finished

Mr. Abraham Thomas, chairman of the Watts Youth Center Advisory Committee stated that after two months of diligent work the committee has now completed a set of policies and application form concerning the use of the Watts Youth Center to be recommended to the Y.W.C.A. for its use in directing the center.

The policies recommended grew out of a study of policies of similar buildings and those of the Los Angeles Board of Education, as well as the thinking of experienced persons along those lines, the need of Youth in this area and the fact that the center was established to serve Youth and not as a commercial venture.

Mr. Thomas added that while the recommended policies were based on sound principles and experiences, the group realized that further experiences or other needs may reveal a needed charge in policy. At present the CYO, YMCA, and YWCA, are using the building five afternoons and evenings a week with an occasion Saturday evening and Sunday added. At no time will the use of the building by outside groups effect the agency program in the building neither will activity be conducted in the building which is not in good taste for developing Youths.

Other than Mr. Thomas, the Watts Center Advisory Committee includes Mesdame Lillian Grenna, Eva Holden, Sabina Mendoza, M. Fewster, Walter Giles, Herb Leibowitz, Area Coordinator and a staff person from each of the agencies.

Wife Slayer Claims It Was Self Defense

LONG BEACH (NPB)—A 48-year-old naval dock employe, Moses A. Clark, was being held in the prison ward of the General hospital, following the shooting to death of his common-law wife, Dorothy Clark, in the trailer court they occupied at 607 Los Ceritos near here. The fatal shooting took place May 5.

Clark told Long Beach police officers he shot his wife when she attacked him with a butcher knife during an argument. In the scuffle preceding the shooting, Clark himself was wounded in some unexplainable manner with the same weapon with which Mrs. Clark was slain. Atty. Walter L. Gordon Jr., who has been retained to represent Clark, said he will plead self defense.

South Gate Wallace Committee

Formation of a "South Gate Committee for Wallace, Moffatt and Seely" has been announced following a meeting at the South Side Women's Club in South Gate last night. The main speaker, Judge Stanley Moffatt, candidate for Congress from the 18th Cong. District, again condemned the Truman Administration's drive to war. Other speakers at this meeting, sponsored by the 18th District Headquarters of the Independent Progressive Party, were Garretson Seely, Candidate for Assembly from the 69th District and Harper Poulson, Southern Calif. Director of the Independent Progressive Party.

Seely struck at the Taft-Hartley Law and increasing inflation, declaring that as a candidate of the new party he adhered to its complete program of peace, jobs, and audience with his statement that contrary to the earlier view of the Wallace movement, Wallace's election to the Presidency is now considered a definite possibility. He described the formation of the Independent Progressive Party as a "spontaneous demand of the people for a political party that would give them a voice in government."

Explaining that the "Wallace, Moffatt and Seely Club" is still in the embryonic stage, Howard Rose, chairman of the meeting states that complete organizational plans will be completed in the immediate future. He asks that all interested persons contact the Independent Progressive Party at 815 N. Long Beach Blvd. in Compton.

Omerberg Proud Wallace Supporter

Commenting on State Senator Jack B. Tenney's charge of "Communist front activities," Maynard J. Omerberg, candidate for the 15th Congressional District seat, said today:

"By now all thinking Americans know the significance of Tenny's wild accusations in an election year. Tenny's Committee 'introduced a handful of cards which purporedly contain information to show Communist front activities of a number of candidatets for public office seeking the Independent Progressive Party nomination' is what the press reported. My name, along with some 20 other candidates followed. If Tenney's cards imply that I am a member of the Progressive Citizens of America and the Wallace for President Committee, thanI assure the Senator that he has the right man.

"As a candidate for Congress, I publicly have stated I am in accord with the policies and principles of the Progressive Citizens of America, regardless of what Senator Tenney chooses to label that organization. Here I make my stand, and here as a good American, I hope I shall always make my stand—on the side of the people."

DRINKING AND DRIVING

"Drinking when planning to drive is a serious violation of both common sense and common decency," declares Bert Stewart, Jr., Public Safety Director of National Automobile Club. "Alcohol when taken into the system even in small quantities definitely impairs vision, judgment, muscular efficiency, and gives the driver a false confidence that lures him into taking those long chances that so often lead to serious accidents."

Sports of All Sorts

By Stanley Robertson, Eagle Sports Editor

Open Letter To Herschell Simth

Mr. Herschell Smith
Compton College
Dear Sir:

Among the great sporting events of our time—the World Series in Baseball, the Rose Bowl in football, the Stanley Cup playoffs in ice hockey, the Davis Cup matches in tennis, and the Tam O'Shanter in golf, the annual Compton Games sponsored by Compton College and the City of Compton, holds a place of honor and esteem.

Upon the track and field, at your Ramassaur Stadium, some of the greatest times and finest runners ever known to the cinders and sawdust of the world have been seen and have recorded fine times. Men like the late Cornelius Johnson, Gunder Haog, Barney Ewell, Gil Dodds, and scores of others have competed in friendly strife at Compton. To list the men of greatness who have been seen at Compton would be like reading from the encyclopedia of great American and foreign athletes.

Mr. Smith, Compton College and the City of Compton has well the right to be proud of their annual–"games."

But Mr. Smith, I heard something the other day that leads me to believe that the Compton Games are losing a lot of their luster and fairness.

Hawnk Williams, former prep half mile champ from Belmont High School, and currently running as a freshman on the Pepperdine track team, informed me that although several men he has beaten have been invited to take part in the Compton meet, he has either been missed or slighted. Anyway, whatever way you want to put it, the guy wasn't invited to run in that corking 800 meters you've planning for the games.

You may not be familiar with the lad Mr. Smith, so just for the record here goes. Williams has been timed in under 1.54. He's beaten SC's favorite son, Bob Chambers, and according to several unbiased observers at Saturday's Pepperdine-LAAC meet at Westwood, Williams REALLY beat the heralded Johnny Fulton, although the verdict was given to the Athletic club's half miler.

With victories over Chambers, and several other runners you've invited to compete, and a unrecognized conquering of Fulton-whom you know is considered to be America's number one half miler—don't you think Williams deserves a crack at guys like Mal Whitfield, Reggie Pearman, and the other fine runners who will be on hand?

Well, Mr. Smith, if after impressive victories like the above mentioned ones, you don't think Williams can run in the same company as the others invited, I think you'd better change the name of your meet from the Compton Games to the Compton Follies.

Sincerely,
Stan Robertson

The Most Improved Athlete In Town

You can talk of your Minor's, Barksdale's Ed Crawford's and Bobby Smith's, but for my money, the local athlete who has shown the most improvement, has thrilled me the most by his performances, and has been most unsung, is a quiet, serious lad named Ernest Lightner of UCLA.

If you were out at last Saturday's SC-UCLA track meet, Lightner was the guy who chased Mel Patton to the tape in the century and furlong.

About now, I guess you're asking why a guy that runs second should be such a phenominal athlete? To understand why I'm sold on his man Lightner, you'll have to go back a little way; back to a time when Ernie Lightner couldn't place in a 10.1 hundred if he had to. Back to a time when Lightner was just another guy who liked to run around Jefferson High School.

It was only last spring that Lightner was lucky if he grabbed a third in a 10 flatter, or placed in a 22.9 furlong. When most of the so-called "smart guys" were telling Ernie to quit, and guys with more natural ability and less guts were dropping out of the Bruin ranks, Lightner stayed on and tried harder. By the time the last meet rolled around, Lightner had made just enough points (with a little help) to win a varisty monogram.

Most guys would have been satisfied, but not Lightner. All last fall and through the winter, Lightner trained in gym classes. Practicing starts and building up his legs.

Spring came around, and his work paid off. Against Stanford, his best day, Lightner did 9.8 and 21.3, and in doing it, he bested fleet footed hurdler Corig Dixon, one of the fastest men on the coast.

Ernie Lighter has one more season at Westwood, and I'm laying a dime to a penny that Lightner will go on to record better times in the sprints. He may not be the best athlete ever to come to Westwood, but Ernie Lightner could easily be the one with the most guts and endearance.

Medicore high school athletes seem to be stimiluated by that Westwood air. Remember a guy named Hal Sinclair in the days just prior to World War II? At L. A. high, Sinclair couldn't beat a slow freight, but he went out to UCLA and set a school record (which I still think stands). I wonder what's in the Westwood air?

Doby Prove A Point

If there was any doubt in the minds of any skeptics that Lary Doby wasn't going to "stick" with the Cleveland Indians, there should be none now. If you've been following the box scores of the Indian games, you know that Doby's been hitting at a terrific clip. Sunday, he uncorked a homer for 450 feet, the second longest one ever hit in Washington's Griffith Stadium. Monday, he hit four for four—a homer, a triple and two singles—these aren't rare instances, they're more the run of the day with Doby.

The performance of Doby seems to illustrate something we said last week, seasoning never hurt anyone.

Of course, we are speaking of Ted Ritchey staying another season with the San Diego club instead of being formed out, or changed to the outfield.

As you all know, Doby was sent up to the Cleveland club last year, but he failed miserably as an infielder. But manager Lou Boudreau recognized that he had a potiential star on his hands, and Doby stayed. He could have easily been traded, but he was retained for another year.

Changed to be the outfield, Doby has caught fire this year. His hitting has been sensational. Ted Ritchey can develop into a better player than Doby, if he stays around and gets this valuable experience in the Coast League, because of two things:

First of all, where Doby is a notoriously bad fielder (he's leading the American loop in errors made) Ritchey is an outstanding fielder. Secondly, I think Ritchey is a better natural hitter than Doby.

If Ritchey's fans will control their clamoring and he can control his "benchitis" John Ritchey can easily be the next Negro to go up to the Major Leagues.

Woodly Lewis Making Good At Oregon

In a recent article published in the "Daily Oregonian" the official school paper of the University of Oregon, Oregonian Sports Editor, Frank Smith says that Woodly Lewis, former All-Conference back from Los Angeles City College, has caught the eyes of Coach Jim Aiken and is currently alternating at the number one left halfback spot in Spring grid practice. Smith goes on to say that Lewis looks like an almost cinch bet to be the starting left halfback came fall . . . Up and down the coast and throughout the country, the talk is that this team up in Oregon will be in the Rose Bowl come January 1 . . . If that team is being rated that high and Lewis is alternating at the number one halfback job, Woodly must be really racking 'em back . . . We aren't surprised though, if you'll remember, as far back as last September, we were singing the praises of this swivel hipped lad.

Here and There

John Finney, star back from Compton who accompanied Woodly Lewis up to Oregon, has dropped out of school, but says that he will give it another crack come next Fall . . . The trouble seems to have been that Finney being in extension school, couldn't practice football or hold down a university job (it's against the Pacific Coast Conference rules) . . . Finney plans to go to summer

Patton, LeBeach Meet Saturday at Fresno

FRESNO—The most discussed and publicized rivalry since the old Peyton Jordon-Frank Wycoff duels of more than 20 years ago, will be continued here at Radcliffe Stadium Saturday night, when Lloyd LaBeach and Mel Patton match strides in the 100 meter and 200 meter dashes as the highlight of the 13th running of the Fresno Relays.

Eyes on London — Cloutin' Clarence Henry, Golden Glove Heavyweight Champion and winner in the recent European-American amateur boxing championships will be on hand June 2, 3, and 5, at the Hollywood Legion Stadium when the California Olympic Games Tournament is held. (See story).

Although more than 500 athletes from all sections of the United States and abroad will be on hand to battle one another in this meet that shapes up to be the first real test of American Olympic strength, all eyes of the sporting world will be on the Patton-LaBeach sprint duels.

"If he doesn't have to run qualifying heats in the 100, Patton will be ready, and will lick LaBeach," says the flying Trojans coach, greying, bow tie wearing, Dean Bartlett Cromwell.

LaBeach, "who lives, eats and sleeps doting over the idea of beating Patton, said simply, "I'll beat him, I know I will."

The opinion of the experts on the outcome of the race seems to be divided. Some favor Patton, mainly on the belief that he hasn't really "opened up" or been "pushed" yet this season, and that Dean Cromwell is a master handler of athletes and if he says Patton is ready, he's ready.

On the other hand, LaBeach supporters claim that the long legged lad literally "breezed" through the 10.3 Coliseum record 100 meter tying time 2 weeks ago. Also that LaBeach is stronger and has more power than the 145 pound, 5 ft. 11 inch Trojan. The boys that favor LaBeach also point to the fact that of the four times that the two have met, LaBeach has bested Patton three of these times.

Only time can tell who'll win—LaBeach or Patton.

Start in Minors, Bite Tongues, Jackie Advises Young Ballplayers

CHICAGO—Negro ball players in the big leagues dare not argue their points in disputes with white players or umpires, declares Brooklyn Dodger star Jackie Robinson in a signed article in the current issue of Ebony magazine.

"Until the time comes when a Negro player can go out and argue his point as well as any other ball player," Robinson says, "I hope all of us are able to bite our tongues and just play ball."

Robinson, who was chosen Rookie of the Year in 1947 by the Sporting News, wrote the article which is entitled "What's Wrong With Negro Baseball," to refute charges that Branch Rickey "stole" him from the Kansas City Monarchs, a team in the Negro American League. The charges were made by Monarch owner Tom Baird and were recently published in the Sporting News.

Commenting on Branch Rickey's motives in signing him Jackie says:

"I will always believe his reasons to be purely democratic in nature. I only hope that other owners will give more Negro players similar breaks.

"But I sincerely hope," Robinson adds, "they bring the players up through the minor leagues and give them a chance to become associated with other players before they step out into the majors."

Lions Honored

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. — 36 varsity football monograms and 14 boxing letters were presented by President Sherman D. Scruggs to members of the 1947 boxing and grid squads here Friday night, at the annual Varsity Sports Award banquet held on the campus of Lincoln University.

Steele in Relays

To the growing list of track and field stars who will participate in the 8th annual Coliseum Relays on the night of May 21, the name of Willie Steele, NCAA champion broadjumper from San Diego State was added this week when it was announced by the meet officials that the long soaring Border City lad had accepted an invitation to participate.

Steele, who won the NCAA meet with a terrific leap of 26 feet six inches, the longest jump recorded since the days of Jessie Owens, has already a mark of 25 feet 8 and ¾ inches to his credit this year.

With the announcement of Steele's acceptance, the stage has been set for one of the best broadjumping shows seen in quite some time. Previously Lorenzo Wright, premier eastern jumper from Wayne University, acceptance had been announced.

Demos Drop First Net Match to Sheiks

Although Oscar Johnson, No. 1 Green and Gold racquetman, defeated Hollywood High's highly-publicized Art Anderson, 6-3, 9-7, in the featured singles match, Jefferson's previously unbeaten and unheralded tennis team, lost its first match of the season, 4-3, to the cinema city lads, Monday afternoon on the Hollywood courts.

Johnson, who is considered by local tennis experts as a successor to the aging Jimmy McDaniels, played probably his stiffest competition to date when he met and defeated the Hollywood pride and joy Anderson.

Rams Sign Another Giant

Duane "Baby Face" Byars, 220-pound guard from West Texas State, was today added to the Los Angeles Rams' impressive list of promising rookies signed for the 1948 National Football League campaign.

Caliente, Old Mexico.

The highlights of racing last Sunady at Caliente was two middle-distances horses converted into sprinters and both winning their races beating some of the former sprints kings of the border course. In the feature event "The Mother's Day" Handicap, Mirrow Lake the 8 year old son of Mirafol-Farceuse scored a handily victory over the favored Lata and Love's Over the early pace maker. Stand-up Jockey H. Johnson rode the winner and for good measure he made it three in a row. His first win was on The Thinker, who paid $16. Ghost Hunt $9.40 and Mirrow Lake $10.20. Ghost Hunt and Mirrow Lake had been running in distances races nearly all winter but six furlong sprints with plenty early speed was made to order for these two former middle-distance runners. Ghost Hunt who won the co-feature ran the six furlongs in 1:11 4/5. While Mirrow Lake time for the same distance was 1:12 1/5. Apprentices Jockeys J. D. Porter and G. Yeutter both scored a double. The daily-double was won by the two favorites Pennywing in the second and Black Universe the third. The payoff was $9.60. The quinlela was different, its lucky back-

Democrats Dump Romans; Duane White Homers

Highlighted by the long home run of lanky short stop Duane White, Jefferson's hot and cold baseball team, manhandled a favored Los Angeles High team, 9-1, on the Roman's diamond Tuesday afternoon.

The win, knocked the Romans out of the third place spot, and assured the Democrats of at least a tie for last place in the Southern League.

White, a 6 ft. 3 inch senior, who lettered in '46 and '47, looks to be the only Democrat horsehider who has a chance of making the All-City nine. Rumors have it that the rangy shortstop, who reminds one of Marty Marion, will be signed by a major league club after graduation in June.

Chavez, Ruz Out; Board in L.A.

SACRAMENTO — Alex "Fabella" Chavez and Rudy Cruz, prominent boxers of Los Angeles, were on the list of boxers declared "Ill and unavailable" on the weekly bulletin published by the California State Athletic Commission.

Gordon Stars As Demos Drub Field in Rout; Preps in Prelims Sat.

By STANLEY ROBERTSON, Eagle Sports Editor

The words: "Jefferson's on the cinderpath, the cinderpath is hot . . ." were never as true as they were Thursday afternoon on the cinders of the Coliseum when the Democrats scored 90½ points—more than the other five teams combined—to easily win the 1948 Southern Leagu track and field championship.

Grabbing seven firsts, tying for another, placing in all events, and making a runaway of the mile relay, the Democrats were never headed, and the outcome never in doubt.

Led by fleet-footed Oliver Gordon, a refugee from the grid squad, who was the individual star with firsts in a 10.2 century, 180-yard low hurdles in 19.8, and ran a leg on the relay squad that won by a good 70 yards in the exceptional time of 3:00.6, the Green and Gold-clad Jeffities literally made what was supposed to be a six-way meet appear to be a dual meet — Jeff against the field.

Winning first places for the Demos were: Luther Butler, who successfully defended his league crown in the quarter by winning handily in a 50.1; Asworth Mingleton, who had to really get up and romp to win the furlong in 21.9; Bobby Smith, who pulled the meet's big upset by turning on the steam to beat heralded teammate Mossie Brooks in 2:02.9 half; Paul Johnson showed some nice form to grab the high sticks in 14.9; Bill Johnson, who nabbed the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet; and Norm Wood and Ed Young, the Democrats "Heavenly Twins," who had to be satisfied with a tie for first with Roosevelt's Richard Rhinehardt at 6 feet 3 inches in the JUS' DATA—BUT WHAT'S THE MATTA WITH DATA?

Caught the opening of Ethel Waters out at Florentine Gardens Monday night, along with your Mayor of Central Ave., Esvan Mosbey and EAGLE columnist Joe Harris who were in charge d'affairs, Eytel still satisfying with good old oldies—like Happiness, A Thing Called Joe, Frankie and Johnnie and of course Stormy Weather . . . Along with the added numbers, the regular Florentine Garden's show went on with the Rio Bros. a S-C-R-E-A-M!! Sitting around ringside, noticed pert and pretty Melba Fouppe with her party, The Hefflins, and eye catching Rose Wharton wearing one of those low-cut dresses showing the "right amount of everything" . . . The Mayor and his staff presented oodles and oodles of flowers to the grand lady of Stage, Screen and Radio . . . sitting at the piano as accompanist and handling those ivories as only he can, that well polished musician Fletcher Henderson . . . Great seeing Tucson Moore back in circulation again . . . Hadda Brooks dining and wining and listening to the entertaining of T. Bone Walker in the Last Word . . . Dreamy eyed Lois Elliot thinks that being a woman is a terribly difficult trade, since it consists principally of dealing with men . . . Angel city gamblers are having their worse season, many have dropped out of sight and are laboring honestly . . . Some we hear, are working on the railroad. (Gamblers gotta eat too, ya know) . . . Johnny Cornish's, wee hr. place, is the spot, that is if you're lookin for the spot! . . . That well known vocalist, who has been sailing on that high cloud had better come down to earth, cause her personality (if you wanta call it that) and her general attitude STINKS ! ! ! . . . Alice Keys is the lady in charge over at the Cricket Club, where the still singsational voice of Ivie Anderson can be heard along with the dancable music of the Johnny Otis band, the hip hurling of Anita Echols and the funny antics of Johnny Taylor and the shaply line-up of the cute chorines . . . SUDDEN THAWT: It takes a lot of experience for a girl to kiss like a beginner . . . Frank Davis heard the baby talking voice of Odalie Williams t'other day and said "Her voice is sweet enough to be rationed" but let me tell ya fella, you might as well throw it out of your mind, cause she's in love with a fella named Eddie (that's the guy she married) and he's wild about her! . . . Wally Hunter now the compiler of an Eastside Business Directory . . . You've read about them, you've listened to their recordings, you've seen their pictures round town, well they are here, those singsational fellas who call themselves "The Ravens," they'll appear at a local nitery in a very short while, watch the column for the date, place and time.

NOTES FROM YOUR NEWSGIRL'S NOTEBOOK

Stan Kenton will be the maestro in charge, June 11, at a concert in the San Diego Russ auditorium . . . A group of Business and Professional men-about-town are getting together on the Sunday afternoon of June 13 to stage a gala Homecoming Cocktail soiree for J. T. Gipson. More about the affair next week. All we know now is that T-Bone Walker, Hadda Brooks, Anita O'Day, Peggy Lee, Lena Horne, (and ohhh, sooo many others) will be on hand to wish the Gip a happy homecoming. Name of the group sponsoring the affair is known as SPORTSMEN ANONYMOUS . . . Hadda Brooks, fresh from a record-breaking tour of all over, is in town for a vacation . . . The show at the Last Word is the last word in shows! . . . J. Cullen Fentress has opened a new and modern print shop on the Westside of town. You remember him as one of the city's top pen-pushers . . . Earl Carter (of the EAGLE Adv. Dep't) is dreaming out loud. She's a cute little debutante . . . Leonard McClain's prescription for a cold: "Squeeze the juice out of a fifth of whiskey . . ." Suzette Harbin at Stuff's Backstage club, and looking as pretty as a picture . . . Lillian Randolph will do a half-hour show as a summer replacement for Paul Whiteman, beginning in June . . . The Winchell mention we told you about in last week's communique was heard by Leroy Johnson, who writes for a San Diego sheet—when he isn't in the Angel City trying to get Louise Robinson to say "yes" . . .. Aha! Jimmie Brown says "Love is like a bazar. The admittance is free but it costs you something before you get out." . . . Herb Jeffries going over with a bang at the bay city's "Club Lido" . . . Oh Brother!!! next time you want a drink that's really a drink ask your favorite bartender for a "Gertifinn" it's got a punch that'll knock you right out, if your bartender isn't hep to the drink then ask that popular mixiologist Bill, porter at the Club Congo to take care of you, just tell him it's a Gertifinn, that you want.

Connie Jordan At Backstage Breakfast Club

Julius "Stuff" Crouch's Back stage Breakfast club features the singing of Connie Jordan, and the singing of Connie Jordan is something truly wonderful.

Jordan, who recently concluded a smash engagement at Billy Berg's jive emporium out in Hollywood, is accompanied at the piano by Bill Austin, who likewise packed 'em in during his six week's stint at the Last Word.

In Jordan, Crouch has what the critics are hailing as the new singing find of the year. He is well known on the west coast, and is an extremely handsome singer with immense technique and the ability usually to use it testefully.

As a team, Jordan and Austin should hit the musical jackpot before not too many moons have passed into oblivion.

They're at Stuff's and Stuff's is where you'll find most of the after-theatre crowd who delight in downright superb musical entertainment.

BLUES AT MIDNITE—Gene Phillips, one of the top favorites of local niteries, will be giving the audiences their money's warth when he appears at the Beaux Arts theatre, 8th and Beacon st., Saturday night with his guitar and blues singing. (Photo by Nadel and Howard)

THAT'S JIMMY WEATHERSPOON looking hep and happy in the above pic. He shares billing nitely with T-Bone Walker at the Last Word cafe, and is proving a solid click with rhythm-rocking style of singing. Weatherspoon was formerly featured with the Jay McShann band and is a holdover from the last show at the Word.

Midnite Blues Session To Feature Noted Stars

"The Blues at Midnight," second in a series of unusual midnight folk-music concerts, will be given by Peoples Songs of California at the Beaux Arts theatre, 8th and Beacon st., Saturday night, May 15, 11:45 p.m.

Featured artists will include Marie Bryant, stage and night club star famed for her singing and dancing in "Jump For Joy." She will be accompanied by Hal Schaefer, Esquire Jazz award winner of 1947, who will also play blues as well as songs of his own composition.

The bill includes Evelyn T. Burwell in boogie piano stylings, and Gene Phillips, well known guitarist blues singer. Added attraction will be Butterfly McQueen, favorite of the Jack Benny radio program and screen comedienne.

Chas. Carpenter Concert

Charles Carpenter, graduate of Manuel Arts High School and student of Los Angeles City College, will be presented in concert by Men of Lincoln Memorial Congregational Church Sunday, May 16, at 5:30 p.m.

Mr. Carpenter will be assisted by Miss Marjorie Day, senior student at Thomas Jefferson High School. Mr. Carpenter has appeared as a soloist in Earl Robinson's "Lonesome Train" at the Hollywood Bowl, on radio programes, and as soloist on program with Lawrence Tibbett.

Miss Day and Mr. Carpenter will combine their talent in the lovely "Barcorolle" from Tales of Hoffman by Offenbach, also the duet "Softly as in a Morning Sunrise" by Romberg and Hammerstein, with Mr. Gerald Goldsmith accompanist.

Miss Brooks Is Back In Town!

Following a strenuous cross-country theatre-nightclub tour, in which she played to S.R.O. crowds, Hadda Brooks, "Miss Rhythm of the Keyboard," returned to Los Angeles last week for a much needed rest.

A deal is in the fire for the popular and beautiful singer-pianist to make a musical short during her rest period from May to September, and if she can be coaxed out of temporary retirement just long enough to okay a contract, she'll follow T-Bone Walker into the Last Word for two weeks.

"But that'll be the only date I'll take for awhile," says the lovely and talented Miss Brooks. "I came home to rest!"

Lil Randolph to Do Own Program

Hailed as one of Hollywood's top actresses, the talented Lillian Randolph who for the past eight years was a permanent fixture on the Gildersleeve show moved a notch further toward the ladder of success in being chosen by the American Broadcasting Company as a summer replacement for the Paul Whiteman show.

Miss Randolph, who in private life is the wife of a former boxing champ, will preview her new show, called "The Lillian Randolph Show," Saturday evening at 6:00 p.m. from Hollywood Radio City. Tickets for the broadcast may be had at the broadcasting studio, Sunset and Vine.

Also featured on the Lillian Randolph Show will be the world famous Jubilaires and "Buzz" Adlum's 20-piece studio band.

Ted Towles is writing the script.

SMILEY TURNER holds down the featured intermission spot along with pianist Lorenzo Flennoy at the Last Word cafe. Turner's style of singing is a bit different from other so-called "greats" of the chirping kingdom, in that he doesn't try to imitate Billy Eckstine, Frank Sinatra, etc., but sings in a delightful style all his own.

IN A GAY INFORMAL MOODat the Florentine Gardens during intermission of festivities of tribute to Ethel Waters night" were popular Attorney Curis C. Taylor's party in the Cocktail Room, left to right: Bill Day, Joe (Smoke rings) Harris, Olivia Daliet, Esvan (Mayor of Central Avenue) Mosby, Esther Cladwell, Assemblyman John E. Evans, Doris Krinehardt, Atty. Curtis C. Taylor, Christobel Morris, Mr. Braden, and Bill (CONGO CLUB) Heflin.

"FRANCES WILLIAMS NIGHT" will be held Friday, May 14, at Radio Center theater, 6000 Sunset blvd., Hollywood, when residents of this area are urged to attend a special performance of "Trial by Fire," the important racial drama by Father George H. Dunne. Proceeds of this performance of the nationally known play will go to aid the campaign of Frances E. Williams for the State Legislature, 63rd Assembly district. Members of the superb cast are Phyllis Nelson, Earl Smith and Arthur Bias. The curtain rises at 8:30 p.m.

Leading Musicians To Appear at Jeff On May 27 Feature

Eastside Los Angeles will enjoy a musical treat of great merit on Thursday, May 27, at 8:15 p.m. Under the leadership of Mrs. Massengill, the Southeast Symphony Association, and Jefferson High school, the Highland Park Symphony orchestra is to be presented in the Jefferson High school auditorium.

This is a program of outstanding musicians under the baton of Chester A. Perry. The orchestra has made numerous appearances, and has always been extremely well received. Wathea Jones, contralto soloist, and William D. Valentine, bass soloist, will appear as guests at the Concert.

Nash Singers in Opera

Three outstanding singers—Margaret Pett, Florence Crooksie and Harvey Huggins—will join the Julian Oliver and Hope Willson in taking the starring roles in the performance of the opera "Cavaleria Rusticana" by the Luvenia Nash Singers in Embassy auditorium on May 20.

Although this will be the third time that Mrs. Luvenia Nash's choral group has sung "Cavalleria" under these unusual and progressive conditions, it will be the first occasion that "I Pagliacci," which makes up the other half of the usual operatic double bill, has been sung by a mixed cast of Negro and white soloists, in Italian.

Huggins, together with Allen La Mont, will appear in the cast of "I Pagliacci." The cast of the opera will also include William Stellings, Josephine Lombardi, Rodolfo Hoyos and Robert Sharp. Mario De Silva will conduct the 26-piece orchestra in both works, under the stage direction of Braheen Urban.

At present Miss Chisholm is an artist student of Dr. Kenneth N. Westerman of the University of Michigan.

She was acclaimed as outstanding when she sang at the convention of the National Association of Negro Musicians in St. Louis, Mo., in 1937.

Her recent accomplishments include an appearance at Symphony Hall, Boston; singing of the role of "Micaela" in the Detroit Opera Guild's presentation of Bizet's "Carmen."

William Valentine, Basso

This young vocalist will appear in a solo recital Sunday, May 16, in the Grant's Chapel A.M.E., at 3:30 p.m. This is one of Valentine's rare appearances as a recitalist, we feel confident that residents of the area are in for a treat. There will be a small admission charge.

Two important musical works by the contemporary giants, Dmitri Shostakovich and Aaron Copland, will be presented for Los Angeles music lovers by the American Russian Institute on Friday, May 14, at Larchmont Hall.

The American Russian Institute, which is dedicated to the stimulation of greater exchange of cultural ideas between the composers and musicians of the United States and the U.S.S.R., will present this concert and panel discussion on Friday, May 14, at Larchmont Hall, 118 N. Larchmont, at 8:30 p.m. Tickets may be obtained at the offices of the American Russian Institute.

THE "KITTENS MITTENS":

All the Kings Men "(that is) all those who think they're in that category couldn't prevent the Mayor of Central Avenue" from going to Hollywood last Monday . . . why did he go there?? Well, I'll tell you . ... because he was invited . . . and where was he invited? . . . To the FLORENTINE GARDENS . . . one of Hollywoods most beautiful show-places. . . . What did he have in mind when he went out there? . . . To pay tribute to one of the grandest Ladies in the entertainment World. One whom has given some of the best years of her life in stage, radio, and screen activity . . . let's just say SHOW BUSINESS . . . and believe you me, her "best" is good enough for me, and surely audiences of both continents, thru the years, have found and pronounced her in terms of the "very great," now you must know that I'm speaking of none other than ETHEL WATERS, "MISS STORMY WEATHER" in the flesh. . . . so, yes, the "Mayor of Central Avenue" and Ye 'scribe' (your faithful servants) tried, in our humble way, to make it a night to be remembered . . . from the reaction, applause and comments, I think we did . . . right here and now, "Mayor" Esvan Mosby and myself wish to thank Mr. Monk, owner of the Florentine Gardens, his associates, "NTG," his very super-fine cast of show people, the personnel etc., and all of you lovely people who adhered to our invitations, ofr a very successful affair. . . . A special thanks to: those grand FLORIST, as follows: DOSTEY'S (Western Ave.), DOROTHY'S (Jefferson Blvd.), the JEFFERSON FLORIST (Jefferson Blvd.) and BROWNE'S (Avalon Blvd.) for your very grand cooperation . . . these are the type of people that make the world a better place to live in. . . . as for those feeble-minded "big-shots" who never want to co-operate with anything if they're not "running the show" (GOD BLESS YOU TOO) . . . among the fine patrons we chanced to meet and greet at this affair were: Dr. and Mrs. Clarence Armstrong and party; including lovely Hortense Stevens and Alfred Bland, Dr. and Mrs. Jackson (nee Josephine) and Mrs. Myrtle Jones, . . . Mrs. Maxine Thompson and party; including lovelies Rose Wharton, Sara Jones of (Chi), Mrs. Ratliff . . . Bob Walker and party (Bob, our very good friend, has just finished working in a pic, "LARCENY," which stars John Payne, and I'm looking forward to seeing Bob in a great part in Paramount's "CANYON CITY" . . . among others we glimpsed an entire booth full of glamour: Melba Foppe, Catherine Porter, Yvonne Shelton, Jess Batt, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Hollingsworth, Nolan Hollingsworth and Althea Jones of Berkeley, (she could easily be titled Miss "FBF," to keep you out've suspense, that means FINE BROWN FRAME) natch! . . . Mr. and Mrs. Burden (newlyweds) and their fine party, nice couple too, . . . I could go on and on, but space is limited (s'cuse please) . . . about handsome BILL DAY who assisted with some "solid" em-ceeing well lets just say Bill "took over" and made a great hit with the crowd, and but definitely with the "management," wouldn't be surprised if Hollywood "drafts" him, Hollywood biggies were still buzzin' about him at closing time . . . looks like you're "IN" Bill, yer kno' Bill sings mucho romantic baritone . . . the two "mayors" (Esvan and Maxie, of the Eastside, Westside respectively) really "broke it up" with their song and dance duo, and whattayano, the guys were approached with a deal to go into GEORGE WHITE SCANDALS. I say there ole' chappies, are you eheah? . . . another chap who thrilled no end with a surprise package of Bass-ology on "OLE MAN RIVER" was none other than DANNY ELMORE, ex-Bass lead with the famed RAVENS. . . . At the "Mayors" table were ATTY. Curtis C. Taylor, Pulchritudinous Doris Rhinehardt, Assemblyman John E. Evans (a fine fella if there ever was one), Bill (CONGO CLUB) Heflin, charming Christobel Morris, Mr. Braden (running for Congrass 14th dist.), personably lovely Esther Caldwell, petite and sweet Olivia Daliet (an Angel, believe me) and Bill (JACKS, BASKET ROOM) Day. . . . THEY SAY, history is made at night . . . but the kind of history thats being over-west-side way is sorta phenomenal, we're speakin' of the CRESBAR, where our veddy good fren' Nelson (the "togs") Creswell is the "major-domo" . . . the atmosphere is always on a "nostalgic" kick . . . we're glad that "Baby" Simmons (Mrs. Creswell) is out've the hospital and recuperatin' nicely. . . . Josephine Rhetta, oo-la-la, one of the more effervescent "frequenters" of the Cresbar, in my opinion, is endowed with that "Connecticut LOOK," but more than proud of the fact, she's a ST. LOUIS product, and what a "product," my, my, my!! . . . whenever I walk into the office (the EAGLE office I mean) my morale takes a jump as soon as I pass Jessie Mae Brown's (our society-eds) door, so full of cheer and "that there," it won't be long now before that fella "puts that ring on her finger," he should live so long (smile) . . . we like her writing and don't wanna lose her, see fella! . . . Our paisie, walsie Gertrude (Comments) Gipson, who writes "tomorrows "col-yum" TODAY (meaning the gal' is great) and her veddy oomphy sis' Lil Lomax looked like they just stepped from a page in VOGUE, which is real "WENT" in any language, of course, I don speek de Eengleesh so waal, but you get what I mean doncha! . . . Barrister-about-Town, genial Curtis C. Taylor, did it again, he threw an "after-party" following the affair at Florentine Gardens (mon. night) and when you say that Curtis threw a party, well thats all need be said, you naturally kno' the stuff was there and definitely "mel-low," but "mucho"!! and while we're on the subject I can tell ya, that attractively charming LaVada Ward threw a Birthday party at Atty. Taylors palatial manse last sat-dee night, the guests were served that delicious "boid" called TURKEY, cocktails, wine, and that other "bonded" stuff never ran out, as hostess Miss Ward is Queen, and just as good a cook, loads of guest thronged the place, to name a few of the guest: Eddie Grubbs, Mr. and Mrs. Neil Bowie, Leon Harrison, Paralee McIntosh, Mrs. L. Epps, Jimmie Harris, Dynamite Jackson and his love-wife Lulu Bendy, Ethel Mae Johnson and Mr. and Mrs. Savage and scads more. . . . Ben (the "great gabber") Wyatt, is rolling in "filthy-lucre" (that's money, if you wanna be technical) these ante-meridians, and to keep from becoming "bow-legged" he prefers, letting the local banks "carry it" for him (it'll last longer, smart fella eh? . . . It happened the other sun-down; one of those loud-mouthed wise-guys who thinks its the thing to do, to use the vilist type of profanity in the presence of anybody's mother, sister or wife . . . well, this "bloke" had one of his "sentences" abbreviated t'other night, with a "period," and what a PERIOD!! the period turned out to be the wholesome fist of a well-known business personality, (his wife was present when the "boob" over-sported his bad English. . . . Now . . . when said "boob" makes a statement, he has to do it with signs, his teeth served as a "down-payment toward better manners . . . that oughta be a lesson to other such "characters"! . . . Look forward, to some grand news to come from the dining-car waiters and Porters in the way of entertainment in the veddy nea future. . . . Scoop: the 8th and Hill St. Drug Store fountain won the CERTIFICATE OF ACHIEVEMENT award last week for having achieved and maintained a high degree of cleanliness, Courtesy and Service . . . add . . . this particular OWL DRUG fountain is the only one that is 90% Negro waitresses and fountain men. . . . That's a good deal . . . keep it up Girls.

SPORTING THE LATEST in fashion wear is T-Bone Walker, currently appearing and stopping shows nitely at the Last Word cafe, famed Central avenue nitery. Wearing an original white gabardine pointed-lapel suit, designed especially for him by fashion expert Joe King. The world-famed guitarist blues-singer has long been listed as one of the best dressed entertainers in the theatrical profession, and with Joe King (shown above with "The Bone") designing exclusively for him, Mr. Walker will no doubt remain in that category for many years to come.

Cafe Society Fetes Noted Blues Singer in High Fashion

By J. T. GIPSON
Theatrical Editor

T-Bone Walker opened to a record-breaking crowd last week at Factor and Miller's Last Word Cafe. Not since the old Frank Sebastian Cotton club days wfth Eddie Anderson headlining, has a night club patron been served with such a delightful dish of ultra entertainment as the Last Word management is presenting to its clientele nitely with a show studded with such stars as T-Bone Walker, Emily Foster, Jimmie Weatherspoon, Smiley Turner, the 5-Bits of Rhythm and others. It's a show worth walking the proverbial mile to see.

OPENING MISTRESS of ceremonies spot is aptly handled by a Foster named Emily, Harlem's answer to Betty Hutton. She introduces the acts in an easy to listen to style of delivery, with an ease in which good mistresses of ceremonies are made of.

Star of the show, and justifiably so, is Aaron (T-Bone) Walker. T-Bone Walker is a name that will always live in the hearts of music fans. He is truly the only singer around today who can rightfully be called the King of the Blues. He rates a nice round of applause and at the opening show caught by this reviewer had the gals in the audience reaching into their bags for swooning salts. What that guy T-Bone Walker does to a blues song is somthing that should happen tot other blues singers. Walker is definitely underrated, for he not only strums his electric Guitar along with the best of them, but sings the blues better than anyone we've yet heard.

Viva-la, T-Bone! Long live the King!!

The 5-Bits of Rhythm get off a couple of okay tunes played in the usual superb Bits of rhythm manner; Emily Foster (she's my pet of the niteclub set) looks and dances exceptionally well, and vocalist Smiley Turner is headed toward the top of the musical totem pole with a singing voice as easy on the ears as a mother's lullabye.

Jimfie Weatherspoon is held over from the last show, and what is there to be said about Jimmie Weatherspoon's singing that hasn't already been said before? He's terrific. Jimmie doesn't exactly feature slumber music so his singing goes off with a bang.

The Last Word is an intime, cozy little spot with indirect lighting as soft as the glow of altar candles, and hospitality personifying the peak of perfection. We enjoyed our visit there on T-Bone Walker's opening night.

On the whole, the show is a full 80 minutes of up tempo atomic entertainment that sent close to 500 opening night customers into a frenzy.

If you love a good show, you'll love the one that's current at the Last Word.

(ED'E NOTE: Songstress Maggie Hathaway, whose current Black and White record releases are selling like the proverbial Hot Cakes, is our guest columnist for the week. The only woman writer I enjoy reading is Gertrude Gipson, but as my femme singsong favorite, La Hathaway, put it:: "I'm a singer, not a writer—but I DO REMEMBER WHEN . . .") . . .

By MAGGIE HATHAWAY

I feel lost writing a newspaper column, but JT asked me to do a guest shot here for him while he basks in the sun in Elsinore in an effort to get a sun tan, so here it is. (The column, not the tan.)

I REMEMBER WHEN: My girl friend Gladys (now Mrs. Herman Hill, wife of the local editor of the Pittsburgh Courier) and I arrived in the city of the angels with all intentions of studying music at USC. But Lawrence LaMarr, executive Editor of the Negro Press Bureau, told me I should be in pictures. However, Charles Butler, casting Director, thought otherwise, and said I was the wrong type for the movies. But changed his mind later. Since then I have appeared in more than 50 pictures! . . . I remember when I worked at Bauman's Drug Store, and met little guys, then, who are big guys now. For instance, Leon H. Washington, Jr., Publisher of the Los Angeles Sentinel, who used to come in during his Ad-selling (for the California Eagle) lunch hour and tell all of us how he was going to be a big newspaper publisher someday! . . . Everyone (all the chorus and show girls on the set, that is) clamored for an invite to Geo. Raft's famous Hollywood parties, and how he refused to remember his guests of the night before after meeting them on the set the next day! . . . Joe Adams was struggling to become a radio announcer. Now he is one of the best! . . . Fay M. Jackson was Los Angeles' second best newspaperwoman. Mrs. C. A. Bass has always been the FIRST! . . . I remember when: Dr. JP Taylor had one of the most beautiful homes in the State of Louisiana. Now he has one of the most beautiful homes in the State of California. . . . The late Sidney P. Dones wanted to sponsor me on a singing career, but I wanted to stay in pictures. . . . Bill Smallwood went out on a limb and voted me (in his column) the Best Dressed Woman in Los Angeles. . . . JT Gipson played Trumpet in Smith's market and sounded just like Louis Armstrong. . . . Nelson Creswell bought a new car every nine months. . . . I remember when I won second prize to Eloise Nickerson in a local businessmen's sponsored contest, and I was awarded a music scholarship to Gray's Conservatory. . . . When Les Hite had the top band on the coast, and featured such stars as Lawrence Brown, Ivy Anderson, Lionel Hampton, Harvey Brooks and others. . . . Ann Forsythe worked at a Central avenue bakery and all the fellows would come in to buy cakes and gaze at her natural red hair and blue eyes! . . . Dr. Katzenbaum was my favorite Central avenue Doctor, and still is. . . . Eddie Atkinson (now local Juke Box King) was a Drugstore romeo along with "Buck" Jones, Paul Hickman, "Bud" (Dr. Grayson) and others at Adam's Drug Store. . . . I remember when War Perkins, was a clean-cut radio announcer at Shepp's Playhouse, Bardu Ali who "discovered" Ella Fitzgerald) and encouraged me, kept up my morale by introducing me to Suey Welch, who booked me at top price into the Million Dollar theatre. . . . Buck Clayton who wrote Count Basie's famous One O'clock Jump) and Gladys "Derb" Henderson were married at Paramount studios, and the great Duke of Ellington played the wedding march. . . . I remember when I signed contracts to open at the Beige Room at the El Grotto, in the Pershing Hotel, and waited for Earl Hines' signature—which he refused, stating: "Her name isn't big enough to appear." The following night I was signed by Mike DeLisa to appear in his Club DeLisa as co-star with the famed Edwards Sisters. . . . I remember when Harry Levette's Hollywood Column made me pack my books and influenced me to leave Louisiana for a picture career. . . . I remember when Hazel Washington, wife of Lt. "Rocky" Washington, and Lena Horne made a special trip to the Casablanca club to decide whether or not I should embark on a singing career. (You know the rest) . . . I Remember When the Golden State Insurance Company stenographer's were the most beautiful girl's in L. A., and how they stopped traffic whenever they strolled down the stem to lunch. . . . I remember when Ruth Scott Mills, and Louise Pollard Nicholson were Cotton Club Cuties, and sailed for Paris, France, to dance in a Lew Leslie show. . . . Lillian Cumber, now a top Stenographer and Theatrical Editor for the Los Angeles Tribune, owned and edited the greatest theatrical magazine ever to be published on the coast. . . . Jeni LaGon came to town and first worked at Rainey's Breakfast club as a featured entertainer. She was later "discovered" by Earl Dancer, who also "discovered" and married the great Ethel Waters. . . . I Remember When Alyce Keys was the first red-hair'd chorus girl in the city of the angels, and was kidnapped by gangsters—and later returned unharmed. She was one of the most beautiful girls in California. . . . Mae Turner (who later married Harvey Brooks), was "Lady McBeth" in the stage play, McBeth, and how she had all the big shots in Hollywood running over each other for introduction. She later starred in Joe Louis' picture, The Spirit of Youth. . . . I Remember When I solicited names to get my friend, Attorney Jerry Geisler, on the ballot for Governor of California, and how my friends scolded me by saying he didn't have a chance. He is now the coast's greatest criminal lawyer! . . . I remember when I found out that 50% of the Negroes of Los Angeles were not registered voters, and still aren't. . . . And before my next column comes out, I'm hoping 90% of the Negro votes will surprise the Bilbo backers by going to the polls and casting a vote for my favorite, Henry A. Wallace, for the next President of the United State. . . . I Remember When . . . but, I'll continue the column next week!

DILIGENCE.

We want not time, but diligence for great performances.

TOP DISC JOCKEYS HONOR FATS WALLER MEMORY

Nations' Disc Jockeys To Observe Memorial Week of 'Fats' Waller

Approximately 3019 disc jockeys representing all of the nation's 1063 network affiliated and independent radio stations, have combined to pay tribute to the memory of the late "Fats" Waller, America's brilliant pianist, composer, comedian, during the week of May 16 thru 23, designated as Thomas "Fats" Waller National Memorial Week of Music.

The record-spinning personalities, each will feature a special 15-minute program of "Fats" Waller recorded music, daily for eight consecutive days commencing May 16. An unprecedented grand total of 24.152 quarter hour broadcasts featuring Waller tunes and eulogistic comment will thus be heard by countless millions of radio listeners throughout the United States and Canada, exceeding by nearly 2500 hours, a similar tribute, recently accorded the late George Gershwin, on the anniversary of his death.

Additionally, during the week of tribute to Waller, 84 headline commercial programs, heard on the four major coast-to-coast networks, will feature medleys and special vocal and instrumental arrangements of Waller's immortal music, including "Honeysuckle Rose," "Ain't Misbehavin'," 'My Fate Is in Your Hands" and others among the 400 songs penned by the talented genius who contributed so much to contemporary American music.

U.N. Facts and Faces - - - - - NICARAGUA

Nicaragua, the largest nation in Central America, was discovered by Columbus in his last voyage. Its 57,000 square miles are studded with lakes and several still-active volcanoes. The nation's 1,172,000 inhabitants depend mainly on agriculture, although important mines are being developed. Unlike its highland-dwelling neighbors, Costa Rica and Honduras, Nicaragua's main population is in the lowlands. Its Caribbean shore—known as the Mosquito Coast after the Indian tribe living there—has tropical jungles and a huge rainfall. Managua is the country's capital. Its president is Dr. Victor M. Román and its Permanent Representative to the United Nations is Dr. Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa, Ambassador to the U.S.A. Its flag carries one white and two blue stripes and the country's crest.

Jordan High School Girl Wins Honors

Special tribute was paid this week to Celeste Walker, Negro student attending Jordan High School in Los Angeles, by her classmates who re-elected her president of the Southeast Area Council of the Junior Red Cross organization.

Through the current school term, Miss Walker has served Junior Red Cross as vice president of the citywide Cabinet whose membership comprises presidents of areas throughout the city. She was the only junior class member on the Cabinet roll. As president of the Southeast Area Council, Miss Walker will preside at all Junior Red Cross meetings in this district and supervise the rapidly expanding Junior Red Cross program being planned for Los Angeles city schools.

Junior Red Crossers throughout the school year carry on a program calling for the production of educational gift boxes directed to youngsters of war-torn Europe and other sections of the globe, as well as the "manufacturing" of such "luxury" items as might be needed by convalescing war wounded in nearby Veterans Administration hospitals.

Further honors were gained this week by Miss Walker when she was notified she would be one of 20 delegates sent by the Los Angeles Junior organization to the American National Red Cross convention in San Francisco scheduled for June 21 through June 24.

"WORLD'S LONGEST SPEAKING TUBE"

now pipes calls East

2. We plant "co-ax" with giant plows that lay the cable in one operation. Every eight miles a "booster station" keeps calls going through clearly. For—incredible as it seems—high frequency waves fade so rapidly in the cable that all the sun's energy, if it could be funneled into the pipes, would not carry half-way across the country.

1. Imagine packing 500 voices together in a tube no bigger than a pencil and sorting them out distinctly at the end! That's what we're doing with coaxial cable. Radio-type waves whisk calls through pipes...instead of on wires...allowing one "co-ax" to do the work of a number of the more usual kinds of long distance cable.

3. "End of the line"...it takes huge panels of complex equipment like this to sort out the calls carried by just one cable. Since December, calls have been going back and forth from the Coast to the East over 2300 miles of "co-ax." And we're adding still more cables to augment long distance service for the growing telephone population on the Coast.

Millions of new working dollars, needed to extend and improve service, must come—not from telephone bills—but from thousands of people who put their savings to work in the telephone business. To attract these working dollars, we must pay a reasonable amount for their use. We can do this only if we sell our services at fair and adequate prices.

Howard Defends Spike Crown

HAMPTON, Va.—Howard University's Bison thinclads go out in defense of their 1947 C. I. A. A. Track and Field Crown here this coming Friday and Saturday nights, when more than 250 athletes participate in the 27th renewal of the all-Negro meet, scheduled for Hampton Institute's Armstrong Field.

Both scholastic and collegiate preliminaries are scheduled for Friday afternoon while finals come off Saturday.

high jump. Jim Howard, third member of the Demos' "Heavenly Family," tied for fourth at six feet.

It was in the relay, however, that the Jefferson lads displayed their wares best. Running after the first two men for time only (not being pushed by anybody), the locals ran away and hid from the field. Their batan passing was something to behold.

To make the route complete, the Democrat Bs and Cs also registered lop-sided scores to win.

The final varsity score: Jefferson 90½, Washington 24, Los Angeles 21, Roosevelt 18½, Fremont 8, and Manual Arts 8.

Over in the Eastern League, Jordon's fighting Bulldogs, the most serious threat to the Jefferson rule in local spike circles since another Jordan team turned the trick back in 1946, easily grabbed the loop title Friday afternoon at Garfield High School.

Highlighted by the performances of Fred Thompson in the quarter, Ed Crawford in the sprints, and Bobby Smith and Buddy Brown in the field events, the Bulldogs amassed 89 1 6 points to overshadown the 56 points of runner-up Garfield.

With the City Finals being held in conjunction with the Coliseum Relays on May 21, only 10 days away, the local preps will be put through their final paces before the meet when the annual city preliminaries are held this coming Saturday at the Coliseum. With the outcome of the city meet depending largely on the number of men each school can qualify, the boys will be out to do or die for old alma mater.

The preliminaries start at 10 a.m. with the B and C trials first, and continue all day. Their is no admission charge.

Locals Prep for Olympic

The best amateur fighters in the Southland will climb into the ring at the Hollywood Legion Stadium on the nights of June 2, 3, and 5, when the Southern California Olympic Championships are held. The winners in the different weight divisions will have a chance to compete in the national Olympic trials to be held early this summer in Chicago.

Among the classy clouters already lined up for the chance at Olympic laurels are: Clarence Henry (see cut), hard hitting heavyweight, Hank Herring, 147 pound king of last February's Golden Glove tournament and victor in the recent All Navy tournament held at San Diego. Hugh Davidson, 138, also a Golden Glove Champ, and scores of boxers from local colleges and universities.

All amateur boxers who are interested in entering the tournament and getting a crack at the Olympic Games are urged to call either the Hollywood Legion or the Los Angeles Times.

SOWING THE RIGHT SEEDS

Have you ever stopped to think of what your daily life consists of, and how dependent you are on your friends, business associates and neighbors? Or have you stopped to consider that in order to have a happy and prosperous life, there must enter into our being a power beyond and above our own, for this seed must be sown in the heart before the fragrance of its blossoms can permeate the life.

Perhaps we are not quite satisfied with our lives, perhaps the evil has been crowding out the good, or we are not making the progress we should, then we must start anew and try harder than ever to make everything count for something well-worth while.

Mrs. J.W.D. Dear Prof. Herman: I am interested in your column and the wonderful things you do. Will you please explain to me why I never have any success?

ANSWER. Your lucky Stars and Guiding Planet indicate a change in your luck for the better. Don't give up or lose courage. Many interesting things are in store for you, that will benefit you both financially and otherwise.

G.B.J. Will the men I love marry me?

ANSWER. Concentrating upon your question I find that this man is very fond of you and intends to ask you the one thing you want to hear most . . . in the very near future.

HARLEM INAUGURATES FIRST "UNOFFICIAL" MAYOR

The "Mayor of Harlem," Sherman Hibbett, 38-year-old former Detroit resident who came to New York in 1941, was inaugurated March 23 at impressive ceremonies in Harlem's Savoy Ballroom. Hibbett, who was elected in the first popular vote ever conducted for a locality mayor, received an additional honor at the affair when he was presented with a framed plaque by Philip Morris & Co. Ltd. Inc. The plaque, presented to Hibbett by Philip Morris' famed cigarette sailboy "Johnny," was a Certificate of Award "for distinguished achievement toward improving better race relations and civic government in terms of real democracy." Looking on as Hibbett accepted the award are, left to right, Reuben J. Patton, executive director of the Unofficial Mayor's Committee of Harlem; Hugo E. Rogers, Manhattan Borough President; "Johnny," Mayor Hibbett and Herbert Wright, Philip Morris representative in Harlem. . . .

WHO'S AFRAID? Jack Benny, comedy star, buys tickets to the Police Show of his own free will from Policewoman Georgia Cagle. The menacing Lt. Maurice E. Coiffee has nothing at all to do with the situation. The Police Shows at the Shrine Auditorium run from April 28 through May 11.

WHAT EVERY TAXPAYER SHOULD KNOW: How the City of Los Angeles spends its tax dollars is graphically explained in the above drawings. Like commodity prices, the cost of municipal government has increased considerably since the war, yet Los Angeles City government receives only three per cent of all taxes paid by individual residents. Approximately 97 per cent of all taxes paid go to the county, schools, special districts, and state and federal governments.

Cancer Research

Calling for an immediate clarification of Western needs in the matter of specialized cancer research, prevention and treatment, Mrs. Queen Walker Boardman, president of the Cancer Prevention Society, Inc., of Los Angeles, today launched a plea for greater public awareness of the need to apply funds raised in the West for cancer research to the needs of western populations.

Mrs. Boardman also announced a stepped-up drive to complete construction plans for a new Cancer Prevention Society Clinic as the first unit of a Memorial Cancer Hospital to be built on property recently purchased by the Society at Third St. and Loma Drive in Los Angeles.

More than 80 per cent of 1947 automobile accidents in the United States occurred in clear weather. Drive carefully—always!

Orange Blossom Monthly Meeting

The Orange Blossom club met in their regular session for the month of April at the home of Mrs. Ella G. White. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Kansas Tibbs,; prayer by the chaplain; singing and roll call by the secretary, Mrs. Wilma Martin.

The session of business adjourned and the hostess served a complete dinner.

The next session will be held May 28 at the home of Mrs. Sophia A. Adkins.

Negro and Mexican-Americans Denounce Leaders of Walk-Out

Call Upon CIO To Support Candidates of People

Regional CIO officials who took the lead in staging a walk-out of the Los Angeles CIO Council to set up a California Committee for the National CIO-PAC were on the receiving end of a blistering statement signed by nearly one hundred Negro and Mexican-American rank and file CIO leaders.

Among the charges made by the rank and file group of Negro and Mexican-American CIO members are that the California Committee for the National CIO-PAC has endorsed race-baiting, reactionary, pro-Taft-Hartley candidates on the basis of their opposition to Henry Wallace and their support of Truman's foreign and domestic policies.

Among the anti-Wallace leaders who lead the walk-out from the CIO Council after the Council refused to condemn Wallace or the Third Party and insisted on leaving policy on these issues to the local unions are Morris Zusman, former state CIO President; John Despol, regional staff member for the Steel Workers; George B. Roberts, Regional Director of the United Rubber Workers and Irwin DeShelter, Regional CIO Director for Southern California. Most of the leaders of the group which withdrew from the Los Angeles CIO Council are identified with the Negro Labor Committee of which John Dial is executive secretary.

The rank and file statement commended the Los Angeles CIO Council for its endorsements on the basis of issues, for its fighting position on the issue of discrimination, and for the Council's recognition of leaders of minority peoples running for public office.

The statement called for the maintaining and strengthening of the alliance between organized labor and minority peoples as a way of defeating the program of big business to enslave the people of America.

The endorsements of the Zusman-Despol group have caused widespread rank and file resentment, according to the Negro and Mexican-American spokesmen for the group signing the statement of criticism. Leaders of the Committee for the National CIO-PAC have been active in support of the Eisenhower movement or are on the California Truman slate for the Democratic National Convention.

We the undersigned Negro and Mexican-American members and leaders of CIO unions call upon all the CIO to recognize the importance of supporting the aspirations of minority peoples for representation in Congress, the state legislature and in other public offices.

The unity of labor and the many hundreds of thousands of minority peoples in California on both the economics and political fronts must be solidified and strengthened if the labor-progressive forces are to withstand the attacks of big business monoplies now being turned against them.

The fight against discrimination in an uncompromising and vigorous struggle is the foundation on which unity between labor and the minority peoples can be strengthened and maintained. An inseparable part of this struggle is the support for public office of minority leaders who qualify for their support on the basic of their stand on the issues which effect the strength of the labor movement and the welfare of the great majority of the people.

The LOS ANGELES CIO COUNCIL has demonstrated an awareness of the responsibility of labor to the coalition, important segments of which are the Negro and Mexican-American peoples. The CIO Council has endorsed Frances Williams in the 63rd A.D. who is an outstanding spokesman of the Negro community for the people's cause. In the 60th and 67th A.D. the CIO Council has recognized Negro leadership by recommending the nomination of Oscar L. White and James T. Allen within the Independent Progressive Party primary in which they are filed.

In the 51st A. D. the CIO Council recognized the need of the more than one million Mexican-Americans in California to representation in the state legislature by recommending the nomination of Jose Chaves. Chavez would truly represent the majority in his district because approximately 60 per cent of the people in the 51st A.D. are Mexican-Americans.

In the 14th C.D. the CIO Council has correctly voted support in the Democratic and Republican primaries to a liberal fighter, Helen Gahagan Douglas, but at the same time the CIO Council recognized the aspirations and desires of the Negro people recommending Sidney Moore for the nomination of the Independent Progressive Party, leaving final endorsement until after the primary elections. Moore has not only been a fighter for his own people, but he has been a fighting leader of the CIO.

We concur in the CIO's endorsement of Richard Itanez for the superior court office number 21. His election would be a great step to correct the abuses suffered by minority peoples before the courts of Los Angeles.

In an awareness of our responsibility to the CIO and the labor movement in general we must

WALLACE SPEAKS TO 31,000 IN L. A.

HENRY WALLACE waves to the people of the community in Saturday morning's parade. Sidney Moore, candidate for congress in the 14th district and Ruth Slade of P.C.A. may be seen in photo.

I CAME . . .
I SAW . . .
I HEARD . . .
By C.A.B.

HENRY WALLACE at Gilmore Stadium last Sunday evening—To say that this meeting was sensational is trite. Despite the fact that since the meeting the local daily newspapers have been busy distorting the facts—there were, according to official check—32,000 instead of [illegible],000 in attendance, as one paper reported. There was no circus atmosphere. Not $46,000, but more than $50,000 was given freely by the 32,000 people who filled every seat in the vast stadium, stood around the platform and hung on the outside, peering over the fence eagerly, catching every word that fell from Henry Wallace's lips.

THE COLLECTION

Now, about the collection; I have never before seen people give so freely. The statement that the audience was harangued for money was without fact. Of course, the gentleman who made the bid set forth facts as to the importance of setting up a fund to perform a duty,—that of carrying the facts in an important campaign to the people. Facts that the American press and radio refuse to give the people.

OUT IN THE OPEN

Speaking of the fund raising at the stadium, one newspaper said, "The pageant probably leaves our local Republicans and Democrats aghast." There is no question about the difference in technique. The Third Party, or the "People's Party" works in the open that the world may see and know what it is doing. Our Republican and Democratic friends, especially the Republicans, have poured money into campaigns with impunity, when the need was felt. It is no secret that elections have been bought outright. Like carions for the sea to unload its cargo of waste, there are hungry human gulls who wait for the coming political campaign to fill their empty packs at the expense of the people's rights and in some cases, their civil liberties.

Henry Wallace, Third Party presidential candidate who is a voice in the wilderness of fear, speaking for the people, was not a welcome visitor to those who advocate the Taft-Hartley,

Thousands Cheer Wallace in Two-Day Bang-up Tour

The Henry Wallace Campaign Committee, guests of the California Independent Party, is winding up a sensational California tour.

Wallace and his party came to the State last week. During his two-day visit, he held several press conferences in his hotel suite. Last Saturday he visited the Negro section of Los Angeles.

The announcement that Wallace would parade down Central Avenue brought out thousands of men, women and children, who lined the sidewalks from 9th Street, on the north, to the Elks building at Jefferson and Central. Here an elaborate luncheon had been prepared for Mr. Wallace by that master of the culinary art, Roy Loggins Sr. A larger group of representative Negro citizens of the community were in attendance to welcome the genial Third Party presidential candidate and pledge to him their support. The affair was chaired by Mrs. Charlotta Bass, who introduced Henry A. Wallace in eloquent terms.

Highlight of Wallace's Southern California tour was the gigantic mass rally at the Gilmore Stadium on Sunday evening, at which time Mr. Wallace spoke to the 31,000 people who had come to hear him.

Preceding Wallace's speech, a very impressive dramatization of the "Four Freedoms" was staged by skilled Hollywood impresarios, with actor Howard Da Silva doing a running comment. The voice of the late president, Franklin D. Roosevelt, was cut in at intervals during the dramatization, with the familiar words which many people remember:

"Our own objectives are clear . . . The objective of smashing the miltarism imposed by warlords upon their enslaved peoples . . . the objective of liberating the subjugated nations: The objective of establishing and securing freedom of speech, freedom of religion, freedom from want and freedom from fear everywhere in the world . . ."

Negro Patron Awards $100 In Race Bias Suit

LOS ANGELES (NPB)—The downtown American Barber college, which has for all these years, operated as a lillywhite school, found out last week that there is such a thing as a Civil Rights Bill. And, that the courts are going to enforce it, when such shenanigans as refusing to give service to one of the community's citizens, because of his color.

Martin T. Laurent, 4327 So. Broadway, was awarded $100 for damages to his civil rights, when he appeared in Municipal Judge Daniel N. Stevens with his counsel, Atty. Walter L. Gordon Jr. to have the matter adjusted after the barber college had refused to cut his hair because of his race.

Laurent, said he entered the college last month to get a hair cut only to be told by the floor manager, that they did not cut his type of hair there. Laurent, said he protested that he had been previously served there, but was merely told to go to a barber college on Fifth street, where they had colored barbers.

Lester Case Appealed; Charged With Violating Election Code

The case of Dr. and Mrs. Milton Lester, who were arrested recently in Hawthorne for distributing literature in behalf of Mrs. Lester's candidacy for the city council, has been appealed to the appelate division of the Superior Court.

Dr. Lester, World War II veteran, and Mrs. Lester, mother of two children, were arrested and jailed in Hawthorne on April 11, for distributing campaign literature. They were charged with violating a city ordinance prohibiting handbill distribution. At their hearing on April 12, it was discovered that this ordinance had been repealed in 1938, so the charge to violation of another ardinance which requires that firms in the business of distributing commercial literature obtain a license.

When the Lesters appeared for trial on May 4, the court permitted the city attorney of Hawthorne to add another charge, that of violating the Police Antagonize Guests; Ransack Chas. Davis' Home

Charles Davis, Jr., a Northwestern University student, brother of Dr. W. W. Davis of this city, lives at 2118 So. Hobart boulevard.

Mr. Davis is owner of one of those so-called "Sugar Hill" homes where Negroes whose economic standards measure up to the social demands of the community live. However, the young law student operates on a planned economy basis. From time to time, his home is let out to highly respectable fraternities, sororities, and other social organizations for various social functions.

It so happened that on Saturday, May 15, the Crescent Club of Phi Beta Sigma fraternity held a dawn party in the Davis home, and the amazing story of what happened follows:

According to Mr. Davis, it was about 2:00 a.m., when the guests were dispersing, that there came a loud knock on his door. Upon answering it, he was met by a uniformed police officer who demanded to know what was going on, and ordered Mr. Davis to get all of those people out of there immediately. Davis explained that the party was just about over and that the guests were leaving.

The officer went away, but returned again within ten or fifteen minutes and reiterated: "I told you to get those people out of here." Again he disappeared, but returned in a very few minutes accompanied by four or five plain-clothes men. When Davis answered the door this time, he was roughly pushed aside and covered with a gun by ane of the officers, who shouted to the guests: "All niggers stand aside!" This disgraceful demonstration was brought on, no doubt, by the fact that there were a number of white people who were likewise guests at the party.

The officers immediately be-

"Help youth to learn to dignify labor, to be honest and upright, and you will have citizens who will make you proud". This is the stated purpose of Scattergood Association, Inc., a name which is almost synonymous with that of Mae Reese Johnson, its organizer and director. With the above purpose in mind and realizing the need of Negro children in our city, Mrs. Johnson in 1927 gathered a few children in a backyard playing group on Fair Oaks avenue. She started classes in temperance, Bible study, public speaking, good manners and how to have good times together. For

Lomax Jr. Admits Wife's Charges, Denies More Alimony

LOS ANGELES, (NPB)—During a deposition hearing conducted in the law office of Atty. Landon Morris last week with Mrs. Carmelita B. Lomax, principal in the sensational divorce action against her husband, Lucius Lomax Jr., appearing to make a deposition concerning property involved in the suit, which is currently in the possession of Lucius Lomax Sr., the attractive young matron steadfastly stuck to her charge that the property involved in the divorce action was improperly transferred to her husband's father.

Atty. Walter L. Gordon Jr., who appeared at the hearing as Mrs. Lomax' counsel, was satisfied that the hearing failed to alter his client's contentions in the whole matter. Most of the questioning by Atty. Morris involved what information Mrs. Lomax had on the acquisition and sale of a cocktail bar on Central avenue, and a building known as the Fawn building located at 29th and Western avenue.

Mrs. Lomax insisted that both pieces of property were reconverted back to Lomax Sr. without her knowledge and consent. She said the stores and licenses involved were community prop-

Long Beach Mass Rally, Tuesday

A mass meeting sponsored by the Long Beach Branch of the National Negro Congress and the Progressive Citizens of America, will be held in the California Recreational Center, 15th street and Caliofrnia ave., Long Beach, May 25, at 8 p.m.

Judge Stanley Mosk and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor and publisher of The California Eagle, will be the speakers for the occasion.

Long Beach is in the throes of many vexing problems and especially those suffering from the housing shortages are urged to be present. Public officials and those in authority recognize only mass protest.

IWO Members Observe 'I Am An American Day' At Croation Center

The annual I AM AN AMERICAN DAY Picnic is an event eagerly looked forward to by all members and friends of the International Workers Order. At this celebration which is to take place on May 23 from 12 noon to midnight, Negro and white, Jew and Gentile come together to redidicate themselves to the democratic traditions of Jefferson, Lincoln and Roosevelt in a program appropriate for this occasion.

The various National Group Societies of the IWO, such as the American-Russian Fraternal Society, the Cervantes Fraternal Society, the Croatian Benevolent Fraternity, the Finnish-American Mutual Aid Society, the Garibaldi American Fraternal Society, the Hellenic-American Brotherwood, the Hungarian Brotherhood, the Jewish Peoples Fraternal Order, the Polonia Society, the Roumanian - American Fraternal Society, the Serbian-American Fraternal Society and the Ukranian-American Fraternal Union will be among those present and thereby reveal the truly inter-racial character of the Order.

Highlighting the celebration will be two important addresses by Averill Berman, well-known radio commentator and Herbert Biberman, film director and member of the Hollywood Ten. There will also be entertainment furnished by outstanding talents of the national group societies mentioned above. A wide variety of various nationality foods and drinks will be served. The celebration will take place at the Croatian Center, 330 South Ford boulevard.

A history making occasion will be the groundbreaking ceremony of West View Hospital on Sunday afternoon at the Main Street site of the famed hospital. Many outstanding professional and civic leaders of the community will be on hand along with large numbers of theatrical greats of Hollywood. The West View ground breaking will be a memorable occasion. The general public is invited to be present.

erty, and that no legal title passed to Lomax Sr. during the transaction with his son.

In the case of the Fawn building, Mrs. Lomax said the elder Lomax gained possession of the property on a $1500 loan. The property was to have been returned to Lomax Jr. upon payment of the loan. Instead, she insisted, the property was turned over to Mrs. Minnie Lomax, mother of her estranged husband.

During a recent order to show cause, Lomax Jr. who was accused by his wife of being the father of children born to another woman during their wedlock, informed the court he was unable to pay his wife $50 per month additional sum. He gave as his reason under questioning of Atty. Gordon, that he needed the money to pay clinic treatment for his baby. Other questions along the same line, had the local newspaper published freely admitting practically all of Mrs. Lomax' allegations of which she charged him in the original divorce briefs.

It was on or about February 5, 1948, that those who have a taste for gossip of the scandal kind first got the news about the Lomax-Davis affair.

On the above date Mrs. Carmelita Lomax filed suit for divorce, charging her husband, Lucius Lomax, with adultery and named Miss Almena Davis as co-respondent.

It is understood that the brief at that time was prepared in the law offices of Atty. Walter Gordon, Jr. It charged Mr. Lomax, publisher of The Los Angeles Tribune, with cruelty and adultery, naming his the father of Miss Davis' two children, born out of wedlock.

State election code. This charge said the campaign literature did not contain the name and address of a responsible voter and that it was intended to injure one of the incumbent candidates by reflecting on his personal life or political action.

At their trial, May 7, the first charge was dismissed but the judge found the Lesters guilty of the second charge. They were sentenced to pay a fine of $100 each or serve 20 days in jail. The sentence was suspended, however, and they were placed on two years summary probation with a warning that the sentence would immediately be exacted if they engaged in any similar activity during this time.

Dr. and Mrs. Lester have denied every part of the charge. The name and address of a responsible voter was featured prominently on the first page of every piece of literature, and the personal life or political action of any candidate was not even referred to. They have appealed the decision to the Superior Court.

The Civil Rights Congress, the National Lawyers Guild, and the American Civil Liberties Union have expressed concern over this alleged violation of the civil rights of the Lesters, and are expected to appear in court as friends of the Lesters.

this she was professionally trained, having already become a social worker before her marriage.

The classes of little children grew to include older children and their parents. In 1934 the Scattergood Association Inc. was formed and property purchased in Pasadena on North Fair Oaks avenue. Early this spring, the first unit of the new clubhouse which was started in April 1947 was completed and formally dedicated. From this small beginning it has been a strong and influential character building force in our community, with a high principle program operating under the capable Christian leadership of Mrs. Johnson. She has created a true social center serving Mother's Clubs, parents groups and children from kindergarten through junior college, so constructively that her work has received the recognition, endorsement and acclaim of the whole city.

Mrs. Johnson is a graduate of Clark college, Atlanta, Georgia. Recently the Pasadena Council of Church Women, meeting in the Presbyterian church, also gave Mrs. Johnson a citation for her work among children, and Captain Hygh Morgan, head of the Pasadena Crime Prevention Bureau, paid her a high tribute. Her daily prayer is to interest friends to held build recreational unit where the youth may have cultural, religious and social activities thus fitting them for leadership.

Sickness and Its Causes

(NOTE: These articles are true and authentic and are run as a public service for you and your family. Additional articles will be added from time to time. Study them and keep them for a family reference.) Don't be discouraged. Read what this famous doctor says:

ARTHRITIS: "Mild attacks of muscular rheumatism may occur when subjected to exposure of cold, when the circulation of fluids in the body becomes congested and the elimination of toxins retarded. The congestion may occur in the muscles, and in such cases the trouble is called 'muscular rheumatism.' This condition may exist for years, with varying attacks of shooting pains and soreness of the muscles, until finally the congestion of toxins locates in some joint of the body. The fingers and toes are usually affected first, but it often spreads to the elbows and shoulders, and in this stage is called 'articular rheumatism.'

"If the disease is not arrested at this stage, the soreness spreads to the hips, and finally to the spine. In this latter stage it is most serious. Every effort must be exerted by the patient to attempt to keep the inflammation from developing to this dangerous point. If the rheumatism in the joints continues, the bones will throw out a liquid bone formation which will solidify around the joint, apparently in an attempt by the body to protect the joints against the irritation of acid toxins in the blood. This produces enlargement of the joints, twisting them out of shape, and producing a disease called 'arthritis deformans.'

"The muscular form of rheumatism is usually to be found in the lower back, over the lumbar section of the spine, where it is called 'lumbago,' or in the muscles attached to the ribs, in which case it is called 'intercostal neuralgia.' If the inflammation extends to the nervous system, and deposits of irritating material accumulate around the nerve trunks, it will develop the disease commonly called 'sciatica' or 'neuritis.' Real neuritis is an inflammation of the nerve cells, and is a very rare disease, but rheumatism of the nerves of the arm is so often called neuritis, that I am simply referring to this form of the trouble by the name under which it commonly passes.

"One of the principal causes of rheumatism is toxemia produced from the fermentation of an excess of carbohydrate foods, or from poison generated by fermentation when these foods are used in wrong combinations.

"In addition to the toxic condition of the blood being a cause of sciatica, it will be found that a certain amount of pressure is being exerted upon the nerves going to the legs by an impacted feces in the rectum, or by the pressure of gas on one or the other or on both sides of the colon. If a tumor exists in the womb this may be an irritating cause of pains in the legs because of the pressure exerted upon the pelvic nerves. If the gas pockets in the colon exist only on one side, it will be noted that there is a poor circulation in the leg on that particular side, often enough to produce sciatic pains."

FEMALE DISORDER: "Many women suffer from genital derangements. There is undoubtedly no class of disorder which has so far-reaching an effect upon the nervous system as derangement of the genital organs. Chief among the irritating sources are:

"1st. A sluggish state of the blood stream which is productive of congestion in the womb and ovaries, and creates an engorged state which interferes with the normal functioning of these organs.

"2nd. The pressure of prolapsed abdominal viscera upon the reproductive organs and the distension and irritation of intestinal gas.

"3rd. Repression of the normal instincts and function through psychological resistance, physical malformation, or misplaced position of organs.

"4th. Rectal disorders, Piles, Hemorrhoids.

"In each individual case you may look for one or more of the above causes, which must be removed if the patient is to enjoy perfect health. The digestive disorders may be corrected through proper attention and the prolapsus caused by weakened muscles of the abdomen may be overcome through development of muscular tone.

"Women who suffer are unhappy. They reflect their entire attitude and in many instances destroy the happiness of their home and family. Those who suffer from painful, scanty, irregular, or profuse periods—uterine fibroids; prolapsed, sagging or misplaced organs; childless, complexes — you would do well to take steps to correct the cause immediately.

"It is impossible to estimate the amount of evil caused by an engorged colon (pot-belly), monopolizing several times its allotted space, crowding and hampering other organs in their work."

HEADACHE: "The cause of headache seldom can be found in the head itself, but must be understood to be the symptom of some other disorder located in another part of the body, which affects the nerves in the head by reflex action. If the ache seems back of the eyes, it is either caused by constipation or eyestrain. If the ache occurs only on sunny days it indicates suitable glasses should be worn. If not manifested in this way, you may expect that constipation is the cause, and often you will find a pressure in the rectum of impacted feces.

"BILIOUS 'SICK' headache is accompanied by nausea, and can only be cured when biliousness is overcome. Anemia produces a peculiar dizzy feeling in the head, and will persist until the proper changes are made in the blood. Low blood pressure headache is caused by fatigue. High blood pressure headache is usually evidenced by a feeling of pressure around the head, as if a band of iron were being drawn tightly round the skull. Headache at the top of the head is caused by some disorder of the bladder.

"The form least understood is that which occurs at the base of the brain, and is always brought on by uterine congestion. The principal causes of this congestion in women are troubles of menstruation, prolapsed uterus; constipation (which makes pressure against the uterus), and congestion in the womb.

"MIGRAINE is a form of headache which makes habitual visits at certain definite times. I have never treated a case which could not be cured by the methods used in the ordinary form of headache. Cases of many years' standing, which have resisted all medicinal remedies used, are often cured as quickly as an ordinary bilious headache."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M.D., eminent physician, says:

"The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time; nor is the testimony in its favor confined to the laity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

the Mundt Bills ,and all forms of social and labor legislation which hamper the liberties and freedom of the people.

These people who refuse Henry Wallace the right to speak to the students at the University of California, are the same kind as those who crucified Jesus because He ate with sinners and associated with the poor.

We are an educated people. If there are those among us who believe in different religious or policial ideologies— it is their right granted by the Constitution.

A STRANGE PHILISOPHY

In this, our day, in the opinion of our government and its officials, a man who preaches a doctrine of freedom from oppression on account of race, color or religion, becomes an enemy of the government and a Communist; and, believe it or not, some of the citizens of this nation, the ones for whom Henry Wallace sacrificed the second highest official position in the 1944 Presidential Election, because he refused to compromise his position on the question of discrimination, are now saying "I can't go for Wallace because he is a Communist"

If Henry Wallace is a Communist, —I say "God give us more Communists, or more Henry Wallaces."

LITTLE CHILDREN SHALL LEAD HIM

"Some people," said 14-year-old Edward Latham of Garden City, L. I., "just don't like other people, have a prejudice against people of different colors or creeds, and its disgraceful in the capital of our country where the Lincoln Memorial is and other monuments:

"We preach equality to everyone else, but we don't practice it. Everyone should receive equal rewards, whether he's black or white."

Edward is one of the 51 outstanding safety patrol members whose promised bus trip to Washington was cancelled yesterday by School Superintendent Jansen and the New York Automobile Club because the hotels there would not accept the five Negro boys in the group.

For the most of the boys, including the five Negroes, this was their first experience with racial discrimination and they were unanimous in their reaction—they did not like it, and they agreed with Dr. Jansen's decision.

Instead of going to Washington, they went to City Hall today and received medals from Deputy Mayor Bennett, and then were taken on a tour of points of interest in the city.

"I wanted to go to Washington," said Reginald Holmes, 14, one of the Negro boys, "but I think it was a great thing what Dr. Jansen did to break down prejudice. I've never run up against any prejudice in New York City."

"The trip was called off because of race prejudice," said another, William Peters 15, of 827 Union Avenue, The Bronx. "It means being divided into two definite groups, a sort of inferiority complex. I've never run into it here."

Cancellation of the trip meant the biggest disappointment to Vito Cioffero, 12, of 88 W. 3rd Street, who was to have been presented to President Truman because he saved a life while on patrol duty. But he felt the same as the others.

"I think it's wrong," he said. "There should never be any racial discrimination."

At the City Hall ceremony, Bennett told Vito he was making a great sacrifice, but "you're doing it for a great principle." That's the way the boys felt, too.

CALL UPON CIO

sharply condemn the actions of those CIO leaders who have established themselves as the California Committee for the National CIO PAC. This committee is headed by Morris Zusman, Jerome Posner, George B. Roberts and John Despol. Irwin DeShelter, CIO, regional director has given this committee his full support. These men have made endorsements which can only bring disrepute to the CIO among unionists and minority peoples.

The endorsement of William E. Simpson for re-election as district attorney is to directly endorse and condone the position of Simpson as a party to the brutality and cold-blooded murder practiced by police officers against members of minority races.

The most flagrant example is Simpson's refusal to so much as investigate and present the evidence against Officer William Keyes in the shooting of Augustine Salcido. Simpson's action in white-washing police officers charged with brutality is a direct invitation for so-called law endorsement officers to practice brutality and murder. Simpson's anti-labor, union-busting record should be enough in itself to bring the condemnation of every honest union or progressive man or woman. It was John Despol who joined, according to Simpson's formal announcement in the Los Angeles Times with representatives of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, the Chamber of Commerce, brass hats of the American Legion and large banking and financial interests, to sponsor the candidacy of Simpson for re-election.

But the endorsement of Simpson is only one of many such endorsements. This same group of leaders, using the name of the CIO, have endorsed for re-election Raymond Darvy for supervisor. There are nine witnesses to Darvy's statement that "The Ku Klux Klan is not on the list of subversive organizations because the KK is an American organization." Darvy has a Klansman's attitude towards both labor and minority peoples.

In the 63rd District they support, in opposition to Frances E. Williams, Sam B. Whitworth. According to his own statement made to a union interviewing committee, Whitworth has no program to fight against discrimination or for equal rights. He did not lift a voice or a finger to oppose the passage of the Taft-Hartley Act.

The candidacies of James T. Allen, a leader of the AFL Carpenters, Oscar L. White, a leader of the Negro Community in Santa Monica received no recognition or support by the group which split away from the CIO Council.

The growning movement of the Mexican-American people in support of Jose Chavez in the 51st district was ignored and is being opposed by the group of which Despol is secretary.

The Committee, which claims to speak for the CIO, has made the condemnation of Wallace and the Third Party their main criteria for endorsing candidates.

We point out that it is not Wallace or the Third Party which maintains Jim Crow or is threathening the labor movement with repressive legislation.

We call upon all of the CIO to support candidates on the basis of their stand on the issues which effect the common people, the members of organized labor.

We call upon the National CIO and Philip Murray to personally repudiate the disgraceful actions of this committee which puports to speak with the authority of the National CIO.

We call upon the membership of the CIO to support those candidates who will cement the fighting unity of labor and the minority peoples. We brand as misleaders those members of minority groups who would support the slate of candidates as announced by Morris Zusman, John Despol, George B. Roberts and Jerome Posner.

We pledge ourselves to obtain unity of the rank and file of labor on a sound progressive, honest program in the true interests of all working people.

HOLDUP SUSPECT SLAIN. A man accused of holding up a Central avenue businessman, Jehu Jennings, of 4971 S. Central avenue, Monday night, was dead today from the bullet of Detective Guy Salerno's gun which pierced his head, killing him instantly. The dead man, formally identified as Leroy Hill, 26, or 893 E. 51st street, has since been correctly identified by California EAGLE reporters as William J. Williams. After waiting six hours in the home of the suspect to serve an arrest warrant on him, Detective Salerno completed the assignment with an emptied service revolver. According to the detective, who was wearing plain clothes, the suspect entered the door, then turned and fled as the officer identified himself while training his revolver on the fleeing man. A bullet, piercing his head, felled him instantly.

National NMU Official Demands Investigation Of Brutal S.C. Crime

NEW YORK — Ferdinand C. Smith, national secretary of the NMU, called on the membership of the union today to put a halt to activities of the "rank and file caucus," led by President Joseph Curran—activities, Smith said, which have caused the murder of Port Agent Robert New, Jr., in Charleston, S. C.

New was murdered on May 7 as he sat in his office attending to union business. Rudolph Serreo, the murderer, was a leader of the Curran "caucus" in the port, according to witnesses, Smith said. An immediate and thorough investigation must be made, in the opinion of the NMU official. Such an investigation must lay this brutal crime at the door not only of Rudolph Serreo, whose hand wielded the knife which ended New's life, but at the door of those who incited and instigated such terror.

Elected less than two years ago, as Charleston port agent, after he had sailed as a seaman during the war, Robert New was a member of the union's National Council, a majority of whose members often found themselves in disagreement with Joseph Curran. New was also chairman of the Charleston Wallace-for-President committee. He leaves a widow, Norma, and an infant son.

His assailant, Serreo, was arrested on the charge of slashing a shipmate to death in 1936, in New Orleans. Serreo won his release on a plea of self-defense.

Mr. Smith said that instances of "caucus terror" were mounting in port after port. In New Orleans, he said, "Goon squads of 10 and 15 have been parading daily before the union hall, threatening physical violence to Negroes and aliens who vote against the 'caucus'." A general election to fill all NMU offices is in progress.

The membership, Smith said, has been asked to pay formal tribute to the late Robert New at its meetings, and to take up tarpaulin musters for the aid of the widow and one-year old son of the deceased official.

Mrs. Norma New, in a message to the NMU, said "I will find it so much easier to bear my great personal loss if I know that his assassination will finally cause every decent, honest member of the NMU to rise in their anger and drive from their midst those who would tear asunder this great union."

New Prince Hall Masonic Lodge To Be Constituted Sunday, June 20

The Western Knights Lodge, now functioning under a dispensation from the California Prince Hall Grand Lodge will be constituted at public ceremonies Sunday evening June 20 at 8 p.m. at the 50 street Masonic Hall.

This affair, staged by officers of the Most Worshipful Prince Hall Grand Lodge of the California Jurisdiction, is one of the few Masonic affairs open to the general public.

More than a year ago a group of young Westside businessmen formed what was then known as the Goldent West club. Headed by Claud Devers, they became interested in Masonry and later petitioned the California Grand Lodge for a charter. With a favorable report coming from the office of Dr. Titus P. Martin, senior Grand Inspector of the southern district, the Grand Lodge assigned district Inspector Andrew W. Powell to the club and granted them a special dispensation.

Their proficiency being rated as one of the outstanding in the Jurisdiction by Inspector Powell, he in turn notified the Grand Lodge that Western Knights club was now qualified to receive their Charter. When constituted, 56th Lodge to be added to the this U. D. Lodge will become the large California Jurisdiction of Prince Hall affiliated Masons.

Western Knights Lodge membership roster includes some of the Westside most outstanding businessmen among whom are Henry Lewis, auto dealer; Ernest Bufford, Andre Vaughn, and J. Congresswoman Finds Food Costs Risen on Tour

—Acme Newspapers

HELEN G. DOUGLAS

Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas of California, shopping in a Washington, D. C., chain store for the materials with which to present her "Cost-of-Living" speech. Saying that "the February price thaw was only a warm spell in the middle of a freezing winter," Mrs. Douglas presented evidence to show that the cost of staple foods had risen 60 percent since the close of the war and was still going up. Contending that neither organized labor nor white-collar workers could stand this pressure, she offered a bill to freeze prices at last January's level.

Real Estate Man Victim of $935 Rental 'Hype'

LOS ANGELES (NPB)—There must be $935 in that "bag" Eddie B. Jackson, local real estate broker, is "holding," if there is a dime. Home come? Well, it was something like this: Jackson had a house to rent, but with a condition. The renter would have to purchase the furniture in the house for $900 before he could pay the monthly $35 rent.

Onzelo Bailey, 4520 Honduras, saw the sign regarding merely the $35 per month rent. Real estate man Jackson told him the conditions later. Bailey paid the $900 for the household furniture and the $35 for a month's rent. But, hold!

All was not consumated. Mrs. Gwendolyn Russell, wife of Rev. Clayton Russell, barred the entry of Bailey. She informed him that real estate man Jackson had no authority to rent the premises.

Bailey sued through Atty. Walter L. Gordon Jr. to recover the $935 he had paid to real estate man Jackson. The money was ordered returned to him. Last week real estate man Jackson appeared in Municipal Judge Charles B. McCoy's court on a plea for a new trial, which was denied. It developed that the real estate man had fallen for another man, Walter Jackson's ruse to sell his furniture with a rental. And so he holds the "bag."

CIO Auto Workers OF Chrysler Corporation Demand Wage Increases

More than 1,000 members of CIO Auto Workers Local 230 walked out of the Chrysler Plant in Maywood Wednesday, May 12 in a nation-wide strike which shut down all operations of the company.

John Allard, president of Local 230, who announced the walkout, said the strike was called after more than three months of unsuccessful wage negotiations because "the Chrysler Corporation steadfastly refused to make any kind of an acceptable offer to the union. Their only offer, that of six cents per hour wage increase, was rejected as inadequate by the UAW negotiators. The Union is demanding 30c an hour increase.

"The Chrysler Coropration has since withdrawn its offer and now suggests that the Union withdraw its demands on the grounds that they are inflationary. Our Union has shown this to be false. We know, for example, that in 1947, for every hour the average Chrysler empoye worked, he produced 68c in profits for th ecorporation. We say the Chrysler Corporation can garit our just demands and decrease, rather than increase the price of their product, and still show a greater rate of profit than the average business in the United States today."

John Allard said the strike would be peaceful and orderly, but that the Union would keep the plant closed down as long as the strike continues.

"Over half the Union's membership is composed of young war veterans," said Allard, "who have been disillusioned by the high cost of living they found when they came out of the service. They are determined that this strike be continued until the Chrysler Corporation grants them and their fellow workers a decent living wage."

Clinics for Scalp Ringworm Opened

Southeast Health Center opened clinics for scalp ringworm Monday at its 49th and Avalon offices.

The clinics will be held Monday afternoons and Tuesday mornings for cases needing supervision to prevent spread of the disease, while persons suspecting they are infected may come for diagnosis any Tuesday from 1 to 3 p.m.

The disease spreads by contact with infected hats and combs, which should never be traded by children. Another means of spread may be the cloth backs of chairs against which children rest their heads.

H. A. Howard Heads 28th St. Branch 'Y'

H. A. Howard last week was named by President Harold F. Whittle as chairman of the Board of Managers of the 28th Street Branch YMCA. For years "H. A." has been a leader on this Board and as chairman of the Membership Committee has "spark-plugged" successive successful membership campaigns.

The new branch chairman is well known throughout the city as a successful realtor, a leader of Golden West Realty Board, organizer, manager and president of Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association. He is active in the NAACP, in Phi Beta Sigma and deeply devoted to St. Phillips Episcopal church. He succeeds Atty. David W. Williams as branch chairman.

As newly-appointed leader of the branch, Howard has plunged with enthusiasm and determination into the current special membership drive at the branch and at last Monday's "kick-off" meeting reported two-thirds of the special list total for the evening. He is determined that the program and services of the branch for the youth of this community must be adequate not only to the demands but to the opportunities as well.

LOS ANGELES—The California Labor School this week established a permanent Los Angeles Division and is already conducting extension courses for a number of unions, it was announced today.

Headquarters of the school is located at 112 West 9th Street, Room 812. In charge of the school's Los Angeles Division is David Hedley, formerly assistant director of the California Labor School in San Francisco and well-known throughout California as Secretary of the California CIO Council's Political Action Committee for 1945 and 1946.

Among the Los Angeles Division's Advisory Committee members are: Sanford Goldner, Clarence Carlson, Dr. Murray Abowitz, Sidney Moore, Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Mrs. Charlotte Bass, Philip M. Connelly, William S. Lawrence, Reverend John J. Hicks, Leo Gallagher, Raphael Konigsberg and Frank Lopez.

"The main concentration of our work at the present time is to provide the greatest possible assistance to the labor movement in arousing and equipping shop stewards and rank and file trade unionists for the hard fight ahead," said Hedley.

NAACP Protests Dismissal of Barnes For "Disloyalty"

Walter White, executive secretary of the NAACP, headquarters in New York City, has protested the dismissal of Frank Barnes, president of the Santa Monica Bay Branch of the National Association, from the Santa Monica post office for "disloyalty."

Mr. White sent a letter to Santa Monica Postmaster Jesse M. Donaldson asking that the charges be withdrawn and that Barnes be reinstated immediately "without loss of pay or seniority rating."

The dismissal and "disloyalty" charges grew out of Barnes' organization of a picket line around the store of Sears Roebuck & Co. because of their refusal to employ Negroes as clerks. The store has been picketed under the leadership of Mr. Barnes every Friday night since November 14.

The Santa Monica Bay Branch of the NAACP will hold a public meeting on the dismissal and Sears campaign on Tuesday evening, May 25, at 8 p.m. in the Calvary Social Hall, 1907—20th street, Santa Monica.

Noah W. Griffin, regional director NAACP, San Francisco; and Attorney Loren Miller, who is handling the case, will be the principal speakers.

"We believe that the Loyalty Order has been perverted in this instance," said Mr. White, "to proscribe Mr. Barnes and his organization from joining with other Americans in seeking to remedy discrimination in employment."

New Discussion Council Seeks to Bring Problems Of Varied Groups to Public

A number of Los Angeles community leaders will sponsor an effort to get increasing numbers of people to come together in small groups to talk over the problems which they and their neighbors face. The group has established the Los Angeles Discussion Council to direct this effort and has selected the West Jefferson area in which to try the idea out, according to a statement released today by Eugene I. Johnson, director of the Council, at 2511 Wilshire blvd.

The Council will be a service and training agency. It will train discussion leaders for organizations which want to carry effective discussion programs and will assist in preparing discussion guides on timely topics. It will also act as a clearing house where chairman of groups meeting for discussion can find out where to go for factual information and help on specific subjects such as UNESCO, juvenile delinquency, and others. Its services will be available to churches, men's service clubs, women's societies, business clubs, labor unions, veteran groups, social clubs, and all other organizations having a stake in the welfare of the community.

Last Week for Housing Sigs

Moving into the final week of their signature campaign, Housing Initiative volunteers are expected to turn out in full force this Saturday and Sunday to push the drive over the top.

Msgr. Thomas J. O'Dwyer, Housing Initiative chairman, reported that there are more than 5,000 petition circulators in Los Angeles county who have each been asked to fill at least one petition before the June 2 deadline.

"We are counting on many of our volunteers to help us avoid a bottleneck at the end of the campaign by turning in their petitions a week ahead of the deadline," Msgr. O'Dwyer declared.

'Stand Up, Be Counted,' Mrs. Bethune Tells Texas Univ. Students

Dr. Mary McCleod Bethune, noted orator and educator, called upon the students of Texas State university to "stand up and be counted" during an address delivered in the University auditorium recently.

Long reputed as a fluent and forcible speaker, Dr. Bethune eloquently implored members of the audience to keep their feet on the ground, and to look objectively on the confronting problems of today.

"You will not always get your objectives," she cautioned, "but," she said, "as long as you keep a steady mind, you can approach the things that are necessary.

"Stop running. Stand up. It is not a day for cringing, for weak-kneed people, but a day of courage. As long as you run, they will continue running you."

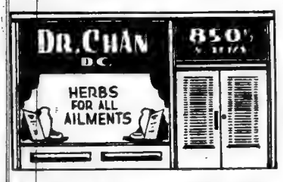
Eagle Columnist To High Office In State Club



The representatives of the California State Federation of World Friendship Clubs have chosen Carl L. Cain, an active member of Jefferson's Friendship club and "Raisin' Cain" columnist, as the new president. The election was held in Barstow at the annual convention of the federation, at which many clubs of this city and state were represented.

The 16-year-old student and columnist is the first member of his race to hold a high office in the California federation. The list of strong qualifications, which are one year's experience as a newspaper columnist, an office holder in his own club, and public speaking ability, was believed to have decided the result of the election.

Gratitude is expressed by the new president to Arthur Bystrom, a student of Conoga Park high school, who nominated and presented the qualifications of young Cain.

Natural health giving herbs have been used in China for thousands of years to rid the human body of toxic matters which hinders the function of practically all the organs of the body. They are known to relieve ailments that have been slow to respond to other forms of treatment.

THE BIBLE STATES HERBS WERE PUT INTO THE GROUND AS AN AID TO MAINTAIN AND RESTORE HEALTH—CAN THERE BE A BETTER AUTHORITY OR RECOMMENDATION?

So regain health nature's way which is slow but sure. Try our pure Chinese herbs for natural results. Feel once again the vim, vigor, vitality of a normal functioning body. Why live just a half a life when nature intended you to have a full, rich, healthy, enjoyable existence free from aches and pain. When other methods fail do not give up hope of getting well. Your case may respond to herbs when everything else fails. Why continue to suffer when others are regaining health daily. A fair trial will convince the most skeptic unbeliever.

gan a search of the premises, and rushed upstairs where nine members of the fraternity were in a bedroom counting the proceeds of the evening. The officers took the money away from the men, at the same time accusing them of running a gambling gafe.

It was explained to the officers that the money in question was the proceeds from the affair and that the committee had already paid to Mr. Davis the sum of $32.00 for the use of his home.

"Where is that man, Davis?" one of the officers asked, not knowing that the man they had been talking with from the very beginning was Mr. Davis. They rushed back downstairs and began to ramble through Davis' personal effects. They went in a room where he had some of his rent money, mixed it all up with the money they had just taken from the fraternity men, and then held up a single ten dollar bill, exclaiming,: "Here is one of the bills we are looking for!"

Davis explained that that bill was some of the maney which had been paid, as rent, by one of his tenants and that if there was anything wrong about it, he would certainly like to know, and he wanted to know the number.

The officers continued to ransack the house, going first into the room of Joseph Boyd, a roomer, who was already in bed. They threw him out of bed, handcuffed him and pushed him around; went into the room of another tenant, Van Byrd, and give him the samt sort of treatment; from there breaking into the room of Maceo Talbert, a third roomer, and also a law student at Northwestern University, who had not retired, but was in his room studying.

Davis states that altogether the officers confiscated $255.00 of his personal money and other valuables which were either taken away, or scattered all over the place.

During the course of the demonstration, Davis cautiously slipped out the back door and went to a neighbor's home where from a vantage point he stood and watched what was going on. He saw them leave his house and go out into the back yard, where they flashed lights all over the place. It was then that they discovered a small dwelling in the rear, which he rents. The several roomers were gone to bed, but one of the tenants was being visited by a couple, a man and his wife, who were seated on a chair by the bed.

The officers broke into this tenant's quarters and wanted to know of this couple what they were doing there is that "house of disrepute." They then proceeded to abuse and mistreat the people for no valid reason at all, as the couple were fully clothed and were behaving in a perfectly respectable manner, as was also the friend with whom they were visiting.

Following this episode, Davis said that the officer went back into his home and proceeded to kick down doors, splintering them and causing great damage to his property.

About five o'clock in the morning, Davis telephoned his sister, Velma Harriston, a registered nurse, and asked her to go to his home and find out just how much damage had been done, and if the house was open to please lock it up as best she could, so that his property might be protected.

Mrs. Harriston, who owns no car, called a friend, Mrs. Grace Fisher Atkinsno, a teacher in the city school systef and a writer on the California Eagle, asking that she drive her over. Mrs. Atkinson did drive her over, and when the two women arrived on the scene they observed that great damage had been done.

Just as they were about to leave, searchlights from the police were turned on them, some of the same officers surrounded the car and wanted to know what they were doing out that time of morning, and didn't they know that this was a house of prostitution?

Mrs. Harriston explained she was quite sure they were mistaken; that this was the home of her brother and he had called her to come over and see what damage had been done to his property. That was her mission. She explained that she had no car and that her friend, Mrs. Grace Fisher Atkinson had been kind enough to drive her over. Both young women are products of two of the finest families in Los Angeles.

The object of this story is to call to the attention of the citizens of Los Angeles such actions by our police authorities, which appear to be, in this instance, direct repercussions of the Supreme Court restrictive covenant decision, as well as a climax to this police brutality crusade which has gone on in Los Angeles for a number of months unchecked.

In the opinion of the California Eagle, the fight against this type of evil should not rest alone upon the shoulders of Mr. Davis and his family but should be a challenge to all decent, law-abiding citizens of Los Angeles to put a stop to such occurrences.

It is understood that Mr. Davis has secured the services of Attorney Crispus A. Wright to fight the case, and it is hoped that the entire community will be mobolized to fight this case to a finish, in order that this malicious and unfair treatment of our citizens will be stamped out.

Dr. Frazier Calls for Integration of Negro

Dr. E. Franklin Frazier, chairman, Department of Sociology at Howard university, Washington, D. C., and President of the American Sociological Society, addressed the Lincoln university assembly on "The Integration of the Negro into American Society."

Dr. Frazier said that the so-called "Negro Problem" became a problem only by definition and it emerged after Emancipation and that it is a dilemma only so far as whites are concerned. It is a dilemma he says as to whether America will live up to its democratic profession and treat all people as human beings or institute and perpetuate a caste system. In Brazil, he pointed out, emancipation did not create a racial problem because the Negro was not defined as a separate race, all people were Brazilians.

The distinguished sociologist averred that some Negroes take over definitions of the dominant group and feel that white and colored cannot live together unless there is some subordination of one group or the other. Booker Washington, he said, played a role in the adjustment as the sage of Tuskegee provided a rationalization of the formula for the problem when he accepted social separation. This, however, said Dr. Frazier, was no solution. If Washington had lived he would have been discredited because migration of the Negro to cities rendered antiquated and irrelevant all things Washington had said.

In the anonymity of the big city, said Frazier, there was no place for a duplication of the southern racial pattern. "In Times Square," he said, "you cannot enforce caste control because human relationships are different in a big city and it is nonsense to talk about sentimental and traditional ideas concerning the Negro."

If integration is to come, Frazier pointed out, it will make for a change in the position the Negro professional man has occupied in a caste society. Segregation, he said, gives to the Negro professional a privileged position but in an integrated society the professional must compete with the white man in a world where there is no excusing because we are just "70 years out of slavery." Frazier closed by saying that the educated Negro must get a new conception of his role in an integrated American society.

Thousands Cheer

tions of their own in the grandstands, were members of two new organizations, Students for Wallace and Youth for Wallace, who enthusiastically shouted slogans across the field.

Taking prominent parts on the program also were Charlotta Bass, publisher of the California EAGLE, and recently appointed co-chairman of the National Women for Wallace Committee, who spoke on freedom from fear; James Daughterty, State CIO Council president and Tom Bankhead of AFL Carpenters Local 634, on freedom from want; Dalton Trumbo, one of the "Hollywood Ten," and Jacob Zeitlin, treasurer of Democrats for Wallace, on freedom of speech, and the fight against the Mundt Bill; and Wallace Berry, of Students for Wallace and an active Presbyterian, on freedom of religion.

A comprehensive report on the widespread organization of new groups for Wallace was given by Bert Witt, Southern Regional director of Progressive Citizens. He stated that the Independent Progressive Party would soon be strengthened by the addition of thousands of members of PCA, who have decided to merge with the new party.

Prior to his Gilmore Stadium appearance, in the afternoon, Mr. Wallace made a tour of the Mexican district and was guest speaker at a mass meeting in Lincoln Park, sponsored by "Amigos de Wallace." Some 10,000 Mexican- Americans listened attentively as Wallace delivered his address in Spanish. This marked the largest political meeting and also the first great progressive rally of its kind among Mexican-Americans here.

In "Amigos de Wallace" the Mexican-American people here are at long-last finding political organization, and are not only supporting Wallace but are running their own candidates for office, which is an indication that a people long intimidated into inactvity are breaking out of their political ghetto.

Free will contributions to the Wallace campaign at the stadium meeting, and through pledges received at a previous fund-raising dinner, totalled about $60,000.

When the crowd cheered for Wallace again and again, and shouted "Wallace in '48," everyone knew there was something behind the slogan.

PROMINENT REALTOR ACQUITTED

Clarence Bostic of 419 East 23rd St. and cafe owner, was acquitted of charges of assault with intent to murder by Superior Court Judge, Walter S. Gates, in department 46 of the Superior Court last Friday morning after he had taken the stand and under the questioning of his Attorney Curtis C. Taylor informed the Court that the shot that was fired from his revolver and which wounded John Barlow on February 1st was a result of self-defense, because the later had attacked him with a screwdriver.

Bostic testified that the Barlow man's brother had caused trouble in his family and he had asked Barlow to stay away from his house. He testified that he returned home on February 1st and finding Barlow there asked him to leave, whereupon the later advanced upon him with a screw-driver and he was forced to pull his revolver in self-defense. His testimony was corrobrated by his business partner, Theodore Bryant.

Besides his realty business Mr. Bostic also operates a cafe at 2305 S. Maple Ave.

Consistency Thou Art A Jewel

This month we celebrated "I Am An American" Day. In Los Angeles the event was colorful and bristled with pride in our heritage of American citizenship.

Hollywood Bowl was the setting for the celebration. It was a blaze of glory. Those who shared in the program reaffirmed their faith in The Constitution and pledged their allegiance to the flag.

On the same day, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, reasserted her faith in the ability of the United Nations to keep the world at peace, but said the United States must show the way.

"The example," she said, "called for removal of all racial and religious prejudices."

"From us," said Mrs. Roosevelt, "must come the leadership in democracy based on human rights."

Many things happened on that day set apart as "I Am An American" Day. While Mrs. Roosevelt was making these recommendations, President Robert G. Sproul of the University of California was busily denying that great American, Henry Wallace, his American right,—that of free speech—to speak on the University campus.

A few days later, James Roosevelt, son of Franklin D. Roosevelt, who heads the California Democratic State Central Committee, said that the Mutual Don Lee Broadcasting System refused to broadcast by President Truman.

A Negro homeowner who lives in the swanky Sugar Hill district, reported to the California Eagle that within the same week of the "I Am An American Day" celebration, police officers swooped down on a party in his home and lodged some of his guests in jail. The only cause for the raid was the fact that the guests at the party were mixed, white and Negro.

We offer these as cases for investigation by the Un-American Activities Committee. Such inconsistencies breed contempt for government.

This act bears out a statement in this week's "New York Post:"

"The recent decision of the U. S. Supreme Court on racial restrictive covenants is a landmark. It will end this particular form of restriction which has long barred Negroes, Chinese, Jews and other minorities from buying homes. But it will not end bias in housing.

"Whenever a particular method of race discrimination has been outlawed, another has cropped up in its place. Already new methods are in evidence."

An Aroused People

The thousands of letters and telegrams pouring down upon the heads of our Congressmen; the fact that two leading candidates for president of the United States, members of a political party definitely to the right of center, debated the question this week; and the facts presented over The Daily News broadcast last Tuesday evening—all point to the greater fact that the people of the United States are not only becoming interested but are becoming aroused at a political crime that would be perpetrated upon the American people if the proponents of that crime could have their way.

That crime is the passage of the Mundt-Nixon bill.

Those who are for it, call it an "anti-Communist bill." Those who are fighting it, "a police state bill."

"Police state" more aptly describes it. For, as Congressman Chet Holifield of Montebello told his radio audience, if that bill becomes a law, no one will be free in America again. We'll not be looking for Communists under our beds then. We'll be fearfully wondering if our walls may have ears—they can have, you know, by wiring them—and if our most innocent conversation may be recorded to be used against us some other day in court.

We'll not be looking for Communists. We'll be scared to death at the sight of a man in a blue uniform—as scared as if we were guilty of a crime.

But the people are becoming aroused to a fighting spirit. And they are denouncing in a no uncertain voice this bill that would make cowering prisoners of us. They are saying: IT SHALL NOT PASS.

This is good. But other voices are heard over the radio which do not arouse the people to fight an evil. These voices arouse their listeners to a feeling of nasty superiority, of hatred.

On the Fanny Brice program we have been told, the little girl on the program was called "the cutest little pin-head n---r in captivity."

Such use of the radio is evil. And such things must be stopped. The people of America will some day—we hope—become as aroused over such foul slanderous remarks, as they are slowly now getting wrought up over the police state bill, and the red scare. The truth will make us free.

It's Good Medicine

This editorial from the May 14 issue of The New York Post is not to be scoffed at. We quote it here because we consider it good medicine for California's "red" sickness.

With deadly determination, some Congressmen are stalking the civil rights of American citizens. Softly drawling Senators would prevent those rights from being more fully extended to American Negroes. Sharp-voiced Representatives entertain the revolutionary idea of taking established liberties away from the nation's "lefists."

It appears to be a strange league, surely of uncomfortable bedfellows—the Southern Bourbons fighting to preserve a racial caste system below the Mason-Dixon line and the calculating House Republicians, attempting to legislate a political caste system for all of America, with suspect groups pushed into the status of "untouchables."

But both have common cause in that they are trying desperately, perhaps even disastrously, to preserve privileges, chiefly economic, for the very few.

Any loosening of Jim Crow rules in the South might give Negroes the chance to compete successfully with white men for a fairer share of the American dollar. Any heightening of progressive sentiment in the country might force our vast industrial empires to swallow a more equitable shuffling of American wealth.

Having common cause, the Senators and Congressmen have hit on a common means of stunting the expansion of our democracy. It is to limit the Bill of Rights. Make opportunity and freedom the freedom the luxury of those who by genetical whim or stroke of luck have already "arrived"—economically speaking.

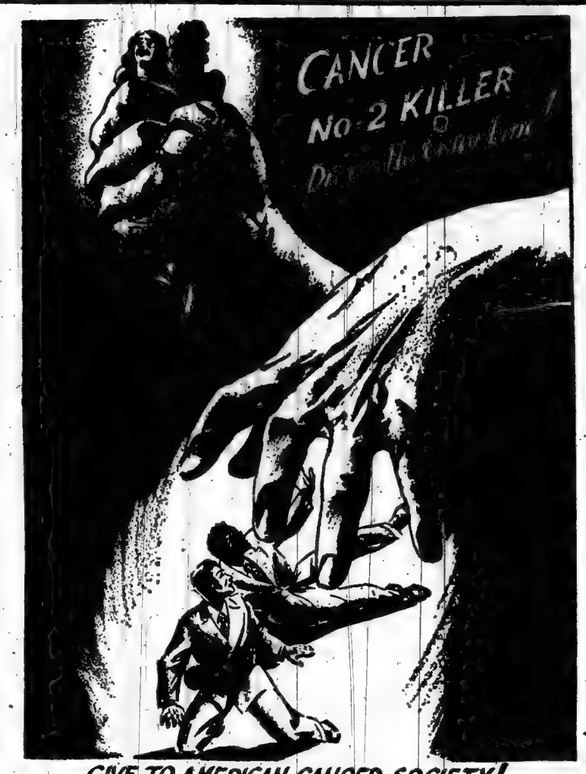
And the Congressional foes of civil liberties are wily enough to seize upon and use passions and issues of the moment to further their dark design. America's hysterical fear of Russia is a natural for them at this time.

In the Senate the Southerners have tried to capitalize on the Administration's indecent haste to get draft-universal military training legislation on the books, by attaching race riders to the bill. They do it in many names, none of them sounding remotely like freedom. And thew parried the Administration's official outrage by pointing out that they were only trying to give legislative sanction to the existing (and outrageous!) segregation policies of the Pentagon.

As an added bit of blackmail ,and evidence that the price of their going along with the Administration's entire "stop Russia" program comes threateningly high, they also chose this moment to ask for Senate approval of segregated colleges in the South.

Busy as these Senators have been, their colleagues in the House have been even busier.

In the name of meeting the "Russian threat," the Congressmen have written legislation which is leveled at the rights of every critic of the status quo in America.



Their infamous Mundt bill talks with seeming patriotism about the need to curb the American Communist Party and other vaguely defined, allied groups.

Without offering any proof and without even recognizing the need for evidence which would stand a court test, the bill flatly implies that the Party is a Russian fifth column and that its members, or anybody else who advocates suspicious-sounding changes, should be penalized at the whim of the U. S. Attorney General.

Our Congressmen might be right. But their refusal to call for proof before American citizens could be persecuted makes it unlikely.

It will take America's sanest thinking not to be tricked into accepting any insidious scuttling of the Bill of Rights, out of blind fear of the Russian bogeyman.

Revolution is not a one-way street. We run the risk of concentrating so hard on warding off a nebulous blow from the left that we fail to hear the approaching wheels of disaster from the right.

GIVE TO AMERICAN CANCER SOCIETY!

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

During the wee hours of the night is a good time to reflect on the past. While engaged in such nonsense, I am moved to drop you a word of congratulations on the new cause which you set for yourself a few years ago. I am aware of my inability to paint the sort of picture I see, but events speak for themselves.

As a pioneer in the field of journalism among Afro-Americans in Los Angeles, you have set a mark that will stand for all time. Too bad future generations of the group will not have knowledge of the struggle you have made, the battles fought and the victories won.

One of the weak links in our chain is the lack of the spirit of liberalism in passing on to future generations the achievement of the pioneers. I say lack of the spirit of liberalism, because that is precisely where the weakness lies. The means are here. Only the spirit is lacking.

When you go, your fellow journalists could render the group a great service by serializing your life and work. But will they? I hope you will be blessed with the good fortune to your tremendous contribution for the, betterment of America in general, but to the group in particular. I say retire, because you are too busy in the fight now to give the time for reflection.

How many remember the fight on the K.K.K., the South Broadway Property Owners' Association, the Southern California Telephone Co., the swimming pool, the LA Railway, the Scottsboro Boys, the Laws case, and many, many other pertinent issues where glorious victories were won?

And now, my dear Mrs. Bass, we stand on a little mound from whence we can see victorious groups marching in the distant field of battle. Let not your followers stop the cry for freedom, believing things mentioned herein mean victory. Those were merely skirmishes, where we of old Army days used to have the men deploy on an imaginary firing line and "Fire at will."

The "fire at will" was done with unloaded rifles. It was just simulating firing. But now the battle line is being drawn daily. The bosses of reaction are maneuvering for vantage points from which to mount the final offensive. The Draft and UMT to buildup units to guard the gates of the giant corporations when the signal is given to crush organized labor. To guard the vast concentration camps.

The Negro must be made aware of the historic truth

Los Angeles and the World

This week Los Angeles and its neighbors together with the other sections of the country, have been observing World Trade week.

The purpose, of course, is to acquaint Angelenos with what a hive of industry their city is. Ships from every quarter of the globe anchor in its harbor at San Pedro. They bring sugar, tea, spices, rubber, coffee, bananas, tobacco, wool, hides, leather, skins, copra, oil seeds, jute, furs, and dozens of other necessities for our tables, our homes, and our clothing.

They take back from our port oil well equipment, machinery, petroleum products, manufactured household goods, trucks, busses, canned fish, citrus fruits, auto tires, and other necessities which we manufacture or produce on our farms.

During 1947 a total of 3,995 ships arrived and departed, and 13,851,752 tons of cargo were handled in this port. The harbor has facilities where 100 ocean liners may be berthed at one time. Flags from 24 different foreign countries have been flown at the same time.

So you see we are a world center.

It should make us proud, of course. And it does.

But the most significant fact, it seems, is that in all this hustle and bustle and neighborly exchange of goods (like handing pies to our neighbors over the backyard fence) we have the opportunity of building up a real neighborly spirit and friendliness.

Let's do this more than ever this World Trade Week.

England's Labor Party

The 47th annual conference of the National Labor Party of Great Britain, which met in Scarborough, England, got off to a noisy start this week.

One resolution endorsed Foreign Minister's policy of close cooperation with the United States. And following on the heels of that another resolution asked the government to sever all military ties with America, and cooperate more closely with Russia.

Emanuel Shinwell, National Labor Party chairman, warned that a new war may come without any nation really wanting it. "Every country has a few who are ready to urge others to fight," he said, and because of this a "fortuitous set of circumstances might easily precipitate war."

He said definitely, "The Labor Party will not join Conservatives in any emergency coalition, because we have no intention of walking into a Tory parlor in order to make a tasty dish for anti-social reactionaries."

And so they seem to be scrapping as much on the other side of the Atlantic as we are on this side. Let's hope they—and we—will soon have enough sense pounded into our heads to get together and work together before that war-cloud which everyone seems to see, actually breaks.

Fiddling While the World Burns

The U. S. Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, in an almost straight party-line vote, approved a bill which will extend the terms of the present atomic energy commissioners for two years.

Members of that committee foresee a squabble, based upon "party politics" and upon Senator Robert A. Taft's hostility to the appointment of David Lilienthal as Commission Chairman. The Democrats oppose what Taft wants, because he's a Republican; and the Republicans on the committee, of course, approve what he wants for the same reason.

The United Nations Atomic Energy Commission on the same day threw up its hands in despair at establishing any international control of atomic energy. It voted, over the objections of the Soviet delegate, to toss the whole thing back into the lap of the UN Security Council. This Commission has been working two years on what it has finally decided it can't do.

In another department of our government it was revealed that we have just completed tests on three atomic superweapons with more destructive power than anything yet invented.

No wrangling or fiddling about on that last item.

But while we—and that means everybody in the whole world—are fiddling and delaying the world peace that was supposed to come at the end of World War II, the forces of war, united, are energetically preparing to blow our world to nothingness.

Why can't we unite for peace? We can. We must. Or die with the world as it burns.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

In a Catholic magazine, The Tidings, a columnist under the title, "El Rodeo," writes honestly and heart-searchingly of the recent conditions in Bogota, Columbia.

"The Press reports that a couple of Communist agitators have been picked up and the inference is strongly made that they are responsible for the disgraceful situation which obtained in Bogota."

But the writer, although strongly opposed to Communism, does not believe that the Communists are responsible for those recent uprisings.

"There is no use over simplifying the economic picture in South America," he says. "But by the same token there is no use blinding our eyes to the obvious injustice that obtains in countries which have been Catholic by tradition for hundreds of years and yet which reflect in all too few instances the social program laid down by the last six popes.

"The miserable living conditions, the great gap between the wealthy and the terribly poor, the ruthlessness of American capitalists in exploiting the poor of these countries—all these are grist for the Communist mill. That's why a couple of agitators can seemingly cause so much trouble.

"Trouble is what man will continue to get when he treats his fellows, who are made in the same image and likeness as he, with the contempt that characterizes in so many instances, the 'haves' toward the 'have-nots.'

"Many Americans today are becoming alarmed about Communism but their alarm is aroused by reason of selfishness," says this writer, and then goes on to show how the people in most Catholic countries (for it is Catholic countries that he is writing about principally) have ignored the warnings and admonitions of Pope XI and have filed them away somewhere where they were completely forgotten.

"A Catholic country," says El Rodeo, "can only be called such when its whole approach toward the solution of its problems is Catholic. It cannot be Catholic in its philosophy and pagan in its economics. It cannot have within it contradictions such as obtained in Columbia today.

"Contradictions which, if we must be practical, express on the one hand that man has an innate dignity and on the other grind him down with unspeakably low wages and make it impossible for him to better his condition.

"There is a lot more than meets the eye in the present Columbian crisis. There are Communist agitators at work. True. But they aren't the ones who are causing the mischief in that country. The mischief-makers are those professing to be Christians whose failure to carry out the Christian principles of living is the awful scandal and the terrible stumbling block in the path of salvation for all too many.

"If Communism is to be routed effectively it will not be by name calling. Our Western world must first purge itself of its paganism, of its ruthlessness toward man; and then it must set itself to work to exercise its selfishness by applying Christian principles of social justice in its daily living."

It took courage to write an article like that. To declare as a Catholic that it is the Catholics who are responsible for the upheaval in Colombia.

But we don't believe conditions in Colombia are any worse than they are in any other part of America, North or South, or any worse than in our own United States, where we boast so blindly of the high average wages our working people are getting, and refuse to see those who have no homes, and who are beginning even now to wonder how far thy can stretch the last crust of bread.

It does no good to pray, "Give us this day our daily bread," and do nothing more. We've been praying that for almost 2000 years. But the abundance of good things granted to America especially, that would give every man, woman and child in this great country, plenty of bread, a comfortable home, education, and all the other things every American citizen should have, we—you and I—have permitted to be gobbled up by a few while the great majority have been content to eat the crumbs that fall from our rich men's tables. Content to eat such fare ourselves, and willing to force our neighbors to do the same.

It isn't these terrible Communists who are doing the mischief. It is we, ourselves—Catholics, Protestants, all American citizens—and if we don't want Communism in this country, we'd better bestir ourselves and see that real social justice prevails not only in every part of America but in every part of the world.

BOOKS & AUTHORS

"Fifty Great Americans" by Henry and Dana Lee Thomas is an effort to present a composite picture of an American type. Each one of these examples of distinguished Americans has seemed to pull in a different and often antagonistic direction. Yet taken together they compose a united group representative of a united nation. Among those given here are: Benjamin Franklin, George Washington, Brigham Young, Sam Houston, Susan B. Anthony, Mark Twain, Thomas Edison, George Washington Carver and Knute Rockne. There is a brief biography of each one and a list of important dates in their lives.

Frank Yerby's new book, "Golden Hawk," is being widely publicized and has been eagerly awaited by those who have read his former books, "The Foxes of Harrow" and "The Vixens." This new novel is a combination of historical romance and adventure. Kit Gerado, 17th century buccaneer called The Golden Hawk of the Caribbean performs incredible feats during his lifelong search for revenge on Don Luis del Torro, a cruel Spanish grandee, his unknown father who had killed his mother. Kit's piracy takes him to many places in the Caribbean area. Intertwined with his story is that of Rouge, an English gentlewoman who turns pirate, and other women who love Kit. Among those women is Bianca, wedded to Don Luis half against her will, but loving Kit with all her warm Spanish nature. Her great love brings pain and anguish as well as ecstasy. It is a full-blooded story with plenty of action.

"Baseball for Everyone" is by Joe DiMaggio and bears the subtitle of "A Treasury of Baseball Lore and Instruction for Fans and Players." The idol of today's baseball world probes the arts of batting, base running, coaching strategy, and play at each of the nine positions. Through his own experiences and those of a hundred other major leaguers he tells of their life. It is a warm revealing story of our favorite national pastime by one who has been three times designated by the American League as their most valuable player. It is well illustrated which adds greatly to its interest.

"Tobias Brandywine" by Dan Wickenden is the story of a Senator and his children whom he dominates—until Tobias comes. The family find him on their back stoop, sick and half-starved and take him in with some trepidation. He treats the aged Senator like a human being rather than an avenging god and the younger members like adults, bringing fun and laughter into the lives of all of them. It is a warm and moving and penetrating book—absorbing and amusing.

"Marriage for Moderns" by Henry A. Bowman, Chairman of Home and Family Department of Marriage Education, Stephens college, Columbia, Missouri, is a revised edition of his 1940 book. The author believes that all life is a preparation for marriage and attempts to assist the reader to achieve a healthy attitude, by bringing him into contact with facts, principles and problems that are likely to play a part in every marriage, presenting them clearly and sensibly. The data in this book has been brought up-to-date and there are questions for discussion and tables of marriage and divorce laws.

"Flame Wine" is by Helen Toping Miller, a Michigan author of light romances. In this latest novel she tells of Shannon, a sensitive young girl whose shyness and insecurity cause her to escape in a career as a dancer. Handsome Lance Lansing dazzles her with promises of a bright future in New York and she disappears only to be cruelly disillusioned. Her four sisters react differently to the tragedy but fifteen year-old Suzette who has helped her to escape shares a burden of guilt. Shannon struggles for existence and is forced to make a choice between Hank who loves her and her passion for dancing. It is a book of pure entertainment.

"A Trek in the Amazon Jungles" by James M. Dannaldson is illustrated with 52 unusual photographs and a pictorial map. The book will take you on an exciting jungle expedition through the eyes and camera of a naturalist explorer. Among other rarely encountered animals you will meet man-eaters and vampires and many other interesting creatures which inhabit the fabulous Amazon region. If you like to do your exploring via the arm chair you will revel in this attractive volume.

"Parris Mitchell of Kings Row" by Henry and Katherine Bellaman is a sequel to "King's Row" finished after the author's death by his wife who always worked closely with him and knew just how he had planned this one. Parris Mitchell, psychiatrist at the State Asylum, carries on his warfare against mental disease and Kings Row offers him plenty of abnormality—a man who howls at the moon, rape, murder, sadism—and Fulmer Green fights to destroy the idealistic doctor. Though this may not quite rank with the first book it is nevertheless one which will be in great demand.

The librarians at your neighborhood libraries are eager to help you in any way. Don't forget their location: Helen Hunt Jackson Branch, 2330 Naomi avenue, and Vernon Branch, 4504 South Central avenue. Hours: Monday through Friday from 1-9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m.-1 p.m.

Declaration Of Independence

Tel Aviv, May 14 (AP)—The text of the declaration of independence of the Jewish state.

The Land of Israel was the birth place of the Jewish people. Here their spiritual, religious and national identity was formed. Here they achieved independence and created a culture of national and universal significance. Here they wrote and gave the Bible to the world.

Exiled from Palestine, the Jewish people remained faithful to it in all the countries of their dispersion, never ceasing to pray and hope for their return and restoration of their national freedom.

Impelled by this historic association, Jews strove throughout the centuries to go back to the land of their fathers and regain statehood. In recent decades they returned in their masses. They reclaimed a wilderness, revived their language, built cities and villages, and established a vigorous and ever growing community, with its own economic and cultural life. They sought peace, yet were ever prepared to defend themselves. They brought blessings of progress to all inhabitants of the country.

In the year 1897 the first Zionist Congress, inspired by Theodore Herzl's vision of a Jewish state, proclaimed the right of the Jewish people to a national revival in their own country.

This right was acknowledged by the Balfour Declaration of Nov. 2, 1917, and reaffirmed by the mandate of the League of Nations, which gave explicit international recognition to the historic connection of the Jewish people with Palestine and their right to reconstitute their national home.

The Nazi holocaust which engulfed millions of Jews in Europe proved anew the urgency of the reestablishment of the Jewish state, which would solve the problem of Jewish homelessness by opening the gates to all Jews and lifting the Jewish people to equality in the family of nations.

Survivors of the European catastrophe as well as Jews from other lands, claiming their right to a life of dignity, freedom and labor, and undeterred by hazards, hardships and obstacles, have tried unceasingly to enter Palestine.

In the Second World War, the Jewish people in Palestine made a full contribution in the struggle of freedom-loving nations against the Nazi evil. The sacrifices of their soldiers and efforts of their workers gained them title to rank with the people who founded the United Nations. On Nov. 29, 1947, the General Assembly of the United Nations adopted a resolution for reestablishment of an independent Jewish state in Palestine and called upo inhabitants of the country to take such steps as may be necessary on their part to put the plan into effect.

This recognition by the United Nations of the right of the Jewish people to establish their independent state may not be revoked. It is, moreover, the self-evident right of the Jewish people to be a nation, as all other nations, in its own sovereign state.

Accordingly we, the members of National Council, representing the Jewish people in Palestine and the Zionist movement of the world, met together in solemn assembly by virtue of the natural and historic right of the Jewish people and of the resolution of the General Assembly of the United Nations.

We hereby proclaim the establishment of the Jewish state in Palestine, to be called Israel.

Oppose Policy of Imperialism Both at Home and Abroad

BY PAUL FRENCH

Because the policies of imperialism are inherently opposed to the interests of the great masses of common people, both at home and abroad, those policies must, per force, always be hidden or disguised behind a cloak of hypocritical pretensions.

This cloak of hypocrisy was torn aside recently, when the Soviet Government took its case to the peoples of the world by publishing the text of an American note delivered to the USSR in Moscow by Ambassador (General) Smith, together with the Soviet reply.

Instantly, a great storm arose. Where the Soviet note claimed that the U. S. note had "offered discussion and settlement" of differences, and where the Soviet note "accepted the offer," Wall Street's puppets in Washington hotly denied that there had been any "offer" at all, and coldly declared that imperialist America isn't even wanting to try to settle differences and avoid war with the Soviet Union.

What is the truth? Let us examine the actual text of the notes:

The American note made certain charges against the USSR, as follow: 1. "The progressive extension of the area of Soviet power." This "alarmed the European community and the United States," which have "drawn closer together for self-protection." 2. "Communist minorities" in "other countries" attempt to "seize power" and establish "regime subservient to foreign interests," and this makes it "necessary" for the U. S. and these other countries to "defend their political integrity." 3. The Soviet Union opposes the Marshall Plan, and the U. S. says that such opposition is "inexplicable" and annoying to the United States.

Nevertheless, the American note declares: 1. That "the United States has no hostile or aggressive design whatever with respect to the Soviet Union, and: 2. "As far as the United States is concerned, the door is always wide open for full discussion and the composing of our differences."

However, when the Soviet Government tried to go through that "wide open door"—it found the door slammed in its face! In big headlines we read: "Truman and aides say no peace parley was asked." Since Truman insisted that "no discussions" were asked, Truman was reported as regarding the Soviet "acceptance" of such offer, "with suspicion."

Evidently the English language doesn't mean what it says when spoken by Wall Street diplomats. But, if you were at outs with your neighbor, and he, some afternoon, would say: "Come over and split a quart of beer with me, as I don't bear and grudge, and the door is always wide open to fully discuss our differences and become friends," would YOU call that "an offer"—and offer for a peace 'parley'? Of course! But, Truman and Marshall say it wasn't. They were absolutely panic-stricken and angry at the very idea of the Soviet wanting to make peace and avoid war.

Secretary Marshall, who perhaps holds the world's record for diplomatic idiocy and monumental mistakes, called in reporters and declared that, if the USSR wanted to discuss anything, it should "take it up in the body charged with responsibility for these questions, the United Nations."

However, this rather avoids the cold fact that the United States did NOT, itself, talk to the Soviet Union "in the United Nations," but secretly had Ambassador Smith deliver America's note to the Moscow Foreign Office. Why pretend surprise, when the Soviet answers directly to a note directly delivered?

"This government," added Marshall, "had no intention of entering into bilateral negotiations with the Soviet Government on matters relating to the interests of other governments." However, the cold fact is that the U. S. Government did, without telling other governments one word about it, deliver a note to the Soviet Government, very much concerning "matters relating to the interests of other governments," and did, very plainly, declare that the United States was holding 'the door wide open for full discussion and the composing of our differences."

If Secretary Marshall is so eager to have "other governments" included in any "discussions" with the Soviet Union, why, then, did he have Ambassador Smith secretly deliver the American note to Mr. Molotov and then rush off to France to go fishing?

What appears to have angered our Wall Street diplomats is that the Soviet exposed their double-dealing and hypocrisy by taking the whole thing to the big, wide world and its peoples, by reading both notes over the Moscow radio. American imperialist hypocrisy was caught with its striped pants down. To cover up its first big lie, it was forced to tell a dozen more.

One new lie was the pretense that the USSR had not specified any "issue" to discuss. Yet, the Soviet note, which most U. S. newspapers refused to publish, very plainly stated the issues "that any peoce discussions would have to revolve around." Mr. Molotov evened numbered them, as follows:

1. "The Soviet policy of strengthening relations with eastern Europe." This would continue, said Molotov, despite American criticism.

2. "American action in developing military, naval and air bases around the world, encircling the USSR."

3. "United States sponsorship" of the creation of the "western European union," which is "aggressive in intent" and "not a treaty of self-defense."

4. "United State violation of trade agreements by shutting off exports to the Soviet Union."

As against U. S. accusations, the USSR held that it has a right to establish friendly relations with its neighbors, that the U. S. does so with "Canada, Mexico and other countries." Russia "has not interfered" with "democratic developments" withi nother countries, but America has, as for example in Greece. The Soviet would not appose the Marshall Plan if it were put "within the the framework of the United Nations" and "on a basis of respect for national rights and the sovereignty of states."

Wether you agree with what the Soviet Union says or not, certainly you must agree that it can do no harm to discuss and try to avoid war. But, avoiding war seems to frighten our Washington diplomats. To even speak of a peace parley sends them into hysterics of alarm.

Capitalist imperialism cannot exist without war. But the happiness hown by the world's peoples when it appeared that peace was possible, and their bitter disillusion when Washington rejected the Soviet attempt to make peace, show that the war-makers must reckon that any war they make will see these peoples putting an end to both war and imperialism.

The Road to Health

GOOD FEET

by Middleton H. Lambright, Jr., M.D. Senior Clinical Instructor in Surgery, Western Reserve University Medical School, Cleveland, Ohio.

Ten-year-old Tommy Smith had a slight limp as he walked into my office with his mother last week. They were still arguing as they came in. Tommy insisting that "it couldn't be anything because it only hurt during the day."

Mrs. Smith turned to me and apologized for the boy's unwillingness to enter the office. She explained that Tommy's feet had been hurting him for weeks and that she became alarmed when he started to limp. At first she thought he was on his feet too much, with his constant basketball practice. But the basketball season was over and his feet seemed worse than ever.

I examined the boy's feet and, although the arches seemed strong and normal, the big toe on either foot turned inward in an unnatural position. I picked up his shoes and looked them over carefully. They were at least a half-size too small for Tommy. When I told Mrs. Smith she exclaimed:

"But, doctor, those shoes are less than three months old and they didn't hurt when Tommy first got them."

"It is possible that Tommy was fitted incorrectly or that his feet have grown since he bought the shoes, Mrs. Smith," I said. "Boys of Tommy's age grow very rapidly. It's true they usually wear out their shoes before they outgrow them, but sometimes the rapid growth gets ahead."

I assured Mrs. Smith that no permanent damage had been done and that what Tommy needed was a sturdy pair of properly fitted shoes with sufficient room in the toes to allow comfortable growth. Mrs. Smith confessed that she had allowed Tommy to go by himself to buy the shoes. The next time, she added, she would be with him and make sure he was properly fitted.

Mrs. Smith said, when she was leaving, that she knew how important good feet were, although she had overlooked Tommy's shoes. She told me proudly that she was giving her nine-month-old baby cod liver oil and food that contained calcium to build strong bones and avoid sicknesses that might cause foot deformities.

When children learn and observe a few simple rules about the care of the feet they can avoid most foot ailments. For example, they can learn at an early age that toenails should be cut straight across, not too short, at least every two weeks. Everybody should have a daily foot bath and dry the feet carefully, especially between the toes. Correct shoes that give support and are properly fitted at all times will supplement these measures and promote foot health as well as comfort.

Parents should consult the doctor at the first sign of foot trouble in a child. He can tell whether or not the child's feet are healthy and are growing properly. If he finds anything wrong, he can advise measures for correcting it. Then the child will also have a better chance of avoiding fallen arches, deformed feet and other serious foot disabilities in adulthood.

POTPOURRI

To plan for immediate action to meet the critical nursing needs of America, more than 10,000 professional nurses, representing all 48 states, Hawaii and Puerto Rico will convene in Chicago on May 30 for a six-day biennial convention.

"America's Nursing Care—A Professional Challenge and a Public Responsibility" will be the theme of the convention.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, all of whose members have seen service overseas or in hostile waters, introduced the replica of the Flanders Poppy to the American public twenty-seven years ago as a symbol of the sacrifices made by America's war dead. The public immediately gave recognition to the ideals which the Buddy Poppy symbolized. Since then public recognition has grown steadily for the little blood-red blossoms which the Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States sells annually.

In anticipation of the 1948 Sale, approximately 100,000 Buddy Poppies have been made daily by disabled veterans to be worn on Memorial Day, when Americans everywhere, as a united people, will offer their proud and reverent homage to their soldier dead.

Henry Lee Moon, Director of Public Relations for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, is the author of a book which Doubleday is publishing on Thursday (May 20). Entitled The Balance of Power: The Negro Vote, Mr. Moon's book traces the effectiveness of Negro voting from Reconstruction Days up to the present.

The case of Mrs. Rosa Lee Ingram and her two teen-age sons, sentenced to life imprisonment for killing a white sharecropper in self-defense, will be argued on June 14 in the Supreme Court of Georgia by Austin T. Walden and Edward R. Dudley, attorneys for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

On that date, the NAACP lawyers will present a motion for a new trial for the Ingrams, contending that insufficient evidence was produced at the first trial to convict the three of murder. The NAACP will, if necessary, carry the case to the United States Supreme Court in order to obtain justice for the Ingram family.

Through the Americus, Georgia, NAACP branch the children of Mrs. Ingram are receiving a weekly budget for food and other living expenses. Reports received here from Americus indicate that the children are no longer in need of clothing, enough having been received by mail to meet the needs of the family for a long time.

NEW YORK—The fight to gain admission to the law school of the University of Oklahoma for Mrs. Ada Sipuel Fisher will be renewed on Monday (May 24) with the opening of a new trial in the District Court at Norman, Okla.

Thurgood Marshall, special counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, and Edward R. Dudley, assistant special counsel will join with Amos T. Hall, an Oklahoma attorney, in representing Mrs. Fisher in her legal battle to enter the state-supported all-white law school.

The new trial was granted in response to a motion filed on March 11 on behalf of Mrs. Fisher. Following the refusal of the law school to admit Mrs. Fisher after the United States Supreme Court had handed down a decision imposing upon the State of Oklahoma the obligation to provide her with an opportunity for a legal education forthwith.

Albert Maltz, famed author and screen writer, will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Silver Lake Lodge No. 488 of the Jewish People's Fraternal Order, Friday night, May 21 at the Echo Park Women's Club, 1004 Echo Park Ave., 8 p.m.

Mr. Maltz is the writer of many outstanding films, "The Pride of the Marines," "Destination Tokyo," and "The House I Live In." He is also the author of the famous novel and film, "The Cross and the Arrow."

He will discuss the trials of "Hollywood Ten," in Washington, D. C. and also the current un-American bills in Congress, attempting to strifle the freedom of the American people. Everyone is invited. Admission free.

In a letter from the Westside Chamber of Commerce endorsing the candidacy of Frances Williams for the State Assembly, 63rd District, it notes her platfom as follows:

Fair employment practices; Elimination of segregation in schools, restaurants, etc.; Right to buy or rent a house of one's choice; Better street lighting and transportation; Permanent child care centers; Well Baby clinics; State-supported medical plan for all; State-supported hospitals; Pension of $100.00 a month at 60; End of sales tax; Price and rent controls; roll-back of prices to 1945 level; and State guarantees on small business loans.

Endorsement of Frances E. Williams, candidate for the State Legislature, 63rd A. D., is announced by the following organizations, according to Dorothy Kraus, campaign chairman:

Musicians' Union, local 76, A.F. of L.; United Borthernood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, local 634; A.F. of L.; Retail Clerks Union, local 770; California State Legislative Committee, State and County, C.I.O.; Warehouse local, I.L.W.U., local 26, C. I. O.; Association for the Abolition of Second Class Citizenship and the Westside Chamber of Commerce.

Leaders of the A.F. of L., C.I.O., Railroad and Independent unions, and liberal organizations will gather Wednesday evening, May 26th at the "Meet the Candidates" dinner, which will be held at the Alexandria Hotel, arranged by the Los Angeles County Organization "Americans for Democratic Action."

Robert W. Gilbert, chairman of the Arrangement Committee, announced that he was assured that three present Congressmen, Cecil King, Helen Gahagan Douglas and Chet Holifield, will make every effort to come to the dinner from Washington.

The Los Angeles County organization, has established a permanent central office at the Alexandria Hotel, to carry on campaign and organizational work for the "Americans for Democratic Action."

In a statement released here today, Jose R. Chavez, candidate for Assembly from the 51st A.D., expressed surprise at the change of attitude displayed by Congressman Chet Holifield in his position on the Mundt-Nixon Bill HR 5852.

"We deplore greatly your substitute measure for the Mundt Bill and urge you to withdraw it immediately," said Mr. Chavez. "In our opinion, any substitute means a retreat from the valiant fight you and your group were making to uphold the constitutional guarantees i nthe Bill of Rights."

It was pointed out in a letter to Congressman Holifield, dispatched by Mr. Chavez, that the substitute measure which the Congressman submitted for the Mundt-Nixon Bill served only to lull the people into a false sense of security.

"We believe that your substitute bill was a grave mistake and under a different name would be equally as dangerous to American civil rights," stated Mr. Chavez in a portion of the letter, "and we hope you reconsider and withdraw same."

Candidate Chavez cautioned Congressman Holifield and reminded him of Munich, closing with the words, "You cannot appease the fascists."

The letter, in part, commended Congressman Holifield for the valiant effort on the part of himself and a handful of other progressive-minded Congressmen to defeat the Mundt-Nixon Bill. It also pointed out that the overwhelming majority of the people in the 59th Congressional District, upon being advised of the dangers lurking in this bill, were unequivocally opposed to its passage. Mr. Chavez calls upon all the people to urge Congressman Holifield to withdraw his substitute measure and to continue the fight to defeat the un-American Mundt-Nixon Bill.

James Roosevelt, chairman of the Democratic State Central Committee, has filed a formal request with the Mutual-Don Lee Broadcasting System for a radio re-broadcast of the speech President Truman made at the National Young Democratic Committee's dinner in Washington last Friday.

Roosevelt accuses the Mutual-Don Lee System of granting time for a debate between the two Republican candidates, Dewey and Stassen, but none for the President's speech, which "millions of radio listeners in the West have not yet been privileged to hear."

Helen Gahagan Douglas, "Our Congresswoman" from the 14th Congressional District, and Chet Holifield, from the 19th, are leading the fight in Congress against the Mundt-Nixon police state bill.

Veterans who have been alerted to the gypping of some real estate dealers in the matter of buying homes, for their protection can:

1. Check with the State Contractors License Board to find out if the builder or contractor is properly licensed.

2. Check with the Real Estate Board as to the standing of the agent or broker from whom you are buying your home.

3. Check with the Home Building Institute.

4. Demand a receipt for every penny you pay and for what. See that this is recorded in your escrow papers.

Gov. Earl Warren, after receiving a telegram from AFL President William Green that he investigate the matter, has called for "the full force of the law" in the attempted assassination of Farm Labor Union leader, James Price in the Di Giorgio Ranch strike near Arvin.

Price was shot as he sat in a home with seven other strike committeemen, when five shots were fired into the house by unknown assailants. Price was the only one hit.

Col. Moody Staten, 14th Congressional candidate, has bitterly denounced the race "leaders" who are "trying to butter-up and cram Wallace Braden, Republican nominee, down the throats of Negro voters."

According to Col. Staten, Braden is general manager of the County Employee's Association and maintains a large office, the upkeep of which, including his own handsome salary, is borne by Los Angeles County employees, a large percentage of whom are Negroes. After more than ten years in this position, Mr. Braden has not seen fit to give Negroes a single job in that office, Staten said.

Trail Blazers: Francis E. Williams

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

In a world staggering under the load of inflation, depression wages, housing shortages, growing unemployment, political turmoil, and confusion, it is evident that we are at a crucial point in history. The people of the world are afraid—afraid of hunger and cold, afraid of an impending economic crisis and war, afraid of losing their human rights; indeed, afraid to live. Frustration and disillusionment stalks in overwhelming proportions, as people ask themselves, where are they headed?

But there are many people who are cognizant of all that is happening and are striving to warn others that democracy must be made a real and living thing in America. Out in the forefront for building a stronger, more unified people is Frances Williams—actress, civic worker, world-traveller, citizen-American.

Frances is an exceptional woman with amazing abilities. To people of ambition she is an irresistable magnet. She has just enough tranquility about her to lend relaxation to the atmosphere created. Everything recounted to her holds some special interest. With profundity she carefully helps people to realize their right direction.

A fervent believer in democratic principles, this pattern has been integrated into every aspect of her life. She knows no racial or religious barriers to friendship. She recognizes only common bonds of ideals and goals.

Socially, knowing how to entertain is a prized possession. Probably the "Dean of party hostesses" west of the Rockies is Frances Williams. With comparative facility she can handle 300 guests as few are able to handle 15. A party hostessed by her is almost certain to attract all from a Hollywood celebrity to a labor mechanic. The homey, informal setting generally assures guests of a good time whether they know the others or not. Each time it is prefaced by the warm reception of the hostess.

First and foremost Frances—as she prefers to be called—is an actress of no small ability. Her background is more brilliant than her career. Because she does not draw selfish attention to herself and a principle to her doesn't swing with the pendulum of dollars, this is true.

She got her first professional break in New York, where she played three years in the Broadway hit, "You Can't Take It With You." On the staff of Theatre productions they handled the technical work for Orson Welles' Mercury theatre and summer stock productions in the East. When Langston Hughes' first play was produced, Frances had one of the stellar roles.

In Europe she worked with two of the foremost theatre play groups. And since her arrival in Hollywood she has endeared herself to playgoers for her work in "Skin of Our Teeth," "Magnificent Doll," and other productions.

Born in New Jersey and reared in Cleveland, she received her education at Western Reserve university, Swarthmore college in Pennsylvania, New School of Social Work at Columbia university, and the University of Finland in Europe. However, it was at Western Reserve while she was studying graduate social work, that she became interested in drama. And that interest grew with each new social work and travel experience. She has travelled in 13 countries and 40 states.

Some of her best work was done at Karamu Settlement House in Cleveland. There she conducted the Children's theatre and organized some of the first camping trips in the Midwestern area. These youngsters, who were the Dead End Kids of Cleveland, later blossomed out into important citizens largely through the positive approach used by this agency.

When she went abroad she had $70, a round-trip ticket, and stayed two years. In recalling that experience she commented, feelingly, "There was something about going abroad alone with a clear point of view to the problems and living habits of the little people, having to work and live with the people (not as an American tourist), that was one of the most enrichening experiences of my life. It clearly emphasized the effect of political life on the people. Many of these situations to which I was exposed in 1936 are parrallel to the political situation in which we find ourselves today."

Frances E. Williams

Because of her wide range of experience, her genuine interest in people and their problems, she has been an asset for enrichening the social, physical, economic and cultural life of the community.

She is now a candidate for assemblywoman for the 63rd Assembly district on the Democratic and Independent Progressive Party tickets. It is a rightness she feels for a way of life—for the vets, FEPC, low-cost housing, labor, youth, freedom of expression without intimidation or fear—which we do not have, that she considered running.

Vociferous in her denunciation of the Mundt-Nixon bill and the Subversive Activities Control act, she belives these bills are vicious attempts to stifle free speech and free assemblage. Explaining just how far-reaching the bill is, Miss Williams explained that an FEPC meeting could be interrupted as "un-American" and all members present thrown in jail.

Restrictive covenants could never have reached the Supreme Court if groups had not come together to fight against it. Under the leadership of people like Charlotta Bass, Lena Horne, Clayton Russell, civic and labor leaders, who brought the little people together in private homes and church meeting, it was brought to a crystallized form so that lawyers could take it from there.

"But the U. S. Supreme Court decision is just a step in the right direction," the actress said. "Our efforts should not be lessened. Private agreements between owners is still legal. The outlawing of Restrictive Covenants must be made a reality and there is no better place to start than on a community level."

Roger Jessup Accused Of Using County Autos For Personal Business

It has come to the attention of the citizens of this community that taxpayers' money was being misused by a county official, and they have asked the grand jury to investigate the case.

The person involved is none other than Roger W. Jessup, member of the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors from the Fifth District, who is accused of driving a county automobile for his own private business, and causing the wreck of two other cars besides the one in which he was riding.

The report of the committee investigating follows:

Upon strict investigation, this committee has found that a member of your honorable board, Roger Jessup, representing the Fifth Supervisorial District, has supposedly used, or caused to be used, County-owned automobiles for personal purposes, causing them to be driven without authority from your honorable board great distances over the State of California, and on many occasions into the State of Nevada to the vicinity of Ely, Nev. It is known to this committee that the majority of these trips were made for the purpose of buying and selling cattle, and promoting in general Mr. Jessup's private business as a dairyman and rancher.

This committee makes special demands upon your honorable board to cause the grand jury to especially investigate a recent, unauthorized trip on March 19, 1948, and establish the fact that Mr. Jessup was a passenger in an automobile, riding in the rear seat—that it was his responsibility that this automobile should have been operated in a lawful manner. That Mr. Jessup should not have permitted the red spotlight burning, impersonating a law-enforcement vehicle. That he should have caused the vehicle's speed to be reduced when a condition appeared on a state highway such as was the case of smoke blowing over the highway, making the visibility nearly zero.

Mr. Delbert F. Ferickes, age 61, of Troy, Mont., accompanied by Mrs. Ferickes, was riding in a 1948 Dodge bearing license No. "Montana F 861-005." Mr. Ferickes is claimed to be a senator from Montana. The Ferickes car was traveling north on Highway 99W, and had slowed down when entering this smoke area to a speed of approximately 20 miles per hour, as is prescribed by law, when the automobile owned by Los Angeles County, a 1948 Buick bearing no license plates, with a red spotlight burning, driven by Brue Walter Nigg, and Roger Jessup a passenger, entered the area traveling in the same direction at a high rate of speed, overtook the Ferickes' car, smashing into the rear of same.

Kathryn A. Milliken, P. O. Box 895, Project City, age 22, driving a 1932 Ford sedan, license No. V442-941 (California), was traveling likewise north on Highway 99W, at a speed of approximately 30 miles per hour, entered the smoke area, and because of the poor visibility, failed to see the wreck caused by Mr. Jessup's automobile in time to prevent colliding with the rear end of his car.

uttered by Daniel Webster: "God grants liberty only to those who love it, and are always ready to guard and defend it." I add "with their life blood."

If Negroes think the legislative tribunals and the courts of the land can or will give them freedom, they are in for a sad disappointment. These are comprised of men, and wise men never expect to receive as a gift the greatest possession of another man. It is the duty of the old to educate the youth that freedom is won by bloodshed. And this blood-letting must be of a different pattern than that split on the Naion's battlefields since Crispus Attucks.

Excuse this diatribe. I just wanted to let you know that an Old Timer is heartened at the fearless battles you are waging.

God bless you.

Campaigners All-Out To Save YMCA Program

Monday evening an enthusiastic group of "Y" leaders launched a special Gold Strike Sustaining Membership Enrollment to underwrite the 1948 budget of the local Y.M.C.A. This group is under the leadership of Prof. H. O. Cook retired high school principal and veteran of Paseo Branch "Y" in Kansas City. Associated with him in leadership is Lawrence B. Wilson.

Lorenzo Bowdoin leads the special list division and with the help of H. A. Howard, Rev. M. F. Mitchell, Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Clarence S. Smith, kicked off the drive with nearly $1000 from 35 members at Monday evening's meeting.

Capt. James R. Akers, Jr. and W. T. Hickerson heads Divisions A and B respectively. These men, their team leaders and workers are pledged to secure 500 members before May 27 for a dollar value of $5,625.

This is the amount needed to budget of the branch. The annual membership enrollment which ended in March brought the branch out o fthe red but left no "membership reserve" for this year's operation. The workers in the campaign realize that, unless they succeed the program which has been developing at the branch and in the community, will have to be curtailed in order to keep costs within the limits of a restricted budget.

HOPELESS HENRY — BY KAULEE

Hopeless Henry runs a business, but he doesn't understand
That to help our country's welfare we must trade with every land;
He's a hustler—and he'd like to sell his products far and near,
But he still insists we've got to keep all foreign goods from here.

Hank forgets that for a fellow to have cash with which to buy,
He must find a ready market for the goods he can supply;
In the same way, if a country cannot sell to us today,
Then her people won't have money—which will keep our goods away.

But we're not all Hopeless Henrys: we know every nation's plea
Is to share the many blessings of increased prosperity;
If the U. S. buys the products other nations have to sell,
We make certain there'll be buyers for our country's goods as well.

Frances Williams Addresses Group On Mundt-Nixon Bill

What was scheduled as a three-way debate between three rival assembly candidates turned into a "one-way landslide" for Frances E. Williams in the Leimert Park district, Tuesday night. Invited to express their views on eight specific legislative issues, only two of the three candidates for the State Legislature, 63rd Assembly District, were present, Sam Whitworth, Democrat, and Miss Williams, Independent Progressive Party. The third candidate, G. Delbert Morris, Republican incumbent, failed to appear, although he had informed the chairman of the meeting, scheduled by the Bill Bernstein and Leimert Park chapters of the American Jewish Congress, that "he might be a little late."

A prolonged bust of applause greeted the speech of Miss Williams, when, after reviewing her stand on the basic issues at stake, she declared: "We want an America where no child can go hungry in the midst of plenty! We want an America where friends and neighbors can live in peace and security regardless of race, creed, nationality ro color. We want an America where we can enjoy freedom of speech, freedom of thought, freedom of press and freedom of religion. . . . We want an America not for the few but for all of us!"

Introduced by Paul Major, legislative chairman of American Jewish Congress, Men's Division, Southern California, both Whitworth and Miss Williams delivered their speeches and were then questioned by the audience.

Speaking on the Mundt-Nixon blil, Miss Williams declared that the so-called "police State bill" now before the House was "the most repressive bill ever devised to destroy the American Bill of Rights." She expressed her unequivocal opposition to-it and all similar bills before the federal or state governments which propose curbing the rights of free speech, press and assembly, and those opposing the rights of labor. She stated: "If elected, I would propose that a law be enacted to protect the people of our state from wholesale labeling of this kind as the use of 'Red' labeling was Hitler's most effective method in suppressing the rights of all people." She continued, "First the Communist, then the Socialist, then the free trade unions, the Protestant and Catholic Church, and, of course, the Jews all the time."

Miss Williams, the chairman stated, is a university graduate and post-graduate, and has served the cities of Cleveland and New York for over 15 years as a progressive social worker. She was commended by the U. S. War Department for her services during the war and has been appointed to serve on important civic committees, since her arrival in Los Angeles 7 years ago, on racial issues and has worked constantly for better schools, better housing and greater cultural and recreational facilities for all peoples in this area.

Mrs. Turner Says Weathers' Story False

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Turner, of Los Angeles, declared the report of Ray Weathers of St. Louis, Mo., the father of Larry Martin and Gale Martin Weathers, that the children had been spirited away from his home, was false. Mr. and Mrs. Turner appeared in the office of The California Eagle and produce ddocumentary evidence that Weather's contention was false.

Mrs. Turner freely admitted that she once was married to Ray Weathers. But she had papers to show that she was divorced and was now the legal wife of J. D. Turner. And that at the time of her separation from Weathers, she was granted legal custody of Larry Martin and Gale Martha, their two children.

FAMED LAWS CASE REVIEWED FROM EAGLE FILES

The recent decision of the United States Supreme court that restrictive covenants are unconstitutional, and cannot be enforced by the courts of the land, affects favorably one of the most famous, possibly the most famous case on restrictive covenants in America today.

It is the case of the Laws family. The family in the house on 92nd street.

Going back over the years in the files of The California EAGLE this sordid story of un-Americanism unfolds bit by bit. It is the story of a small group of determined American citizens, black and white, who banded together to fight this gargantuan monster of racial prejudice that could deprive a family of the home they had themselves built. Simply because they were Negroes.

Henry and Anna Laws had bought a lot in 1933 at what is now 1235 East 92nd street, and nine years later they had built their little home there—a neat, comfortable homelike, pretty house, with green grass and flowers around it.

They lived there very happily for almost three years. Then suddenly out of a clear blue sky they were notified that the place was restricted. That a Negro family was not allowed to live there.

Two real estate men, G. Freers and a man by the name of Boyer, who did not live in that district, had nevertheless dug up an old restrictive covenant made on that property, and entered a suit to restrain the Laws family from living in their own home.

The Laws family fought back. But they were advised by their lawyer to vacate their home, in a letter dated as early as May 29, 1944. "Your occupancy of the premises at this time may be deemed contempt of court, if the plaintiffs in the case were to secure an order citing you for contempt."

It was then that Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor and publisher of The California EAGLE, called for a meeting of citizens opposed to such legal highway robbery to meet in the office of the EAGLE, and devise means to fight the nefarious restrictive covenants.

The meeting was held. And true Americans, black and white, pledged themselves to continue to oppose putting Negro families out of their homes, simply because they are Negroes. At first the organization was known as the Home Owners Protective Association, then later the name was changed to Home Protective Association. Mrs. Bass was elected president, and it was decided to appoint a committee to go to Messrs. Freers and Boyer, and others who had joined the Property Owners Association whose purpose was to prevent Negres living in that area, and "appeal to their reason and fairness."

Might as well have appealed to the reason and sense of fair play of a hungry, man-eating tiger. Messrs. Freers and Boyer and the Property Owners Association would have nothing to do with the committee from the association organized to protect the homes of American citizens.

In a letter dated June 19, 1944, the lawyer for the Laws family advised his clients that he had been notified that "unless your premises are vacated by the 20th of this month, he will commence proceedings to restrain your further occupancy of your property . . . You may desire to dispose of your property, and if so, Mr. Boyer or Mr. Freers could be of some assistance in finding you buyers."

MRS. TOMMIE REEVES, treasurer of the Home Protective Association, handing Attorney John T. McTernan, in charge of the case, a check for $1000. The HPA has fought this case through the courts. Mrs. Anna Laws, victim of the restrictive covenant, is in the center.

What a letter to receive, telling you to get out of your own home, or else!

Well, the Laws family didn't take the advise of their lawyer. They decided to stay put. And the Home Protective Association, organized at first to fight restrictive covenants everywhere, concentrated now on this one case especially.

"We'll fight until hell freezes over," declared Mrs. Bass, "before we'll let you be put out of your own home."

The HPA fought. The case was taken to court. It was postponed again and again. Meetings were held in churches, in halls, wherever people could gather. They were addressed by members of the city council, by labor leaders, by leaders of welfare organizations, by lawyers sympathetic to the case, by real estate people. Nearly everyone timidly thought the case might be won, if taken to the United States Supreme Court. But—it takes money to go to the U. S. Supreme Court.

"We'll go," said Mrs. Bass. "We'll raise the money somehow. We'll not let this family be gyped out of their own home, just because their skin is dark."

The case was taken to the municipal court. It was postponed from one time to another. Finally, November 22, 1945, the EAGLE reports "In a crushing decision handed down last Tuesday by Judge Allen W. Ashburn, Department 14, Superior Court, Henry and Anna Laws, victims of a restrictive covenant clause, were ordered to vacate their home by Friday, November 30. If the Laws family fail to comply with this order, a fine and a jail sentence will be imposed upon them."

The Laws family didn't comply with this order. They were cited for contempt of court, and ordered to jail.

This aroused the entire community. A committee of prominent members of all races waited upon Judge Ashburn, asking him to reverse his decision. He refused bluntly. "I would not even if I could," he said.

So Mr. and Mrs. Henry Laws and their daughter, Mrs. Pauletta Fears, were dragged off to jail. Two sons of Mr. and Mrs. Laws and Mrs. Fears' husband, Antoine Fears, who had been fighting in the Pacific area, were even then on their way home.

They came home to find their family in jail. For daring to live in their own home.

But the aroused community did not rest with a mere appeal to Judge Ashburn. They went to other courts and other judges, and finally the Laws were released by a writ from the State Supreme court.

The case was not settled, however. And ever since that time the Laws family had been living in their home on East 92nd street with a cloud hanging over their heads. The case was taken through the municipal courts, the county courts, and finally to the State Supreme Court. It was resting there for nearly two years. And now at long last it has finally been decided, as have the cases of thousands of other families threatened with eviction because their skins are not lily white.

The Supreme Court of the United States of America has declared restrictive covenants are unconstitutional, that they cannot be enforced by any court in America.

And so the Laws family and every other family in the United States may now live in peace wherever they may choose to buy or build.

It was a long fight. But it was worth it.

Air Mail Increases

Postmaster Michael D. Fanning announced this week that the volume of air mail going through the Terminal Annex, Los Angeles, has increased from nearly 7,000,000 netters in April, 1939, to approximately 26,000,000 letters in the same month of 1948.

Messages and parcel post can now be delivered to any section of the United States by air mail, and to nearly every section of the United States by air mail, and to nearly every section of the globe. The rates have been reduced to only 5 cents per ounce anywhere in the United States, and the recent introduction of 10-cent air letter sheets affords a convienent and economical means of communication to any part of the world.

The first air mail flight was made 30 years ago on May 15 between New York and Washington, D. C. and the distance covered was only 214 miles. He urged every patron of the Los Angeles Post Office to become better acquainted with the many advantages which air mail has to offer for speed and economy.

Bib and Tucker Supper Club Gives Festive Dancing Fete

The kind of beauty potes write about was quite in evidence at the elaborate champagne dancing party given by the Bib and Tucker Supper Club, one of the most popular groups in the southlands social set. The Saturday night date proved quite ideal for the affair that was colorful with a decor of festival balloons that were hung in clusters through the great dancing rooms of 1919 S. Harvard Blvd.

The Bib and Tuckers, organized in March of 1945 by charter members, Mmes. Marzella Armstrong, Josephine Blodgett Smith, Elois Tatum Davis and Ann Franklin Gordon have quietly carried on a program of philanthropic work with the addition of six other members. These young women, not content to see their city lacking in aid for needy children have gone all out for clothing and entertaining children from certain areas of the city. Mrs. Emily Brown Portwig, who knows the work of the club from its beginning did the honors of introducing the members and officers. In presenting them she told of their fine work and the fact that the type of leadership the club offered is exactly the type it takes to make any community a place in which the citizens will be proud to live.

The Saturday night affair was the first big social gathering to be given by the Bib and Tucker. Therefore, the presentation was both interesting and beautiful, for the gowns worn by the members were quite elaborate. Bowing in order were, President, Mrs. Hortense Aliewine, wearing black satin; Miss Nancy Harris, vice president, in Nile green chiffon; Mrs. George Smith, secretary, wearing powder blue crepe; Mrs. Walter Davis, treasurer, wearing black lace over egg shell satin; Mrs. Jereme Webb, parliamentarian, in black crepe; Mrs. Paul E. Johnson, first president and journalist, wearing brocade blouse with black skirt; Mrs. Ann Franklin Gordon, in pink silk print with accordian pleated skirt; Mrs. Norma Owens Williams, silk print; Mrs. Fred Griffin, pink taffeta with gloves to match; Mrs. Joseph Hayes, white chiffon. All wore Cecil Bruner roses on wrist bands. Mrs. Portwig was quite charming in black chiffon and lace. Her corsage was also of Brunners.

Champagne was plentiful and the h'ordurves were made of rare meats and fowl, and were artistically arranged on the appoint-

WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

THE INTERFRATERNAL Basketball Council brought the final curtain down on its activities for 1948, with the biggest joint fraternity event of the year, the annual Trophy Dance on last Saturday night. The Elks Auditorium was the scene of the affair and the Greek and non Greek representation filled the popular dancing spot to capacity. The awarding of trophies for outstanding players of the season was the main order of the evening. Lovely Hadda Brooks, who played the role of official presenter at last year's dance over Pasadena way, also did honors this year. The winning Alpha Team, first in the history of the series to go undefeated or tied the whole series, was given a word of praise by Hally Harding, M.C. as Bill Jones accepted the trophy that will remain permanently in the frat. Dorothea Fearonce, presented the C. W. Hill Award to Mrs. Dave Minor in the absence of her famous husband, who was selected as most outstanding player by Dr. Hill. Don Barksdale was given due honor as most valuable player on the team. In Don's absence, the award was accepted by Emmerson Chapman, another Alpha star. The Kappas, winners of last year's series, received their permanent trophy and Gene Williams was singled as outstanding player of the team. Shaw was cited for the Sigma team and Harry Penn announced the winner on the Omega side. Am quite sure Stanley Robertson carries a complete story on the awards in the sports section, however, the Inter-frat series has always carried a social side. For the past seven years, my favorite spring time subject in the social set has been facts on the series, who was there and the other potpourri that makes social jotting interesting. Believe me, I was indeed honored, and humbly so, when members of the council informed ye scribe early Saturday morning, that the Journalism Award of the '48 Council had been inscribed with the name of your EAGLE Society Editor. Joining the other trophy holders, I say "Thank you" to the Interfrat council from the bottom of my heart. Individually I single the Alphas, Kappas, Omegas and Sigmas who make up the body. My writing for the paper has been loads of fun, for the simple reason that the Greeks along with the other organizations of the community have been very cooperative. The Journalism Placque will be my favorite show piece, for time to come. . . .

By the way, must mention Joe Oliver, who served as chair-

Rev. Lloyd Galloway Officiates Wedding Ceremony Uniting His Brother Nelson and Doris Wearye

Sunday, May 16, brought a very important wedding to the altar of the Lincoln Memorial church, where Rev. Lloyd Galloway is pastor. The young couple united in holy matrimony was Nelson Galloway, the minister's younger brother, and Miss Doris Naomi Wearye, daughter of Mrs. Lola W. Page. The vows were spoken promptly at 4:00 p.m. before family members and the many friends of the popular young couple.

Elaborate decorations of white flowers, tapering candlabras, and miniature white pillars added a dash of the spring season to the already celestial setting. A bit of color was added to the scene when the bridal attendants took their respective places. The maids were gowned in lovely baby blue satin colonial period gowns. They carried colonial bouquets of blue delphinium centered by a delicate pink rose. Attendants were Edith Price, Ruth Mars and Vivian Jones. Mrs. Shirley Simms served her sister as matron of honor. Her gown, also on the colonial line of fashion, was made of Aqua Marine blue satin. She carried a bouquet of yellow jonquils. The little flower girls, Donna Jean and Marie Velasquez wore yellow dresses and carried nosegays of yellow carnations and daisies.

The bride, wearing a gown of traditional white satin marched down the center aisle on the arm of her brother-in-law, Mr. Joseph Simms. She was given in marriage by her mother, Mrs. Lola Page. The petite loveliness of the bride was accentuated by the scallopsed neckline of her gown that featured a row of tiny buttons down the back. Her veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of orange blossoms, and was trimmed in lace. She carried a cascade of exquisitely beautiful white orchids and white gladioli. All of the gowns were made by the bride's mother.

Mr. Joseph Galloway assisted his brother as best man. Vermont Galloway, Harlan Leonard, and Foster Tomkies were ushers.

Mr. Albert McNeil was at the console of the organ and Dr. Williams at the grand piano. The bridal music was beautifully sung by Miss Amanda Haynes and Mrs. Elberta Williamson. The entire ceremony was performed by candlelight.

man of the council for '48 and was official leader of Saturday night's dance. As per usual, his shining lady of the hour was lovely Evelyn Roberts. Bob and Evelyn Green, staunch upholders of Greek ideals were much in evidence at the affair. Couldn't help but grin to myself when Theron Kirk admired the plaque, then quickly asked about Miss Dounzella Coulter, Alpha Yell Queen, who has the admiration of all who pass her way. Hazel Shumate, all dressed in pink and lavender presented darling trophies to the 4 Alpha Yell Queens, who were first to give the series that "New Look." By the way, the artistic workmanship in the many trophies awarded was done by the Brown Jewelers. Mr. and Mrs. Brown were among those present. Glimpsed the Ellis Toneys who are back in the social swing of things; Arleigh Maddox of Alpha Gamma Chapter, AKA telling of interesting plans for the chapter's coming dance. Pearl Marlowe was in the dancing crowd as well as Phylippa and Ivan Houston, Fay Hopkins and Clyde Grimes, Jay Moss, Vi and Julius Brown and oodles more.

While mentioning the whirl of last Saturday night, it was my pleasure to attend the initial dancing party of the Bib and Tucker Supper Club. Swank is the word to use in describing the affair. The decorations were beautiful, the food delicious, the music perfect and the guest list tops. Hortense Allweine is prexy to the membership of 10. KINLOCH'S ☆ KORNER

Dedicated to the memory of John Kinloch, who died in the struggle to destroy Fascism

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

International aggression and imperialism should be denounced when and where they are found. In the past, it has been posible for the nations of the world to infringe upon the rights of weaker peoples—weaker politically, culturally, and in military strength. In other words, nations such as Germany have captured and conquered by military power. Other nations have won through political power, and England has used her civilization to dominate and to exploit India and Africa, two nations which are weaker in culture a la modern. The United States, in its efforts to gain influence and power throughout the world, is somewhere between the political and financial states of imperialism, and before long we might have a change from these two to the military way of doing things.

Imperialism is a sickening word in the present day: sickening, that is, in the thought that some nations and people are actually in the market for financial and political gain a the cost of millions of human lives. Yes, indeed, millions of human lives. For in the First World War, seventeen millions—of all participating nations—died in the horrors of that war, one hundred twenty-five thousand of which were American soldiers. It might be interesting to note too, that some of the men responsible for that war will observe Memorial Day nex week along with the rest of us. And in the Second World War, another tweny million people were killed, three hundred fifty thousand of which were American soldiers. A Third World war and the civilization of the world is threatened, along with other millions of lives. Must human suffering, death, and misery always be the cheapest things in our structure of civilization?

You may be inclined to ask what can be done and how can we maintain the peace. Well, it isn't as simple as that. We can't cast the entire blame upon the shoulders of one nation. For when that nations is defeated at the cost of more lives and suffering, we shall find that our estimations have been inaccutate; that we have other enemies. We know that imperialism is the cause of war. It doesn't have to be Russian Imperialism alone, for the aggressiveness of Italy and Germany started the Second World War. It is the desire for expansion and exploitation of others by any nation that causes war.

There are several types of imperialism. First of all, there is the sneak-theif type . . . the kind Private Enterprise used to grab the Philippines and Puerto Rico from Spain, the kind the same groups used to grab the Hawiian Islands from the peaceful and well-ruling queen. Believe it or not, for the sake of conscience, we invited her to America—where she lived the rest of her natural life after we turned her people against her and had her thrown out.

Shamelessly, England moved into India and Africa many years ago, draining the countries of their deposits of diamonds and precious minerals, using the humble natives like slave animals. The British even had the uncivilized African natives fighting on her side during the First World War, when all the Africans wanted was to be left alone. Too, the Jewish people and the Arabs had lived together in Palestine for years. But the intervention of other nations into their affairs—because of some oil wells—led to the conflict in which the people are engaged today.

No matter how bitter they seem, these facts cannot be ignored: this is imperialism in its most extensive form. I do not contend that what Russia does is right in any manner. Russian imperialism will lead us to war just as soon as German imperialism, or aggression on the part of any other nation. But we should not make films and distribute propaganda that do not tell the truth abou Russia. In other words, two evils do not make one good deed; for we would not want Russia to exaggerate the faults of America.

It has been said that people who forever criitcize the United States and Britain and never criticize Russia are, doubtlessly, Communists. As an American citizen, it is my responsibility—and yours too.—to make this country a better place in which to live, and a beloved nation in the minds of the other people of the world. Now anyone can criticize Russia; but few people are willing to fight to clean up the faults of our own country before they turn their eyes to the evils of other nations. They are the ones who continuously shout 'Communist,' and at the same time are being dragged into the back well of Fascism, from which there is no escape.

The British movement into Africa for the purpose of exploiting the people there is just as imperialistic as Italy's movement into Ethiopia at the beginning of the Second World War. Such acts can no longer be ignored in our so-called rush for peace. Imperialism must be opposed on every front. We cannot condemn Russia and yet make petty excuses for what other nations do in their efforts of 'progress.'

DEAR MR. PRESIDENT:

You sent a note to Russia last week, along with the Secretary of State. It sounded quite like an ultimuatum, saying that Russia must comply to our 'standards' before we will even talk peace. Too, you said the American foreign policy would not change, regardless of who is elected to the presidency in November.

Many people are inclined to think that they were misrepresented, Mr. President, not with the exception of myself. For when Mr. Wallace is elected to the White House, the policy of the United States is going to change from its present state of war to a state of peace. Hoping, in all sincerity, that you will be more careful in your future representations of the people of America to foreign nations, I remain respectfully,

Carl L. Cain

Tuskegee Honor Student Becomes First Pepsi-Cola Scholarship Graduate

To Huberta Nicholson of New Boston, Texas, goes the distinction of being the first Pepsi-Cola scholarship holder in the United States, Negro or white, to graduate from college. Miss Nicholson received a bachelor of science degree from Tuskegee Institute in Tuskegee, Alabama, last Monday, May 10.

This outstanding student has been attending Tuskegee on a four-year college scholarship which she received from the Pepsi-Cola Scholarship Board in 1945 when she graduated from New Boston Colored High school. At that time, she was chosen from among 561 of the South's most able Negro students to win the scholarship which has for four years paid her full tuition, all incidental fees, and a $25-a-month allowance—a total of $1,515.70.

To date, 488 students, of whom 76 are Negro, have been awarded Pepsi-Cola four-year college scholarships throughout the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. These boys and girls are attending 157 American colleges. Miss Nicholson is the first of this select group to complete her college work.

Studying under an accelerated program, Miss Nicholson has completed four years' work in three. She has foregone all summer vacations to win her degree with a major in physical education and a minor in the social sciences. In her senior year just completed she was elected to the honor roll at Tuskegee, which marks her as one of the Institute's outstanding scholars.

Veteran 'Y' Worker Heads New Drive

Hugo O. Cook, retired principal of Lincoln high school, Kansas City, and for years chairman of the Paseo "Y" Board, will head the Gold Strike Membership Enrollment which began at the 28th Street Branch YMCA Monday evening, May 17, and will continue 10 days to May 27.

H. O. COOK Sr.

Professor Cook has been identified with youth work for 40 years and since retiring from school work has made his home in this city, where he immediately plunged into civic and welfare activities. He is a idreetor of the Hollywood Cooperative and actice with the Boy Scouts.

Cook accepted leadership of this emergency membership enrollment at 28th Street Branch because as a school man and as a "Y" leader he realizes how desperately a community needs an adequate YMCA program. Like H. A. Howard, the new branch chairman, Professor Cooks regards further curtailment and entrenchment in "Y" program and services as dangerous to the welfare of the youth of the community and to be avoided at all costs.

The organization set up to conduct this Gold Strike Enrollment, in addition to General Chairman Cook, includes Lorenzo Bowdoin, superintendent of the Special List diggings; Capt. James R. Akers Jr., of 14th Street Fire Station, superintendent of Mine No. 1 and Mr. Hickman of Ideal Construction company as superintendent of Mine No. 2. Three shifts of miners are being recruited to work these diggings.

For 10 days this organization will be digging sustaining "Y" members out of the community. The goal is 500 members for a dollar value of $5,625. Following closely upon the heels of the annual enrollment this special effort will underwrite the branch operating budget for the current year. The workers and their leaders recognize that the success of this effort is a "must." The program and services of the branch, this year, will be measured exactly by the amount of community support which this drive secures.

Youth of L. A. Musicians Assn. Holds 1st Musical

The youth division, Les Jeunes Artists, of the Los Angeles Musicians Associations will present their first annual Musical, at Second Baptist church, Tuesday, May 25, at 8:30 p.m.

The program will consist of a six-piano ensemble under the direction of Prof. W. T. Wilkins presenting students from the Music department of L.A.C.C., U.S.C. and the Musical Arts Studio.

A ten-piece orchestra will make its initial appearance and original piano compositions played by the composers will further add to the variety of the program.

The final offering for the evening will be choral numbers presented by the Choral department of the Youth Division under the direction of Mrs. Marjorie Carter and the Youth Choir of the Philips Temple C.M.E. church under the direction of Mr. Clifford Holland.

The purpose of this musical effort is two-fold: to encourage musical talent, original compositions and to stimulate sufficient interest that representation may be made from Los Angeles to the National Association of Negro Musicians which will meet August in Columbus, Ohio.

Marjorie Carter is sponsor and Lucile Pulliam is co-sponsor of the group. Yvonne Watson is the president and Thelma Pearl Brown, chairman of publicity.

Boy Scouts Distribute Posters

More than 1300 Boy Scouts from 100 different Troops of the Los Angeles area will do their "Good Turn" for the Nation by distributing 10,000 special posters on America's Security Loan. The new posters which encourage citizens to buy bonds today, will be posted in stores, churches and civic buildings throughout Los Angeles County by uniformed Scouts within the next ten days.

TWENTIETH SCHOOL YOUNGSTERS got a big kick out of the annual May Day celebration this year when Barbara Jefferson ascended her throne and reigned in courtly gesture. Her loyal subjects eye the cameraman.

Roberta Martin Singers Hold Farewell Concert

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: The Temple in the Nation's Life. Lesson Text and Outline: Ezra 3:10-13; Psalm 84:1-2; Ezekiel 11:16; 37:26-28. Motto Text, Psalm 95:6.

INTRODUCTION

First came the altars of Abel, Noah, and Abraham; then the tabernacle at Sinia, through the wilderness, and in Canaan; then the great temples that crowned Mount Moriah, the temples of Solomon, of Zerubbab, and of Herod; the synagogue meanwhile arose in Babylonia and Persia to overspread the nations and survive the ages; and finally, in fulmillment and fruition, appeared the New Testament church with Christ at its head and a Christian world as its goal. The welfare of mankind, national and individual, requires the faithful and frequent observance of public worship.

(COMMENT)

1. Let all the streams of mercy be traced up to the fountain. Whatever our condition is, how many soever our griefs and fears, let it be owned that God is good; and, whatever fails, that his mercy fails not. Let this be sung with application, as here; not only his mercy endures forever, but it endures forever towards Israel, Israel when captives in a strange land and strangers in their own land. Let the reviving of the church's interests, when they seemed dead, be ascribed to the continuance of God's mercy forever, for therefore the church continues. We ought to be thankful for the beginnings of mercy, though we have not yet come to the perfection of it; and the foundations of a temple, after long desolations, cannot but be fountains of joy to every faithful Israelite. Sin sullies the glory of any church or people, and, when they find themselves diminished and brought low, that must bear the blame. In the harmony of public joys, let not us be jarring strings. It was an aggravation of the discouragement they hereby gave to the people that they were priests and Levites, who should have known and taught others how to be duly affected under various providences, and not to let the remembrances of former afflictions drown the sense of present mercies. This mixture of sorrow and joy here is a representation of this world. Some are bathing in rivers of joy, while others are drowned in floods of tears. In heaven all are singing and none sighing: in hell all are weeping and wailing, and none rejoicing; but here on earth we can scarcely discern the shouts of joy from the noise of the weeping. Let us learn to rejoice with those that do rejoice and weep with those that weep, and ourselves to rejoice as though we rejoice not, and weep as though we wept not.

2. A tabernacle was a mean habitation, but the disadvantage of external circumstances makes holy ordinances not at all the less amiable; for the beauty of holiness is spiritual, and their glory is within. It was an entire desire; body, soul, and spirit concurred in it. He was not conscious to himself of any rising thought to the contrary. It was an intense desire; it was like the desire of the ambitious, or covetous, or voluptuous. He longed, he fainted, he cried out, importunate to be restored to his place in God's courts, and almost impatient of delay. Yet it was not so much the courts of the Lord that he coveted, but he cried out, in praper, for the living God himself. I that I might know him, and be again taken into communion with him! Ordinances are empty things if we meet not with God in the ordinance.

3. God takes occasion from the contempts which are put upon his people to speak comfort to them, as David hoped God would reward him good for Shimei's cursing. His time to support his people's hopes is when their enemies are endeavoring to drive them to despair. Those that are deprived of the benefit of public ordinances. If it be not their own fault, may have the want of them abundantly made up in the immediate communication of divine grace and comforts.

4. God designs the sanctification of those among whom he set up his sanctuary. And blessed and holy are those who, enjoying the privileges of the sanctuary, give such proofs and evidences of their sanctification that the heathen may know it is no less than the almighty grace of God that sanctifies them. Such have God's sanctuary in the midst of them, the kingdom of God within them, in the principles of the spiritual life, and shall have it so forevermore in the enjoyments of an eternal life.

(Comment on the Motto Text)

Idolators kneel before gods, which they themselves made; we kneel before a God who made us and all the world and who is therefore our rightful proprietor; for his we are, and not our own. He is our Saviour, and the author of our blessedness. He is our rock of salvation, not only the founder, but the very foundation, of that work of wonder, on whom it is built. That rock is Christ; to him therefore we must sing our songs of praises ,to him that sits upon the throne and to the Lamb. The gospel church is his flock. Christ is the great and good Shepherd of it. We, as Christians, are led by his hand into green pastures, by him we are protected and well provided for, to his honor and service we are entirely devoted as a peculiar people, and there to him must be glory in the churches whether it be in the world or no, throughout the ages.

Bishop Matthews Retired At AME Zion Conference

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Bishop William Walter Matthews, formerly a minister of the Gospel in Los Angeles, after a tumultuous trial for alleged misconduct in office, was retired upon half salary at the 33rd Quadrennial Session of the General Conference meeting here at present.

Bishop Matthews was charged with defacing a passport which was used as a basis to keep him in office, with immoral conduct and with having married a woman who had not obtained her divorce according to scriptural grounds. Bishop Matthews denied all the charges, but the conference would grant no leniency. He is now a bishop "without portfolio," and although he was given a half-salary pension he may not act or preside at any time as a bishop of the A.M.E. Zion Church.

Bishop Matthews resides in Washington, D.C., and was bishop of the 5th Episcopal District, which comprises the conferences in North Carolina and Arkansas. Attorney Charles H. Houston, Washington, flew here to defend the prelate. The trial lasted for almost two days.

Dr. James Claire Taylor, Patterson, N. J.; Dr. Raymond L. Jones, pastor of Broadway Temple, A.M.E. Zion Church, Louisville, which is host to the conference; and Dr. H. T. Medford, Washington, D.C. were elected bishops; Rev. W. R. Blackwell, Braddock, Pa. was elected to head the publication house in Charlotte, N.C.; Dr. G. F. Hall, Charlotte, N. C. was re-elected financial secretary; and Rev. R. Farley Fisher, Asbury Park, N. J., was re-elected secretary-auditor.

In Memoriam

In memory of my darling husband, Clarence A. Moore, who went to sleep May 18, 1946.
Surrounded by my many friends I am lonesome
Ind the midst of pleasure I am blue
A smile on my face and a broken heart
I am lonesome, so lonesome for you.
The flower I lay upon your grave
May wither and decay
But the love I bear for you, dear Clarence
Shall never fade away.
And when evening shadows are falling
And I am sitting alone
In my heart there comes a longing
If you could only come home.
Often my thoughts wander
To your grave not far away
Where I laid you, dear Clarence
Two long years today.
The years may wipe out many things
But this they wipe out never
The memories of happy years
Which we spent together.
You always tried to do your best
May God grant you eternel rest.
Sadly missed by your loving and lone wife, Evelyn L. Moore.

Installation at Christian Church

Elmer W. Faulkner, after serving one month as supply minister at Pasadena Christian Church, 855 North Fair Oaks, Pasadena, was called to the pastorate of the church, May 9.

Elder Faulkner will be installed by the Christian Ministers' Union of Los Angeles, of which he was the organizer and first president and is now serving as secretary, next Sunday. All of the cooperating churches wil lassist. Elder W. J. Bryant, pastor of the 28th Street Church, will deliver the sermon and give the charge to the minister. A combined choir will furnish the music.

He has had much experience in inter-racial activities, civic, and labor movements in Utah, Oregon, and the Mid-West States. Quakers Feed Children in Europe

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. — A supplementary feeding program for 4,000 children has been started in the areas of Abauj, Zemplen and Borsad in north-eastern Hungary by the American Friends Service Committee team in that country, according to a report just received at the Philadelphia headquarters of the Quaker organization.

The northeastern area of Hungary has been alternately hit by drought and flood during the past year, and this combined with low soil fertility has prolonged and intensified the desperate food situation.

The Quakers are continuing to share with other relief agencies—the American Mennonite Central Committee, Don Suissee and the Swedish Save the Children Fund—in distributing food to 5,000 university students in the city of Budapest. The team hopes to continue beyond the June terminal point its program of distributing food packages to some 3,000 teen-age apprentices and workers who are suffering from many years of malnutrition.

An extensive clothing program i salso under way in the Abauj area. Approximately 16,000 men, women, and children have been reached in this program.

Christian Science Topic 'Soul and Body'

"What agreement hath the temple of God with idols? for ye are the temple of the living God." This quotation from II Corinthians will be the Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon on "Soul and Body" in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston.

Paul writes in his first letter to the Corinthians, "While one saith, I am of Paul; and another, I am of Apollos; are ye not carnal? . . . I have planted, Apollos watered; but God gave the increase. . . . Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one: and every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour. For we are labourers together with God: ye are God's husbandry, ye are God's building. . . . Know ye not that ye are the temple of God, and that the Spirit of God dwelleth in you?"

Mary Baker Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "To divest thought of false trusts and material evidences in order that the spiritual facts of being may appear,—this is the great attainment by means of which we shall sweep away the false and give place to the true. Thus we may establish in truth the temple, or body, 'whose builder and maker is God.'"

Labor Reports

". . . . KEEPS THE DOCTOR AWAY"

No, you don't need an apple a day to keep the doctor away. Just try belonging to certain minority groups in certain parts of the country—and then just try to get a doctor!

When you need an operation, or your wife is having a baby, you expect medical care and hospitalization. If there is a shortage of such services, you expect at least the same chance at getting them that any ather person has.

Now let's go along with the Report of the President's Committee on Civil Rights and chew on the real facts.

Racial groups, such as Chinese, Indians, Japanese and Negroes get health services far below average. As usual, the Negro provides the most glaring example of such discrimination.

Negroes constitute ten percent of the Nation's population, but available to them are only one percent of the hospital beds—only 15,000 out of 1,500,000 beds.

There is in America one physician to every 750 persons—but there is only one Negro physician to every 3,377 Negroes.

Of the 5,000 annual graduates of medical schools, only 145 are Negroes. Those who are admitted to medical schools and do graduate find it next to impossible to get internships and hospital facilities.

This is the pattern of all types of health services for many minority groups. The result is what might be expected:

The death rate in the Nation is 10.5. For Chinese it is 12.6, for Negroes and Indians 12.0, for Japanese 11.5.

Negroes have twice the incidence of tuberculosis as white men—Indians ten times as much. The same is true of many other diseases that come through inadequate medical care.

White men live to an average of 63, Negro men to only 52—white women average 67 years, Negro women only 53. The infant death rate shows similar contrast.

Our Nation's capital sets a bad example for the rest of us. In four of Washington's twelve private hospitals Negroes are not admitted. The rest admit only a few in segregated wards—although the hospitals enjoy tax exemption. Says the President's Committee, "It is peculiarly shocking to find church hospitals practicing discrimination."

In Washington, Gallinger Hospital, supported by public funds and with most of its patients Negroes, bars Negro physicians from practice. Neither can Negroes practice in St. Elizabeth's, although it is a federal hospital!

Other public services work to the disadvantage of minority groups. There are no racial bars in old age survivor insurance, unemployment compensation, etc. Yet they fail to cover agricultural, domestic, and self-employed workers. It need not surprise us by now to learn that racial minorities—Mexicans, Negroes, Japanese—are hardest hit by this exemption.

What to do? We must work vigorously through our unions or through other progressive organizations to get up Fair Health Practice laws in our states. We must insist that no government support and no tax exemption go to institutions and services that practice discrimination. Such action, the Committee tells us, is necessary to carry on the fight "to secure these rights."

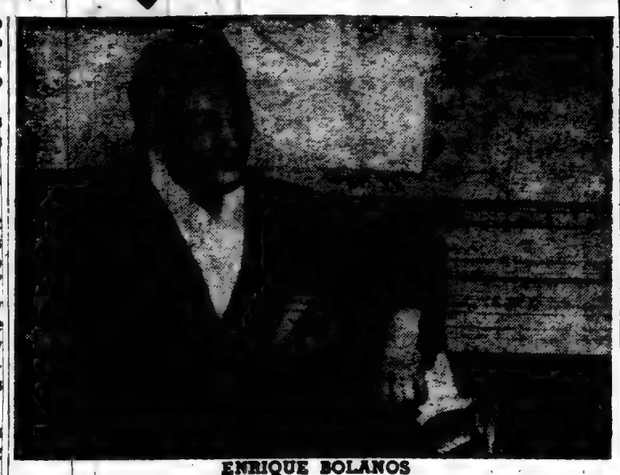
IKE WILLIAMS 2-1 CHOICE OVER ENRIQUE BOLANOS

IKE WILLIAMS



Lightweight Champion of the World Ike Williams will climb into the ring Tuesday night at Wrigley Field a 2-to-1 favorite to successfully defend his title for the second time against California State Champion Enrique Bolanos, according to the boys who bet the long green stuff along Spring street.

Although he has been installed as an underdog, Enrique has numerous followers throughout the state and especially in his native Mexico, from which special trains are arriving every hour, to make the town take on the atmosphere of a second Mexico City.

Williams, the cocky, self-assured, cynical strong arm boy that he is, has already said: "I'll murder that Baloney Boy (Williams has tagged Bolanos with the name "Bolan Boy" in an effort to be funny) any time I want to. I did it in '46 and I'll do it again."

Enrique's manager, George Parnassus, has predicted victory for his boy by saying that Bolanos has come a long way since the '46 fight with Williams and has learned a lot and profited by his mistakes. Williams' veteran manager, Frank (Blinky) Palermo, is so sure his boy will win that he has begun negotiations for a bout with Welterweight Champ Ray (Sugar) Robinson.

Promoter Cal Eaton and matchmaker Babe McCoy, besides raking in the jack from the bout, have installed a new lighting system at Wrigley Field which will illuminate the place 33⅓ percent brighter than daylight.

IKE WILLIAMS was born in Brunswick, Ga., Aug. 2, 1923.

ENRIQUE BOLANOS was born in Durango, Mexico, Aug. 24, 1924.

Williams, managed by Frank (Blinky) Palermo, has had 100 fights, won 87, 43 by knockout.

Bolanos, managed by George Parnassus, has had 51 fights, won 47, 29 by knockout.

Williams won the title from Juan Zurita (who was also managed by George Parnassus) in Mexico City, April 18, 1945. That gave him N.B.A. recognition. On Sept. 26, 1946, Ike flattened Ronnie James, British Empire lightweight champion, in 9 rounds. And on Aug. 4, 1947, Ike knocked out Bob Montgomery, the New York and Pennsylvania champion.

Herb McKenley, who is favored to carry Jamaica's colors to victory in the 400-meter dash in the Olympic Games, will also be shooting for a record in the event when he competes Friday night, May 21, in the Los Angeles Coliseum Relays.

LaBeach, Patton, McKenley, Treloar Lure 70,000 to Coliseum Spike Classic

By STANLEY ROBERTSON, Eagle Sports Editor

The stage will be set for the largest crowd ever to witness a track meet in the United States tomorrow night when some of the great athletes of our time perform before an expected 70,000 in the 8th annual Coliseum Relays.

The old previous high attendance mark of 60,000, set in the very same Los Angeles Coliseum during the 1932 Olympics will be in serious danger of being toppled mainly due to two sprinters—Mel Patton and Lloyd LaBeach. Their meeting last Saturday afternoon at Fresno, in which Patton broke the existing world's century mark of 9.4 by beating LaBeach to the tape by inches in a 9.3s, has added more fuel to the fire of the athletic world gone Olympic mad in this year of the first Olympiad since 1936.

Sprints Star Studded

With Patton and LaBeach meeting in the sprints, the 100 and 200 meters will naturally be of most interest to the spectators. LaBeach holds a claim on tieing the 100 meter record twice within one month, while Patton boasts a claim on the World's 100 yard mark. However, Patton and LaBeach will not be the only heralded stars in the sprints. From half way around the World comes Australia's John Treloar, credited with having run a 9.5 100 yard dash on grass, and who openly boasts he'll best Pell Nell and Locomotive Lloyd. Then there's the great Jamaican 220 and 440 specialist, Herb McKenley, holder of the world's 440 record and boaster of a 46.9 quarter so far this season. Handsome Herb will also run the furlong with LaBeach, Patton (if Dean Cromwell will let him) and Treloar. The sprint field is rounded out by Bill Carter, winner of the Penn Relay dashes, Barney Ewell, the grand old man of American track, Charlie Parker, the schoolboy whiz from the University of Texas, and probably Cliff Bourland of USC all day tomorrow.

The LAAC in the 200 meters.

Field Events Strong

In the field events are probably the finest collection of athletes assembled at one place since 1936 at Berlin. In the broadjump, there are three men who figure to place 1, 2, and 3 at London this summer. Willie Steele, who may crack Jessie Owen's record tomorrow night, is the unquestionable winner, having soared over 26 ft. this season. The second spot could go either to Lorenzo Wright from Wayne University or Paul Johnson of Michigan State, both of whom have jumped over 25 feet. Don Barksdale with a leap of 24 ft. 7 inches and Al Lawrence of LAAC will also be in strong contention.

The high jump with 6 ft. 6 inch leaping Barksdale and 6 ft. 7 inch soarer Dwight Eddleman of Illinois also shapes up to be an outstanding event. Strong competition should also come from Jack Barnes of S.C., (best jump 6 feet 5), George Stanich of U.C.L.A., (6 ft. 5½), and Chuck Hanger of California (6 ft. 5 inches).

On down the line is goes. The meet is so star-packed that it would be difficult indeed to mention and give the background of every athlete entered. The meet shapes up to be a real test of Olympic strength, and should go a long way in deciding just who will make the Olympic team.

The meet will also be held in conjunction with the Los Angeles High School Finals. (See Sports Of All Sorts). Jefferson and Jordan are the favorites.

First event is at 7:30. Tickets can either be bought at the Coliseum box office or at UCLA or USC all day tomorrow.

Kenny Washington Inks '48 Pact; Expects Great Season

Kenny Washington, one of football's outstanding figures for the past ten years, this week ended speculation that he might give up the gridiron sport for a movie career when he signed a 1948 contract with the Los Angeles Rams.

Washington, who played a successful role in "Foxes of Harrow", and is currently emoting in the forthcoming Universal Production, "Rogues Regiment", was reported to be considering a jump from professional football to full-time acting.

Washington, however spiked these rumors when he met with President Dan Reeves this week and signed a new pact for the coming National League season.

"My legs are in perfect shape and I feel better than I ever have before," said Washington. "I can't remember the time that I have looked forward to a football season with greater anticipation."

Head Coach Bob Snyder, elated over the prospect of having the "Kingfish" back for another season, offered the flat prediction that Washington would be the greatest ball carrier in professional football next fall. "And you can quote me on that," declared Snyder.

CARDS PREP FOR STARS

CHICAGO — Chicago's Cardinals, National Football Ltague worlds' champions, will start training July 30, at Waukesha, Wis., President Ray Bennigsen announced today. The designated date is governed by rules in connection with the College All Stars game in which the Cards participate here in Soldier Field August 20.

Garcia, Smith in Star Studded Trials

Interest in the Southern California Olympic Games boxing championships at Hollywood Legion Stadium June 2, 3 and 5 gained impetus this week with the announcement that Rudy Garcia, Golden Gloves featherweight champ and Reuben Smith Jr., bantamweight title holder, had joined Clarence Henry, amateur heavyweight king, on the entry list in the Southeland Regional tournament.

The Southern California Boxing Coaches Association at a special meeting last Saturday unanimously endorsed the Olympic Games trials as the greatest stimulus for amateur boxing ever presented in this area and from all indications the bouts will include the finest amateur boxers ever entered in Southern California. Early entries also indicate that the greatest number ever to compete in a Southern California tournament will be present. The last Olympic Games boxing elimination to be held here was in 1936.

The winners will be sent to San Francisco for the Western elimination bouts June 17, 18 and 19. The champions of the San Francisco boxers' tourney will compete in the United States Olympic Finals in Boston, June 28 and 29. The American Olympic team will include the winners and runners-up of the Boston bouts. The international event will begin in London July 15. Tickets for the local tournament are now on sale at Hollywood Legion Stadium.

Rams Reduce Ticket Prices

The Los Angeles Rams will offer a new $16 season ticket for the 1948 six-game home schedule along with the regular $21 variety it was learned today as the Rams announced the opening of their public season ticket sale.

The new $16 sections will extend from the 20-yard lines to the goal lines in the normal $3.50 section, constituting a reduction of $5 on the home slate. At the conclusion of the season ticket sale in September, seats in this location will revert to $3.50.

Campenella Farmed Out

NEW YORK — Promising Roy Campenella, hard-hitting catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers, was this week among the eight players sent to minor league clubs for more "experience and seasoning," Manager Leo Durocher announced.

Campenella, the only Negro on the Dodger team with the exception of Jackie Robinson, came up to the Dodgers this spring from Montreal of the International League. Durocher said that the rookie catcher had been sent to the St. Paul club, a Dodger affiliate.

CALIENTE, Old Mexico—One of the largest crowds in months witnessed an all star card of twelve races last Sunday at beautiful Caliente race track. The feature attraction was "The Ralph Newcomb" handicap which was won by Alfy. Soup and Fish was second and Cargo Ship third. The winner paid $10.20, 4.80, 3.00 across the board. A killing was made on Straight On in the fourth race. The brown daughter of Boxthorn-Gold Arm opened at six to one on the morning line. The first bet taken was six thousand to one thousand. The filly was cut to three. But money still poured in. And at post time she was 8 to 5. At the break Jockey F. Wilbourn had her off in front and was never headed the books took a beating. The formplayers had a bad day only two favorites were able to visit the charmed cicrle. Mackenty Jean in the second race and Straight On in the fourth. The later was made post time choice. The daily-double combination of Mackenty Jean winner of the second race and Brown Field victor of the third paid $15.60. While the quniela backers received $119. when Kiev Lee ran first and Craig Lariat finished second. This Sunday General Manager Walter C. Marty again offers twelve races with three feature attraction to support the card. Hollywood Park "the beautiful" opened it's 50 day summer meeting last Tuesday with one of the largest crowds for an opening day. More than $1,400.000 will be handed out in purses for the fifty days of racing. The feature attraction will be the Hollywood Gold Cup. It has an added value of $100.000 and will be run July 17th. The tiny lakes with more than 600 swans and geese attended by the track's goose girl was a sight to be-hold. One must visit Hollywood Park to really see it's new beauty. Al Weston director of publicity had worked very hard with his official staff to put this beautiful race course on the tongues of every lover of the sport of kings. Your turf reporter will keep his readers posted on real live horses durning the meet. And at Caliente it's greyhound time. Back again for the hart and hounds races.

George Parnassus Will Be Seeking Revenge Tuesday Night; Don't Underestimate John Treloar From Down Under

We like the Democrats and Lloyd LaBeach; Bruins Impressive in Spring Finale

When manager George Parnassus sends his boy Enrique Bolanos into the ring Tuesday night at Wrigley Field against Lightweight Champion of the World Ike Williams, he'll be out to break the jinx that the Trenton Terror seems to have over him. Twice before, Parnassus has had business with Williams and on both occasions, Georgie boy has come out on the short end of the deal.

The first time Parnassus rolled boxcars on Williams account was back in 1945 when he (Parnassus) was the manager of a pretty fair lightweight named Juan Zurita. When I say Georgie's boy was pretty fair, I mean he was pretty fair enough to be the NHA Lightweight Champ. After doing a hide and go seek act for quite some time, Zurita was forced to do battle with Williams on April 18, 1945, at Mexico City. Ike promptly polished off Georgie boy and in doing so, won the NBA recognition that was a big step on his way of finally winning the undisputed Championship when he knocked out Bob Montgomery, the New York and Pennsylvania Champion, early in August, 1947.

The second and last time Parnassus had dealings with Ike, he also came out with a misdeal. That was the night back in 1946—April 30, 1946, that Williams put Georgie's present boy Enrique Bolanos—the same Enrique he'll meet Tuesday night, to sleep in the 8th round of their battle out at Wrigley Field. The beating Williams administered Bolanos put the damper on Enrique's Championship designs. So you can see that Mr. George Parnassus, erstwhile manager of lightweight boxers, hasn't any love for a guy named Ike Williams, and come Tuesday night, he'll be telling Enrique to throw any and everything in the direction of Williams who seems to be his Achilles heel.

Probably the greatest display of track and field athletes seen in the United States since the 1932 Olympics, will turn all eyes of the sporting world toward the Coliseum tomorrow night when the annual Coliseum relays take place on the track and grass of the big stadium. Of course, since last Saturday's Fresno meet, the majority of the interest will center around the sprint races which pit the two men who are scheduled to run one two at London this summer against one another. And since he now holds an unofficial (which will probably be accepted) claim on the world's record in the 100 yard dash, the most publicized of the two, Mel Patton will undoubtedly be the favorite to win. But although Lloyd LaBeach was beaten by Patton at Fresno in the 100, I'm laying two to one that the Jamaican boy will take him (Patton) Friday night in the 100 meters! I'm not betting on LaBeach for sentimental reasons or because his skin happens to be dark, but I'm favoring him because I honestly think he is the better sprinter, even though Dean Cromwell, in a minute of joy, called Patton "The greatest sprinter of all time."

Any time a man can come from "being left at the post" to almost overtaking another man as he breaks the world's record, he must be a pretty fair to average runner. Any time a man can tie the world's mark for a hundred meters twice within a month, he has something on the ball. Also, I believe that LaBeach is naturally stronger than Patton. This may sound very irrelevant but any coach will tell you that strength, plenty of it, is necessary for a good sprinter. I may be wrong, but that's why I think LaBeach will beat Patton.

Before we go off the deep end for Lloyd LaBeach and Mel Patton as cinch first and seconds this summer in the Olympics, we should consider a guy named John Treloar of Australia, the same Mr. Treloar Herb McKenley calls "the greatest sprinter in the world today." When you realize that Handsome Herb has run against just about the best of them, you realize that this statement about the lad from the land of the kangaroos packs a little authority. Remember too that Treloar has run a 9.5 on grass. So before you talk about LaBeach and Patton being cinches, you'd better trot out to the Colisieum tomorrow night and see how John Treloar makes out in his first big Olympic test. By the way, Treloar has already said he can beat Patton, record and all!!

Never in the history of any sport, has any team or person so dominated sport as has Thomas Jefferson High School dominated local prep track and field. The Demos have wan more City

Marl Young's Ork To Downbeat Club

Marl Young and his popular young band will open a four weeks' engagement beginning Monday night at the Downbeat club. Young, who for years was the music arranger for such bands as Benny Goodman, Benny Carter, T-Bone Walker and others, recently closed a successful stay at the Rhumboogie club in Chicago where he worked off and on from 1942-46.

It was his arrangement (and band) on the record, "So Long," that skyrocketed Little Miss Cornshucks to the top as the nation's No. 1 femme singer of the blues.

Marl has in his aggregation such well-known names in the music world as Jimmy Burns, drums; Freddie Simons, tenor sax; Maurice Simons, alto sax; Vernon Smith, trumpet and vocals; Clarence Jones, bass, and Marl Young, leader and piano.

Also opening with the Young band is vocalist Judy Carol, formerly featured with the Lucky Millinder band. Miss Carol has worked most of the smart name spots throughout the country and her style of singing is very easy to take.

Marl Young's opening night should be a memorable event, as his music is played strictly for dancing or listening pleasure!

Musician Killed In Car Accident

Pianist Clifford M. Allen, who came to Los Angeles in 1942 for an indefinite engagement at Billy Berg's Hollywood night club with his singing partner, Billie Haywood, was struck by an automobile last Wednesday morning while standing in a safety zone waiting for a street car, and died in a Burbank hospital the same day.

Mr. Allen, more familiarly known as Cliff, was working in a Burbank night club as featured pianist and had been there but two nights before he was accidentally struck down by a 21-year-old youth, who is now in jail pending further investigation of the case.

Clifford was a member for nine years of the Musicians' Protective Union, local No. 767, and had one of the top night club acts in show business. Having worked as a team since forming the act 16 years ago, Billie and Cliff were recently featured at the Swanee Inn, the popular Bocage nitery on the famed Sunset Strip, Larry Potter's club and the Streets of Paris.

Funeral services for the beloved musician were held Monday afternoon from the chapel of the W. D. Fisher Mortuary, and the body returned to his home in New York for interment.

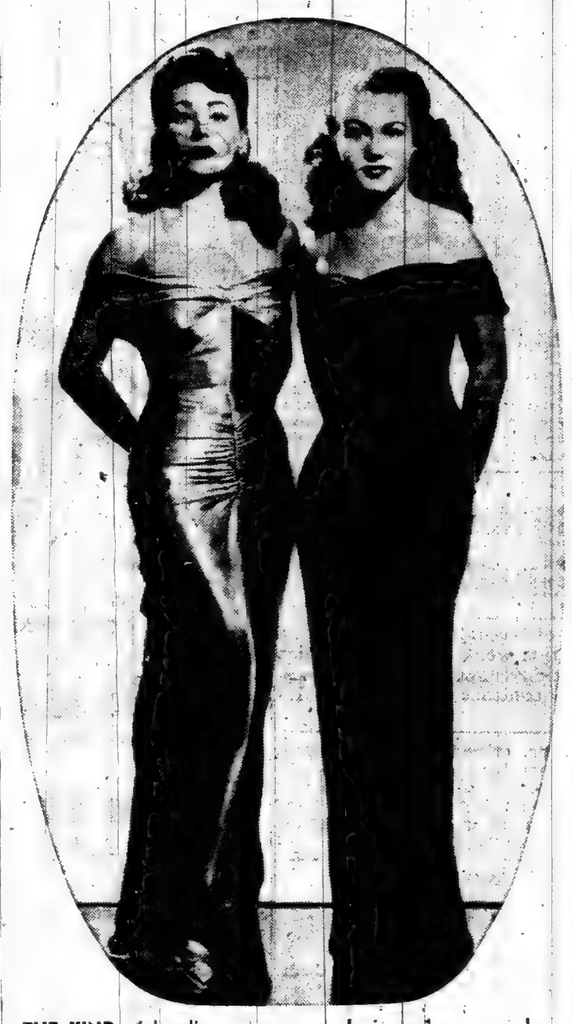
He was 43 years old, and besides a sister, Mrs. Evelyn Brown, two brothers, Carl and Leonard Allen, all of New York, he leaves a host of friends to mourn his passing.

'Trial By Fire' In Indefinite Hollywood Run

John Barnes, producer of Father George H. Dunne's powerful play, "Trial by Fire," announced today that the play will continue indefinitely at the Radio Center theatre, 6000 Sunset boulevard.

Performances have been reduced to Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of each week, with many weekends scheduled to sell out in advance. Mr. Barnes also announced that the brilliant performance of Earl Smith, in the leading male role, has prompted him to give Smith star billing effective at once.

Eddie Davis to Open at Cricket Club with Ravens June 2



One of the most refreshing bands to zoom across the musical horizon in a blaze of glory is the crew under the baton of Eddie Davis. Here's a band who, in our books, is destined for success. Davis has surrounded himself with a group of youngsters who play for the sheer love of playing, and whenever you find a group of musicians who love to play, and they're together in one band, then take it from an underpaid and overworked night club correspondent that band will hit the top rung on the ladder of success as sure as there are four s's in Mississippi.

Davis, a local boy who made good playing sensational sax with such outstanding groups as Stuff Smith, Benny Carter, Noble Sissle, Floyd Ray and Gerald Wilson, decided to branch out on his own in 1946 with a new and different style of music. His music is a cross between swing, Be-Bop and Jazz, and the way he's blended his saxes in with rhythm and brass in superb unique musical arrangement, is something you'll have to hear to appreciate. We could talk about Davis for paragraphs, but it would only boil down to one point we're trying to bring out: That here is a band with a style as different in music as that of the trumpeting of Henry Busse and Lloyd Reese, one of the greatest trumpeters of modern times.

Handling the vocal spotlight for the Davis crew is a looker named Ju Lee Webb, and her singing is as soft and sincere as a Mother's lullaby.

You're going to hear plenty of Eddie Davis, so keep your eye on the name and an ear on his music. He, to revert to the vernacular of swing lingo, is GONE!

But then, you can hear for yourself beginning June 2 when the outfit moves into Paul Rubin's Cricket Club with the famed Ravens singing foursome.

THE KIND of loveliness you see only in a dream can be seen in the above picture. They're the lovely and talented Dennis sisters, singing comediennes, featured in the all-new Hollywood edition of George White's Scandals, premiering Thursday evening, June 3rd, at the Florentine Gardens Theatre-Restaurant.

Eubie Blake in Return to Show Biz As Writer

Eubie Blake, formerly of the famous team of Sissle and Blake, who composed many hit shows in the late 20s, is coming out of retirement. Mr. Blake has formed a new writing partnership with Milton Reddie, a young lyric writer, to compose the score for a new book authored by Aaron E. Bishop and A. Raymond Gallo.

Eubie Blake composed the "Follies Bergere" Paris version that gave Josephine Baker her first starring role, and also composed the music for Gertrude Lawrence's first American starring hit, the "Andre Charlot Revue," which was presented in this country by C. B. Cochrane.

"Shuffle Along" and "Blackbirds" were also hit scores by Eubie Blake which ran for long whiles on Broadway and on the road. His lyric-writing partner has composed a number of songs and sketches for night club and vaudeville.

Walker's Last Week At Last Word Club

In the last few weeks, T-Bone Walker has played to capacity crowds nightly at Factor and Miller's Last Word club. However, the Bone has other engagements to fill. And, as all good things must end, so does T-Bone Walker's stay at the Last Word. He has broken records right and left since opening at the smart Eastside nitery a few weeks ago, and if you haven't heard the Bone recently you have missed hearing some of the finest blues singing in the kingdom of swing. As for his guitar playing, it's the talk of the town!

If you want to hear T-Bone Walker, you'd better hear him within the next few days or you won't be able to hear him at all! At least during the remaining months of 1948. This is positively his last appearance in Los Angeles until 1949.

Theatrical News Is New KOWL Feature

Newest feature on the Joe Adams "Mayor of Melody" program is a special theatrical newscast with EAGLE columnist J. T. Gipson and Nadine Coles at the microphone giving you behind-the-scenes up-to-the-minute flashes on what's happening in the show world from Harlem to Hollywood. The 10-minute spot will be heard each Wednesday afternoon from 12:35 to 12:45 p.m., over station KOWL, Santa Monica.

Plans are also in the making for Miss Coles and Mr. Gipson to write a syndicated theatrical news column for the West Coast News Feature syndicate, beginning sometime in June.

SHARPS 'N FLATS

By Albert McNeil, California Eagle Music Critic

Sacred Hour with the Stars

With the singing of Hayden's "Heaven are Telling" and John Work's Rockin' Jerusalem by Independent's Cathedral Choir, a program featuring outstanding stars of stage, screen, and radio was begun. Musically, we were quite pleased to see that most of the professionals who appeared were cognizant of the religious environmeat and hence their contributions were in good taste. Warren Coleman, Roy Glenn, presented familar Negro spirituals as well as Martha Davis, clever Capitol Recording artist, and Hadda Brooks, glamorous pianists and song stylists.

Art Baker, KFI radio commentator, known as the "Ambassador of Good Will" was one of the most outstanding single contributors to the success of the entire performance. Mr. Baker's "down-to-earthiness," or informality went a long way with the audience.

And speaking of informality, Jester Hariston, distinguished motion picture choral director who incidentally addressed the Southern California Choral Conductor's Guild last Monday evening, was uproariously received when he presented monologues of his own composition.

Young soloists Gwendolyn Harriel and Gerald Garrett who sang the popular duett "Bess You Is My Woman Now" from Gershwin's Porgy and Bess received a thunderous and enthusiastic response.

Swooning was the order of the day when Bobby Pittman young night club singer sang "The Rosary" and the "Indian Love Call" with Fannie Benjamin at the organ. Mrs. Benjamin's accompaniment of many of the soloists was outstanding and in some instances these accompaniments were musically complete in themselves.

Edith Owens demonstrated her innate musical sense of organ registration and interpretation.

Other participants were: Kenneth Klause, pianist-composer, the Symphonic Choristers and Male Quartet, directed by Sherman Walker in the absence of the regular conductor, Andre Green; General White, and H. Hamilton Williams, organist.

Lillian Randolph, star of the "Great Gildersleeve" NBC radio show, and Marie Bryant, talented dancer, were introduced and they in turn expressed their gratitude at being invited to attend.

Great credit for the success of this program is merited by William J. Loftlynn who succeeded in amassing such a fine array of talent; Mrs. Lenora Dunlap was the co-chairman whose program contributions were commendable. George Robert Garner, was the minister of the afternoon. The program was sponsored by the L. A. Musicians Association and the Department of Music of the church.

William Valentine, basso

This young man, whose name has appeared frequently in this column, was the third place winner in the Men's Division of the Atwater Kent Auditions finals held last Saturday evening. Mr. Valentine, in the estimation of this writer, lacked a great deal of the color and dash characteristic in his singing. The florid passages were stilted, and the phrasing poor. Undoubtedly he was suffering from a severe case of nervousness; however, we are very happy to congratulated this young man and hope for his future success. The award is valude at $1500.

Opera, Tonight

The interracial production of "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "I Pagliacci" in Empassy Auditorium marks the culmination of efforts by the Luvenia Nash Singers to Prove that Negro singers are fully capable of fine operatic work, and should not be "Type cast" in the public's mind as singers o jfust spirituals, "blues" and folk songs.

Presented by the Luvenia Nash Singers, produced by Braheen Urban, and with the 26-piece orchestra conducted by Mario Silva tonight's operatic double bill marks the first time that these twin operas have been sung in Italian by a Negro chorus and mixed cast of Negro and white soloists.

The cast of "I Pagiacci" includes William Dana as Canio; Josephine Lombardi, Nedda; Rodolfo Hoyos, Canio; Harvey Huggins, Silvio; and Robert Sharp and Allen LaMont. Those to be heard in "Cavalleria" are Margaret Pett as Santuzza; Florence Crooksie, Mama Lucia; Hope Wilson, Lola; Julian Oliver, Turiddu; and Harvey Huggins, taking his second role of the evening as Alfrio.

Eighth Notes

Charles Carpenter, baritone-lyric and Marjorie Day, were presented in solo recital last Sunday afternoon in Lincoln Memorial church . . . William Valentine, basso with Don Lee White as assisting artists, were presented in concert last Sunday afternoon in South Los Angeles' Grant's Chapel A.M.E. Church . . . The Albert McNeil Choir will present two programs in San Diego this Sunday afternoon, and will also appear in Philharmonic Auditorium June 6 in Earl Robinson's "The Lonesome Train" with Earl appearing in person . . . Smoke Rings:

If you're in the mood to digest some "imported irony," feature this: A New York visitor, who has an idea that all Californians have "orange-juice-on-the-brain," tells us that around the "Big Town" they're dubbing Walter Winchell the "Rich Man's Joe Harris!" Well . . . well . . . there's a guy who rates an Oscar, but I'm gonna give him something useful (a package of FEENAMINT) leave it to those "Noo Yawkers" for a sensa-yuma . . . One of the local dailies reported that Henry Wallace "picked up" a cool $29,000 in one night in L. A. from "left-wingers." . . . well, brother, all I can say is, anyone able to "pick up" that much "dough" from ANY "wing" must be mighty "right" . . . Our good fren' Winchell "lowered the beam" on another Mississippi "misfit" when he columned, quote: "Mississippi's Governor Wright yammers that those who oppose racial segregation should leave that state." . . . Sez "W.W.": "IT'D BE BETTER IF THAT "UPHOLDER" OF SUCH BIGOTRY LEAVE THE UNITED STATES." . . . To which I say AMEN! . . . ONE OF THE BEST TRUTHS of the year was quoted by a speaker at the Wallace banquet at the Elks Auditorium last Saturday. Quite: "There never would have been such a thing as a TRUMAN'S CIVIL RIGHTS BILL were it not because the nation had a man on the scene in the person of HENRY A. WALLACE. . . . How true. . . . I like the way W. Winchell wraps his "printed sermons around the necks of those southern "maggots" who call themselves "sena-tahs."

ANGELTOWN HEARTBEAT:

"Dee-lov-lee" Evelyn De Loach, Boston's pretty gift to "Angeltown," has a "new" lease on life . . . add . . . and what a "break" for life. . . . Whenever "intoxicatingly" charmin' Hazel Shumate ankles by, to say it's like a "breath of spring" is putting it mildly! . . . Luscious Jeanne Johnson was in town over the week-end from Las Vegas, Nev., I'm sure patrons where she draws her checks starved for want of all that personality she exudes, during her absence . . . tra la la . . . the newest heart-throb of the "artistic" society is creole-lovely Gwendolyn Hythe, her pencil sketch of your truly may go on exhibition (among others) at one of the local art galleries. This corner will keep you posted.

Claude Ferguson, playboy, sportsman and jewelry salesman has a distinct "eye-for-beauty", evidenced by the "lovely" he had in command at a local club the other "ayem" . . . add . . . Claude's a heck of a swell guy, so if you're in the market for those metalic "fineries," see him first. You'll no doubt find it a good deal. . . . They say Annabelle Johnson (who seems to grow lovelier with each season) is in love "up to her heart." Who's the lucky fella? . . . Pretty Jacquelyn De Lavallade spends her awfternoons cruisin' roun' in her black '49 Packard convertible, wonderin' how the "poo citizens" feel. She's RICH, RICH, ha, ha, ha, and she's a pretty little "mama". No, I'm not a RAVEN, I'm just "raving"! Socially speaking, at this press deadline, I can say right here and now that the LIBERTY SAVINGS AND LOAN ASSN. testimonial banquet honoring Atty. Loren Miller of the "racial covenant" outlawing victory) held in the Continental Room of the Alexandria Hotel was quite an affair.

Look forward to some great "new" melodic torches from the pen of CECIL (Count) CARTER, who wrote the hit number, "I Thought You Ougha Know," introduced by the great King Cole Trio some seasons ago . . . add . . . Carter is now associated with RICH ASKAM, song specialist de luxe . . . AS FOR A GRAVE INJUSTICE: A store owner at 1897 W. Jefferson (he owns the market and the malt shop) at the corner of St. Andrews and Jefferson, fired his clerk (Myrtle Jones) because said store owner's "gal fren" (not his wife) insisted that Miss Jones (the clerk) address her as Mrs. "So and So," yet she didn't think it necessary to refer to said clerk as "Miss" Jones, but merely as "Mrytle" . . . add . . . you should see the said Mrs. "So and So" (resemble a fugitive from a "broken peroxide bottle,' and just the type one would expect to pull such nonsense . . . but . . . the store owner should know better. Mrs. So and So is to be the "new" clerk . . . yet the store's patronage is 85 percent Negro . . . well, let's see what we shall see!

In our eagerness to inform you of the ACHIEVEMENT AWARD won by Owl Drug Company Fountain in last week's column, I erred anent the location. It was NOT 8th and Hill street store. It was the 8th and Broadway store. Please forgive me, deah girls . . . hokay, that's better. . . . Greta Nelson sez: "It'll be a "cold day in July" before she trusts another marriaged man. NOW, just what did she mean . . . silly girl! . . . We wanta thank "Carme nand her Caballeros" who're swingin' out, but groovily in rhumba fashion at a local club, we got tied up by the unexpected Monday nite and couldn't make it over there . . . to Guardo and Broick man, bass-player and agent, respectively, yes, she was beautiful! RICH, RICH, ha haw, ha! . . . well, carry on, me hearties, watch your cues and you won't miss the news.

$1000 Award On CBS Symphony Broadcast

Dean Dixon, who conducted the CBS Symphony Sunday, May 16, received the 1948 Alice M. Ditson Award of $1000 from Frank Diehl Fackenthal, acting president of Columbia university, the award to the 33 year old Negro conductor reads: "Both as artist and citizen, he has brought distinction to the American scene. He is the organizer and conductor of the American Youth Orchestra which, under his imaginative leadership, is devoted to the development of symphonic music as a social and educational force in the community."

ROMANCE! ADVENTURE! ACTION!—Pictured in the above scene are Ann Sheridan and Errol Flynn in a romantic interlude from Warners "Silver River" opening Friday, May 21, at Warners Hollywood, Downton and Wiltern theatres. Dealing with silver mining in Nevada in the 1880's, the new Warner outdoor epic features Thomas Mitchell, Bruce Bennett, Tom D'Andrea and Barton MacLane in important roles.

THE 5 BITS OF RHYTHM are holdovers at the Last Word Cafe, and the 5 Bits of Rhythm (according to the EAGLE'S Theatrical Editor) can do more with a musical arrangement than a monkey can with a cage o' cocoanuts! They play swing. They play jazz. They play Be-Bop. They play hot. They play soft, and theirs is the kind of music that doesn't give you cauliflower ears!

Nellie Lutcher Is Back in Town

Nellie Lutcher, the piano playing song-stylist who rose to prominence in the theatrical world on the strength of her Capitol recording, "He's A Real Gone Guy," opened May 19 for a three weeks engagement at the Red Feather night club, a top smart Figueroa street spot.

Miss Lutcher will leave for San Francisco following her Red Feather engagement for an extended stay at one of the top spots there.

She's a Real Gone Gal!

Bryant-Phillips 'Sends' Crowd at Beaux Arts Show

Blues singing star Gene Phillips dipped his lyrnx in rhythm last Saturday night at the Beaux Arts theatre and walked away with all honors. The occasion was the second in a series of four concerts under the heading of "Blues at Midnight."

The concert moved along at a lively clip, and also featured the piano stylings of Evelyn P. Burwell, Hal Schaefer, Butterfly McQueen and Marie Bryant, who also brought the house down.

Sponsored by the People's Songs, the second show went over with the proverbial bang, and if audience approval is any criterion, the remaining two concerts scheduled for early dates will also thrill all who attend.

DAPHNE MOORE, celebrated young English stage and screen star, plays the role of Lady Macduff in the Ojai Players production of Shakespeare's "Macbeth," which opened Tuesday at the Las Palmas theatre in Hollywood for a two week engegement.

Dance Theatre Opens May 22

Los Angeles will add another unique theater to its growing roster of civic organizations on Saturday evening, May 22. The opening of Dance Theatre establishes Los Angeles as the first city in the nation to have a permanent professional theater playing repertory weekly. The opening program will play Saturdays through August 28.

Pre-Dawn Dance

The Men Behind the Bar, a newly organized group of well-known local bartenders, will stage their first annual Pre-Dawn ball Saturday, May 29, at Crystal Center. The affair will start at 2:00 a.m. and last far into the early morning hours.

Purpose of the club is to raise funds to give a college scholarship to an underprivileged high school graduate. The idea is a good one, and stars of stage, screen and radio will be on hand to do guest numbers. Tickets may be purchased from your favorite bartender.

'Macbeth' Brilliant Drama

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

Even the most un-understanding Shakespearean reader will enjoy the Ojai Players' of production of "Macbeth." Brilliantly staged in sixteen exciting scenes, the sets were remarkably fused with colored lights and majestic simplicity so effective that the audience did not have to wade through lengthy scenes before they grasped the mood of the play.

The opening scene was a promise of an evening of surprised entertainment. Against an almost unbelievable background of Medieval authenticity, one marvels at the achievement on a stage so small. The crowd and battle scenes, which did not lose their effect, were particularly noteworthy. And the early Celtic music—on drums, gongs, and bagpipes—completed the impression of the true period.

Particularly outstanding were scenes of the witches' cauldron, the porter at Glamis Castle, the banquet, MacDuff's Castle at Fife, and the battle at Dunsinane. These scenes are aptly characterized by Elisa Heyman, John Cook, and Mary Lewis Kirkman as the three witches—their graceful, gorylike movements make you almost believe them; Ford Rainey as Macbeth; Iris Tree as Lady Macbeth; and Sam Schatz as Porter wonderfully relieves the heavy work.

Supreme Record Signs Top Stars

Blues singing Jimmie Weatherspoon, going great guns in the current show at the Last Word cafe, signed last week to a lengthy exclusive recording contract with Supreme Records, Inc. Weatherspoon's latest release is his most sensational rendition to date, "Cane River Blues," a zippy little number which seems destined for success in the juke boxes.

Weatherspoon's style is the handclapping, rhythm-rocking style of singing and wherever he plays he packs 'em in. His recordings have sold like the proverbial hot cakes, and the sides he cut prior to the Petrillo ban (with Jay McShann supplying the rhythm background) have all ben best sellers.

JIMMIE WEATHERSPOON

Other recording artists signed by Supreme Records are Buddy Tate, winner of nearly every sax poll in the country at one time or another; Aaron "T-Bone" Walker ("The Guitar King Of The Blues") and singer Dan Grissom, whose velvet voice was heard for many years with the late Jimmie Lunceford band.

Supreme Records are far ahead of the other independent recording companies when it comes to putting out good tunes by top artists, and with this trio of top stars added to their roster they will undoubtedly stay far ahead of the field!

"You'll get plenty of rest," he lied over the phone, "And you'll have a nice week-end 'cause we're gonna Ride Horses." We rode horses and I had a weak-end! THE WHIRL I LIVE IN: Court records reveal that IVY ANDERSON is suing hubby MARK NEAL for a divorce. SHE, as if you didn't know, FORMERLY CHIRPED with the DUKE OF ELLINGTON. . . . BABY SIMMONS (Mrs. Nelson Creswell) is out of the Hosp and feeling fine. She could never possibly feel as fine as she looks!! . . . MARIAN BRUCE and LOUIS JORDAN JONES are on the verge of falling in love. SHE'S A SINGER (and wotta voice!!) AND, of course, you knew he was once married to LENA HORNE! . . . TASSIE MADDOX have decided "Oh, what's the use?" and is suing hubby SONNY for a divorce. HE OWNS AND operates the KIDDIE PLAYLAND on 53d and the Stem. . . . Eddie Davis has a new vocalist, A little shapely doll named Ju Lee Webb, and what she does to a tune is ooOO-La-La! . . . LITTLE MISS CORNSHUCKS may be the next "sing-sation" at the Last Word. . . . HEARD Herb Jeffries' recording of "I WONDER WHAT'S BECOME OF SALLY," and it brought a tear to my eye. THAT SONG belonged to the late Sally Harper, and he could bring a tear to any eye just by singing it. . . .

A GOOD JOE: Sometimes, infrequently, your travels lead to meeting a person WHO IS A STANDOUT. A guy who is something special, as human beings go. AND AT FIRST, you're skeptical. YOU FIGURE there's a catch in it somewhere; that suits of armor disappeared WITH THE LAST VAUDEVILLE booking of King Arthur and his Knights of the Round Table. . . . But months go by, accumulate into years, and THE STANDOUT REMAINS something special in your catalogue of human nature. THE STANDOUT in this case is JOE ADAMS, presiding genius of the KOWL "Mayor of Melody" show, and first and only regularly employed NEGRO DISC JOCKEY in the State of California. . . . I'VE HAD THE pleasure of knowing JOE ADAMS a great many years, a long time before he hit the top rung of the ladder of success in the Radio broadcasting biz. Unlike most people in show b'sness who change when the light of fame shines on them, Joe is the same fellow that I've known for years, and that's THE REASON I LABEL him in my book of fine people—A STANDOUT!

NOTES TO YOU: CHUCK JACKSON'S Club Savoy is garnering all the local trade in the 103rd St. sector. CHUCK'S A FINE GUY and rates your patronage. . . . CHALKY WRIGHT is opening a likker store on Central. . . . LETTER ON THE DESK from Dave Clark, of the DECCA COMPANY: "Your col'm is still my favorite!" Thanx, Dave, we love you, too! . . . TO STRAIGHTEN A POINT, a rival club owner complained that we've neglected HIS SPOT in preference to THE LAST WORD. . . . He wondered why we "wrote only about the Last Word," and not his place. Well, there are several reasons, but we won't go into that here. . . . If ANY SPOT on my list of NITE-CLUBS TO COVER DURING MIDNIGHT ROUNDS can equal the friendly service, fine atmosphere, tops in entertainment and general all around real, sincere, and friendly hospitality of THE LAST WORD, then we'll plug them here SAME AS WE SHALL continue plugging the Last Word as long as they continue to bring to the public the best in entertainment etc. . . . And then, too, WE LIKE THE SPOT because it's one of the few places in town WHERE YOU CAN TAKE your wife, sister, sweetheart, or MOTHER for an evening of clean fun! . . . NAOMI "Shorty" Johnson tips like a Maltese Kitten on a Persian rug, and if you've never seen a Maltese Kitten tip on a Persian rug—then you oughta see NAOMI "Shorty" Johnson tip! . . . Bobbed Hair is back. The GIRLS ARE cutting it short. I suppose YOU WANT TO KNOW what I think of short hair? You don't? Nuts to you. I like it. . . . JOHNNY RUSSO (the San Berdo Big Shot) lost $7900 in Jewelry and Cash last week via a well-planned heist. . . . A SONG PLUGGER called. Wanted to know if we'd heard the song "There Ought To Be A Society For The Prevention Of Cruelty To Poor Unfortunate Lovers Like Me." No wonder the song didn't (and isn't) clicking. By the time you say the title you're out of breath! . . . Pecola and WILBOURNE DeMarks are what's drawing the gang to their DAIRY ICE CREAM SHOP on Central. They're so nice. And their FROSTED MALTS melt in yer kisser! . . . WYNONNIE HARRIS is due back in town. And now there'll be a slight pause for you to say: 'SO WHAT?"

BROWN BUNDLE of feminine loveliness and lush thrush is Lena Horne posing prettily in the above pic. La Horne is currently appearing at the Fairmount Hotel, San Francisco. According to an MGM rumor, the long a-waited picture deal to co-star the lovely Lena in a flicker with singing star Billy Eckstine may materialize quicker than it takes a stammerer to say: "She Sells Sea Shells on the Sea Shore!"

G.I. Home Loan

J. W. O'Sullivan, Los Angeles County Commander of AMVETS, yesterday announced unanimous support of the County Council for the G. I. Home Loan Bill, H. R. 6381, to reestablish the secondary marget for G. I. home loans.

"This proposed legislation is the most effective of some 50 bills now pending in Congress to solve the urgent problem presented by the veterans' housing shortage," O'Sullivan said. "This problem is more pressing in Southern California than any place in the country.

"Through the provisions of the G. I. Bill of Rights, there existed the only feasible plan whereby the veterans, with limited means, no down payment, and with a loan at only four per cent interest, could acquire a home. Formerly the RFC Mortgage Company was authorized to purchase G. I. loans insured or guaranteed by the Veterans' Administration. This has been eliminated by Congress.

"The result has been a gathering crisis in G. I. home financing. It has also resulted in multiplying eligibility qualifications and has created extreme difficulty for the veteran in securing a Veterans' Administration guaranteed loan.

"It is the opinion of the AMVET leaders of Los Angeles County that the citizens of America desire to help the veteran of this nation's greatest war obtain a home for himself and his family.

NMU Committee Opposes Police Intimidation Of Negro Seaman In San Pedro

SAN PEDRO—Police intimidation of Negro members of the National Maritime Union in this port met strong opposition from Union members, centering around the case of James Johnson. Capping a series of incidents, Johnson was arrested April 12 on the stairs of the NMU hall in San Pedro. NMU Patrolman W. Lacey, who protested the questionable arrest of Brother Johnson, Negro member of the NMU, was told curtly by the arresting officer that Johnson "answered the description of a burglary suspect" and was being picked up for questioning.

Police took Johnson to the jail in San Pedro, where they gave NMU representatives the "run-around" and attempted to book Johnson on trumped-up charges of "loitering, making book, and carrying a concealed, dangerous weapon" (a penknife, which practically all seamen carry). The police finally came up with an old law prohibiting the carrying of any weapon in a public place or alleyway.

Johnson was grilled for approximately two hours, his "charge" finally being listed as "loitering" and his bail set at $100, with a trial on May 11. The NMU regular membership meeting, Monday, May 10 authorized Port Agent Anthony Lucio to engage an attorney to defend Johnson. Agent Lucio obtained the services of the well-known law firm of Gallagher, Margolis, McTernan & Tyre.

Preceding Monday's NMU membership meeting, an NMU committee was set up which issued a call to all maritime unions in the harbor area, for the purpose of presenting official condemnation of police intimidation of seamen in the harbor, particularly intimidation of Negro and alien seamen and minority groups.

Seamen have been arrested in the port, merely because they have been seen by police as they left waterfront cafes, and faced with heavy fines or the choice of 30 days' imprisonment or worse. Union members feel that such police action is in preparation for brutality against picket lines, if the unions are forced to strike when contracts expire June 15, with special efforts to intimidate Negro and minority seamen.

Johnson's case was heard in San Pedro Municipal Court, on Tuesday, May 11, Judge Raycraft presiding. NMU Patrolman W. Lacey testified on behalf of Johnson. He was asked by the prosecuting attorney why he referred to Johnson, a Negro, as "brother" and "Isn't there some other term such as 'comrade' that could be used." Snickers ran through the courtroom, everybody but the judge and prosecuting attorney laughed at this obvious attempt to obscure the facts with the old "red-herring."

The officer who arrested Johnson claimed he had watched Johnson for half an hour before making the arrest, and asserted he saw Johnson booking the races and making a nuisance of himself by stopping people in the street. When asked by Attorney Kaplan why other members who were talking to Johnson at the time of the arrest were not picked up at the same time, the arresting officer lamely replied: "Johnson answered the description of a burglary suspect." Intimidation of a Negro seaman appeared obvious in this case, with attempts to frame some kind of "charge" that might stick, including "loitering," "burglary suspect," "selling papers without a license," and attempting to make possession of an ordinary penknife by a seaman, "the carrying of a concealed and dangerous weapon."

Also taking the witness stand on behalf of Johnson were NMU Dispatcher Russell Vahldiek and Cornelius Crowe, who testified that Johnson was not loitering, but that he had come to the NMU hall to "ship out." Despite the very obvious efforts of the police to intimidate and victimize this Negro seaman, Judge Raycraft dismissed the case, as he said, "with regret." The fact that a large delegation was present from the NMU while the case was being heard, no doubt affected the decision to drop further proceedings.

crowns than all the other 32 high schools combined since the annual championships have been held. Since 1940, the Green and Gold have only lost the crown twice. Once in 1944, the Jeff boys were beaten by one point by a University High team that had about 16 men to their 4. In 1946, their arch rival, the Jordan Bulldogs knocked over the Democrats.

This year, as it happens every year, some people are saying that the Democrats reign will come to a halt. The talk around town is the Jordon's power laden Bulldogs will pull a '46 and scalp a Democrat. The Jordon boys have a powerful team—one af the best teams we've ever seen, but we just can't see them knocking over Jefferson. About now, if you like Jordon you're probably asking How? Well here goes.

100—This is the race Jordon supporters bust their vests on. In Ed Crawford, they have what looks like the city champ. Fred Thompson of Jordon looke like a good third, while Jeff's Fischer, Jones and Gordon look to be way back; about fifth and sixth—edge—Jordon.

120 High Hurdles—Paul Johnson of Jeff should win this one as he pleases with teammate Augustine battling Jordon's Jackson for the third place spot.—edge—Jeff.

880—Neither Jeff or Jordon look good enough to win in this event. Dorsey's Wallace should win.Jeff boys Mossie Brooks and Bobby Smith should grab 3rd and 5th respectively—edge—Jeff.

180 Low Hurdles—Jeff should register 1, 2 and 4th in the lows with Paul Johnson, Oliver Gordon and Maurice Hill in charge. Jordon's Griffin should grab third—edge—Jeff.

440—The race of the evening. Defending state champ Luther Butler, Jordon's Fred Thompson, and Hollywood's Adrian should provide more thrills than any race on the high school card. From here it looks like Adrian with Butler a close second and Thompson and Jeff's Ivory fighting for the show spot.—edge—Jeff.

220—Jordon's Ed Crawford and Smith should run one two in the furlong with Jones of Jeff and Mingleton of Jeff pulling up the third and fourth places—Watch Mingleton, he could take it. —edge—Jordon.

Mile—Only Jeff has a man entered, Simpson, but he dosen't figure to be in the chips.—edge—even.

Relay—The world's Interscholastic record of 2.58.3, set by Jefferson in 1937, will probably be broken when the Demos and the Bulldogs meet in this race. Both teams have already recorded fine time—Jeff, 2.57.7—Jordon 2.57.6 both times were recorded when neither team was pushed hard. Because in the prelims Saturday, Marshall pushed Jordon harder than Poly pushed Jeff, we like the Demos by inches in a new worlds mark.

Broad Jump—In the leaping event, Jordon probably has the two best broadjumpers in the city, Buddy Brown and Bobby Smith. To qualify Saturday, Brown jumped 23 ft. 3½ inches, while Smith could only make 21 ft. 8 inches. But don't let that fool you, when the real chips are down, Bobby can really leap. Jeff has three men entered who'll probably get no better than third.—edge—Jordon.

High Jump—Jefferson's "Heavenly Family" of Edwin Young, Norman Woods and Jim Howard should sweep the first three places. Murray of Jordon probably won't get better than fifth.—edge—Jeff.

Neither team has men qualified in the shot and pole vault. On our evaluation basis, we like the Democrats to beat Jordon, but after a real struggle. It's so close, it could go either way.

Last Friday afternoon, Coach Bert LaBrucherie sent his 1948 Spring Practice Bruins througd their paces against a strong, but unpracticed, alumni eleven, and the results point toward another rose bouquet for the Westwood institution. Not only are the Bruins deep but rough and fast as well.

From here, it looks as though three Negro lads will be on the '48 Bruin varsity. They are: Chuck Danniels, Harry Thompson, and Bill Duffy.

Dtnniels is a fleet footed, 150 pound back a la Buddy Young. Chuck galloped 80 yards for a TD last Friday and should really be a dangerous wheapon at all times. He probably won't be a starting back, but he'll see plenty of action as a climax runner.

Harry Thompson, although not as publicized as other Bruin lineman (naturally) is a real rock and sock demon. He likes the going best when the battles are the roughest. Thompson was a non-lettering member of the '47 squad. He plays tackle.

Although not the most popular guy around Westwood, Bill Duffy should be one of the best backs the LaBrucherie can boast this fall. Duffy weighs in the neighborhood of 170 and moves like a jet. He lettered on the Frosh last year. He hails from Santa Ana. Duffy's been out of action due to a wrenched knee recently but come fall and he'll be rarin' and ready to go.

HERE AND THERE—Did you know that the man who won the hop,step and jump at Fresno, Leonnard Evans, of Los Angeles City College, with a leap of 47 ft. 5½ inches, is only about 5 ft. 8? . . . That Don Barksdale scored more points than anybody else up at Fresno? . . . That Dink Templeton, former Stanford track Coach said that the timers were 'click happy" when they timed Mel Patton at 9.3? . . . Templeton claims it wts more like 9.5. . . . That Jefferson was eliminated from the Dorsey invitational Baseball Tournament the other day when they lost a "pitcher's duel" to Van Nuys High, 23-17? . . . That Al Tabor, ex-Bruin gridder, and C.I.A.A. Tennis champ while at Tuskegee in '45, is number one man on the University of Nevada's racquet team? . . .

TENOR TOOTING Eddie Davis is the leader of the Angel City's most up-and-coming young swing band. He opens with his swingsational group June 2 at Paul Rubin's Cricket Club, co-starring on a bill featuring the famed Ravens. Eddie's music is the hottest thing to hit the state since the San Francisco fire!

Red Cross Home Nursing Classes Start At Public Branch Library

Red Cross home nursing classes with starting dates late in May and the first week in June were announced yesterday by Mrs. Lloyd Aldrich, chairman of the home nursing committee for Los Angeles chapter.

In announcing the schedule of classes, all slated for the Vernon Branch Library, 4504 S. Central avenue, Mrs. Aldrich urged "early registration and appointment interviews of those desiring to enroll."

Starting May 18 and June 8, classes have been programmed in the streamlined "Care of the Sick at Home," the committee leader disclosed, while on May 17 a class is being formed in "Mother and Baby Care and Family Health."

Red Cross certificates will be awarded those completing the three-weeks courses open to the public free of charge. Registered nurses will serve as instructors.

Retail Clerks Offer Law Scholarship

The Retail Clerks' Union, Local 770, American Federation of Labor, is sponsoring a law scholarship for a student graduating in June, 1948, from the Los Angeles city schools.

The Union has appropriated a fund of $4000 which will be paid to the successful candidate at the rate of $100 per month, 10 months per year. The candidate would be requested to work one month during each school vacation period in a retail store as an apprentice retail clerk so that he would get the "feel" of the clerks' problems, as it is the hope of the Union that the young man selected will be particularly interested in specializing in labor law.

The Union prefers that the young man selected be the son of a working parent or parents. He is assured of a good position with an established law firm upon his admittance to the Bar.

High School Seniors interested in qualifying for this scholarship should immediately take the matter up with the principal of the school attended.

Dafni at Hollywood Bowl Talks on Integration

Israel will take another stand and begin to strike back aggressively at the Arab invaders from now on, declared Reuven Dafni, major in the Haganah army of Palestine, who was the principal speaker at the Americans for Haganah rally held in the Hollywood Bowl last evening.

For the first few days since the new state was proclaimed, the Jews deliberately refrained from aggression even though the Arab League sent armies against it. This was done, Dafni said, to prove to the world that the Arabs, not the Jews, are the aggressors.

Dafni left his home in Yugoslavia in 1931 to go to Palestine against the wishes of his parents. During World War II he fought in Syria, Greece, Crete, and in the Western Desert against the Afrika Corps, and served as a British and Haganah intelligence agent in Europe. He helped sabotage German military installations behind the lines, rescued 142 American and British aviators forced down in enemy territory, and was instrumental in transporting 2000 Jews from Germany to Palestine.

In 1944 he went back to Yugoslavia as a British parachutist, and heard that his mother was dead, a victim of the war, and that his father was in a Yugoslavian concentration camp. He was able to get some partisans together, rescue his father and get him to Palestine.

Dafni is confident the Jews will win the war. Given the same type of arms as the Arabs, they can win quickly. Not given the same type, it will take longer, but they will win eventually.

The Arabians, although outnumbering the Jews in population of the various countries, are disorganized, he said. Their armies are ill-trained, and they are quarreling among themselves.

The rally last evening was held as a salute to the United States recognition of the new state of Israel.

Leaders Endorse Ibanez for Judge

Support of Richard A. Ibanez for Judge of the Superior Court, office No. 21, this week came from seven more Negro civic, religious and community leaders who endorsed Ibanez' forthright stand on restrictive covenants, civil liberties and police brutality.

Other community leaders who have previously endorsed Ibanez include Florence Cadrez, Rev. Jonathan Caston, Augustus F. Hawkins, Rev. J. J. Hicks, Norman O. Houston, Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Hugh E. Macbeth Jr., Hugh E. Macbeth Sr., Loren Miller and Sid Moore.

Card Of Thanks

The family of the late Mrs. Lizzie Whiteside wish to thank their many friends for their cards, condolences, and kindnesses extended them during their bereavement.

Cause for Alarm

The following report of fires and their causes for the past week is given by the Los Angeles Fire Department.

The person who turns in a false alarm of fire has his hand in your pocket. At the moment firemen answer that call your own home may be afire. Or perhaps fire apparatus speeding on a false call will be involved in a traffic accident killing a fireman or bystander. Whether malicious or mischievous, no good can come of a false alarm, only needless expense.

THE RIGHT OF LOVE.

To be loved and cherished by the object of your affections gives an individual the initiative to face the pitfalls and obstacles that are a part of everyday life.

With true love, defeat fails to mar the beauty and purpose of life, without this valuable possession the zest for living loses its sparkle.

Are you happy in your love-life, or, are you surrounded by the emptiness that fills the life of the unloved? If so, let Prof. Herman help you solve this problem. He has made a special study of your Lucky Star and Guiding Planet. Perhaps he can guide you toward a happy life.

Mrs. M. M. Dear Prof. Herman: I read your column each week and enjoy it very much. Will you please help me, I don't think I can stand much more of this . . . no happiness, no fun or peace of mind.

ANSWER: My Psycho-Mentalist Crystal reveals the fact that your home life has been very unhappy for the past few months and you are wondering if there is a chance for a change in the near future. A change is indicated, but for further details I would rather write you privately.

E. M. W. I am love with a minister, and wonder if anything will ever come of this friendship?

ANSWER: Probing into the matter I find that this minister's wife hasn't been gone long enough for him to consider another marriage. He has to be very careful about matters of this kind because of his position. I am sure if you have a talk with him concerning this matter he will explain this to you.

S. L. D. What is the matter with my brother?

ANSWER: A careful analysis of your question indicates the fact that your brother seems to resent the attention that your parents display upon you. He thinks it is a little one-sided, hence his attitude toward you. Perhaps you can help your parents see the mistake they are making and do something about this situation.

J. T. D. I am deeply in love with a married man. Will I ever find happiness with him? Will I see him soon or hear from him? Why do I have so much bad luck?

ANSWER: Only one question is answered in the column due to the limited amount of space. I would be glad to help you with your questions if you will write in for a private reply.

New Low Cost Log Homes Being Built

GAYLORD, MICH.—A log cabin home of either full or half log construction is now available at very low cost. Termite-proofed logs are pre-cut to accurate length and are anchored into heavy corner posts so no ends are exposed, eliminating rotting. Window and door design permit floor plans and exteriors to meet individual tastes. Precutting reduces material costs so that these log homes are very moderate in price, according to the Otsego Log Cabin Co., originator of this new idea. A number of these homes are being built as suburban residences as well as resort cabins.

Duarte Sanatorium In Midst Of Largest World Bldg Progam

A total of 7623 free hospital days of care was given patients of the Mt. Sinai-Duarte National Medical Center's Los Angeles Sanatorium during the month of April, it was revealed today with the publication of its current report to the board.

This represents a utilization of 96.6 percent of the long-term hospital's facilities, according to Louis Tabak, president of the institution which is now in the midst of an expansion program that will make it, when completed, the largest of its kind in the world.

A complete program of patient rehabilitation, under the combined direction of the California State Bureau of Rehabilitation and the institution's Social Service Department is in effect at the sanatorium, as part of returning the patient to a normal routine of life and work after full recovery from his illness. This program is recognized by authorities as one of the best-designed undertakings in similar institutions throughout the country.

The Mt. Sinai-Duarte National Medical Center is a free, non-sectarian long-term illness hospital supported by voluntary contributions from individuals, organizations, and auxiliaries throughout the country. The only basis for admission is the need for care and treatment, and each patient accepted spends an average of 16 months at the institution.

This Land We Love This Heritage

A national hymn of Nigeria, West Africa, written after a sojourn in the territories of Hausaland and Bornu, Nigeria by H. Alonzo Phillips, A.B.; M.S.P.A.; D.J., Afro-America's poet laureate of African nationhood.

This land we love this her-i-tage
Ni-ge-ria
From La-gos strand to Bor-nu's sage—
Ni-ge-ria.
O-ver thy bound-less vast do-main,
Free-dom and u-nity pro-claim,
Long live thy peo-ple ever to reign—
Ni-ge-ria.
Our mar-tyr-ed sires speak from the grave—
Ni-ge-ria.
A better world for us the brave—
Ni-ge-ria.
None robbed of honor held in thrall,
None 'neath the spoils-men blow to fall,
Peace and a-bundance for us all—
Ni-ge-ria.
On new found-a-tions a new earth—
Ni-ge-ria.
Where all are e-qual is in birth—
Ni-ge-ria.
The morn-ing breaks be-fore our eyes,
The fet-ters fall cap-tiv-ity dies;
March on free Africa's sun doth rise;
Ni-ge-ria.

Poet Protests U.S. Delayed Action on The Jewish State

"The Truman-Marshall proposal to delay the establishment of the Jewish State, if accepted by the Jewish Government, would lead to division in the ranks of the Jewish people and might result in civil war," said Z. Weinper, famous Jewish poet and national secretary of the IKUF, in a press conference last weekend. "It is part of the old "divide and conquer" technique of British Imperialist policy which is certainly not becoming to the United States of America."

The American people will not permit their government to place the interests of the oil magnates above human life and freedom. The attempt to delay action on the Jewish State constitutes cheap politics unbecoming the head of our government and leaders of a major party.

Saturday evening at the Embassy auditorium, the Jewish Cultural club expressed their opposition to this action of the administration and organized to support the heroic fighters of the Haganah.

Eighth Music Festival

The Eighth Annual Festival of Music will be presented in the Shrine Auditorium on Friday evening, May 28th, by the Los Angeles City Schools. More than 1,500 students will participate in various choruses and orchestras, representing all levels of musical instruction which the young people are receiving in the public schools. The Southern California Symphony Association is acting as cosponsor in presenting the Festival.

College to Honor NAACP Sec'y White

NEW YORK—Chosen by the faculty of the New London Junior College, New London, Conn., to be the first recipient of the Sir James Jeans Award, Walter White, NAACP secretary, will accept the award and deliver an address at the college commencement exercises on June 7.

Yergan Misused Finances Council Members Charge; Request Action be Taken

NEW YORK—A lengthy list of charges, classified, sub-headed and carefully detailed have been filed against Dr. Max Yergan, Executive Director of The Council On African Affairs by three nationally prominent members of the Council.

Terming the basis for the charges acts of mal-feasance, mis-feasance and non-feasance, Mary Church Terrell, John Latouce and Henry Arthur Callis request Paul Robeson, chairman of the Council to whom the letter was addressed, to call an early meeting of the Executive Board at which meeting the charges can be considered and "appropriate action taken."

Pointing out that the charges are of a serious nature, and stressing the urgent necessity for having the Council move forward, the petitioners request that Dr. Yergan be notified of the charges against him, and that the Council membership also be notified.

The first charge deals with Dr. Yergan's political retreat on the question of freedom for the African peoples and on the question of colonial exploitation. All of the charges are in-

CIO Plans Chests For Strike Action

SAN FRANCISCO—Raising of special area "war chests" to aid striking unions and creation of area wage-strike action committees are recommended by the California CIO Council executive board in a policy statement published recently in the organization's newspaper, the Labor Herald.

The statement, approved by the northern and Southern California board members in emergency action to support current and pending wage struggles, declared that "the most crucial job confronting the CIO members at this time is to break up the conspiracy of the American monopolies against the living standards of the American people."

Report Robinson On Waiver List Due to Weight

Rumors that have been current for some time that Jackie Robinson, crack infielder for the Brooklyn Dodgers was in disfavor with Branch Rickey, gained some credence this week when a copyrighted story in the New York Daily Mirror revealed that the Brooklyn prexy was seeking waivers on his base-stealing second baseman.

Robinson, who was acclaimed as the rookie of the year last season, got off to a bad start this year, primarily it was said,

Statement Condemning CIO Regional Action Has Additional Signers

The story in last week's edition of the CALIFORNIA EAGLE on the statement issued by nearly 100 Negro and Mexican-American CIO members and leaders, severely criticizing the Zusman-Despol group which split from the Los Angeles CIO Council, inadvertently failed to carry the full list of names.

The statement leveled blistering criticism against the group of CIO Regional officials which endorsed race-baiting, pro-Taft-Hartley reactionary candidates and opposed the endorsements made by the CIO Council. The CIO Council was commended by the group of CIO Negro and Mexican-American members for its endorsement of such minority leaders as Frances Williams in the 63rd A.D.; Jose Chavez, 51st A.D.; James T. Allen, 67th A.D.; Oscar White, 60th A.D.; Augustus Hawkins, 62nd A.D. and Richard Ibanez for Superior Court Office No. 21.

In the statement, sharp criticism was leveled against the endorsements by the Zusman-Despol group of Supervisor Raymond Darby and District Attorney William Simpson. The statement contended that it was Darby who defended the action of the County in not naming the Ku Klux Klan on the list of subversive organizations by saying "The KKK is an American Organization." The statement outlined Simp-

N. A. A. C. P.
Agenda
By C. A. B.

When I walked into a National Association executive board meeting Monday evening, May 24, at its Central avenue local headquarters, a pink sheet, foolscap size was handed to me.

At the top of the sheet was inscribed: Agenda, Executive Committee Meeting, Los Angeles Branch, NAACP, May 24, 1948

The order of the meeting was: prayer, minutes, communications, reports—and this is where I came in. The Educational Committee was making a report on a recent ruling by the Board of Education that alters the present student attendance at the Jefferson High School.

According to a very comprehensive report made by Eddie Atkinson, chairman of the Educational Committee, the Board of Education had attempted to gerrymander the district in such a way that only Negro students would remain in attendance at Jefferson. When some objection was raised at this attempt obviously to make Jefferson a purely Negro school, the Board then resorted to an even more high-handed method of carrying out its plan of segregation.

A certain employee of the Board was instructed, against his will, to canvass the student body, offering transfers to all types of non-Negro students to enter other schools. This also was stated by the NAACP Education Committee.

It was recalled by some members of the Association that but a few years ago, it was harder for a Negro parent to secure a transfer for his child from Jefferson to some other school in the city, paradoxically speaking, than it was in early Bibical times for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle.

UPWA Votes Robeson Scholarship; $1 Min. Wage

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — The second biennial convention of the United Public Workers of America, CIO, voted to establish a $1,000 annual scholarship to be named the Paul Robeson Scholarship Fund, to enable a student chosen by the Panama local to study in the United States. The purpose of the scholarship is to help lift the educational standards for so-called "silver" workers in the Panama Canal Zone. The bulk of the original grant was raised through a series of concerts in the United States, given by Paul Robeson under the auspices of the union.

It also adopted a number of resolutions which include the following:

Aecommending legislation to provide $1 per hour as a minimum wage throughout the United States.

Support of legislation to establish a Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Calling upon President Truman to rescind Executive Order 9835 on government employes' loyalty.

Support of legislation to establish a social security program for government, state, county and municipal employes.

Opposing legislation providing for universal military training.

Calling attention to the crisis in education, with a demand for adequate wages, increased personnel and improved plant facilities.

The convention began May 17 and was attended by approximately 600 delegates representing 86,000 public service employes.

More Political Action NAACP Convention Theme

NEW YORK — One thousand delegates, representing forty states will attend the 39th annual convention of the NAACP to be held in Kansas City, Missouri, June 22nd to June 27th, at Saint Stephen's Baptist Church. The closing session and mass meeting at which the Spingarn Award will be presented to Dr. Channing H. Tobias (see story elsewhere in this paper), will be held in the Municipal Auditorium on Sunday afternoon.

Emphasis at this convention, which comes at a significant period in American history, will be on political action for civil rights. A program dedicated to a continuing of the legal attacks on domestic fascism through the U. S. Supreme Court and other courts in the land will be advanced.

Walter White, secretary of the NAACP, will head the list of speakers which will include Willard S. Townsend, international president of the United Transport Workers, CIO, and Oscar Ewing, administrator of the Federal Security Agency.

The NAACP closes this year of its service with a smashing victory against restrictive covenants. Thousands of unofficial delegates and visitors are expected to attend most of the sessions.

Widow Accused Of Knife Murder

Mary Talliver, buxom widow of 1259 East 6th Street, has been arrested and jailed by officers of Central Homicide Squad charged with the murder of Mack McAllister, a roomer, at the hotel where they both lived. According to the story told by Mrs. Talliver, the dead man was administering an unmerciful beating to his girl friend and she asked him to desist because of the girls weak condition, whereupon McAllister became enraged and grabbed an empty quart bottle which he threw at her with great force, narrowly missing her head.

A carving knife was laying near by and both reached for it at the same time, but the woman had the quicker hand and McAllister was fatally wounded. He died several hours later in the General Hospital. Mrs. Talliver has obtained Attorney Curtis C. Taylor as counsellor, and is being held in the County Jail pending the outcome of the Coroner's inquest.

PASADENA, Calif.—This is an emergency call—for 25,000 pairs of trousers!

The American Friends Service Committee has received a request for these garments for German prisoners of war now in Poland and it would like to dispatch the needed garments as soon as possible. West View Ceremonies Mark Inter-racial Hospital Drive

By JAY MORGAN

West View Hospital, the democratic dream of a democratic community, moved into closer focus Sunday afternoon when a capacity crowd jammed the site of the proposed inter-racial institution to contribute over seventeen thousand dollars for its beginning, and to hear men and women of all races and of all shades of opinion pledge themselves to work until it is completed, and appeal to the public to put pennies and dollars together to make this possible.

With the Rev. Jonathan L. Caston, pastor of Trinity Baptist Church, and Dr. Ernest Caldecott and members of the Board of Directors of the hospital officiating at the actual ground breaking, the thousands who attended the ceremonies played the more prominent role when they responded to the appeals for funds made jointly by the Rev. Clayton D. Russell, pastor of the People's Independent Church of Christ, and Eddie Cantor, large-hearted star of stage, screen and radio. Rev. Russell made a positive and stirring appeal, and Eddie Cantor spent the afternoon alternately clowning with Harpo Marx, vice president of the proposed hospital, and seriously his audience to make a contribution from a penny to a thousand.

A wealth of entertainment, enriched by the presence of such stars as George Burns, Herb Jeffries, Madame Caterina Jarboro and the nine year old singing sensation, Toni Harper, added to the purpose and pleasure of the occasion. The Elks Band number 86 and the West Lake College Orchestra provided the music.

Councilman Kenneth Hahn and Supervisor Leonard Roach brought greetings from the City and County, both emphasizing the the theme of the afternoon, "pisitive action for inter-racial good-will." Hundreds of volunteer workers, organizations and individuals, canvassed the audience and sold the handsome souvenir program which carries a full report and history of the occasion.

While the ground-breaking ceremonies mark a healthy beginning of the inter-racial, nonsectarian, non-profit hospital, at least $500,000 must be raised to complete and equip the first unit and to provide for operating cost and work on the other units.

Mass Meeting Protests Suspension Of Barnes

SANTA MONICA — A mass meeting to protest the suspension of Frank Barnes, president of the Santa Monica Bay Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored people from his job by the Post Office Department Loyalty Board for activities connected with his leadership of the campaign against discriminatory hiring at the Sears Roebuck & Co. Santa Monica store was held here Tuesday night at the Calvary Social Hall, 1907 20th Street.

Rev. W. P. Carter of the Calvary Baptist Church was the chairman. Speakers included Regional Director Noah W. Griffin of San Francisco and Attorney Loren Miller of Los Angeles.

Banks Terrace Lots Sell Fast

Mr. O. L. Banks, subdivider and owner of the beautiful tract of land, known as Banks' Terrace has set a possible subdivision sales record in California in certain classsifications by selling approximately one hundred and fifty lots in seventeen days after the opening date, April 18, 1948.

However, according to Mr. Banks in the last two weeks the field surveyors have been doubled and now there are over one hundred choice lots for sale to the buying public. For details

Leaders Urge Election Of Frances Williams

A personal message to elect Frances E. Williams to the State Legislature was directed to Democratic voters today by five civic leaders, representing the realm of politics, and the creative and social arts.

Because of Miss Williams' "Equal Rights" program, the five notables, including Lena Horne and Augustus F. (Gus) Hawkins, are urging voters to back the well-known resident. They state in a join message:

"We know Frances E. Williams to be a true progressive, a staunch friend of the common people and one who will really fight for her program of equal rights and social bettermen when she gets up to Sacramento."

Miss Williams will be the first Negro woman ever to hold this office in California. Those endorsing her platform in the present dramatic message include in addition to Miss Horne and Assemblyman Hawkins, the following:

Dr. H. E. Scarbrough, member, Los Angeles Democratic County Central Committee; Joseph T. DeSilva, secretary-treasurer, Retail Clerks, Local 770 (AFL); and Carey McWilliams, nationally-known author, lecturer and attorney.

McWilliams' endorsement is particularly significant because as the author of "Brothers Under the Skin," a factual study of racial problems, he is well ecquainted with the problems of minorities. As an attorney and civic leader, his endorsement suggests broad community support.

Miss Horne is noted for her efforts in behalf of racial unity and as a loyal worker for equal rights, as are Assemblyman Hawkins, the only Negro representative in the California legislature, and the others who signed the statement.

They Can't Divide Us, They Can't Lick Us

Uniting solidly, and inspired by the slogan, "If the company can't divide us—they can't lick us . . . ," UAW-CIO enters upon the third week of its strike against Chrysler Motors Corporation. Throughout the country, 75,000 employes were thrown out of work when Chrysler refused to grant wage increases. UAW in Los Angeles is prepared for a long strike, and picket-liners are being warned against attempts by Chrysler to discredit picket lines by inspired violence and misconduct.

Wednesday morning, Earl Robinson, composer of "The House I Live In," "Ballad for Americans," "Joe Hill," and "The Freedom Train," song on the picket line and thousands of workers from other unions supporting the strikers joined in to make a touching demonstration of inspired determination.

Sickness and Its Causes

(NOTE: These articles are true and authentic and are run as a public service for you and your family. Additional articles will be added from time to time. Study them and keep them for a family reference.) Don't be discouraged. Read what this famous doctor says:

ARTHRITIS: "Mild attacks of muscular rheumatism may occur when subjected to exposure of cold, when the circulation of fluids in the body becomes congested and the elimination of toxins retarded. The congestion may occur in the muscles, and in such cases the trouble is called 'muscular rheumatism.' This condition may exist for years, with varying attacks of shooting pains and soreness of the muscles, until finally the congestion of toxins locates in some joint of the body. The fingers and toes are usually affected first, but it often spreads to the elbows and shoulders, and in this stage is called 'articular rheumatism.'

"If the disease is not arrested at this stage, the soreness spreads to the hips, and finally to the spine. In this latter stage it is most serious. Every effort must be exerted by the patient to attempt to keep the inflammation from developing to this dangerous point. If the rheumatism in the joints continues, the bones will throw out a liquid bone formation which will solidify around the joint, apparently in an attempt by the body to protect the joints against the irritation of acid toxins in the blood. This produces enlargement of the joints, twisting them out of shape, and producing a disease called 'arthritis deformans.'

"The muscular form of rheumatism is usually to be found in the lower back, over the lumbar section of the spine, where it is called 'lumbago,' or in the muscles attached to the ribs, in which case it is called 'intercostal neuralgia.' If the inflammation extends to the nervous system, and deposits of irritating material accumulate around the nerve trunks, it will develop the disease commonly called 'sciatica' or 'neuritis.' Real neuritis is an inflammation of the nerve cells, and is a very rare disease, but rheumatism of the nerves of the arm is so often called 'neuritis, that I am simply referring to this form of the trouble by the name under which it commonly passes.

"One of the principal causes of rheumatism is toxemia produced from the fermentation of an excess of carbohydrate foods, or from poison generated by fermentation when these foods are used in wrong combinations.

"In addition to the toxic condition of the blood being a cause of sciatica, it will be found that a certain amount of pressure is being exerted upon the nerves going to the legs by an impacted feces in the rectum, or by the pressure of gas on one or the other or on both sides of the colon. If a tumor exists in the womb this may be an irritating cause of pains in the legs because of the pressure exerted upon the pelvic nerves. If the gas pockets in the colon exist only on one side, it will be noted that there is a poor circulation in the leg on that particular side, often enough to produce sciatic pains."

FEMALE DISORDER: "Many women suffer from genital derangements. There is undoubtedly no class of disorder which has so far-reaching an effect upon the nervous system as derangement of the genital organs. Chief among the irritating sources are:

"1st. A sluggish state of the blood stream which is productive of congestion in the womb and ovaries, and creates an engorged state which interferes with the normal functioning of these organs.

"2nd. The pressure of prolapsed abdominal viscera upon the reproductive organs and the distension and irritation of intestinal gas.

"3rd. Repression of the normal instincts and function through psychological resistance, physical malformation, or misplaced position of organs.

"4th. Rectal disorders, Piles, Hemorrhoids.

"In each individual case you may look for one or more of the above causes, which must be removed if the patient is to enjoy perfect health. The digestive disorders may be corrected through proper attention and the prolapsus caused by weakened muscles of the abdomen may be overcome through development of muscular tone.

"Women who suffer are unhappy. They reflect their entire attitude and in many instances destroy the happiness of their home and family. Those who suffer from painful, scanty, irregular, or profuse periods—uterine fibroids; prolapsed, sagging or misplaced organs; childless, complexes — you would do well to take steps to correct the cause immediately.

"It is impossible to estimate the amount of evil caused by an engorged colon (pot-belly), monopolizing several times its allotted space, crowding and hampering other organs in their work."

HEADACHE: "The cause of headache seldom can be found in the head itself, but must be understood to be the symptom of some other disorder located in another part of the body, which affects the nerves in the head by reflex action. If the ache seems back of the eyes, it is either caused by constipation or eyestrain. If the ache occurs only on sunny days it indicates suitable glasses should be worn. If not manifested in this way, you may expect that constipation is the cause, and often you will find a pressure in the rectum of impacted feces.

"BILIOUS 'SICK' headache is accompanied by nausea, and can only be cured when biliousness is overcome. Anemia produces a peculiar dizzy feeling in the head, and will persist until the proper changes are made in the blood. Low blood pressure headache is caused by fatigue. High blood pressure headache is usually evidenced by a feeling of pressure around the head, as if a band of iron were being drawn tightly round the skull. Headache at the top of the head is caused by some disorder of the bladder.

"The form least understood is that which occurs at the base of the brain, and is always brought on by uterine congestion. The principal causes of this congestion in women are troubles of menstruation, prolapsed uterus, constipation (which makes pressure against the uterus), and congestion in the womb.

"MIGRAINE is a form of headache which makes habitual visits at certain definite times. I have never treated a case which could not be cured by the methods used in the ordinary form of headache. Cases of many years' standing, which have resisted all medicinal remedies used, are often cured as quickly as an ordinary bilious headache."

Dr. Chas. A. Tyrell, M.D., eminent physician, says:

"The most rational and practical manner of dealing with this . . . breeding place of disease is to wash it out. With me it has passed beyond the theoretical stage, for I have in my office fully 15,000 letters from grateful patients who have used this process, under my direction, with the most astounding results; scarcely a disease known to humanity, but has been relieved, and in ninety-five per cent of the cases, cures effected, while tens of thousands of gratifying messages have reached me from time to time; nor is the testimony in its favor confined to the laity, for hundreds of physicians (including some of the most prominent authorities) testify to the wonderful beneficial results achieved by its use."

Daniel C. Munro, M.D., says: "If I were to write the story of all the cases in which colonic irrigations seem to lift the patient from the very jaws of death, it would fill volumes."

within the past at least two years, the morale at Jefferson has been lifted.

This undemocratic attempt to segregate Jefferson racially, should be met with a landslide protest from the National Association and all the people of this community, and the people everywhere who subscribe to a free and democratic way of life.

BACK TO THE PINK SHEET

On the pink sheet already mentioned, beneath the Agenda, there was an editorial from the April issue of The Crisis, warning the Negro people to be on guarl against Communist infiltration into their organizations. This editorial calls attention to "The way the Communists took over Czechoslovakia." —Said it was a good illustration of their method of operating in a democratic country.

The editorial suggested several ways for Negro organizations to fortify themselves against Communist control.

Until April 18, 1948, I was a registered Republican despite loose reports to the contrary. I am now a member of the Independent Progressive Citizens Party.

WHY?

Because I had faith that the Republican Party, as I had been taught to believe, was my friend at the bar of justice and would in time strike the blow that would abolish a lynch law, destroy the poll tax, grant me equal educational opportunities, and destroy that damnable discrimination in all walks of life that keep me from attaining my full citizenship rights.

I feel that I express the sentiment of every good American when I say again that I am not in favor of any foreign government coming in and taking over our government. But I feel that the pink slip editorial sprinkled over an NAACP Executive Board meeting, is not the answer to our present trouble either in the United States or in the world.

For instance this pink editorial calls attention to how Communists "sweet talk" American Negroes, and "worm their way into Negro organizations to learn the inside workings and to control policy, to make these organizations follow the Communist line."

Aside from such vague accusations as those set forth in the pink editorial, at no time has even the Un-American Activities Committee found any cause for alarm due to Communist influence over Negroes to the end that they seek to overthrow their government.

The Negro's war record and outstanding loyalty to the government under all circumstances is ironclad proof that he realizes the value of his American citizenship. His only association with the so-called Communists is an association with a group of Americans who have studied the rise and fall of governments under Fascist rule, and have arrived at the conclusion that no government can practice bigotry and the pitting of one race against another on account of race, color, or nationality, and achieve the cherished goal of a pure democracy.

The Negro, with other unfavored minorities, is fighting to free himself from the lynch evil, the poll tax; the discrimination in labor, industry, public places of recreation, accommodation, and amusement.

The local NAACP has many problems as a result of the evils set forth here, that should engage its closest attention. Among them are discrimination in the educational system, police brutality, bad housing—this last that is especially the lot of the Negro people.

This Communist scare is a method of throwing sand in our eyes and confusion in our thinking, to keep us from sensing the real danger to our freedom.

The evils that continue to destroy the peace we fought wars to win, are still with us.

We must destroy them. We must be decisive and clear in our thinking and in charting our future course. Those leaders among us who betray us for money or power must be relegated to limbo.

Attorney Gordon Wins Difficult Civil Suit

LOS ANGELES (NPB)— An attempt on the part of a contractor to work a "racket" upon an unsuspecting home owner came to naught here in a Superior courtroom last Friday. It was a lucky day for Robert Dennis and his wife Evelyn R. Dennis, defendants in an action brought by Albert R. Goodel to recover $4,751.85, when they decided to let a court of law weigh the evidence in the case.

Goodell, head of the Atimite Associates of Los Angeles, sought first to force sale of the Dennis' property located at 2440 Santa Ana Blvd., to recover the sum of $4,751.85 in satisfaction of a mechanics lien, when the home owners allegedly failed to meet contractural obligations for that amount.

Attorney Walter L. Gordon Jr. appearing as counsel for the Dennis' argued that his clients had fulfilled every legal obligation to the Antimite firm. He said the Dennis' first contracted the firm for the purpose of making some repairs on their home and three other small buildings on their property. It was revealed that the parties had agreed on the contract fee of $3000.00.

It was also disclosed that at the time of the making of the contract March 20th, 1945, the Antimite firm had only a contractors license for a limited purpose. They were engaged in the business of pest control, and their scope of employment was ordinarily confined to structural operations incidental and supplemental thereto. Later the company did perform certain other contractural operations outside the scope of their legitimate authority of permit.

It was for the performance of these extra building operations, that the Antimite firm sought to collect the $4,751.85. They claimed a contract was entered into for the providing of extra materials, to make certain changes, alterations and improvement upon a dwelling house, a garage and an out-building.

Atty. Gordon asked the court to disregard the plaintiff's allegations on the grounds that his clients were not aware of illegality of that part of the transaction which the Antimite company had lured them, on the grounds that such actions might further incriminate them. He told the court to weigh the defense's contentions, that the contract insofar as that portion which was outside the scope of the plaintiff's license be voided.

Atty. Gordon asked the court to consider void such parts of the contract as ran counter and were in violation of the Federal board order. The Antimite firm had used material in making structural improvements upon the property, not authorized by the War Productions Board. After hearing all the arguments in the case Superior Court Judge Paul Vallee took the matter under advisement on May 19 last.

On May 21 Judge Vallee wrote his findings of facts and dismissed the action against the Dennis', informing the plaintiff Goodel and his associates, that "they take nothing." The points prayed for by Atty. Gordon on behalf of his clients were upheld by the Court.

Peace Offensive Accelerated By Wallace Letter

NEW YORK—An all-out campaign "to demand of President Truman, Secretary Marshall and Congress that peace talks with the Soviet Union be initiated at once" is announced by the National Wallace for President Committee in current edition of The Citizen, Wallace campaign paper.

The Russian proposal for a conference and Wallace's open letter to Stalin "give the American people an unrivaled opportunity to press the peace offensive," C. B. Baldwin, Wallace campaign manager, is quoted in The Citizen's lead article. Baldwin accused both old parties of opposing the rising peace offensive because "the prospect of a Russian-American settlement destroys the basis for the rearmament program being rushed through Congress."

The possibility of an understanding with Russia, Baldwin said, "would force both old parties to face the constructive demands of the American people for civil rights legislation, higher wages, price controls and housing. Reaction will do everything possible to stop . . . the snowballing sentiment in favor of accepting the Soviet bid for a conference," he warned. "Neither President Truman's statement nor Secretary Marshall's 'explanation' will stop it."

More Lighting Demanded in Local Barrooms

The City Council has unanimously adopted a report of the Public Health and Welfare Committee, of which Councilman Kenneth Hahn of the 8th District is Chairman, in regard to the cleaning up and having adequate lighting in all cocktail bars and restaurants and nightclubs in the City of Los Angeles.

Councilman Hahn, under instructions of the City Council, made personal investigations of all the cocktail bars in Los Angeles along with representatives of the Bureau of Street Lighting, the Department of Health, the Police Officials and other interested citizens.

After investigations from places on "skid row" in the vicinity of 5th and Main Streets to nightclubs in Hollywood and in all portions of the City of Los Angeles, Councilman Kenneth Hahn came to the conclusion that there is a serious problem in regard to the lighting of restaurants and barrooms in Los Angeles. Dimly lit barrooms present serious moral problems not only as a health measure but to the Police Department as well.

The Police Department submitted a report to Councilman Hahn showing that for the year 1947 there were 98,149 drunk arrests and that there were 42,937 individuals who accounted for the 98,149 arrests.

LABOR REPORT

ARTICLE V
PLEASE, MAY I FEED MY CHILDREN?

LAST HIRED—FIRST FIRED!

This is the sad four-word story of minority groups and the business of earning a living.

"White girl wanted . . ." "Gentiles Only . . ." These phrases are shockingly familiar in the want-ads of our newspapers.

The President's Committee on Civil Rights lets us know that such discrimination is not unusual—that it is a definite policy affecting millions of our fellow Americans in their basic right to earn a living.

In the last depression unemployment hit racial minorities five times as hard as other workers. Now, after the war, cut-backs are hitting such minorities twice as hard as other groups.

The Fair Employment Practice Committee, set up by President Roosevelt during the war and now dissolved, warned in its final report that "the wartime gains of Negro, Mexican American and Jewish workers are being lost through an unchecked revival of discriminatory practices."

Even in times of full employment discrimination is cruelly felt. Jews, Negroes, Mexicans, Indians . . . find it next to impossible to get jobs for which they are trained. Only one out of twenty Negroes get a skilled or professional or managerial job as compared to slightly less than one out of three white men. Railroads generally exclude Negroes from jobs as engineers or conductors. In a Chicago employment agency Jews were barred from 50 percent of executive jobs, 41 percent of male clerical jobs, 24 percent of female clerical jobs. And these are only a few random examples. . . .

How much do you earn? That, too, may depend on your race, your color, your religion.

Even during the war, in 1942, if John Doe, unskilled laborer, was a Negro his average wage was 47.4 cents an hour; if he was white it was 65.3 cents.

In 1940, Negro high school graduates earned only half as much as equally trained white men. The same was true for college graduates.

Once again, according to the President's Committee, our Federal government sets a poor example. Fully one-fourth of the complaints about employment practices made to the FEPC were directed against the government itself!

The best non-discrimination record is that of labor unions, but even they fall short of the goal. Six percent of the complaints were lodged against them. However, the AFL and the CIO, the Committee reports, have officially condemned job discrimination based on race or creed and are waging vigorous campaigns against it.

Can we control unfair employment practices? In wartime the FEPC proved that it was possible. Now, six states have legislation against discrimination in employment. The record of New York State alone proves how much can be accomplished.

In our remaining articles in this series we shall examine the Committee's report on abuses of rights in housing and education. Meanwhile, the report on employment is a challenge to every decent American. As the Committee shows, depriving our fellow workers of jobs for which they are fitted sets up a vicious circle: less wages . . . less purchasing power . . . fewer goods . . . then increasing unemployment all around.

It stands to reason, therefore, that every American is protecting his own best interest in fighting for adoption of the Committee's recommendations—an effective FEPC with clear legislative powers in the National Government and similar agencies in the states.

Hawkins' Record Wins Support Of Community

Augustus F. Hawkins, California's only Negro in the State Legislature, has won numerous community groups in his campaign for re-election to the Assembly, Tuesday, June 1. The latest to announce their support is the Ministers Alliance consisting of ministers of all denominations in the city. Previously, Hawkins' re-election was endorsed by both the CIO and AFL, the Railroad Brotherhoods, Affiliated Teachers Organizations, Parents Child Care Center Councils, the Business Men's Association and numerous others.

Hawkins' legislative experience and community activity were cited as being "unequaled and outstanding and his fearless and together with leadership, responsible for many gains in jobs, decent housing, civil rights, increased Old Age pensions and better living for all."

Augustus Hawkins

Because of his outstanding service, he has won both the Republican and Democratic party nomination for six successive times. At 39 he is a veteran of many political battles but proudly declares that he has never used a smear sheet or made a personal attack upon a political opponent. "I propose to keep on fighting for a program," says he, the people's program. Anyone who wants to contribute his services to this program will find me cooperative and on the pob."

See Police Graduate

Citizens in the southwest area of Los Angeles attended the graduation exercises of the new class of policemen held Wednesday afternoon at the Elysian Park Police Academy. Council-Police C. B. Horrall were hosts for the occasion following the man Don A. Allen and Chief of exercises. There was a spectacular demonstration of police methods.

Assemblyman Urges Ibanez Eelection

Assemblyman Augustus F. Hawkins strongly urges the election of Richard A. Ibanez as Judge of the Superior Court, office No. 21, in the June 1 elections. Stating that Ibanez is a young Mexican-American attorney and veteran who has been active on behalf of all minorities, Hawkins said Ibanez' candidacy is an important one to the Negro people.

"Because Ibanez is of a minority group himself," said Hawkins, "he has an understanding and sympathy with minority problems. If elected, he is determined to keep 'jim crowism' out of the courtroom by administering the law with a judicial respect for the rights of all people, regardless of income, color, race or creed. With Ibanez, there will not be two kinds of justice. There will be one kind—justice for all."

Labor Committee Supports Douglas

The Joint Labor Committee for the re-election of Helen Cahagan Douglas to Congress from the 14th District has issued an appeal to the voters to support Mrs. Douglas on the strength of her oustanding legislative record.

Released over the signatures of John H. Dial Jr., Director of Fair Practices and Anti-Discrimination for the CIO, and James H. Anderson, Chairman of the East-side Labor Committee of the AFL, the statement emphasizes Helen Gahagan Douglas' fight for rent control, her fight to have the Taft-Ellender-Wagner housing bill acted upon at this session by the circulation of the Douglas Discharge Petition, and her position on all labor.

Prominent Attorneys Endorse Judge Swain

Judge Frank G. Swain of the Superior Court has that combination of education, legal training, judicial experience and personality which make him a valuable public servant.

Judge Swain

He is a native of Los Angeles County; a graduate of the University of Southern California; a graduate of Oxford University (Honor School of Jurisprudence) where he studied three years as a Rhodes Scholar; and a veteran of World War I. He practiced law for fifteen years—first at Whittier, his home town, and then in Los Angeles.

Judge Swain, at 55, is in the prime of life. He is a candidate for re-election at the Primaries on June 1, 1948. He was overwhelmingly endorsed by the recent bar plebiscite in which all the lawyers of Los Angeles County were asked to vote, and he has the unqualified endorsement of the following lawyers:

Testimonial for Assemblyman

At a civic testimonial breakfast served in the Crystal Tea Room last Sunday, Augustus A. Hawkins, member of the California Assembly from the 62nd district, received sincere praise from leaders who represent the civic, political, business and professional world. Gilbert Lindsay served as toastmaster.

Among those who responded to Lindsay's introductions were: Assemblyman Vernon Kilpatrick, from the 55th district; Assemblyman Edward Elliott from the 44th district and Assemblyman Glenn M. Anderson, representing the 46th district. The latter, Assemblyman Anderson, introduced Assemblyman Hawkins, the honoree.

Others included Dr. P. Price Cobbs, Dr. H. Claude Hudson, Mrs. Charles Boyd of Sacramento; Richard (Dick) Abrams, of Oxnard; Mrs. Ruth Lybeck, member of Democratic County Central Committee and campaign manager of Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas for the 14th district; Mrs. Evelyn Chavoor, Mrs. Clare Towns I.P.P. chairman 62nd district, Attorney Herbert Greenwood, Attorney Everette M. Porter and Roger Q. Mason, member of the Democratic County Committee.

Council Seeks Summer Program For South Side

The Coordinating Council has discovered that the Board of Education has a special service division with funds available to set up a year 'round program for youth in the schools after regular hours to keep them off the streets and engaged in wholesome recreation. This program has been set up in many other communities for some time, and is one of the reasons the delinquency rate in those communities is not as high as that in the Southeast district. During the summer, this program is expanded to include many things like community sings, arts and craft shops, drama groups, sport events, trips to beaches and mountain camps, and excursion trips for education—all free to the youth. These schools are centers of a full program afternoon and evening with five and six paid workers giving full time with special training skills to do this job. In the Southeast community for the first time last summer, after much discussion with the principal, a program was started at Carver Junior High, but on a very restricted basis.

This summer, Mr. Paul Fisher and Mr. Buss are being asked to set up the program to meet the youths' needs for the summer. Special conferences have been hld in the respective principals' offices with Mr. Bell and Mr. Merkley from the Board of Education. So far there has been little success with these principals. They anticipate criminal acts on the grounds if an evening program is run by outsiders in spite of the fact that other communities operate without this experience and no questions have been asked.

An afternoon and an evening program are required at both schools with six trained workers, some of whom should me women to work with girls. It is expected that the youth of Carver and Jefferson will have some kind of job to keep them occupied during the day. The big question is what is to happen to them in the afternoon and evening.

Without the use of the schools for a program of this kind, these youths will seek their pleasures elsewhere and they may not be in a wholesome environment. They may spend their time at house parties and beach parties where adults contribute to the delinquency of minors.

The whole problem will be discussed at the South Central Coordinating Council meeting Thursday night, May 27, to be held at Vernon Library, 45th street and Central Ave. at 8 p.m.

Newest and one of the few Negro Federal Deputy Assistant Attorneys is George E. Cannady (right), whose appointment in Los Angeles has just been announced. Young Cannady is receiving congratulations from H. A. Howard, president of Broadway Federal Savings and Loan Association of Los Angeles, who worked aggressively in behalf of the appointment. Inset photos are of Helen Gahagan Douglas, California Congresswoman, who recommended the appointment to the Attorney General; and James Carter, Cannady's chief.

McKinley District Committee Meets

McKinley district executive committee, Boy Scouts of America, met at the home of Judge Edwin L. Jefferson, district chairman, last week. Those attending the meeting were H. O. Cook, assistant field commissioner; Charles E. Grose, neighborhood commissioner; A. L. Chester, assistant district commissioner, Lee T. Cecil King's Support Comes From All Sides

Re-election of Cecil R. King, congressman for the 17th District, is being supported by individuals and groups comprising virtually every segment of the diversified activities of the Greater Los Angeles Harbor and Southwest area, his supporters announced this week.

CECIL R. KING

King's unsurpassed record of service to his district and nation through four terms in the House of Representatives and his standing in official Washington circles as one of the best-informed and able legislators in the capitol, makes his value to his district of ever-increasing worth. The seniority King has gained enables him to achieve legislative and committee action favorable to those projects he forwards for the betterment of his district.

King has supported all veteran legislation and is now attempting to push forward a program for immediate and adequate housing.

Douglas Against Totalitarian Bill

In voting against the much-discussed Mundt Bill last week, Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglas of the 14th District, stated:

"This bill violates every criterion of democracy. It is so loosely drawn that it could easily be used in furtherance of thought-control and the setting up of a police state. In attempting to legislate against the totalitarianism which is abhorrent to us, we should not ourselves embrace the principles of totalitarianism. As a freely elected representative of free people, I should consider myself derelict in my duties if I voted for this measure."

Many leading newspapers and periodicals have quoted these words, adding their own hearty endorsement of the sentiments expressed.

Natural health giving herbs have been used in China for thousands of years to rid the human body of toxic matters which hinders the function of practically all the organs of the body. They are known to relieve ailments that have been slow to respond to other forms of treatment.

THE BIBLE STATES HERBS WERE PUT INTO THE GROUND AS AN AID TO MAINTAIN AND RESTORE HEALTH—CAN THERE BE A BETTER AUTHORITY OR RECOMMENDATION?

So regain health nature's way which is slow but sure. Try our pure Chinese herbs for natural results. Feel once again the vim, vigor, vitality of a normal functioning body. Why live just a half a life when nature intended you to have a full, rich, healthy, enjoyable existence free from aches and pain. When other methods fail do not give up hope of getting well. Your case may respond to herbs when everything else fails. Why continue to suffer when others are regaining health daily. A fair trial will convince the most skeptic unbeliever.

Judge Denies Woodard Appeal

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—Circuit Court Judge J. F. Bouchells, sitting in Kanawha County here, has denied the appeal of counsel for Isaac Woodard for a new trial of the action against the Atlantic Greyhound Bus Company. Woodard, a World War Two veteran, is attempting to recover $50,000 in damages from the bus company as compensation for the loss of the sight of both eyes, resulting from a beating he received from a police official after he was dragged from an Atlantic Greyhound Bus near here.

The appeal for the new trial was based on briefs filed by counsel for Woodard in which it was set forth that a member of the jury which tried the original action in November, 1947, had allegedly publicly expressed bias during the conduct of the trial. It is expected that some new strategy will be planned and carried out by Woodard's attorneys.

Wallace Boosts Chavez & Ibanez

Henry Wallace, speaking in Spanish to an audience of 8000 Mexican people in Lincoln Park stadium on Sunday afternoon, May 16, scored American imperialism in Latin America and urged the election, June 2, of those candidates who stood for the principles of the Independent Progressive Party.

Wallace spoke especially for the election of Richard Ibanez for pudge in office No. 21, and of Joe Chavez for assemblyman for the 51st Assembly District. The Amigos de Wallace, who were organized at the Lincoln Park meeting, urge all persons having any free time during the next few days should report to the Ibanez headquarters, 5425 Hollywood Blvd., or the Chavez hedquarters, 3946 Whittier Blvd. The immediate job is the election of these two men at the primaries.

Ibanez has been endorsed by the Interdenominational Ministers Alliance. The 62 Negro clergymen of all faiths in the Alliance support him because he has been a relentless foe of restrictive covenants, in comparison to the "incembent" who declared that those covenants were legal. Ibanez, a former union worker and a veteran of World War II, has campaigned against police brutality and for equal representation of all minority groups in government.

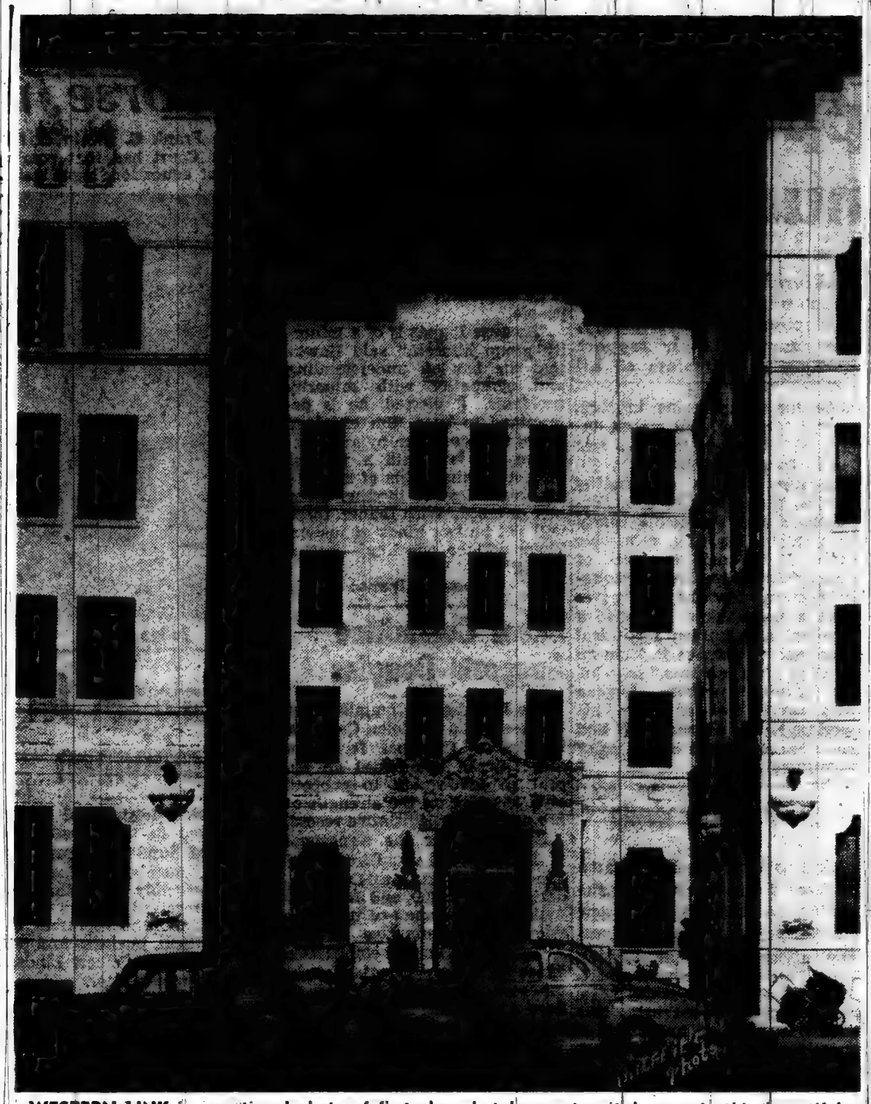
Housing Offer Made By State

Veterans and farmers in need of housing now can purchase from the State of California for less than $1,000 a "packaged" dwelling house unit of building materials cut from surplus barracks at Cafp Beale, near Marysville. Included in the price is a set of assembly drawings for use in arranging wall, floor and roof panels into the basic structure of a three-bedroom home with 1284 square feet of floor space.

The unit assembly plan for quick conversion of large, two story barracks into badly needed dwellings for returned veterans and their families and for farm labor housing is offered by H. H. Jaqueth, Chief of the Local Allocation Division of the State Department of Finance, in charge of the State War Surplus Housing Program.



By utilizing one of the packaged units, Jaqueth says, the purchasers obtain a livable, finished house for as little as $4,000, if he does most of the reconstruction work himself. The cost will range upward, of course, with outside labor and more ex- There is a small charge for load- pensive finishing materials. ing and transportation.

Assessment Bureau Gains Wide Acclaim

Successful methods used by Los Angeles in the operation of its assessment bureau, as an aid to property owners, have attracted the attention of many of the nation's major cities, it was announced recently by the Board of Public Works.

This bureau, the board states, is engaged exclusively in the special assessment field, and has nothing to do with general property taxes. It acts as agent for groups of property owners seeking the construction of local projects such as street paving, sewer lines, street lighting systems, etc. Petitioners are required to pay the costs of improvements benefiting local areas not considered the responsibility of the general taxpayer.

In the South, about 1,100,000 nonwhites have left farms—some to live in southern cities, and others to follow livelihoods in the North and West.

because of the excess poundage he was carrying. Jackie's failure to take off the excess weight is the point about which most of the talk is made, but it is believed there is an underlying reason for the sudden change of heart which has reportedly come over Rickey.

Denials are being reported second hand, but no direct statement to the press has come from either Rickey or Manager Durocher up to press time. Robinson has yet to comment on these reports. Waivers can range in meaning anywhere from a camouflage to a desire to sell. Whatever the purpose in this case, it is working havoc on the nerves of Robinson and those who sincerely desire to see him make good.

Smallwood Sells $300,000 Bldg. To Detroiters

Revival of the "Westward Ho!" trek is rapidly becoming the trend of Eastern and Midwestern men of business acumen. Giants, who helped to build up the great business institutions of the East, are journeying beyond their boundaries to give to the Negro people first class commercial establishments all over the country.

Latest of these are three prominent Detroit hotel operators. Walter Norwood, Robert Walker, and Clifton Smith last week completed an initial undertaking that will probably shake the business world. The trio bought a 90-unit hotel-apartment building at 1250 S. Western avenue.

Long recognized for his handling of particularly fine westside properties, P. R. Smallwood sold the building for $300,000. This investment will be a Western link in their plan to establish a chain of first-class hotels and apartments from coast to coast, including the South and Havana, Cuba.

SACRAMENTO — Chances of collecting full, damages for an automobile accident in which you were the victim will increase to four to one in your favor after July 1, A. H. Henderson, Director of Motor Vehicles, said in a radio address this week.

After that date, he explained, the new Motor Vehicle Financial Responsibility Law becomes operative. It requires persons driving in California to be prepared to pay for their traffic accidents or get off the highways. Chances are only one in three at present that you would be able to collect on any accident dafage judgment, Henderson said.

Strange Affair Ends in Murder

LOS ANGELES (NPB)—Truth, far stranger than fiction, fell from the lips of a woman police are holding on charges of having stabbed to death the woman with whom she had lived for five years in a strange love pact, during questioning at the death scene, 4443½ Avalon Blvd. last Tuesday night. The tale was related by Mrs. Ruth Mae Foster, 28-year-old waitress.

Mrs. Foster admitted to homicide detectives, that she stabbed her female paramour to death as she lay in bed, after being taunted about another woman. She admitted, she and the dead woman had developed a strange love following a meeting in a restaurant where she was employed in 1943. The unnatural relationship had lasted continually until the fatal stabbing. The deceased, portly, 45-year-old Mrs. Louise Ford, was the mother of four children.

Through her counsel, Attorney Walter L. Gordon Jr., Mrs. Foster said Mrs. Ford taunted her about her inability to provide her with money and told her of her intentions to go and live with another woman who, she said, had money and would be free with it.

"A strange frenzy came over me," the defendant related, "and I grabbed a steak knife and began stabbing her." An 18-year-old son of Mrs. Ford's attempted to come to the aid of his mother by dragging the infuriated woman off her. She died before medical attention could reach her. Lawrence ("Flying Ford") Ford, estranged husband of the dead woman, is in the east appearing with his dance act, known as the Rhythm Maniacs.

Building Construction Too Slow, Mayor Says

While Los Angeles leads the entire nation in residential construction, it is still failing to meet the greatest housing demand in the city's history, Mayor Fletcher Bowron announced last week.

The Mayor said the unprecedented influx of new residents and the normal community expansion have created a need for 4,136 new dwelling units each month, yet the average for the first four months of 1948 has been only 1,610 units.

"At the present rate of construction," the Mayor said, "it will take seven years to catch up with the shortage in Los Angeles."

JOIN MEMORIAL DAY CROWD AT VAL VERDE

Expenses Mount GI's Drop Out

"Veterans are dropping out of Los Angeles colleges and universities at an alarming rate—casualties of the high cost of living," Arthur H. Tryon, Director of the Los Angeles Veterans Service Center, revealed this week.

Upsetting all previous predictions of a steady rise until 1952, veterans enrollment has dropped 3 percent in the last year, Tryon says. "Subsistence allowances of ex-GI's have been far outstripped by cost of living increases," Tryon says, "and with part-time employment unavailable, veterans are rapidly being forced to abandon their college education."

• West View

When completed, West View will be the only class A hospital in the Southeast district. It will be located in an area where it will potentially serve an approximate 300,000 persons of all races, classes and faiths. It will be a seven story structure with bed accommodations for three hundred patients. Designed by Paul R. Williams, the hospital will have the most modern appointments.

Because of the powerful blow against intolerance that will be struck when West View is completed, the appeal for funds is being accelerated so that the building program will not be interrupted. Contributions can be sent to WEST VIEW HOSPITAL, 5334 Main Street, Los Angeles 37.

The list of officers of the Board, and volunteer workers and contributors reads like a comprehensive who's who in Los Angeles. It is the hope of the Board that everyone in Los Angeles will contribute some amount, however small, so that the spirit that prevailed at the ground-breaking ceremonies will grow and encompass the whole life of the city.

Highlight of Holiday Week Will Be Nati. Guard Program

Our next holiday is a three day week-end Saturday, Sunday and Monday, May 29, 30th and 31st. It is generally the occasion to honor some occasion or event and this year we have one. Under the heading of organization comes the 6th Engineer Combat Group of the California National Guard and the reason for their celebrating will be pointed out in this article.

Lieut-Colonel Frank W. "Pancho" Cleveland has prepared a program for those three days that is going to keep the enlisted and commissioned personnel busy showing to you, Mr. and Mrs. Public, what that group has and what it can do with it.

The Group just recently, March 25th, passed its first birthday as a member of the California National Guard. As a military organization its origin dates back to 1940 when it was preparing itself for the time when the National Guard was to leave the homeland. It stared as the California State Guard Officer's Candidate School and Col. Cleveland was one those attending along with others who have followed him right through the life of the group and who are still with him.

The first designated title was the 2nd Separate Batalion, created in the early part of 1941. The response to enlistments was so encouraging that the Adjutant General of California authorized the 7th Regiment which is the outfit that made good on their job and which is he real backbone o fthe 6th Engineer Combat Group. On December 7, 1941, the day of the attack on Pearl Harbor and not more than eight hours after the attack, the 7th Regiment was on post with about 200 men, some of whom are still with the group.

After the Seventh Regiment was mustered out of active service it was continued as a reserve organization until the entire state organization was reorganized afer the return of the National Guard, which absorbed all those emergency units created when the National Guard left the homeland. The Seventh was one of those units and is now known as the 6th Combat Engineer Group of the California National Guard.

Colonel Cleveland has made a wonderful success in recruiting and training his new organization which at the present time consists of a large number of young men who have had any kind of military training. The Colonel has a high grade staff of commissioned and non-commissioned, experienced personnel which has served him well and faithfully in the training of the young recruits. He feels highly enthused in these efforts and considers it an opportune time to take the unit on a bivouac—to you Mr. and Mrs. Public, a short training period—so the public may come and see and be proud of the colonel and the 6th Engineer Combat Group. The bivouac will be held at Val Verde Park on next Saturday, Sunday and Monday, May 29th, 30th and 31st with parades, exhibitions and ceremonies on each day.

Colonel Cleveland is very anxious to have every man, woman and child come and receive his report to the people, and there is no cost attached.

Council Plans Vet Job Training

The South Central Coordinating Council will hold its public meeting at the Vernon Library, 45th and Central, tonight (Thursday) at 8:00 p.m. sharp. The Council plans to set up an advisory committee of representatives of various trades practiced in the community, with the purpose of promoting on-the-job training opportunities for veterans.

Businessmen and merchants representing furniture, auto repairs, shoe repairs, photography, watchmaking and printing as well as several other fields have been invited to participate in the program. The CALIFORNIA EAGLE has been invited to cooperate as a representative of the newspaper and printing business.

son's part in the "conspiracy" union-busting against the Hollywood strikers and his failure to investigate and prosecute Officer William Keyes, now on trial for manslaughter of Augustino Salcido only because of action taken by Judge Stanley Moffatt.

The rank and file statement charged that the main consideration in making endorsements by the group of Regional CIO officials was opposition to the candidacy of Henry Wallace and the Third Party.

The majority of delegates to the Los Angeles CIO Council have refused to condemn Wallace and the Third Party but rather have taken no position on either matter, but left the question of the presidential race to the individual unions for their own action.

Satisfied with nothing short of placing the CIO in the camp of Truman or Eisenhower to use it as the main weapon against the Third Party movement, the Regional CIO officials engaged in a walk-out of the CIO Council and forced their delegates from CIO unions to withdraw from the Council.

Since last week's edition of the EAGLE, some of the leaders of the Zusman-Despol group have attempted to bring pressure on several signers of the statement in an effort to obtain repudiation. This campaign was met with stubborn indignation by the CIO members signing the statement which supported the Los Angeles CIO Council endorsements.

Taylor Scores Racial Bias, Bill to Stop Segregation In Washington Schools

Branding racial segregation os "one of the most viciously un-American activities being practiced in American today," Senator Glen Taylor, Henry Wallace's running mate for vice-president, has introduced in the Senate a bill to prohibit the practice in Washington, D. C. schools.

The bill, a campaign measure to one (HR 6488) introduced by Rep. Arthur G. Klein (D-N.Y.) would direct the District of Columbia Board of Education to permit no segregation of persons in the public schools because of race, color, creed, national origin or ancestry. Taylor introduced the bill on May 17.

Senator Taylor said the recent action of Dr. William Jansen, New York Superintendent of Schools, in cancelling a trip to Washington by 51 outstanding New York schoolboys, pointed up the problem anew.

"Those boys had been selected because they were outstanding in safety patrol work," Senator Taylor said, "Four of their number were Negroes. Superintendent Jansen found that if he took his boys to the nation's capital they would be subjected to segregation. They could not eat in the same public restaurants. They could not be put up at the same hotels. He apparently decided that it would not be an inspiring demonstration in American democracy and so the trip was cancelled.

"Dr. Jansen's decision was the only one possible for any official who believes that the constitution and American principles mean what they say.

"I should like to make it possible for Americans to hold their heads high and act like Americans at least in their nation's capital. Further, I should like to make this possible throughout our great land, but surely we must start in the showplace of the United States—at the very seat of our government."

• Yergan Misused

directly based upon Yergan's change on questions he had previously supported. It is charged that he repeatedly accused Council members who insisted upon the defense of the African people with "communism."

Reference is made to the press conference held by Dr. Yergan on April 5 last when a statement by Yergan (which subsequently gained wide attention) that the controversy in the Council was based upon differences between alleged pro-Wallace and anti-Wallace groups within the membership. The petitioners point out that this statement is utterly without foundation since the issue of Council support for Mr. Wallace's candidacy has not been raised in any Council meeting or proposed by any official or member of the Council.

Yergan is accused of having police occupy tht premises of the Council during the meeting on February 8 last, and it is charged that he has not put forth any constructive program in the past five months.

Prominent among the charges is the one that accuses Yergan of co-mingling, "in substantial amounts . . . funds of the Council . . . with his personal funds." It is directly stated that he mortgaged the organization's property in order to obtain a loan of $5,500 ($5427 net) and then co-mingled the proceeds from the loan with personal funds in his private bank account.

It is further charged that an examination of the records by the finance committee revealed that Yergan failed to send any funds whatever to Africa out of contributions totalling $1,882.03; for the period of December 1945 to 1947 during a campaign for famine relief, Yergan is charged with having actually sent only 25% of the $8,918.56 collected despite published pledges that contributions to the fund would be forwarded to Africa.

Disruptive practices ranging from locking members out of the Council office to failure to carry out decisions reached at formal meetings of the Council, form a major part of the complaint. It is expected that the Council will convene soon and act upon the charges, copies of which have been mailed to the membership all over the world.

THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE

The Century of Peace

"There is no misunderstanding between the USA and the USSR which can be settled by force or fear, and there is no difference which cannot be settled by peaceful, hopeful negotiations."

So declared Henry Wallace, candidate for president on the Independent Progressive Party ticket, in an "Open Letter to Premier Stalin." Wallace hails the fact that letters were exchanged by Ambassador Bedall Smith and Foreign Minister Molotov as an open door to the negotiations which should have been held long ago. This door must not be closed, but must be followed by a meeting, says Wallace, and suggests some steps to be taken to achieve that peace which all the peoples of the world have been hoping for and praying for.

First thing, the "Cold War" must stop. There must be a general reduction in armament, the export of weapons by any nation to any other nation must be stopped, there must be a resumption of unrestricted trade between Russia and the United States, the resumption of free exchange of scientific information and scientific material between the two nations, the re-establishment of a reinvigorated UNRRA, or the constitution of some similar relief agency for Europe; and the free movement of citizens, students, and newspaper men between the US and the USSR.

Then striking at the core of the differences between the two countries, and in fact the cause of the dispute between the administration in Washington and the liberal forces in the United States itself, Wallace said: "Neither the USA nor the USSR should interfere in the internal affairs of any other nations. Neither the USA nor the USSR should terrorize the citizens of member states of the UN by massing land forces, establishing air bases, or making naval demonstrations. Neither the USA nor the USSR should use financial pressure, economic pressure or the pressure of secret agents to obtain political results in other countries."

The maximum amount of help should be given Europe as promptly as possible, within the framework of the UN, says Wallace. A speedy peace should be made with Germany and Japan, and peace in the Far East. To promote that peace in the Far East, "Neither the USA nor the USSA nor the USSR should send arms to China. Both the USA and the USSR should withdraw troops from both China and Korea. Both the USA and the USSR should refrain from interference in the internal affairs of China."

So far as the fear of Russia dominating the world, held by many of the people of the USA, and the fear held by the Russian people that the US is planning to invade Russia—these fears can be allayed by each nation stating categorically that it has no design on the territory of any other nation in the world.

So far as the different ideologies of the two countries are concerned, Wallace sees there a "never-ending competition." But this does not mean that the two nations cannot live together in peace. Both nations must see to it that this competition is constructive, and eventually the people of both countries will be able to decide for themselves which system they wish to follow—Communism or Capitalism.

"There is no American principle or public interest, and there is no Russian principle or public interest which have to be sacrificed to end the cold war and open up the Century of Peace which the Century of the Common Man demands," is the ringing statement with which Wallace concludes his open letter to Stalin.

That letter has been received favorably by Stalin and the Russian people, we understand. It is open and fair and square and above board, The American people, too—weary of the talk of war, bewildered, confused—can turn to this statement of principles and feel that in the person who wrote them they have a leader which will take them to peace Henry Agard Wallace is that leader.

A Step Long Overdue

Secretary of State George Marshall is conferring with top United Nations officials about the troublous little state of Israel. There are growing indications, it is said, that the United States will use strong methods against the Arabs for refusing to agree to the UN's appeal for a truce in Palestine.

It is high time that something drastic is done.

Finding a Way

Such editorial comment as this published in the May 23 issue of the Chicago Sun-Times is the stuff that breaks down racial discrimination in busness, and is without any doubt the remedy, if used, that will insure complete citizenship to all Americans.

It is the material that builds the bridges that span the gaps and unites American citizens of every race, creed, and national origin into one wholehearted citizenry of the greatest nation on earth.

A slim, trim young woman stood up. She faced a banquet audience of 500. On her head she "modeled" a new-type leightweight telephone operator's headset and mouthpiece. A photographer flashed her picture.

Other telephone company employes stood up to take bows. There was telephone shop talk among the diners. The orchestra played "The Bell Waltz," theme song of the radio Telephone Hour.

Dapper, grey-haired G. K. McCorkle, president of the Illinois Bell Telephone Company, left his place at the speakers' table and made the rounds of tables. He chatted with many old friends and associates.

What made this particular dinner different from most such one-big-happy-family affairs put on by large companies was the fact it wasn't a company dinner. It was staged by the Chicago Defender, Negro newspaper. Most of the guests and telephone workers were Negroes.

Occasion was the presentation to the company, represented by McCorkle, of the annual Robert S. Abbott Memoral Award for significant contributions to civic and inter-racial progress. Abbott was founder of the Defender.

The telephone company was picked for the award because it long has had a program integrating Negroes into its personnel structure. Last fall it began a new program of employing Negro girl operators. How successful Illinois Bell has carried out the program seemed plainly apparent at the dinner. The evident good fellowship of Negro and whie company workers, who broke bread together, was something that could come only from satisfactory daily working conditions.

Other companies might profit by studying its methods. Sidney Williams, executive secretary of the Chicago Urban League, says racial discrimination by employers costs the nation's business $4 billion annually. Illinois Bell's McCorkle puts it this way:

His company can give the best possible service by hiring the best possible employes. And that means it must hire the best possible person for the particular job without regard to race, creed, or color. It's "good business" as well as good "corporate citizenship." In practice, that means a "tough" hiring practice. Most applicants—white and Negro—get turned down. One out of six women interviewed is hired. One out of ten men makes the grade.

Some companies hestitate to hire new employes with regard to race or creed because they wonder whether older employs will "get along" with qualified workers who are Negroes or Jews or Catholics, or Poles, Italians or other nationalities and creeds. The argument usually is that "You can't force people to like other people," either by statute or company edict.

That's true. But the argument also assumes most of our citizens have racial prejudices. Experience in the Illinois Bell company has shown that isn't necessarily so.

In accepting the Abbott award, McCorkle told his mixed audience about an incident which furnished a key to his company's success. It happened shortly after some Negro telephone operators were hired and trained. A customer was placing a long distance call. McCorkle related:

"After the operator had taken the called number, the customer asked, 'How do you like working with those Negro operators?' 'Why all right,' said the operator, 'You see, — I AM a Negro.'"

The audience laughed, but McCorkle motioned for silence.

"That's not the point," he went on, "The point is, she wasn't a Negro. She was a white operator. In my opinion, this employe was just acting like a good citizen' should, though I'll admit she was stretching the rules a bit by talking with customers. But she was striking a personal blow against selfish prejudice."

We have come a long way in human relations when the president of a public utility can tell a story like that. He gives us all a new kind of test of good citizenship.

A complete citizen is one who does more than pay his taxes and stay out of trouble. A "good citizen" understands that he must help make his community a better place in which to live. He knows it can not be a good place for HIM or any ONE unless it is a good place for EVERY one.

It can not be a good place in which to raise a family if some citizens are denied chances to use their talents and skills to earn livings because their skins or creeds are "different" from the majority. A community or nation can not waste its most precious resource—people—by failing or refusing to use them.

A program of economic and civil rights can operate only if the people of a community want it to operate. There are many signs that more people in Chicago are coming to realize the importance of such a program to everyone.

It is a long slow process. McCorkle's experience convinces him it takes patience, understanding and wise policies to bring about the kind of progress that is lasting. Stories about such progress do not make big headlines, but in years to come what American business is accomplishing in human relations will be one of the big stories of our time.

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

The hopes, the dreams, the prayers of thousands of years realized at last! At long, long, last!

"Two thousand years is a long time to wait," declared Eddie Cantor who acted as master ofeceremonies at the gigantic rally held in Hollywood Bowl, Wednesday evening, May 19. The rally was only one of many sponsored by Jewish organizations all over the world to celebrate the re-birth—nay, the resurrection—of Israel.

And that resurrection came with the blare of war trumpets, with bombs falling, with rifle shots and cannon roaring. The Declaration ofIndependence, proclaimed in Tel Aviv on May 14, just after the English troops—or at least some of them—had sailed away to leave Palestine to take care of her own affairs, reflects vividly the fact that the authors of the Declaration knew full well it meant struggle and hardships, tears and even blood, before the new little state of Israel could be firmly established among the nations of the world.

"Exiled from Palestine, the Jewish people remained faithful to it in all the countries of their disperson, never ceasing to pray and hope for their return and restoration of their national freedom," says the Declaration in summing up the history of the Children of Israel:

The name Israel, you know, means "Striver with God." According to the old story, Jacob wrestled with God all night and would not let Him go until He blessed him. His name was changed then from Jacob to Israel, "For as a prince hast thou power with God and with men, and hast prevailed."

That stubborn tenacity of purpose has been transmitted to the descendants of Jacob, all down through these thousands of years. They have never given up the hope, the determination of some day returning to the Land of Promise and making it once more their home.

Yet that little strip of land along the eastern shores of the Mediterranean Sea, has been almost the home of war instead of peace as one might expect it to be. It was born in war, in conquest, when Joshua, taking over upon the death of Moses, led the Children of Israel into the land of Canaan and conquered that country for the Israelites.

That was something like 3400 years ago. But even as conquerors, there was dissension and anarchy and a constant struggle with the powerful Philistines. Israel was taken captive by Babylon, by the Romans, by the Turks. Her children have been scattered as if by the wind to every part of the world.

Yet Israel has always prevailed. Israel has never given up praying and hoping and believing that some day somehow her children would some day be restored to their ancient home.

And now that day has come! And May 14, 1948, will be a day long remembered in history as one of the most significant days of the world.

Yet even the children of Israel celebrate, and the girls and boys dance in the streets and sing the songs taught them by their fathers and mothers through generations of patient waiting, the black bird of fear and war flaps its wings over their rejoicing. We read the headlines the following day: 4000 Jews Battle 40,000 Arabs! A mere little handful, fighting the world!

But Israel has been delivered before them, its enemies poured like a flood upon them. Israel will be delivered again. We know.

"For," said Reuven Danfi, combat officer in the ranks of Haganah, Israel's Army of Defense, "however powerful our enemies are, they do not have Haganah."

Haganah, which represents the spirit of Israel; the long patient waiting, at last released into action; the players uttered by millions of lips through centuries of repression, to be answered at long last by Israel itself.

That is Israel today. And as you listen to the words of hope, the songs of rejoicing welling up from throats so long used to the wails of agony, as you note the grim determination in the faces about you; as your own eyes cloud over with tears, and a strange lump arises in your own throat, you know Haganah will win.

Hail, to thee, Israel! We salute thee! Jew and Gentile, Protestant and Catholic, men and women and children of America and all of the world, we salute thee! And wish thee well!

Don't forget to drop into the office of The California Eagle, 4071 South Central avenue, and get your copy of STORIES FROM THE WORKINGMAN'S BOOK by Marian Inglewood. The STORIES are taken from the Bible, the Workingman's Book, and interpreted from the point of view of the worker. Only a few copies left. Come and get your before they are gone.

Free Movies Friday

Breasted Jr., Museum director. Admission is free.

Jackie Needs You Now

Slowly we ascend. But the rapidity with which we descend is indescribable. A plane takes off across the field, dips its wings, and takes the air.

A few months ago we went into ecstasy when the Brooklyn Dodgers broke down its color bar, and appointed our Jackie Robinson to a place on the team.

Jackie was hailed by all, but especially wined and dined by his own people.

Today a report by The Daily Mirror said that President Branch Rickey of the Dodgers was displeased with Robinson's slowness or reluctance to get himself down to his normal playing weight and that a waiver was being asked on the $10,000 salaried Negro Dodger's star player.

We do not want to be over sentitive in this case. But some one has said, "Experience is the best teacher."

We know that too often flimsy excuses are used to declare Negroes in such spots as the one held by Jackie, to be incompetent, lazy, fat, or a little too dark to pull down $10,000 annually.

It seems unreasonable to believe that young Jackie Robinson, knowing that the chips are down on him, would not hasten to put himself in shape.

Now, Jackie did not need all the flare and dash, the wave of excitement we placed on his appointment. But he does need our alertness at this moment to see that justice and not prejudice in this present deal is done.

Cave Dwellers of Today

A strange story comes from Italy, of hundreds of people living in caves near the city of Naples, afraid of coming out into the light. Afraid of being bombed. Afraid of shells. Or guns. Of war.

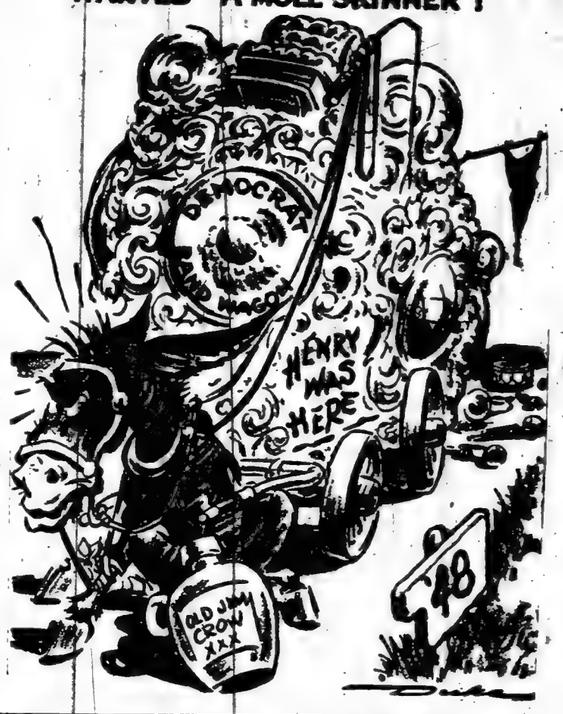
There are more than 100 caves in the hillsides about Naples, some of them dug 2000 years ago by men mining stones for building. During the war, whole families escaped to these caves.

They are still there. Babies have been born there. They too are afraid of light. Of crowded places. Of being killed by shot or shell.

Roy A. Welker, a veteran of America's Congregational Chirstian Service Committee, and director of the Italian Service Mission of Naples, is doing his best to rehabilitate these most miserable of Naples' thousands of homeless war victims. He has 38 Italian, three American, and two British welfare assistants. And a very limited budget to work with.

These miserable creatures are the result of a cruel war, not of their making. It came, however, while the people of Italy generally were sleeping. While they were listening to the loud mouthings and boastful speeches of a little dictator named Mussolini.

Mussolini's line, like that of his friend Adolph Hitler, was "Destroy Communism." He told the people of Italy lies about the horrible evils of Communism, and the mad orgies that Communists perform.



The Italian people swallowed those lies. They hung upon Mussolini, as the German people hung upon Hitler, as if he were their Messiah. They never took the time or the trouble to do any thinking for themselves. And so they were led into the trap, and into their present miseries.

There is almost a similar condition in America today. The Communist boogy is being aroused to frighten everyone who doesn't take too much time to think for himself. Yet we here in America have libraries, and books, and a few good newspapers.

We need not be misled. If we are, if we believe those lies about the USSR, about the dangers of Communism, the silly lie that USA is in danger of attack from USA—will we become cave dwellers a few years hence as those poor frightened people of Italy are?

Ballot Is Your Weapon

Next Tuesday you have an opportunity to do something about this. It is reported that a certain gentleman, not of the Negro race, approached an incumbent judge and asked his opinion of the Federal Court's decision on property restrictions. It is said that the jurist reply was "now that means the N——s can live next door to me, and I don't like that."

W. J. Wheaton Says

"Were you there when they nailed Him to the Cross?" That sweet, mellow voice which entranced me was singing that beautiful spiritual, "The Crucifixion." Any other time we would have waited through, but we had a very strenuous day, and to be truthful, we had been thinking of the supper that was waiting. Aside from that, it was one of those foggy, chilly evenings when a fellow is more inclined to think of material comforts than of a spiritual uplift, so there was no delay in making our presence known.

"You look tired, and I know you're hungry. I'll be ready in a jiffy," she said. The aroma that greeted our olfactory senses only whetted our appetite, and we refrained from opening conversation, answering her questions with monosyllables. The appetite having been assuaged and the table cleared, we felt in mood for a chat. After telling her of some of the experiences of the day, some of them humorous, she said:

"The girls, Mary Ann and her school friends, were talking about some man saying that if there was another war, the Negro men ought to refuse to fight unless they were put in the same ranks beside the white soldiers, and one of the teachers said that would be treason, or some such word as that; now what do you think? As for me, I think it's the wrong idea, as I told Josh, my Mary Ann's man, when he was put in the army, you can't win a fight by running away from it. You have to show the white man that you can fight as good as he can, and you ain't no more afraid to die than he is.

Mary Ann seemed wrapped up in her subject so we did not interject any comment. She continued, "When there's a racket in my church I don't believe in quitting the church, but I stay and fight it out right then and there. I'm really proud of my Colored soldiers, and when they do something great I have to say that Colored soldiers did it.

"Why Mary Ann, my granddaughter, was reading some verses about the Black Regiment, and the Old Flag never touched the ground to her classmates and lots of things about Black soldiers and I felt mighty proud. When they give something at the school, Mary Ann is going to recite those pieces, and you can bet I'll be there."

"So will I," we said.

"You have to use your head as well as your tongue sometimes," she continued. "Some folk think they know everything and it makes them flipity flippity. I think the man who is telling us not to fight unless we fight beside or in the same regiments with white men, should use persuasion and argument; if he's right he'll win.

"You just sit there and you never say one word, and me just spouting like sin. It's no use," she continued. "It's no use trying to dictate to Uncle Sam and tell him what you will and will not do. There are bigger folks than us who tried it and they didn't get away with it either. There are some folk who think they're so smart they're stupid; they think because you don't have any sense. It's real funny to hear them talk about something you have already figured out with common sense.

"What's that you said once about what the Chinaman or somebody said: 'If you fool me once, Shame on you, but if you fool me twice, Shame on me.' Well, I guess most of us have been fooled more than one time because, being honest, we believe others are honest. I brought that to mind when I was fixing the apples for your pie. I know you like apple pie so I try to get the best apples. I pick them out and when I peel them, I find some highly polished ones were rotten at the core. There are a lot of folk who smile and make you believe you're great; they all don't mean you any good.

"Now, take you. I'll bet, no I'll not bet because I belong to Church and Church folk are not supposed to bet, but I'll say you've been thinking the same as I. Mary Ann tells me that the girls in her class have formed a club that will include all racial types. She says that some of the colored girls don't want to join; they all would rather stick together. I think that's wrong; don't you?

"The more we know about each other the more likely we are to understand each other. That's what the folks I cook for say. What's that you once said about some soldier's lady? 'The Colonel's Lady and Julia O'Grady are sisters under the skin.'"

I said, "Yes that's it."

"The folks I cook for say there are bad white folks just the same as any other folks, and all Colored folks aren't bad because they are Colored. I think this Club that Mary Ann tells me about is one of the best things that could happen. After all, it's the young folks who will live together when we're gone. One thing that's wrong, and I haven't got any book learning; if this country wants to teach other people how to live in peace, they have to teach the folks 'Back Home' how to behave themselves and stop their mistreatment of the Colored folks. As the Good Book says, 'First take the beam out of your own eye that you can better see the mote in your brother's eye.' Did I say that right?"

We had to acknowledge fallibility, and as far as we knew, she was correct. I see a lot, and like the highly polished apple, there's many a mink coat covering a rotten inside.

"Bless your soul, here I been preaching and you haven't said one word." We told her she was worth while listening to, and that she was looking at things from a viewpoint of personal observation, and that after all, observation is the open sesame. We wished to record her opinions; her attitude to, and of life. She had said some useful sayings, that verge on the philosophical. After this, she will do the talking.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I like your paper. You handle news so well. For instance, you describe what the Mundt Bill is, who its sponsors are, where favor and resistance come from. You enlighten your readers in such clear language. We are proud of you that you were chosen as a speaker at the Wallace meeting.

I enclose a quotation from Ortega Y. Gasset's book "Revolt of the Masses":

"Humanity splits into 2 classes of creatures, those who make demand on themselves, piling up difficulties and duties; and those who demand nothing special of themselves, but for whom to live is to be every moment what they already are without imposing on themselves any efbouys that float on the waves."

I know you belong to the first class.

Sincerely,

Looking at World War 3

BY PAUL FRENCH

What will the next war look like? That question keeps millions worrying.

Well, various writers have explored the prospects, and I shall only gather them together and sort of summarize them. Firstly, the Soviet Union will NOT START any war. All attempts of American brass hats to make you believe it, is just so much eyewash put out to get you to support American aggression; to try to justify America starting it.

Sure, our military-fascists, for that is what they are, will try to frame up something; just as we ourselves blew up the battleship Maine in Havana harbor in 1898, to justify Will Street imperialism's first big imperialist grab for McKinley's "manifest destiny" in the war against Spain.

Don't be fooled by such age-old tricks. For it is plain that all of our most reckless military men are wildly eager to get a war going against the Soviet Union while we have the atom bomb and the USSR hasn't got it. Or, at least, we think the USSR hasn't got it.

Suppose we were mistaken about that? Then our atomic first attack would fully justify the Soviet Union before the world's peoples in pouring upon us the utmost destruction it could deliver, by atom bambs or anything else—and there just might be something even worse. Doctors already are warning us that "huge numbers" of us would "get us."

Professor J. B. S. Haldane, British scientist, says: "Many of those who survive the blast and heat of an atomic bomb die later, because their skin ceases to grow and they become a mass of ulcers. Those who absorb radio-strontium are likely to die of bone cancer. Radio-active dust and gas cause lung cancer and fatal anemia. Children are likely to suffer worse than adults."

Doctors here plan to "concentrate help on those who have a chance to live." That means, they will just let the rest of us die; or mable give us a shot of morphine to ease the pain, or . . . just a shot. . . So says Major General Grow, chief surgeon of our Air Force. Nice prospect!

French scientist, Mme. Joliot-Curie thinks maybe we won't have to worry, because the whole darned earth will bust wide open. She points out that what Joseph Alsop (L. A. Times May 6) speaks cheerfully about as America's "knock out blows" on Soviet cities, will knock out us, also.

The terrific force of hundreds of atom bombs thrown against one side of the earth, she declares, may very well knock this earth (1) into small pieces, or (2) knock it out of its orbit and send it spinning off somewhere else, with our famous "California climate" turned to one hundred degrees below zero, or, conversely, driven closer to the sun, where our earth will all burn up in the twinkling of an eye.

All this shows you just what kind of irresponsible maniacs are those military idiots who are so eager to use the atom bomb on Russia that they don't give a hoot what happens to the rest of us, so long as they "stop Communism." If the American people don't put such homicidal maniacs in the lunatic asylum, instead of in the War and State Departments, they'll "stop" everything.

Even the simultaneous explosion of hundreds of atom bombs in Russia, Mme. Curie explains, would certainly release such a vast mass of poisonous radio-active clouds that, as the world turned on its axis, we, here in America, would be killed just as dead as if we were in Russia, by this poison spreading around the world.

Much the same fate would befall us if we tried germ warfare. Prof. Haldame says "there is great danger that such weapons may backfire." Does the American people want to commit suicide, en mass, to help Wall Street "stop Communism?" Do YOU want to die? If so, all you have to do is to sit on your sitter, and remain indifferent, interested in the "box score" or "the comics" or "the new look," while military maniacs turn this fair earth into a hell.

Writing in a little magazine "Simplified Economics" published in Kansas City, George H. Shoaf explains how America can lose the war, even if the USRR does NOT have the atom bomb and even if the earth can survive the blast Mme. Curie fears it can not survive. He forsees the inability of American planes to drop atom bombs on Soviet cities, because those cities will be "ringed with spitfires and jet planes" which will shoot down our atomic-bomb-carrying B-29s and slow-flying other bombers.

There seems to be much truth in this surmise that Soviet air defense will defeat our atomic bomb attacks on vital Soviet centers. Two important facts recently leaked out indicating this to be true. First, the U. S. Air Force has been sending mass flights of B-29s in "surprise flights" over Europe clear to Cairo. By arrangement with the British, they tried to make a sham "surprise attack" on London just to see if they could destroy London with atomic bombs.

Well, sir, on reaching Cairo, the American air men "wouldn't talk." But, over in London, the British air force boasted that it "licked the stuffing" out of these U. S. B-29s, even though the Americans came in a great height to avoid detection. British jet planes caught them in time and theoretically shot them down before they go over London at all.

Loaded B-29s, or any such heavy bombers, cannot travel much more than 400 miles an hour, while British jet planes go over 600. So, they just ran circles around our B-29s and shot them down. Well, U. S. militarists are now beating the British with jet planes making about 650 miles an hour. But we haven't got many and these are more or less experimental.

What have the Russians got? I don't know, but there was a report from the U. S. military in Korea, saying that American Army radar had observed Soviet jet planes going at the unheard-of rate of 840 miles an hour, and clocked them, by accurate radar measurement, at that speed! Shoaf's idea that Soviet jet planes can easily defeat a U. S. attempt to bomb Soviet centers looks rather reasonable.

Soviet air defense certainly stopped Hitler's Luftwaffe from doing even half as much damage to Moscow as it did to London. And for Will Street's Air Force to fail to effectively destroy Soviet centers with our boasted atomic bombs would be utter defeat of itself. It is to be noted here, that the Soviet Union shows not the least fear.

What retaliation the Soviet Air Force might visit upon us is something I wouldn't guess. Whatever it would be, we would have asked for it and deserve it, for letting our military maniacs run amok. Shoaf explains very simply how America will lose the war, and how "Russia will win the war without the atomic bomb."

But you and I won't be around to see it. We'll all be dead, including those of you who are too interested just now in betting on the ponies to pay any attention to anyone who tells you to muzzle our mad-dog militarists or die.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mrs. Bass:

I saw a copy of the Eagle today and I want to express the appreciation of our entire membership for the coverage you gave our strike. It is certainly gratifying to know that we have such good and staunch friends in the editorial field, as yourself.

We figure to be in this strike for some time. Every indication shows that the Chrysler Corporation is out to smash our Union and in that way to begin the drive to cripple organized labor throughout the Nation.

We know that in order to win this battle, we have to count on friends outside as well as inside the Labor Movement. We are appealing for aid from any and all sources.

I am enclosing a copy of our strike bulletin and some other material which we have used on our picket line. We will send to you, from time to time, news releases, etc. and hope that you will be able to find some use for them in such a way as to help us too.

Sincerely,

Dear Madam:

I take the privilege today of sending you this magazine that tells a little of the great work that we, the Seventh-Day Adventists, are doing in all the world to help humanity. Each year we call on our friends to assist us with an offering; and I trust that you may be impressed by the spirit of God to assist in this great work, for which, I am sure, you will be amply rewarded. I hope to make a personal call on you sometime next week.

Selective Twelve Plans Affairs

The Selective Twelve Club of Girls held their business meeeting in the home of the business manager, Dorothy Harris, 1523 E. 122nd Place.

The progressive organization announced two important events for the near future: First, an "In and Out Patio Party" will be given Saturday, May 29, from 9 p.m. until ?, at 12809 Stanford Avenue.

Next, their eagerly awaited annual affair will be staged in June at the Zinda Ballroom, 7th and Figueroa. It will be semi-formal, and will aim to be the crowning social event of the season.

The "Twelves" will meet Sunday, May 23, with the vice president, Helen Hayman, 9318 Parmelle, with details for these forthcoming events on schedule.

Mayor O'Dwyer of New York is quoted as having said: "Nobody in his right mind would support the Mundt Bill."

The Kingdom of Sweden occupies the eastern part of the Scandinavian peninsula in northwestern Europe, which it shares with Norway. Although of broken, mountainous topography, Sweden has much productive land, and is well known the world over through her forest products. Textiles, iron and mechanical industries are also important among its exports. With an area of 173,347 square miles she has a population of approximately 7,000,000 inhabitants. The Government is a constitutional monary with a two-chamber Parliament known as the Riksdag. Sweden is represented at the United Nations Headquarters by an Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotenciary, Mr. Gunnar Hagglof. The Swedish flag is blue with a yellow cross.

POTPOURRI

Raymond C. Parker, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress, 18th District, Long Beach, says that thus far his expenses for the campaign amount to less than $500, all of which except $5, he paid out of his own pocket. For this reason, he says, "if elected, I will be one of the freest and most independent men ever to occupy a seat in Congress."

The United States now has about one-half the wealth of the world, and over half of its productive capacity, he points out. "I lies in our power to make of this country a veritable paradise on earth. We can do this if we will develop the vision, the courage and the strength to place effective curbs on human greed, and at the same time adopt a far more liberal and generous attitude toward our fellow man."

The California Eagle recommends the following candidates on the Independent Progressive Party ballot, to be voted on next Tuesday:

Congress, 14th District, Sidney Moore; Assembly, 62nd District, Augustus F. Hawkins; County Committee, Albert Patrick, George W. Cofield, Charlotta A. Bass, Virginia Callicoatte, and Clara Towns.

The EAGLE is not unfriendly to Helen Gahagan Douglas for Congress, however. But she has filed only on the Democratic and Republican tickets. So if you are registered Democrat or Republican, vote for her.

There'll be a political party this evening (Thursday) at the John Burroughs Junior High school for Mrs. Phyllis Ziffren, candidate for Congress 16th district. Both candidates have filed on both the Independent Progressive and the Democratic tickets.

Burroughs Jr. Hi is located at McCadden and Wilshire. The meeting will begin at 8 p.m. Ed Mosk will be chairman.

That was a swell rally staged by the Long Beach Branch of the National Negro Congress last Tuesday evening. It was addressed by Judge Stanley Mosk and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, editor and publisher of The California Eagle, who told their audience in no uncertain terms of the dangers of fascism threatening America.

The housing shortage is especially acute in Long Beach. Both Mrs. Bass and Judge Mosk urged signing the Housing Petition that is being circulated for more houses in California. Since the California Legislature has refused to take cognizance of this lack of homes for the California people, the people themselves must take matters into their own hands to get the much-needed homes.

Stephen Zetterberg is the candidate opposing Richard M. Nixon, co-author of the notorious Mundt-Nixon bill, in the 12th Congressional District. That bill is the one which all decent Americans, from Maine to Los Angeles, are fighting. But it was rushed through the House of Representatives. It is being rushed through the U. S. Senate. If it becomes a law, you can be sent to jail, or deported, for daring to say one word against Rankin, or Thomas, or Bilbo—even after he's dead.

Vote for Zetterberg, those of you who live in the 12th.

The 40-year old controversy between the L. A. Department of Water and Power and the people of Mono and Inyo counties, where Los Angeles gets most of its water, has been settled. According to legislation which is still pending, but which is almost certain to pass, the Department of Water and Power will pay the U. S. government $100,000, in return for which it will be guaranteed certain vital water rights on 400,000 acres of public land adjacent to its water system in the two counties. This would supply enough water for many years.

Martin J. McManus, Republican candidate for Congress in the 14th District, has the endorsement of every Republican organization in the district which makes endorsements of candidates, says Dick Holwig, his campaign manager. He is also endorsed by many outstanding individuals of the district.

The Security Council of the United Nations is considering the proposals for a cease-fire order to both Jews and Arabs in the Palestine struggle. Meanwhile Israel, the new Jewish state in Palestine, has been recognized by several governments. The United States was the first.

The National Association of Manufacturers has announced that it will spend $5,500,000 for publicity in 1948. The NAM was principally responsible for the propaganda campaign that finally killed OPA. It said that if OPA were repealed, prices would come down. NAM lawyers helped draft the Taft-Hartley law.

Leon Mansfield Giles, Republican candidate for the Assembly of the 62nd District, has presented a series of questions and answers to tell the voters of the District how he has worked for their betterment and why they should therefore vote for him. He has endorsed the following for the Republican County Central Committee: B. B. Bratton, Louis V. Cole, Carl Johnson, Ivan J. Johnson III, Paul McGee, Mesdames F. Jo Robinson and Doris Penland.

Local rent offices throughout the country received during April, 1948, a total of 42,991 voluntary leases increasing rents up to 15 per cent, Housing Expediter Tighe E. Woods announced.

Frank H. Waver, well-known insurance and real estate man, of Pasadena, recently wrote a letter to Senator Sheridan Downey, Washington, D. C., urging him to work for the abolition of racial segregation in the armed forces and for legislation that will make peacetime conscription unnecessary. The letter follows:

With a son in the army at present who was taken out of college as soon as he was 18 and who was, because of race, denied the opportunity to serve in the branch of service of his choice until our Congressman interceded. (Prior to induction, in order to choose the branch of service for which he was best qualified, he enlisted for three years.) We sincerely hope you will lend your able efforts to create legislature that will make peacetime conscription unnecessary and that will abolish racial segregtion in the armed forces at all times.

Very truly yours,
FRANK H. WAVER.

An article, "Truman as Leader," in a recent issue of The New Republic, carries a cartoon of a procession of political bosses, Wall Street men, cartels, foreign rajahs, kings and queens—and Truman, a little bug-eyed man, marching bravely—in the rear.

"Going to Blazes," winner of the 1947 National Safety Council award for the best picture of the year, is soon to be released by Fox West Coast theaters. It was produced by Herbert Morgan with the cooperation of the Associated Press and the Los Angeles Fire Department. It has been acclaimed by the President's Conference on Fire Prevention and other organizations as one of the finest pictures ever filmed.

There will be lots of music at the Republican National Convention which meets in Philadelphia in July, according to an announcement by Meyer Davis, general musical director.

The national anthem will be sung by a different artist at the opening of each session of the convention. James Melton will sing "Ballads for Americans," and Davis' personally conducted band of 75 msuicians will play campaign marches heard since 1856, when the Republican party was organized.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn.—United Electrical Workers Local 1146 voted overwhelmingly to endorse Henry A. Wallace for president and Glen Taylor for vice president. The resolution declared that a progressive Congress could not be elected under the leadership of Truman or any candidate of the Republican Party. Two other UE locals of this city have also endorsed Wallace and Taylor.

BROOKLYN, N. Y. — For his work in endeavoring to persuade the American Bowling Congress to eliminate its rule that only whites may compete in tournaments under its authority, Rev. Charles T. Carow, professor at Cathedral College here, received a testimonial from the Brooklyn Catholic Interracial Council at its fourth annual meeting at the Academy of Music. The president of the council, Cottrell E. Cooper, a Negro Catholic, presided.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By JOHN M. LEE

How long will the Chrysler strike last? No one knows the answer. No one will venture a guess, for this is a strike unlike all other strikes in recent years. It is a strike that was conceived, planned and blue-printed by management; it was forced upon the UAW-CIO. This non-employment of 75,000 men is the new look in labor - management relations. Should it work out according to the schedule prepared by Chrysler, the whole of organized labor will have some worrying to do; not only organized labor, but every man who works for wages will have something to be unhappy about, for it will mark the beginning of the end of the workingman's new deal.

There is money behind this strike, staggering sums, dedicated to the purpose of destroying unionism by effectively throttling the effective United Auto Workers Unions. The union has money too, but it will not be able to match Chrysler's dollars one for ten if the strike continues as long as Chrysler wants it to run. Brother unionis will dig into their treasuries and help with the load, but Chrysler has the tremendous profits made on the sweat of their worker's brows to throw in on a gamble for even greater profits when they've beaten the workers into surrender.

Surrender is the goal Chrysler looks for, should they gain the victory; complete and absolute surrender with management calling the turn and labor broken and ineffective. Already there are indications that divide and conquer will be the chief weapon of management. The hides of the workers have worn thin. They are sensitive to the strong winds of public opinion. These days it is not always popular to stand firmly even for one's rights, and those who are not in accord with the rich, the fat and impudent are in danger of being labelled. Labels don't wear too well in a climate where flag waving is too frequently the avocation of the fascists. It takes guts to disagree with the war-minded patriots who drool every time they think of the cost plus profits made from the last war.

There will be attempts made to wean some the weaker-kneed unionists away from the ranks. Some will go, perhaps an appalling number, unless they can be assured that it is not yet un-American to refuse to work when the only incentive is greater profit for management and soaring prices to take off with the workingman's feeble dollars.

It is important that the pickets on the lines walk with careful decorum. Dignity is essential, for so critical are those who would be the masters a man must walk with his knees stiff less he find himself walking on them. Should the workers win, it will mean a short breathing period before the next offensive begins; should they lose there will only be time to heave a sigh for the days when there was unity and good fellowship among all workers.

How long will the Chrysler strike last? How long will frightened men let it last? How long will men submit to a smiling monster out of fear of a shadow? How long will men accept tyranny from the right as the price they must pay for being protected from the dangers on the left? How long will it take to get public opinion and support solidly behind the just cause of the Chrysler strikers? When we have answered that, we will have answered all.

Getting the drop on the campaigns of the other parties, the National Wallace for President Committee has begun issuing informational material to Negro newspapers from its New York headquarters, where George B. Murphy, formerly with the NAACP, is assistant campaign manager. This cartoon was drawn for the Wallace group by Owen Middleton, well-known Negro cartoonist.

Trail Blazers: Adele Young

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

By PHYLLIS SCOTT

When awards and trophies are given to civic workers, who have given the best service to their community, Adele deLavallade Young would be one of the top deserving contenders. No better friend could the ordinary people have. Mrs. Young knows them all and they know her; for she has thrown herself in the midst of every progressive fight for community uplift.

Her role in these projects is not always known because the issues, and not the personality, is the primal factor with her. Labor unions, youth groups, and representative organizations of the people call on her regularly for support and active participation.

While others are shaking their heads and predicting disaster, Adele Young confidently affirms a brighter outcome. She has been affiliated with every major fight in the Eastside community . . . from fighting for the employment of Negro clerks in Kress and Safeway stores to urging the people to vote for Sidney Moore and Wallace.

Born in Marxville, Louisiana and raised in Alexandria, she attended the Catholic parochial schools to the eighth grade. This, she declared, was her only formal education. Musically inclined at an early age, at 14 she was conducting the adult choir of the Catholic church, which position she held for seven years.

After she married Des Moines became her home. It was at a prominent hotel, where she worked as food checker, that she heard Woodrow Wilson speak on peace and the importance of supporting the League of Nations. This so impressed her that she felt that women should have an outstanding part in this program and the use of the franchise, which was granted in 1920. Her civic consciousness grew from that day on.

Many Angelenos will remember Mrs. Young from her early post office days; although her background for that work was gained in Chicago, where she worked for three years. When they moved to Los Angeles in 1922 she went to work in the sub post office station 19 at 12th and Central in Smith's Drug store.

However, her real desire lay in serious music, with concentration on piano and pipe organ. This was the profession she studied and taught until 'can' music in the legitimate theatre forced serious musicians out. Along about the same time she received her divorce. Bent toward community work she organized the Altrua Society, which was an incorporated supplemental charitable organization. They attempted to do something about the deplorable conditions existing in this community during the depression years; especially were they concerned about the youth. This group also conducted a used goods store at 22nd and Central until it folded some four years later.

Then when she was forced on WPA, where she worked on a project under Carey McWilliams.

ADELE YOUNG

He then worked as state director of the housing commission in Los Angeles. Because of her aptness she was placed on the teachers project. When the night school program opened, her application was considered for acceptance. The irony of this incident is that she met all the qualifications of the position—even excelled some of the college graduates—but was turned down because she did not have a college degree.

After that she went to work at the Progressive Book Shop, remaining there for ten years. Toward the latter part of 1947 she left to open a book shop in the Central Avenue district in memorial to Hugh Gordon, whose name the store bears.

Scheduled for a grand formal opening on June 13 the Hugh Gordon Bookshop will carry a complete stock of books on the Negro question, labor, economics, history, and fiction. It will have in its future program perspective of sponsored lecturers and story hours for children. Individuals or organizations, who want to build personal libraries, will have a splendid opportunity to get the finest selections. Mrs. Young will absolutely not carry any literature of a derogatory nature to Negroes . . . or anything that will humiliate or embarrass the Negro people such as Little Black Sambo and such.

This dynamic woman of indefatigable energies has a host of relatives in Los Angeles who proudly acclaim her accomplishments. The community acclaims her too. She is an active member of the NAACP since its organization, Eastside Betterment Alliance, League of Women Voters, Congress of American Women and acting mother to her brother's three daughters for the past six years.

Leisure time? She has none. But once in awhile she sneaks off for a drive to Laguna Beach or some outlying suburb to view California for what it is—a beautiful state. A beautiful state for more and better housing, for broader job opportunities to all its inhabitants, for decent living standards. Tourists visiting this state will find Los Angeles, the Southeast community, and the Hugh Gordon Bookshop a welcome mat during their entire sojourn.

Jewish Congress Hails Supreme Court Action Voiding Restrictive Covenants

The Supreme Court decision voiding restrictive covenants was hailed by the American Jewish Congress this week as advancing the cause of democracy "at a time when the world is looking to the United States for leadership."

A statement issued by Judge Ben Rosenthal, Southern California regional president of the Congress, declared:

"Restrictive covenants, grounded in racial and religious prejudices, are an out-and-out violation of the 14th Constitutional Amendment. The Supreme Court, in its decision nullifying these pacts, advanced the cause of democracy here in the United States at a time when the world is looking to the United States for leadership."

The AJC last November filed a brief with the high tribunal as a "friend of the court," arguing that the covenants were "unconstitutional" and a violation of the 14th Amendment. Brief was filed by AJC attorneys, including William Strong, of Los Angeles, counsel for the Congress' Commission on Law and Social Action.

The Congress has fought restrictive covenants in a number of states. Recently, an affiliate, the World Jewish Congress, obtained a decision from the Canadian courts outlawing restrictive covenants in that country.

Memorial Service Planned at Val Verde

There is expected to be a record crowd in Val Verde for Memorial Day Celebration, with the California National Guards as the main attraction of the day. Many religious and civic organizations will join in a special dedication service in memory of Negro War Veterans who died in both world wars. There will be three days of festivities for fun-loving Angelenos with a dance at the Clubhouse, don't miss it!

Truck Group Bares Highway Safety Plans

In an effort to contribute their share towards greater safety on public highways, the Southern California Motor Truck Association recently revealed a five-point drivers' program.

Included in the program were: The Drivers' Safety Center (which has examined 6000 truck drivers to date); a state contest for driving knowledge and skill, with finals here June 16; a California fleet safety contest, a driver-of-the-month contest, and an industry-sponsored motor transport safety service of men who check drivers' conduct on the road.

Four new members of the board of directors were announced by Wade Sherrard, general manager, as Robert Bensinger, R. T. Christmas, Herbert Holt and John H. Soule.

Publishers Feted In Bavarian Cities

By LOUISE MARTIN
(For N.N.P.A.)

FRANFURT, Germany — The former governor of Michigan, Murray D. "Pat" Van Wagoner, who is now the military governor of the largest province in Germany, Bavaria, provided one of the highlights of the tour which seven Negro newsmen recently made of occupied Europe.

The genial Michigander welcomed the press group at his headquarters in Munich and introduced us to his administrative aides, experts in various fields of government. From them we received a briefing on the problems of Bavaria in a three-hour conference.

Remembers Old Friends

This was followed by an elaborate luncheon given for us by the governor in Munich's celebrated Museum and Fine Arts Building. As we entered the dining room, the German musicians struck up the "Victors," the University of Michigan's famous football song. The governor told me he had taught them the song.

In each of the cities visited by the newsmen, the top brass and many of the U. S. correspondents arranged receptions, cocktail parties, luncheons and special dinners.

One of the most interesting receptions took place in the Bristol Hotel in Vienna where we were the guests of Gen. Geoffrey M. Keyes. There we were honored by the presence of Chancellor Figl and a host of ministerial officers of the Austrian government.

Matched Brass with Glass

The U. S. correspondents at Berlin and at Frankfurt gave us a royal welcome in their press clubs. At the dinner in Berlin given for us by the correspondents and their wives, Gen. Lucius Clay, commander-in-chief of our European forces, and his wife joined us. The next day General Clay and his staff were our hosts at an official luncheon.

The luncheons and dinners were always preceded by cocktails and at the evening affairs, champagne and fine French and German wines flowed freely. The white-coated German waiters were no doubt astonished at the capacity of some of the publishers who matched glass for glass the best efforts of the top brass.

On some of the army posts we witnessed cabaret shows artfully executed by skilled German entertainers. One of the finest of such shows was given in our honor at Kitzingen where Gen. Lewis C. Beebe was our host.

Commission Approves

The Planning Commission, in recent session, approved the building of an addition to Fire Station 14 at 34th and Central. Also included in the Commission report is approval for conditional use by the Ever Ready Missionary Baptist Church of property located on the north side of Imperial Highway at Wilmington.

Theyll Do It Again

Oppose Mundt Bill

NEW YORK — Describing the Mundt bill as "a grave and unprecedented threat to our traditional freedom," the Workers Defense League has called upon majority and minority leaders of both Houses to immediately mobilize their respective party representatives in opposition.

Ready for Conference

When the Central Jurisdictional Conference of the Methodist Church meets at Clark College in Atlanta, Georgia from June 9-13, the delegates will find a cordial welcome awaiting them. President James P. Lower Lunch Cost Everything's going up . . . so it's good news when something comes down. And that's what's happening to the school lunch program in the elementary schools of Los Angeles. The state through the Federal Government is giving the school Districts in California the money that hasn't been used in other states . . . . Money, that is, that was left in the budget for other states, and has to be used by June 30th.

As a result, the school lunch will cost the children only 20c instead of 25c . . . including milk.

Something new has been added to the City of the Angeles, and it will happen on or about July 25. A mammoth Carnival of aBnds is being planned, with the entire net proceeds going to the Outdoor Life and Health Sanitarium.

Coopertating fully with the EAGLE'S theatrical editor, the American Federation of Musicians, Locals No. 767 and No. 47, will do everything within their power to make this the biggest dance night in Angel City history. And it's for a worthy cause. For unfortunate victims of tuberculosis.

Tuberculosis is no respecter of race, color or creed. It will hit hard and fast anywhere, and often does. The greatest battles aren't fought in the foxholes on Bouganville. They're being fought every day in hospital beds where, for 24 hours day in and day out, some unfortunate victim of the dreaded disease lays and lives in a world of white sheets and four walls, fighting for a chance to live. Sometimes the battle is won. Sometimes it's lost. And that's where I want to come in.

Okay, as the late Alfred E. Smith would say: "Let's look at the record." A person becomes ill with tuberculosis. The hospitals are overcrowded. He or she is put on a waiting list, which may or may not be months before there is a vacant bed. During that time, the patient starts his cure at home. There is no facilities for treatment of tuberculosis in the home. That's where Dr. Leonard Stovall comes in.

I have known three great men in my life. Dr. Leonard Stovall is one of them. Forever striving to help, not only his race, but all people regardless of color or creed, he opened a little shack out in Duarte, Calif., some few years ago and called it a rest home. He spent money out of his own pockets to keep it going. He solicited funds to help with expenses. Sometimes the road he was traveling was rough. But he trudged onward and onward never looking back. Never faltering. He worked tirelessly, and now the sun is shining where before hung a dark cloud. He has enlarged the sanitorium to neat little cottages and wards. And everyone is in Dr. Stovall's corner, because Dr. Stovall is in their corner.

Several months ago, the Mt. Saint Sanitarium donated a $20,000 building to the Outdoor Life and Rest Home. When completed, it will house more than 50 patients, and there are more than 50 patients waiting at home to get in some rest home. So you see, what I'm trying to tell you—it's for a worthy cause.

This isn't a straight news story. This story comes from my heart. I can appreciate what Dr. Stovall is doing. Every human being with faith in his heart can. That's why on or about the 25th of July we will stage a gigantic dance featuring more than 10 bands, plus stars of stage, screen and radio, at one of the bigger ballrooms in Hollywood, possibly the Palladium, with general admission being set at $1.20 per couple, with the entire proceeds going to the Outdoor Life and Health Sanitarium.

There have been so many phony benefits until when you mention the word "benefit" some one in the second row will invariably ask: "How much is he (whoever's staging the thing) getting out of it?" It is for that reason we have asked Mr. Paul Howard, secretary of the American Federation of Musicians, local No. 767, and a representative of Local No. 47, to act as overseer and handle the financial end so no one gets a dime but the Outdoor Life and Health Sanitorium!

Arnett Cobb Coming Back

NEW YORK CITY—The "Wold Man of the Tenor Saxophone," Arnett Cobb, will soon be back on the bandstand rocking his audiences from coast to coast. His doctors have announced that popular Arnett has at last recovered from a serious spinal operation and will very soon be in fit condition to resume his interrupted musical career.

It was a short three months ago that the same doctors examined Arnett and warned him that an immediate operation was necessary. So the famed bandleader interrupted his career, broke up his band, and entered the Roosevelt Hospital, in New York, for a series of operations and treatments. The doctors had warned him that such operations took a long time to heal but within six weeks they told Cobb that he was already on the road to recovery.

And now at last the bandleader will be able to mount the bandstand, pick up his tenor saxophone and play to his (and the public's) heart's content.

Inside Hollywood

By IRWIN ALLEN

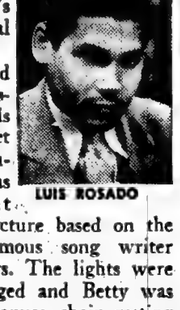
A wiry little red-haired fellow with a name that sounds like something on an Italian menu recently played a star role in the making of Paramount's forthcoming hit, "A Connecticut Yankee."

Victor Caccialanza didn't face the motion picture camera at any time. However, a large share of what the camera photographed for this Mark Twain classic was his handiwork. Victor, it seems is the studio's plaster expert and one of the best in the business.

IRWIN ALLEN

Since "A Connecticut Yankee" tells the story of a New Englander who went a-calling in King Arthur's court, the sets had to typify the massive stone architecture of the era. And that's where Victor and his crew of skilled workers entered the picture. They constructed the life-sized stone and oaken replicas right in the studio's plaster shop. For spacious banquet halls, courtyards, towers, etc., the boys turned out 500 replicas of the giant granite blocks. Prodigious looking oaken beams and supports were cast and curious gargoyle heads were molded.

The blocks looked like they weighed tons. Actually they averaged only sixty pounds a piece and could be put in place and shifted by hand. Seems they were made by a new plaster casting method which employs spunglass and ordinary paper-toweling as a base. The resulting composition is 75% lighter than the conventional plaster formerly used in movie structures.



Turning out Sixth Century castles is all in a day's work for Victor and Company. They're prepared to supply practically anything in marble, ivory, granite, cement, wood, or metal that is reproducable.

One of Victor's most ambitious undertakings was the making of a reasonable facsimile of the Statue of Liberty. He did it, all right, giving the lady a head thirty-five feet high, and an eight-foot nose. He's even baked a thirty-foot wedding cake for one of the dream sequences in "Lady in the Dark" with frosting strong enough to support Ginger Rogers.

You won't find Victor Caccialanza's name in the main title credits when these films are flashed on the silver screen, but in his own special line he certainly rates star billing and a plaster Oscar for his unique achievements.

With LOUIS ROSADO

LUIS ROSADO

It has taken Hollywood, which separated Betty Garrett from her husband more than three years ago, finally to make a housewife of Broadway's young musical comedy stars.

This I found out when I visited the "Words and Music" set at MGM studios. Betty has an important role in this picture based on the life of the famous song writer Richard Rogers. The lights were being re-arranged and Betty was sitting on a canvas chair resting between scenes. We engaged in conversation and it was most interesting.

Shortly after she and Larry Parks were married in 1944, his Hollywood career promptly put him to work 3000 miles from her. Only when she had a brief lull between stage plays, or he drew a short vacation between pictures, could they be together.

"No wonder I was enthusiastic about signing a film contract myself," she told me. "It meant Larry and I could follow our careers and still have our home together."

Betty's first home of her own is a modest white frame house in Hollywood. Decorating and furnishing it to suit herself and her husband proved as exciting as did the launching of a film career for the personable, vivavious young actress.

"At least, it kept me from worrying about working in front of a camera," she confided. Unlike most newcomers to Hollywood, Betty didn't have to face a camera until she already had a contract tucked away in her purse. She was signed in New York without the usual screen test, her performance in the stage hit, "Call Me Mister," being considered proof enough of her versatile talent.

A blue-eyed, ash-blonde, Betty had won the Donaldson Award for the year's best musical comedy performance in that show. Her unique, high-voltage style of singing had made her an overnight sensation on Broadway and had made the song, "South America, Take It Away," which she introduced, the nation's number 1 favorite.

After her arrival in Hollywood, Betty was given one of the most extensive film tests ever handed a screen beginner. New York had seen her sing and dance, but Hollywood wanted to prove her romantic and dramatic possibilities too. The result of this test was that in MGM's "Big City," her first picture, she not only performs in her inimitable musical style, but also plays the romantic lead opposite George Murphy and shares the film's most dramatic scenes with scene-stealer Margaret O'Brien.

Her flair as a comedienne, also noticed in the test, has caused her to take Hollywood by storm even before being seen on the screen. More than thirty personal appearances at benfits and banquets, for which she has come into great demand, have found her ad-libbing gags with all the prowess of a Bob Hope or Red Skelton.

Yes, Hollywood brought Larry and Betty together again and their happiness is revealed in their work.

Joan Leslie was chosen as the "Ideal American Beauty" in a fashion show in Paris last October. Have you any doubt?

Winsome Diana Lynn, started in motion pictures as a pianist and steadily rose into one of the best comediennes of the screen today. Diana and Paramount recently parted company and she plans to free lance from now on. Good luck!

Reviews of Previews

"ANOTHER PART OF THE FOREST"

Universal-International presents Fredric March, Dan Duryea, Edmond O'Brien, Ann Blyth, Florence Eldridge, John Dall, Donna Drake and Betsy Blair.

It is more than a successful translation of a successful stage play—it has the crisp tenseness of pace and interest that is motion picture, it presents a gallery of incisively drawn characters in the language of the motion picture spectator. Almost from the opening scene you are interested in these Hellman people, alternately repelled and intrigued by the facets of their minds. Their own mental twists are impelling them towards inevitable drama and tragedy. You know it, and you watch with fascination as the characters themselves, rather than the unseen playwright, maneuvers to their destinies. And a bow to Miss Hellman's original stage play.

The character played by Frederic March dominates the story, and his performance measures up to the demands. It is probably the weird quality given the addle-witted younger son that remains most sharply in memory. Dan Duryea gains in thespian statue with every successive appearance. Edmund O'Brien gives assurance to his performance as the elder son, while Ann Blythe again demonstrates her right to rank with the top of the screen's actresses. Supporting roles are in equally capable hands, with fine contributions from Florence Eldridge, Donna Drake, John Dall and Betsy Blair, the last mentioned young lady rates a special mention for making comparatively brief footage count so outstandingly.

If you remember "The Little Foxes" some idea of the story may be given by telling that Miss Hellman goes back a few decades in the lives of the same family for this one, and we meet the Hubbards just after the War between the States. The characteristics that made the younger generation very peculiar people as matured in "The Little Foxes" are all there. March, domineering and penny pinching sadistic husband to Florence Eldridge, bewildered by the family that surrounds her shrewd elder son, O'Brien, conniving daughter, Ann Blythe, the weakling, Dan Duryea. The drama is in their effect on each other as they live very nearly ostracised because of actions during the late war.

Gal About Hollywood

By MARGARET MORTON McKAY

Margaret McKay

White from top-to-toe is the color headliner for the summer fashions, although, of course, white is absence of color. Brunettes, blondes and red heads look equally well in white, so there's nothing to stymie the gals from being thus garbed. Dorothy Lamour's new all-white outfit is well worth a description. In rayon crepe, it has a knife-pleated skirt topped by a horizontal pleated bodice which buttons from the waist to the deep-pointed collar. Short white gloves meet the neat cuffs on full bishop sleeves (and note that the bishop sleeve is a graceful "old" fashion being revived) and Dottie wears a narrow-brimmed cloche of white linen with it. White suede pumps complete the top-to-toe whiteness.

White linen shoes are with us this year, but what has become of high-heeled white calf shoes? The great mystery! I went to twelve different shoe stores in search of white calf because they are so much easier to clean than suede or buckskin, but they seem to have disappeared mysteriously from the market. If anyone knows the answer to this, I'd like to heart it.

White pique is found not only in dresses and suits, but in hats and there's nothing fresher looking. Joan Bennett's white pique visor-style hat with a neat little pique suit with a sailor collar was noted while she was shopping at the Farmer's market.

White shantung was Irene Dunne's interesting white top-to-toe ensemble along Wilshire Boulevard the other noontime. Even her wide brimmed picture hat was covered with white shantung, the brim surrounded by neat little white shantung posies. Outstanding point of the suit—bracelet cuffed sleeves with tiny diamond studs. A white alligator hand bag and white suede shoes carried out the all-of-a-tone idea.

Recipe of the Week: Right off the set of "Hazard," at Paramount, comes the recipe of the week from Paulette Goddard, and although it sounds on the elegant side, it's really quite inexpensive. She mixes a carton of cream style cottage cheese and a small jar of "pink" caviar with a bit of chopped onion and chives. It's a delicious quickie mix for your guests to dip crackers in when you serve cocktails.

Best Dressed This Week: Harriet Hilliard lunching at the Brown Derby was a vision in polka dots. Her white linen dress had a flare of red polka dot crepe pleated, stretching from her waist to hem-line at one side. The cuffs of her short-sleeved dress were also in the polka-dot crepe. The shirtmaker collar buttoned down to the waist in diagonal line and the belt buckle was bound in the polka dot crepe. She wore a visor-bonnet of red Dotted Swiss, stiffly starched, that had everyone staring in admiration.

Scoreboard for Selection: . . . 1. White linen is top fabric for summer days already upon us in temperature. 2. Polka dots are with us again. 3. Dotted Swiss as a fabric is being revived for our fashion use and it was especially interesting in a bonnet. 4. Combination of red and white, and combination of linen and crepe, new and interesting.

El Sombrero Ballroom Scene of Brilliant Spring Formal Given By CHI ETA PHI Nurses Sorority

One of the most delightful spring parties to be given in southland social circles was held last Thursday evening at El Sombrero Club, when the Nurses Sorority, Chi Eta Phi held its initial formal. The "ladies in white," as they are oftimes called, were garbed in exquisite creations in pastel shades. Dr. John Coleman, one of the leading physicians of the city did the honors of introducing the sorority members promptly at 12:00 o'clock midnight.

The bauty of El Sombrero club was ideal for the affair that was well attended by many members of the medical profession as well as other professional and social figures.

Basileus Vera Franklin took her bow in a beautiful creation; Anti Basileus, Bernice Batchelor, was charming as she took her bows in recognition of the fact that she is a student at UCLA studying for her Ph.N.; Grammateus, Annie Taylor, wore a gown of white net; Epistoleus, Ruth Davis; Tamionshos, Clyde McCollum, Financial Secretary, Melrose Johnson, Chaplain Katherine Norris and Historian, Clarice Jackson, wer eall dressed in the latest formal attire. Each carried a coloniel bouquet.

Members bowing in order, were Irene Campbell, Winifred Davie, wearing a spring strapless creation in white Georgette; Irma Fairs, Euvolda Morris, wearing canary brocade with cornet of yellow flowers; Evelyn Gibson, Georgia Hardiman, Arlayne Logan, Jessie McDaniels, Clara Porter, Louise Rankin, Marrian Willingham, Rubye Wiggins, Fay Wilson and Melba Wimms. All the girls wore either white or a pastel shade creating a very beautiful picture.

Chi Eta Phi Sorority is one of the most outstanding organizations in the nursing realm. Its membership boasts nurses who are outstanding in the field. The local chapter recognizes the positions of Fay Wilson, first Negro supervisor at General Hospital; Winifred Davis, second Negro superisor at General; Jessie McDaniels, the one race Public Health Nurse in the city, and many others.

One of the main projects of this group is to see that eligable nurses are given aid in gaining higher education. At present Miss Hornbuckle is attending school on the nurse's Sorority scholarship. The membership of 22, which makes up Delta Chapter, will take part in the Chi Eta Phi Boule that will be held in Washington D. C. in June. President Vera Franklin will represent the local chapter.

The beautiful formal held Thursday night at El Sombrero, marked the first formal to be given by the Delta Chapter. The affair was very beautiful, and by far one of the most outstanding social events of the season.

THE CALIFORNIA PRIMARY

The eyes of the nation will be upon California, less than a week from now, Tuesday, June 1, when the people of this state go to the polls to cast their ballots in the primary election. It will be a real test to see just how strong the old New Party is. For California is one of the richest states of the nation; it seems that here the new party would meet the most opposition. Btu here the Third Party was formed. Henry Wallace should receive more votes than any other candidate, not with the exception of Mr. Truman and Governor Warren. As a matter of fact, it wouldn't be surprising if the results of the election came out in that precise order.

The Republican hopes of winning California's support in the electoral college have always been slim, because this state has been predominated by the Democrats. But at the beginning of the year, both the Republicans and Democrats were shocked into the realization of a new party. Their headaches increased last week when Henry Wallace spoke before a crowd of no less than thirty-one thousand people. He spoke openly and freely, and applause came from every person in the satdium who realized the signifacance of his program, the third party, and peace.

Now rumors are being circulated that Wallace still doesn't know the direction in which he is going. But it seems pretty apparent to others. Wallace's program of Civil Rights in America, his opposition to American Militarism and imperialism, and recently the open letter to Stalin, all indicate that his plans are definitely made; that a matter of time and the elections will permit him to carry out those plans.

The Democrats of California have lost a great deal of prestige in the Golden State even since President Truman moved up from the office of vice-presidency. And that prestige can never be regained by the Democrats so long as there is a man such as Wallace to offer peace; the third party to live and lead the people to peace and progress. Actually, the Independent Progressive party will lead the other two parties not only in this state—the state in which it originated—but throughout the nation. The beginning of a new political party in America was like offering bread to a starving person—peace to a world ravaged by war. No other reasons caused the Democrats to lose this state's support. Too, however, the Democratic Party had alway been the hope of the common man, or the peoples party. But when they joined with the Republicans last year, there was nothing left for the people to do but to form a new organization.

A larger percentage of people will be going to the polls this year than in many years. In Los Angeles county alone more than a million people have registered to vote. This is gratifying, for the individual can only voice his opinion in government affairs through the ballot and letters to government representatives.

DO WE WANT WAR OR PEACE?

The answer to that question is hard to give when we observe the actions of our leaders in Washington. Since the war ended, we have all been begging for peace and ways of settling disputes other than wars. Here in the United States we have blamed Russia for just about everything that has happened in the past that prevented nations from reaching peaceful settlements. But it seems that Russia is no longer at fault.

When President Truman and Secretary of State Marshall seemed to be so completely unsuccessful in dealing with the Soviet Union, Henry Wallace sent an open letter to Premier Stalin, requesting agreement on certain terms; terms which included even disarmament. To the surprise of everyone, the presidential candidate received a reply—an affirmative reply. Stalin is ready to talk peace with America, when and where it is convenient.

But just where does that leave all the candidates for the November Presidency campaign? Well, it just about obliterates the chances of all the candidates except Henry Wallace. He is the only man who is running on a ticket of peace. He is the only man who, in the presidential race, is opposing large masses of destructive weapons and gigantic armies. Too, Henry Wallace believes in taking the excess profit out of the manufacturing of war materials. Mentioning excess war profits—or profits at all, it's small wonder why certain of us continue to preach fear and plant hate in our minds against the Russian people. When there is no fear of war, guns and planes don't sell so well to the army, and when they don't sell, no profit can be made. Therefore, a good hysteria and war scare is just what our munitions and planes makers need. It is, indeed, drastic if the American people fall for that propaganda at this critical time. And it is plain to see that the peoples of the world want peace, from Stalin's reply to the open letter by Wallace. The Republicans and the Democrats have their party platforms built upon this war scare, and as soon as it dies away, they will have nothing to promise Wall Street—no UMT, no air plane contracts, no selective service; whereas, Wallace will have to offer Peace, prosperity and equality.

WHY I FAVOR WALLACE

I have been asked, on numerous occasions, why I favor Henry Wallace and the Third Party for political leadership during the next four years. Well, the other parties have nothing but war to offer, selective service, the draft, and what have you. My future depends on the candidate and party that wins the coming elections; my life, and your life, in all sincerity, depends upon the same. In all the speculation, unfairness, and injustices that come during the next months, I appeal to the American voters to cast the ballot for the platform of peace. Only Henry Wallace and the Third Party has peace to offer.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

SUBJECT: Daniel Stands By His Convictions. Lesson Text and Outline, Daniel 1:8-20. Motto Text Daniel 1:8.

Introduction

Daniel was born in Jerusalem. He belonged to the royal family. His parents were evidently pious. He received the best training. The foundations of the highest culture were laid in his boyhood days. The pious instruction he received at home was supplemented by that he received, both in the court and the Temple. It was his privilege, doubtless, to hear many times the great prophet Jeremiah. He knew from personal observation the public life of Jehoiakim the wicked king of Judah. He must have been inexpressibly thrilled with interest and consternation over the famous battle of Cerchemiah where the forces of Babylonia under Nebuchadnezzar routed the Egyptian armies and put to an end their power in the East.

However the Babylonian conqueror, determined to clear the way westward to the Nile valley, would not allow the kingdom of Judah to stand in the way. Hence Jerusalem was besieged, and in 606 B.C. the conqueror went away with rich treasure including Temple vessels, and with many captives including Daniel. With what unutterable emotion the lad of sixteen or eighteen must have made the long journey overland to Babylon, the magnificent capital of the mightiest empire then upon the globe?

Comments

1. When God's people are in Babylon they have need to take special care that they partake not in her sins. Providence seemed to lay this meat before them; being captives they must eat what they could get and must not disoblige their masters yet, if the command be against it, they must abide by that. Though Providence says Kill And Eat, Conscience says, Not so Lord, for nothing common or unclean can come into my mouth. It is very much the praise of all, and especially of young people, to be dead to the delights of sense, not to covet them, not to relish them, but to look upon them with indifference.

Those that would excel in wisdom and piety must learn betimes to keep under the body and bring it into subjection. The great thing that Daniel avoided was defiling himself with the pollutions of sin. That is the thing we should be more afraid of than of any outward trouble. Daniel, having taken up this resolution, requested of the prince a eunuch that he might not defile himself, not only that he might not be compelled to do so, but that he might not be tempted to do so; that the bail might be laid before him, that he might not see the portion appointed him of the king's meat, nor look upon the wine when it was red. It is easier to keep temptation at a distance than to suffer it to come near, and then be forced to put a knife to our throats. We cannot better improve our interest in any with whom we have found favour than by making use of them to keep us from sin.

2. People will not believe the benefit of abstemiousness and a spare diet, nor how it contributes to the health of the body, unless they try it. Trial was accordingly made. Daniel tnd his fellows lived for ten days upon pulse and water, hard fare for young men of genteel extraction and education, a fare which one would rather expect they should have indented against rather than petitioned for, but at the end of the ten days they were compared with the other children, and were found fairer and fatter in flesh, of a more healthful look and better complexion, than all those who did eat the portion of the king's meat.

This was in part a natural effect of their temperance, but it must be ascribed to the special blessing of God, which will make a little go a great way; a dinner of herbs better than a stalled ox. By this it appears that man lives not by bread alone; pulse and water shall be the most nourishing food if God speak the word. See what it is to keep ourselves pure from the pollutions of sin. It is the way to have that comfort and satisfaction which will be health to the navel and marrow to the bones, while the pleasures of sin are rottenness to the bones.

For their eminent services, we are to keep our minds clear and unclouded, and fit for contemplation; saving for the best employments, a great deal both of time and thought. And we must prevent those diseases which indispose men for the business of age that rise from the intemperances of youth, for our emiient sufferings. These that had thus inured themselves to hardship, and lived a life of self-denial and mortification, could the more easily venture upon the fiery furnace ant the den of lions, rather than sin against God.

3. They were very sober and diligent, and studied hard; and we may suppose their tutors, finding them of an uncommon capacity, took a great deal of pains with them, but after all, their achievements are ascribed to God only. It is the Lord our God that give men power to get this wealth; the mind is furnished only by him that formed it. The great learning which God gave these four children was a balance for their losses. They had been deprived of the honours and pleasures that would have attended their noble extraction for the iniquity of their fathers; but to make them amends for that, God, in giving them learning, gave them better honours and pleasures than those of which they had been deprived; a recompense for their integrity. They kept to their religion, even in the minutest instance of it, and they would not so much as defile themselves with the king's meat or wine. They became, in effect, Nazarites; and God rewarded them for it with an eminence in learning, for God gives to a man that is good in his sight, wisdom and knowledge, and joy with them. Those four young students were ten times better than all the old practitioners putting them all together that were in all his realm, and we may be sure that they were more than a few. This contempt did God pour upon the pride of the Chaldeans, and this honour did he put upon the low estate of his own people. Thus did he make not only these persons, but also the rest of their nation for their sakes, more respected in the land of their captivity. Sometimes God favours his servants that mourn with Zion in her sorrows by letting them live to see better times with the church than they saw in the beginning of their days and to share with her in her joys.

Comments on the Motto Text

The power of purpose was shown in the shining example of Daniel and his three companions in the palace school at Babylon. He who does not definitely plan to do right is extremely liable to do wrong. The pledge of abstinence from all that defiles was the one safe course for the young princes at the court of Nebuchadnezzar. There is no wiser course for young people today.

DR. CLARENCE R. DECKER, president of the University of Kansas, Mo., who will challenge the 88 graduates from Lincoln University (Mo.) in his address on the occasion of the 82nd annual commencement convocation at the Institution at ten o'clock the morning of June 7. The doctor of philosophy degree was awarded him at the University of Chicago in 1928 at the age of 23, and he one of the youngest university presidents in the country. He is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, has traveled over most of Europe and Asia Minor and studied in European universities, principally the University of Berlin. The University of Kansas City Review was founded by him, as well as was the Kansas City Chamber Music Society in 1935, which has continued through the years to bring outstanding music artists to Kansas City. Scholarly journals and literary magazines have carried many of his articles and he is co-author of a novel published in 1937 in England and the United States.

Zion Hill Senior Choir To Present Fine Sacred Works In Musical, June 3

In its avowed purpose of bringing to the community the best quality of sacred music, the music department of the Zion Hill Baptist church, 51st Street and McKinley avenue, announces the presentation of its Spring Musical on Thursday evening, June 3, in the church auditorium.

Oratorio will be the mode of musical expression for the program. This form of music, in which biblical text is set to music, is the highest quality of sacred music and presents time-worn stories of value to religious institutions in varied musical settings.

Many of the immortal arias and choruses from the works of Handel, Cofta, Mendelssohn, Haydn, Rossini and Gaul will be presented in this offering. Choruses will be done by an augmented group of the several choirs of the church numbering more than one hundred voices.

Exceptional soloists of rare musical ability and experience, including Josephine Cooper, Mary Martin, Willie Valentine, Mansfield Collins, Carl Gigson, Flody Brewster and Mary Davis will render arias. Instrumental offerings will be made by Irma Jean Juniel and Don Lee White, pianists, and Robert V. Edwards, organist. Catherine Lindsey Colbert, organist, will be accompanist.

Walter C. Daniel is the director of music of Zion Hill and will be in charge of the production.

In Memoriam

THE OTHER ROOM

"In my Father's House there are many rooms."
—John 14:2.

No, not cold beneath the grasses,
Not close-walled within the tomb;
Rather, in my Father's Mansion,
Living in another room.

Shall I doubt my Father's mercy?
Shall I think of death as doom,
Or the stepping o'er the threshhold
To a bigger, brighter room?

Shall I blame my Father's wisdom?
Shall I sit swathed in gloom,
When I know my love is happy,
Waiting in the other room.

In memory of my wife, Mildred Lawrence, who departed this life July 23, 1946. Her husband.
—Azel Lawrence.

AME Zion Church Urges Civil Rights Program;

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — The 33rd quadrennial session of the General Conference of the A. M. E. Zion Church, in a letter to President Truman, the President of the Senate and the Speaker of the House, urgently requested that a civil rights program be enacted into law by this congress, in the hope that the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man could be fully implemented into the American way of life.

Bishop James Clair Taylor, Paterson, New Jersey, read the contents of the letter to the conference and the delegates applauded long and enthusiastically. The bishop said,

"We pray for the kingdom of God to come on earth, and we are faced with the responsibility of helping to make it come into reality through our efforts and cooperation to the will of God. We cannot pray this prayer without first being willing to work for it."

The letter also set forth that the A. M. E. Zion Church was deeply concerned about the inaction of congress on this matter and urged, in the words of the President, "appropriate measures to insure compliance," and that the commander-in-chief abolish all forms of discrimination and segregation in the army.

Bishop B. F. Gordon, of Alabama, made a strong effort to have the word "African" deleted from the A. M. E. Zion Church. He pointed out that the racial tag was a symbol of discrimination and he suggested that the denomination had outgrown race and certainly should welcome any person into its fold. His resolution was turned over to the revision committee for proper study.

The laymen of the church succeeded in establishing themselves as an integral part of the general church when the closing session of the 33rd General Conference voted to permit laymen to organize in the local churches as a laymen's organization. The laymen have attempted since 1928 to gain this recognition, and many others led the fight to gain this recognition.

The Association began a drive to aid Hood Theological Seminary so that more preachers may be trained to pastor the many new churches proposed for the coming quadrennial.

The 12 bishops of the church were assigned to their respective areas on Wednesday. Few changes were made. Bishop W. C. Brown will preside over the Fifth District, which includes California, Washington, Oregon, the Southwest Rocky Mountain region, and Missouri, Kentucky, and Indiana.

The conference ended with a pilgrimage to the Louisville cemetery where homage was paid to the late Bishop George C. Clement and a former general officer, A. C. Weeden, in a solemn service at the grave of both, which ended with the placing of wreaths on the graves.

Christian Science Text Denounces Hypnotism

The Golden Text of the Sunday Lesson-Sermon in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, is from Revelation and reads, "He that overcometh shall inherit all things; and I will be his God, and he shall be my son." "Ancient and Modern Necromacy, alias Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" is the subject.

A Scriptural selection from Matthew reports that there "was brought unto" Jesus "one possessed with a devil, blind, and dumb: and he healed him, insomuch that the blind and dumb both spake and saw. . . . But when the Pharisees heard it, they said, This fellow doth not cast out devils, but by Beelzebub the prince of the devils. And Jesus knew their thoughts, and said unto them, Every kingdom divided against itself is brought to desolation; . . . And if Satan cast out Satan, he is divided against himself; how shall then his kingdom stand? . . . But if I cast out devils by the Spirit of God, then the kingdom of God is come unto you."

In "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," Mary Baker Eddy writes, "Jesus cast out evil and healed the sick, not only without drugs, but without hypnotism, which is the reverse of ethical and pathological Truth-power."

McMechen Sings

As Carnegie "Pops" artist, June McMechen, brilliant young lyric soprano, sang again the immortal melodies from "Porgy and Bess" to a New York audience when she appeared last week at Carnegie Hall. Singing with Miss McMechen was James Young, star of the Broadway hit "Call Me Mister." The Carnegie "Pops" symphony orchestra was conducted by Richard Korn.

Miss McMechen has filled a series of radio and concert engagements since her outstandingly successful New York debut last summer at Lewisohn Stadium on the Gershwin evening of music when she sang with Tod Duncan. New York critics praised her highly, acclaiming her a "find" and a "discovery."

Her appearance as a Carnegie "Pops" artist follows the plan of the management of the series to bring outstanding musicians to music lovers of New York at popular prices. The series was begun three years ago and continues for six weeks during the late spring and early summer of each year.

Talk often, but never long: in that case, if you do not please, at least you are sure not to tire your hearers.

—Lord Chesterfield.

The national state has reached the limits of its development as an independent, self-directed social body. Society is undergoing transformation, to effect a new order based on the wholeness of human relationships.

Prominent Citizen Passes Suddenly

Death claimed a colorful figure and a pioneer resident of this city when Percy Downing Buck died suddenly of a heart attack on Thursday of last week.

Active in civic and fraternal organizations, Buck was instructing waiter for the Southern Pacific Railroad for 42 years, until he retired.

The deceased came to Los Angeles some 45 years ago, integrated himself into various progressive movements and proved instrumental in bringing about several reforms for civic betterment.

Of the years in which he held membership in the Elks, 45 were spent in Los Angeles where he served as Chairman of the Building Sommittee, Exalted Ruler, and at the time of his death Chairman of the Trustee Board. He was also a member of the Dining Car employees, Local 582.

Final rites were held at the Elks Auditorium, which he helped to build.

Surviving the deceased is his widow, who resides at 876 East 42nd Pl.; his mother and a sister. Interment was in Rosedale cemetery.

Gus Hawkins

Gus Hawkins, veteran member of the State Legislative Assembly from the 62nd District, has a record for progressive legislation that is hard to match. He has fought vigorously and long for FEPC. In fact, he authored the initiative measure for a State FEPC two years ago, but which was defeated at the polls in the November election.

He has an unblemished record for good voting on all labor questions, on housing, child welfare, on nursery schools, on old age pensions—in fact, on everything the people of California need. We, the people, of the 62nd District, must see to it that he is returned to the Assembly by going to the polls and voting for him on Tuesday. He has filed on all three tickets—Democratic, Progressive and Republican.

Pyromaniac Burns In Southeast Area

Twenty-eight year old Louie Lopez, who burned up $2,000,000 worth of property just for the thrill of it, was partial to the Southeast section of the city. Lopez, who is described as a typical pyromaniac by detective sergeant Hatcher, kindled many of his thrill blazes in an area bounded by Alameda Street and McKinley Avenue from 41st to 50th streets.

Fortunately, no lives were lost as the result of the youth's flaming desire, and his passion for watching the flames leap and grow made it an easy matter for police to apprehend him, once they got on his trail.

CIVIL RIGHTS COMMITTEE HEAD AWARDED 1948 ADL MEDALLION

NEW YORK—Charles E. Wilson, (seated) president of the General Electric Co., receives one of the five 1948 "America's Democratic Legacy" awards of the Anti-Defamation League of B'nai B'rith from Justice Meier Steinbrink, (left) ADL national chairman, and Benjamin R. Epstein, national director of the League. Mr. Wilson was cited for his "courageous leadership" as chairman of the President's Committee on Civil Rights. Justice Steinbrink termed the report of the President's Committee, "To Secure These Rights," one of the "monumental documents of our time—a constant goad to those who are willing to countenance the sorry fact that millions of Americans are rejected as second class citizens."

Four other medallions for "distinguished contributions towards the enrichment of America's Democratic Legacy" were awarded at the three-day west-coast conference, which drew 850 community leaders from every part of the United States and several Canadian provinces. Recipients were Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Dore Schary, Barney Balaban and Darryl Zanuck. Afterwards, Mr. Wilson participated from New York in a coast-to-coast CBS radio broadcast dramatizing the meaning of the awards.

Jordon Defeats Jeff By One Point For City Title

Photos Determine Winner; Brown, Thompson Star As Bulldogs Nab Second Title

By James Lawrence

Photos of the All City 100-yard dash reveal Jordan's Bobby Smith nosed out Jefferson's Oliver Gordon for sixth place to give Jordan a 80 to 79 victory over a strong Jefferson track team. Jordan's only other All City victory was in 1946 when they again beat Jefferson by a few points.

Highly favored Jefferson only managed to garner 2 points out of a possible 62 points in the sprints, which have long been their specialty.

Only first place taken by the Democrats was in the high jump where Ed Young, winner of the All City high jump for the last three years, won with a 6-foot 4-inch jump. Teammate Howard tied with Rhinehardt of Roosevelt for second.

As was expected, Brown and Smith of Jordan took first and second places in the broad jump for Jordan. Brown won with a 23-foot 9-inch leap.

Leading performer of the night was Fred Thompson of Jordan who, besides running a lap on the Jordan eight-man mile relay team and winning the 100-yard dash in 9.9, set a new City record in the 440-yard dash. He hurried to a 48.9s 440 to better the old record, set by Sommerset of Los Aangeles High in 1936, by one-tenth second.

CALIENTE, OLD MEXICO—Formplayers tooks a bad beating last Sunday at Caliente when only two choices were able to visit the charmed circle. The big let-down for the Formplayers came in the tenth race. Boncho, one of the fastest sprinters at the Caliente course and a good breaker looked like the best bet of the day. Made odd on favorite by the fans, got left at the post and after making up more than fifteen lengths ran third. It was a bad break for the backers of Boncho. The winner of the race was Val Zun, the same father of Boncho. In the feature attraction "The Daily Racing Form" handicap Ronnie Vee showed his fast heels from start to finish and lasted to score by a neck over the fast closing after school. Ronnie Vee sprinted the six furlongs in 1:114 1/5. To Reward, an unusal across-the-board payoff of $26.60, $28.00, $12.00 after school and paid $44.00 to place and $13.20 for the show. The daily double backers of Ebony Latch, winner of the second race and Fern Creek victor of the third received $116.40. While the Quinela, lucky holder of Park Zetta and Like Father, who finished in that order, were rewarded $108.60. This Sunday, General Manager Walter C. Marty again offers twelve races from sprints to distances, the feature at one and one-sixteenth miles. The Hare and Hound races opened with on of the largest crowds ever to attend nite dog racing. More than six thousand fans were on hand to greet the new popular nite sport. A large delegation of Negro lovers of Grey hound racing came down from Los Angeles and nearby towns. The popular General Manager William Collier had things running like clockwork and every thing went off on time. Big ayoff mare the fans happy. Saturday and Sunday night were nearly as large as the opening. Races will be held Wednesday thru Sunday nights with the first post time 7:45. Feature event for the future will be announced by this paper and some of the leading Negro stars of stage, screen and radio will be the guests of General Manager Collier. Hollywood Park" The Beautiful" goes into its second week of its 50 day summer meeting. The handle so far to date is about par with last season. The feature attraction this Saturday will be the Will Rogers handicap, $25,000 added at six furlongs.

HOLLYWOOD — Youth and recklessness of the speedway will be up against age and experience Thursday night at Gilmore Stadium when Troy Ruttman, spectacular driving youngster, renews speed fights with "King Karl" Young in the 75-lap Memorial Sweepstakes. This is the feature race of the weekly card of midget car thrillers.

Ike Williams Decisions Enrique Bolanos

Champ Wins Split Decision Before 25,322 Partisan Fans

By Stanley Robertson, Eagle Sports Editor

Cool, calm, expressionless, Lightweight Champion of the World, Ike Williams, proved again that he is the master of Mexican challenger, Enrique Bolanos, when he won a split decision over the California State Champion before 25,322 fans who paid a record $152,826 Tuesday Night at Wrigley Field.

The aggressive Champion from Trenton received the nod from Judge Johnny Issandro by 12 points and from judge Frankie Van by 6 points. The lone judge who favored the lad from Durango was referee Charley Randolph who gave Bolanos the brawl by 1 point.

The gate of $152,826 greatly surpassed the previous local record of $126,635 paid in 1929 for the fight between Ace Hudkins and Mickey Walker. For his 15 round canter, Williams received $48,000 while Bolanos pulled down a cool $18,000 for his efforts.

BOLANOS PEDDLES

Bolanos, following the pattern of present challengers, fought a hide and seek, peddle, hit and run fight that obviously had the Trenton lad baffled. At no time in the fight would the handsome Mexican lad come into the center of the ring to meet the lethal punching Williams toe to toe. Rather than risk what would have been, without a doubt, a trip to the canvas, Bolanos bicycled.

WILLIAMS OFF

The Ike Williams that climbed into the ring Tuesday night was definitely not the Ike of old. He wasn't the rock socking Indiana lad that set the world of fistiannia on fire. Only twice in the entire fight—one in the 4 and one in the 13, did Williams have Bolanos in trouble. In the 4 frame it was a one two that dazed the fleeting challenger, but Bolanos tied Williams up to recover sufficiently. In the 13 frame, Williams caught Bolanos flush on the chin with the hardest blow of the fight. Enrique recovered however and came back in the last two rounds to make a valiant but futile comeback.

WILLIAMS DRAWS BLOOD

In the early rounds of the battle, Williams opened up a cut on Bolanos' left eye and nose, with those flicking left jabs he's famous for. Ike played on these bruises until the Mexican boy's face was a mass of blood. In the tenth round, Williams moved further in front when he began a blistering body attack that almost doubled Bolanos up. After the beating in the tenth and the staggering in he 13, Bolanos' defeat was a known fact.

The decision, which should have been unanimous, was booed by the partisan Bolanos crowd.

In the semi-wind up, Lem Thomas, 133, won a unanimous decision over Billy Gibson, 135. In another four rounder, Freddie Herman, 138, scored a TKO over Al Gonzales, 138. Bily Augstine, 160, won a third round TKO over Billy Corbet, 158, in another four rounder. Rodney Jones, 168, and Billy Minus, 143 won decisions over Enoch Lee, 173 and Buster Smith, 149 respectively. In the final bout of the card, PeeWee Swingler, 134, won a unanimous decision over Rocky Haro, 135.

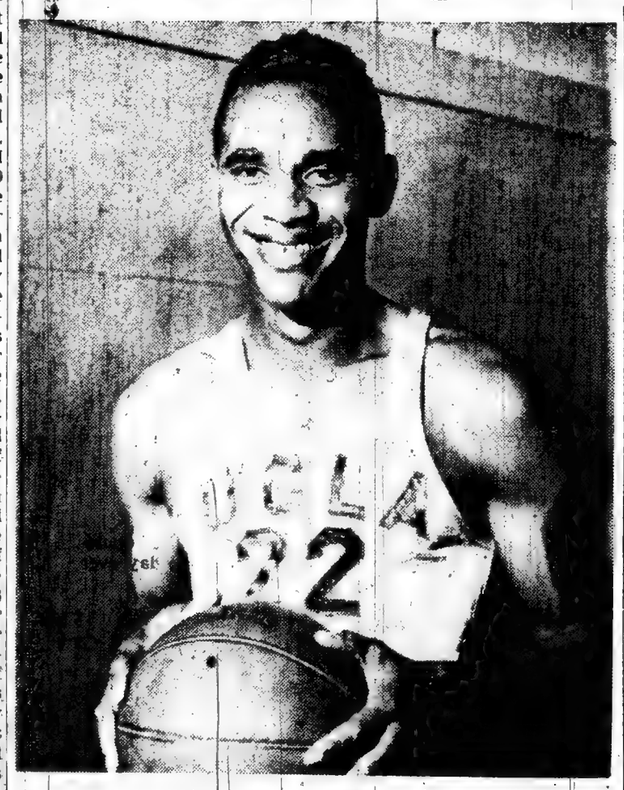
Everything Happens In Brooklyn

BROOKLYN — It could only happen in Brooklyn—and it is. The recently published book by baseball star Jackie Robinson, called "My Own Story," is being sold in grocery stores by a large Brooklyn chain. Large posters and books are prominently placed around the different stores for advertisement. This is the first time a large grocery store chain has attempted to sell a book.

It could only happen in Brooklyn.

Jackie Robinson Homers to End Bums Slump

NEW YORK—With rumors of his waiver right floating in the air above Ebbett's Field, Jackie Robinson came through as a real "people's choice" when he clouted a home run, a double and a single Monday afternoon to lead the Dodgers to their first victory in nine games as they racked the Cincinnati Reds, 9-4.



The win by the lads from the banks of the Guinus, pulled them out of the senior loop cellar, and broke a losing streak that was of such national importance and interest that a group of over-enthusiastic Dodger fans had begun circulating petitions to President Harry Truman to ask him if there was anything he could do to mend the losing ways of the beloved Dodgers.

LOS ANGELES—The Los Angeles Rams signed their fourth rookie tackle today with the inking of 6 foot, 6 inch Bill Griffin, 235-opund offensive and defensive standout from the University of Kentucky.

WHEN CHAMPS MEET—Babe Ruth, the immortal King of Swat, on a recent visit to the Children's Hospital, is shown above instructing 14-year-old partially blind Ronald Cota on the fine points of the Louisville Slugger. The famed Bambino spent several hours with the children of the hospital of all races and colors.

All Stars Battle Loyola in Weekend Cage Tussles

DAVE MINOR—Fancy shooting Daveage "Dave" Minor, All Coast guard from UCLA will lead a star studded basketball team against the University of Loyola, Friday and Saturday nights in two benefit games for charity at Loyola High School Gym on Venice avenue.

The post season basketball circuit gets another twirl Friday and Saturday nights at Loyola High School gym, when the Dave Minor All Stars, a group of outstanding collegians and AAU stars, meet the strong Loyola University team in a charity rematch contest. ffl ffl ffl

The All Stars, composed of outstanding local cage stars like Emerson Chapman, 20th Century forward and member of the 1948 Inter-Fraternity Series Champion Alpha squad at forward, high scoring USC center Alex Hannum, only local collegian to participate in the East-West All Star cage games at New York, and besides other stars, the incomparable captain and leader of the quintet, Davage Minor, 1943 All-American and 1947 and '48 All-Coast guard.

Loyola Strong M..... M.....

The Loyola University Lions aren't lacking for ability and stars either. Sparked by sensational freshman center of last year Norman Glick, and varsity forward Gerry Donovan, the Lions boast one of the flashiest offenses and fastest breaking outfits in Southern California. The Loyola team will be out for revenge too. Last Saturday, in the first of the three game charity series, the All Stars had to put on a blazing rally to outpoint the Collegians, 52-49, before an overflow house.

In the preliminary game which gets underway at 7:30, the Holy Name Church team, victors in the Parrochial League, run head on into a strong Good Shepherd five which recently won the CYO tournament.

As an added attraction to the main game, it is rumored that the great Don Barksdale will suit up for the All Stars.

Trotters Extend Winning Ways

With a pair of last weekend wins under their belt, the Los Angeles Globetrotter softball team runs head-on into an undefeated General Petroleum nine this coming Saturday at Hawthorne City Park.

Aided by the heavy stickwork of Earl Thomas and the pitching and circuit clout of Jimmy Potts, the Trotters turned back the Signal Oilers, 4-3, in eight innings, last Friday night. Saturday night the undefeated Globetrotters turned on the steam to easily rout the Hahn St. John team, 8-1. Nate Hart and Julian Green were stars of the latter tilt.

Army Secretary Investigates Bias

NEW YORK — Following the protest lodged with Secretary of Defense Forrestal by the NAACP, a colonel from the Inspector General's office was assigned to investigate the charges that Negro officers were excluded from the officers' club at Camp Campbell near Nashville, Tennessee.

According to reports on which the NAACP acted, Major General S. Leroy Irvin, commander of Task Force Lucky (an army experimental project, Major General Clarkson, post commander, and Brigadier General Keifer had forbidden use of the club to Negro officers participating in the maneuvers at Camp Campbell. Secretary Forrestal referred the matter to Army Secretary Royall with instructions that an investigation be made.

Double Up Or Nothing

WASHINGTON, D. C. — The nonwhite population in the United States, increased faster between 1940 and 1947 than the number of dwelling units it occupied, particularly in urban areas where the population rose by a third and the number of dwelling units for nonwhites increased only a fourth, according to a study made by the Housing and Home Finance Agency. The result has been more doubling up and less space per person.

Vacation Costs Rise

The Automobile Club of Southern California reports that 1948 vacation costs will be slightly higher than last year's despite the fact that the average California traveler will have less money to spend.

The club's Hotel Division reports that lodging prices at most popular resorts will be comparable to 1947 levels but that food costs will be up about 15 per cent.

Big Weekend Racing Card at Hollywood Park

Hollywood Park fans today look forward to a long, large holiday weekend of racing with the $25,000 added Will Rogers Handicap for three-year-olds scheduled for Saturday and the $50,000 added Argonaut Handicap for three-year-olds and up attracting some of the top handicap stars of the country in Hollypark's first holiday program next Monday, May 31. First post for the Saturday and holiday programs as well as the daily racing schedule is 1:30 p.m.

Off his consistency and recent victories, Mrs. Nat Goldstone's Solidarity, already the winner of $68,185, will undoubtedly be favored in the Will Rogers, which this season will be run at six furlongs. The fleet son of Alibhai will find plenty of competition, however, in such stellar sophomores as The Web II, Mrs. Ann Peppers' Irish importation which won four out of five stakes races last year in England; Mrs. Rea Warner's ake-Up an, a Beau Pere colt which Harry M. Warner purchased for his wife for $30,000 at the 1947 L. B. ayer dispersal sale; Bob Howard's Drumbeat, which finished fourth in the recent Santa Anita Derby; Dolan and Cunningham's Candy Kane, winner of stakes at Tanforan and Golden Gate Fields; Norman W. Church's Speculation, a $65,000 yearling purchase, and his Royal Chance, a winner in his first out at Hollywood Park last week; Andrew J. Crevolin's Rising Prices, which popped up to win at the box car figure of $93 for $2 at Hollywood Park last Thursday, and Lady Bruce.

DAPS Issue Call For 13 and 14 Year Old Kid Football Players For Don Halftime

The mighty midgets of the Deputy Auxiliary Police, come football season, will once again thunder into the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum to renew the half time rivalry junior size football games that high-lighted the Los Angeles Dons professional schedule last year.

Four teams with representatives from each of the twelve police divisions in the city will comprise the DAP League.

All players must be members of the DAP's prior to July 1, 1948 and eligibility rules limit participation to twelve and thirteen year old boys who will not be fourteen before Sept. 1, 1948. Candidates must be under five feet tall and must not weigh more than one hundred pounds.

Twelve and thirteen year old boys still have an opportunity to join one of these football teams if they join the DAP's before July 1, 1948. Applications for membership in the Deputy Auxiliary Police may be made at the nearest police station.

The four teams, all coached by regular police officers who participated in college football, are:

Mickey Rooney's "Fighting Irish": Combines Wilshire, Venice and West Los Angeles divisions.

Al Jolson's "Sonny Boys": Combines Newton, Hollenbeck and Central divisions.

Jimmy Durante's "Schnozzolas": Combines University, 77th and Harbor divisions.

Bob Hope's "Junior Dons": Combines Highland Park, Valley and Hollywood divisions.

Howard-Oberlin Tangle on Cinders

WASHINGTON — Twenty-one strong, Howard university's CIAA champion track and field team will travel to Oberlin, Ohio, Saturday afternoon to meet a strong Oberlin team in a dual meet, it was announced here this week.

Due to athletic rules in Ohio, which prohibit freshmen from competing in varsity athletics, James Bruce, the Bison's ace miler, will not be allowed to compete against the Oberlin thinclads. However, he will run a special mile race with Oberlin champion miler Phil Thomas.

CHICAGO, Ill.—Winners in ten of their first 12 games in a tour with Satchel Paige and the latter's Kansas City Stars, the mighty Harlem Globetrotters baseball team has only a series coming up with W. S. Welch's powerful Cincinnati Crescents standing between it and a claim to top honors among the nation's best traveling Race aggregations.

Jordon Choice In State Meet

BERKELEY—The prep stars of the state get their last big test of the year this coming Saturday at the University of California's mammoth Edwards Field when the annual state interscholastic track championships are held.

With an array of excellent and tested sprinters and field men, Los Angeles city champion Jordon High School will rate a slight favorite to win its first state spike crown. However, strong competition is expected from Southern Division C. I. F. kingpin San Diego High School, and runner-up Glendale, not to mention the strong Washington High School of San Francisco.

Most of the interest in the meet will center around the sprints which boast the classiest field ever seen in the state. Bill Fell of Compton, Howard Bugby of Redondo, and Johnny Bradley of Glendale have all run the century under 9.7 and the furlong around 21.0. Ollie Matson of Washington High of San Francisco, who runs for the AAU Oakland Bittners, also has been timed in the neighborhood of 9.7 and 21.0. They will face Los Angeles sprinters Fred Thompson and Ed Crawford of Jordon, and Dick Newton of San Fernando and Erbie Schopper of Lincoln.

J. T. Gipson, Theatrical Editor

● Gertrude Gipson CANDID COMMENTS:

NOTES, NEWS AND NONSENSE

Gotta say thanx to my chum and sec. Beulah, for the column last week . . . Great seeing John Lee, the managing editor back at his desk on the EAGLE staff again. Really looks like old times! . . . Angelle Straton, Dorothy Dandradge and Jerry Nichols will be saying adios Monday next when the three leave (by motor) for NY . . . Gee Whiz! Are those alleged talent scouts a bunch-a dopes! They let the talented Raul Stone run around unsigned. He's tall, tan and terrific! And, if we may add an afterthawt, the guy can dance . . . Loe Lutcher and sis, Nellie, will wrap things up wherever they appear on their coming four.

MISS GIPSON

Maestro Joe has his new bus all ready and a-rairin' to go . . . Made the professional reading, as Jay Loft Lynn puts it ("For the Man"). The man, in this case, being the owner of the Balesco theatre. The play, titled "Salt and Pepper To Taste" should be a naural, mainly because it's so REAL, so typical of every day life, the play written and produced by Warren Coleman, with the feminine lead capably handled by (Anna Lucasta) Erma Jean Juniel and Duke Williams taking over the male lead. Roy Glenn should prove to be another great! . . . Here's hoping of the columns favorit fans, Dr. El Robinson a very speedy recovery . . . In case one should ask, the next best thing next to "strawberry's and whipped cream" is a fella named Larry White . . . The ground breaking of the Westview Hospital was all that we had expected it to be, with all nationalities pitching in to make the ceremonies a huge success . . . Herb Jeffries ditty of Basein Street, Toni Harper's "Zip a Dee Do Da", Marion Hutton's Nature Boy, Jack Stern's Orch and their arrangement of "Bolero," the funny antics of Eddie Cantor, Harpo Marx, George Jessel and Alan Mowbray all proved that with American's practicing a democratic way of a life . . . A DEMOCRACY CAN WORK ! ! ! EAGLE Soc. Ed. Jessie Mae Brown now has that bride-eyed look. . . . The Working Handicaps and Good Samaritans Org. headed by Anita Brown are reading themselves for their Introductory Tea June 27th . . . and at this tea a handicapped couple will actually be married, if any of you readers know of such a couple having planned to do this, have them contact this columnist . . . The Les Dames headed by Lillian Randolph have their swanky invitations out for their 2nd Annual Twilight Soiree to be held June 6th.

A LADY AND HER FANS

Jovial Joe King, who makes those terrifically-tailored suits for T-Bone Walker and other noted bandsmen, is opening a shop of his own. His own personal wardrobe is his best advertisement! . . . Dorothy Donegan (who plays more piano with one hand than most musicians do with two) will return to the Angel City to star in the first all-sepia revue ever to be staged at Breneman's restaurant, swank Hollywood play-spot . . . Overheard In The Cresbar: "Yes, she's an oomph girl. Everytime she sits on a sofa it goes ommmph!" . . . Pal Jackson, a fine singer who retired from the profession to become just plain Mrs. Housewife, will return to her singing chores via a bit in a flicker anyday now. She's one of my favorites . . . Perry Johnson (the saxist), at Stuff's Breakfast club the other two in the ayem, discussing music with LZ Cooper and other ace fiddlers . . . Maxie Thrower is the congenial host at Vina's, and Jac LaRue is the sensational pianist. He plays a piano like Sinatra sings a song! . . . Ha The EAGLE's Theatrical Editor reviewed a show at one of the clubs the other sundown. "How'd ja' like it?" the proprietor asked . . . "It stinks," the Ed. said . . . "And who are YOU to say it stinks," retorted the club prop., to which Mr. Reporter fang'd: "And who do you have to be!". Jean Owens (no relation to the Westside deb of the same telephone number) is learning how to smile again. She fell in love with a Pasadena heart-breaker, who broke hers . . . Emma Alams, Joe's lovable Mrs., ring-siding at the Last Word and looking as pretty as she is nice . . . Veronica Bland (of the Clark Dining room staff) gets my vote every day in the week (and twice on Sunday) for being one of the nicest people we know . . . And that goes double for Pecola and Wilbourne DeMarks, of Marks Dairy Malt Shop—on the stem. It's getting to be the fave hangout for the teen-age crowd. And no wonder! Those Frostel Malts! ! ! . . . Earl (whose last name I won't reveal; for the usual reasons) won 3-grand on the races, and dropped in the same nite at the fights . . . Serves him right. Should-a invested in Gov't Bonds!

MEMO'S OF A NEWSGAL

To whom it may concern: No, I'm not getting any younger, I just had one of those ultra, ultra facials over at the Johnson Bath house, 27th and Western, you just don't know what you're missing until you've made one visit to this place. C. T. Webb, say's "You too can have the skin you love to touch after a facial there! ! . . . Aha! Two women chit-chatting in the Last Word: "Say Myrtle, did you know that travels broadens one?" Why yes, Marge, I know that," . . . well my husband say's I must have been all over the world" . . . The guitar artistry of Tiny Grimes with the Nat Rogers combo over at the Zanzibar pleasing to the ear . . . Benny Carter off to New York in time for the Louis-Wallcott fights . . . and speaking of fights thats the lovely Willie Britt you see in all the important places, down from the Bay city for the Bolanas-Williams fight . . . An orchid to Victor Hugo Green for his appointment as the only Negro director to the Hollywood Television Guild . . . those interested may contact Mr. Green for further information . . . Overheard in the Downbeat: "So you have to run home as usual?" scoffed one of the group at the bar as a timid-looking little man rose to leave. "What are you, a man or a mouse?" "A man, of course," replied the little fellow with dignity . . . "What makes you so sure?" demanded the toher . . . "Because," he explained, "my wife is afraid of a mouse." . . . It's about time for that familiar "30" so we'll leave you with this: "Success is like an insult; very few people can take it."

Homecoming Party for Gip Is Scheduled for June 13

Headed by some of the brightest stars in the Kingdom of swing, a galaxy of "names" will be on hand on the Sunday afternoon of June 13, to participate in a gala Homecoming Cocktail Soiree for EAGLE Theatrical Editor, JT Gipson.

Mr. Gipson returned to the City some few weeks ago after an absence of nearly three years, during which time he worked for the NY branch of Downbeat magazine and was Press Agent for several of the bigger names in show business. He was also hospitalized in a Columbus (Ohio) hospital, and the Mayo Brothers clinic, Rochester, Minn., during most of his absence away from the Angel City.

Prior to the popular Theatrical Editor's departure from Hollywood, he was press agent for Lena Horne, the King Cole Trio, Timmie Rogers, Dorothy Donegan and other famous names in the theatrical profession.

The Homecoming event is being sponsored by a group of business and professoinal men known as SPORTSMEN ANONYMOUS, and they are going all out in an effort to make this one of the most gala homecoming events in the history of Hollywood.

T-Bone Walker, who closed a successful engagement last Sunday night at the Last Word cafe, and one of The Gip's closest friends will postpone his cross-country tour until June 14 to be on hand the preceding day to do a few numbers on a star-studded program being planned in Mr. Gibson's honor.

Dorothy Donegan is expected in town, and the bands of Monte Easter, The 5-Bits of Rhythm and Eddie Davis will also be on hand to supply music for your listening pleasure. The entire show from the Last Word and Cricket clubs will also be on hand to do a few tunes for the capacity crowd expected to attend JT Gipson's homecoming party.

The affair will be held from 3 until 8 p.m. at 1918 So. Harvard Blvd.

The lovely and glamorous Lena Horne, who sang at The Gip's wedding back in 1944, has also promised to be on hand to welcome home a lad beloved by all!

That's the description of JT Gipson, reporter and all around grand guy!

Weaver Opens at Cricket Club in S. Vaughn Show

Handsome Ralph Weaver, whose educated dancing feet tapped him to the top of the terpsichorean profession, opens a limited engagement at Paul Rubin's Cricket Club as co-star with the new singing sensation, Sara Vaughn. The Vaughn show moves into the Cricket following The Ravens' four weeks stand, which begins June 2.

Weaver, who first made dancing history when he toured the theatre circuit with the Les Hite band and show, has played most of the smart spots in the country, and has an act that's crowded with class.

He retired from the profession a couple of years ago to open a dancing school in Hollywood, but the lure of the footlights proved too strong and the dapper little dancer returns to his toe-tapping.

Ballerina Ball At Congo May 30

Jimmy Baskette, recent winner of Academy of Arts and Motion Picture Science Oscar Award, will be one of the judges on the Memorial Day matinee hour dance bill Sunday, May 30, at the air-conditioned club Congo, 4215 So. Central Ave. The woman wearing the best looking ballerina outfit will receive two round trip plane tickets to beautiful Santa Catalina Island.

The matinee dance program will feature many outstanding figures of the stage, screen and radio. Audience guests will include many celebrities hardly ever seen on the eastside. Well selected music to suit all dance lovers will be on tap. Maggie Hathaway, well known singer of the stage and screen, will aid Baskette as one of the judges during the ballerina contest.

Participants in the contest will be picked from the audience.

HARRIS' IDEA OF HEAVEN is to be stranded on a desert island with lovely Lena Horne. That's jovial Joe, EAGLE columnist, above with the de-lovely La Horne. Shot was taken at one of Lena's famous "Press" parties, and Joe drooled all over the place. Yep, it's nice work if you can get it—and Brother, Joe's got it; Harris works for the EAGLE when he isn't running around the nite spots having his picture taken with beautiful dolls.

SHARPS 'N FLATS

Cavalleria Rusticana and I Pagliacci

It is not easy to evaluate a production of such major consequences as the Luvenia Nash Singers presentation on last Thursday evening in the Embassy Auditorium without considering certain obvious ramifications.

Of primary import is the fact that any presentation of opera, particularly when that opera is produced and directed under racial sponsorship, is commendable for it is indicative of a great desire on the part of the perpetrators to raise the musical standards of a racial group whose acquaintance with fine music is limited. Almost in the same breath, we must inject the statement that any musical presentation must achieve certain goals and must meet definite musical standards irregardless to the personnel employed.

A sincere evaluation of any presentation is certainly dependent on a criteria. The criteria in this instance might well be the world famous Metropolitan or the San Francisco or even the rather worn San Carlo Opera Company. But the Nash Singers presentation can oly be appraised on its cultural worth to the community in the light of available resources, that is financial, musical, which are in keeping with accepted operatic procedures.

Cavalleria Rusticana, the first of the offerings, was presented with an interracial cast. Although the work was planned perhaps carefully, there was a great feeling of uncertainty or even hesitancy which prevailed. The attacks and releases by the chorus were insecure, the entire production lacked coordination; and the clear uninhibited flow of the operatic scoring lacked the completeness so obvious in Miss Nash's performances last year. We are cognizant of the many obstacles which undoubtedly were prevalent. Mr. Sliva's audible cues to the orchestra, soloists and chorus were disconcerting, to say the least.

Outstanding in her rendition of "Mama Lucia" was Florence Crooksie whose maternal feelings were exemplified in the Farewell duet with Julian Oliver who portrayed Turridu, the village flop. Margaret Pett was convincing but uncertain in her role of Santuzza. Frances Barnes as Alfio possessed not only dramtic ability but excellent operatic vocal projection. He felt his part sincerely. The choral background was especialy good; although the "Regina Coeli" could have been much softer and more devoutly rendered.

Musically, I Pagliacci was far superior to the first presentation. The soloists were highly polished and exceedingly well acquainted with the score both in its musical and dramatic implications. The "Prologue" sung by Stephen Kemalyan, who took the role of Tonio, was superb. The dramatic flare was excellent, the interpretation authentic.

Josephine Lombardo, as Nedda, was particularly outstanding. Her facial expressions and ease of vocal production were highly commendable. This young lady should have many successes.

Robert Sharp, as Peppe, although vocally immature, was sincere.

The entire production staff deserves the plaudits and encouragement of the entire community. We felt, however, that some of our young artists such as Ella Hillson, William Valentine, Mary Young, Louise Meza, Charles Carpenter, or Jeanne Jackson, although inexperienced, would have benefited tremendously by the experience of singing grand opera.

Oratorio Night

Fannie Evelyn Benjamin will be the organist, John Burke and Albert McNeil, the conductors. Several of Mr. Still's piano suites and art songs will be included on the program.

Eighth Notes

The Youth Division of the Musicians Association were presented in a thrilling musical last Tuesday evening in the Second Baptist Church. The program was under the direction of Marjorie Carter, sponsor. . . . The Los Angeles Musicians Association will honor S. Luberta Chisholm, distinguished Detroit soprano, on Sunday May 30 with a tea at the home of George Robert Garner, 440 No. Westmorland. The program is scheduled for 4:30 p.m. . . . Lorenza Jordan Cole, public school music teacher and concert pianist, will appear on the National Artist Night Program at the National Association of Negro Musicians Annual Convention in Columbus, Ohio, August 17.

Birds But No Bees

After years of planning and waiting a dream has come true for bird lovers and students of bird life in this area in the form of a new "Hall of Birds and Small Mammals" to be formally opened to the public at the Los Angeles County Museum in Exposition Park at 8 p.m. Thursday, May 27, according to an announcement by James H. Breasted Jr., Museum director.

Members of the Audubon Societies and other groups interested in birds and wild life will take part in the ceremonies dedicating the new Hall.

For some grand reading, "dig" a copy of Frank Yerby's latest sure-to-be best-seller "THE GOLDEN HAWK," should out-sell his FOXES OF HARROW. . . . Pete Sheppard, one of the better bartenders along the 'main stem' and an all-right guy, has his sights trained on higher things, he's diligently studying voice culture, he'll make the grade all right. . . . If you're hep the BARTENDER'S BALL at the CRYSTAL CENTER Sat. May 29th should be on your "must" list. See your fave bartender for tickets. There'll be no sale at the door. . . . The hottest combo to hit the "lane" in quite a spell is Marl Young and his "moodie groovie" sextet, featuring Judy Carol on the vocals. They're currently puttin' it down solid-for-the people at the DOWN BEAT. . . . Roy Milton and his "mad" gang returned to L. A. this week after a sensational Eastern tour. Leroy LaMarr, former head bartender of the Club Cobra, joined Milton as road manager on his recent jaunt. Made lots of friends and proved his worth at his new post. . . . the band only made a short stop in L. A. they're headed northward for a short engagement, may open at the Congo here on their return. . . . Handsome John Pettigrew, trombonist par-excellence, formerly with the Johnny Otis Band is thinking of organizing his own combo. . . . The sensational TRENIER TWINS, Claude and Cliff, close a successful engagement this week at Riverside's SOMERSET HOUSE. . . . The Westview Hospital ground-breaking ceremony was not only a history-making event, but a star-studded one. . . . Is it true that the SADDLE PALS social and Athletic club is disintegrating so soon, because of too many waggin' tongues? Girls will be girls, won't they? meo-w-w!! . . . Cutie Emily Welch is now pourin' her personality over an OWL Drug fountain counter, but good! . . . Stuff Crouch, owner of the BACKSTAGE breakfast club, trained to Louisiana last weekend. His mother passed. To him this "pillar" extends its most sincere condolence. . . . A "deuce of lovlies" Ruth Beane and Mary Smith must 've had a successful "day at the races" last Saturday, they were still smilin' when I saw them cocktailin' at an Avenue nite spot sunday-pee-em!! Thanx to all those fine social clubsters whose invites I received in the mail, If I didn't make your affair over the week-end, it wasn't because I didn't try. . . . AS AN INNOCENT BYSTANDER, I had the opportunity to watch a poker game t'udder ay-em and this (to make a long story short) is what happened: one of the "players" to got to keep his hands "above the table," now when next winter rolls aroun' that poor fella only has to buy "ONE" glove." . . . Adios Amigos.

Bobbe Caston to Hold Forth at Last Word Club

Bobbe Caston's back in town and the Last Word's got her! Presenting a hot array of talent, the Last Word management spared no expense in lining up a sensational show to follow the dynamic record-breaking four weeks of T-Bone Walker, who opened Monday night at the New Orleans club, San Francisco.

Miss Caston, returning to the Word for the second time by popular demand, is a tall, good-looking, brownskin babe who doesn't resort to trick tonsilling to put her songs across. A bright-eyed young lady with some trim curves, she sings in a clean, deep, sincere voice and stands to become a top nightclub attraction, as if she isn't already!

This new show combines the talents of the hottest attractions on the coast. There's Dan Grissom, who chirped with the Late Jimmie Lunceford for as many years as I care to remember. This Black and White recording star should hypo biz at the Word, for who wouldn't walk a mile to hear Jimmie sing? Emily Foster is still there. And Emily Foster is alone worth the price of admission to any club! Miss Foster is a terrific little dancer-singer who wears several low-cut evening gowns and sidles about like a minor Mae West.

Teddy Rudolph and his 5-Bits Of Rhythm are hold-overs. The Bits, whose tunes are juke-box favorites, are one of the entertainingest little groups in the Kingdom of swing today! Some talent scout oughta scout out to the Word and "discover" the Rudolph rhythm-makers. They're hey-ninety-ninety and hotcha-cha!

Fluffy Hunter, fresh from the New Orleans club sun with Buddy Banks' band, is another new attraction destined to "go places" in show biz. It's pretty hard to describe her style of entertainment other than to say she's on the ball. She sings. She dances. She does things to a song that I've never heard done to a song before. And that's good, because I like anything as long as it's different—and her style of chirping is different.

It's a good show at the Last Word. And even the food there is good, which is saying something because most nightclub food tastes like something you swear you'll never eat again. Steve and Esther Williams is charge d'affaires of the culinary dep't, and what cooks!

The Last Word has the best show in town, if you ask me.

And even if you didden!

Noted Composer to Appear in Concert Saturday Evening

Earl Robinson, singer-composer of "Ballad For Americans," "The Lonesome Train," and innumerable motion picture scores, and Sir Lancelot, famed Calypso King, appear with Les Pine and "The Berries" in "Hootenanny at Midnight," May 29th, 11:45 p.m. at the Beaux Arts Theatre, 8th & Beacon, the closing concert in the "Midnight Special" series presented by People's Songs.

Best described as a folk-singing jam session, the "Hoot" will offer topical material from the pen of Robinson and Sir Lancelot, as well as the traditional folk songs of the nation. Les Pine will present his latest satirical numbers, and "The Berries," sensational girl trio, will sing a selection of Palestinian songs.

The Hootenanny concludes a rare series for Los Angeles during which People's Songs has presented such outstanding American folk-singers as Josef Marais and Miranda, Marie Bryant, Pete Seeger, Earl Robinson and Sir Lancelot of Trinidad.

No Jim Crow for Washington Show

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Officials in the Capitol have given their assurance that the Belasco Theatre, now held by the Treasury Department as a storehouse, will become available as a legitimate house this fall. It will have a non-discriminatory policy on both sides of the footlights. The Belasco, once a legit theatre, will be targeted as the first step to a full understanding of Civil Rights in the Chief City of the world's greatest capitals. It will spearhead a program for breaking down segregation under the nose of the State of the nation.

"Democracy is not to be defended by adopting undemocratic methods. Mere opinions and associations should not be penalized."

● J. T. GIPSON

MY DAY: A day with a local Theatrical columnist would net you this: You force yourself out of bed at the crack of dawn which would mean anywhere from 11 a.m. to 12:05 p.m. After groping around for your house slippers you finally make it to the Men's Powder Room barefooted as usual, to listen to the musical fizz of youzz daily Bromo and asking yourself (again) "Why didn't I pass up that last drink?" Without so much as tasting the Bromo, you pour it down the drain and decide to settle for a cup of black java.

While watching the curl of smoke drift lazily from your first cigarette you automatically close your eyes and try to focus your mind on a few flash backs of the action that happened the night before. You are abruptly shaken out of your dreams by the monotonous ringing of the telephone, after changing Alexander Graham Bell's name a few times you stop the ringing with a weak "Hello." In a sugar sweet voice this is what you get in return, "My dear Mr. Gipson we are terribly sorry to interrupt your beauty nap, but this just so happens to be our deadline day and since everyone else is here working like little busy bees, we all decided it would be very nice if you were with us. Gee whiz! I hate to bother you with these little trivial matters, but we were expecting you at nine o'clock, office policy and all that sort of thing. Now please take your time and don't rush. BUT BROTHER, if you're not here in 15 minutes YOU'RE FIRED!

"Yes, Ma'am, Mrs. Bass, I know the theatrical page goes to press in an hour, and I'll be sure and have it on your desk in time. . . . ooOOH No, Mrs. Bass, that must have been my brother holding up those two fellows, why I was home working on a story last night. . . . But ma'am I – I – yes Ma'am."

BANG!! (Of course that was the inter-office door). Then you begin to wish you had taken that job as a County Sewer Inspector instead of working on a newspaper. Under a pile of copy paper, notes, press releases and tabloid sheets you find your typewriter, and then the fun really begins. You loose your tie, unbutton your collar, roll up your sleeves and throw your hat in the general direction of the clothes tree, and proceed to earn your daily bread. And this my dear friends is what you read: The DION MUSES are expecting another little INCOME TAX deduction. He's Clarence's boy. . . : HADDA BROOKS hadda cold last wk but still sounded pretty on the JOE ADAMS show. . . . JB BROWN and T-BONE WALKER will open a Record shop on the stem. . . . The poppy-cocktail party set is breathless over the goings-on of one of its pet debs. Spends each evng at one of the clubs waiting for a married fello who musicians there. . . . JIMMIE BAKER taking refuge on the beach at Santa Monica to escape the memory of a lost love. Says the waves make you forget. . . . I've spent every night in the CLUB CONGO listening to IONA WADE sing. Nothing bad happened to me as a result, except she is fast becoming my favorite. . . . YOUNGSTERS won't remember but oldtimers will, how ALTON REDD used to beat them skins. Wotta drummer! . . . MARGO VIVIANO is the newest visitor to beautify our town. Furloughing here from Detroit. . . . Those off-the-shoulder dresses of DOLORES McZEAL are refreshing to the eyes. . . . ALYCE KEYS (thass muh pal!) and JOE MORRIS chit-chatting at the CRICKET with JULIUS "stuff" CROUCH. . . . LENA HORNE (a vision of loveliness in anybody's dream!) opened with the proverbial bang last night at SLAPSY MAXIE'S. And the party she threw for HERMAN HILL, yours truly (and other reporters) was the Last Word! . . . McCLURE "RED MACK" MORRIS, who tooted the hottest horn around these parts (before LLOYD REESE came on the scene) has switched over to drums. . . . Guitarist LES PAUL is recuperating from an auto accident. His arm is in a sling, but as tho they can afford to. . . . SNOWBALL McKINNEY ("The Human Top") will open in Denver as soon as his CLUB CONGO engagement expires. . . . YOU can reach T-BONE WALKER at the Edison Hotel, San Francisco. . . . Finger Snap: When I die I want SMILEY TURNER to sing "SEPTEMBER SONG" at my funeral. My only request . . . . There's no SCHOOL SPIRIT lacking at Jefferson Hi. During the last track meet (out of 2289 students) only 44 didn't buy tickets! That's loyalty to a good principle, Dr. FISHER! . . . MAXIE THROWER singing "I Wonder What's Become of Sally" reminds me of the late SALLY HARPER. I have a memory of SALLY'S songs to cheer me when I'm blue! . . . BUDDY BANKS is back in town. Closed a terrif engagement at the NEW ORLEANS club, Frisco, last wk. . . . Mr. and Mrs. JOHNNY CORNISH ring-siding at the Last Word and applauding he's still driving his Cad. . . . SPEAKING of Cadillacs, some of these guys on the stem wreck 'em the singing of a blues shouter. . . . JACK LaRUE (my fave of the local piano-pounders) is clicking at VINA'S, a cozy WESTSIDE spot. . . . ANDREW LEE LEWIS, a little 4-year-old BILL ROBINSON, signed a 2-year contract with HAL ROACH studios. He can sing. He can act. He can dance. And he's the only youngster in the movies I know of whom you can say, "He's terrific," without having to add . . . for a kid. His handsome little mugg will appear in the next issue of ACADEMY AWARD mag. What a sensational little youngster he is!!! . . . LARRY FORD (of the team HARRIS and FORD) was in town last wk for a few days. He returned to Spokane, Wash., where the two are breaking records at the GREEK-AMERICAN club. They go into the APOLLO in June. . . . Here's a free song-title if some of you wanna wrap some lyrics around it: "I Lied To Myself (When I Said I Wasn't in Love)." . . . MARY COLE is the pretty little doll who beautifies the MEMO delicatessen dept. . . . EMILY FOSTER opens at the MELODY CLUB soon. And I'm sorry. The place is prejudiced. The other evng Mrs. FLETCHER SMITH (wife of the famed Trumpeter who works there!) was denied a table. (Hey, Melrose! Check on that and give me the full report!) . . . CHARLES MULLENS down from FRISCO and enjoying the sights of our town with LEROY GIBSON and our gal-pal, FLO BLACKWELL. . . . SYL SCOTT is sensash at the DOWNBEAT club. And you oughta hear GEO. VANN ("The Blues Man") chirp them vocals! . . . Here's another reason we love JOE ADAMS, our Adopted Son: June 8th the popular KOWL "Mayor of Melody" will entertain the Students and Faculty at JEFFERSON HI with a star-studded show. The RAVENS; T-BONE WALKER (will return from Frisco for that date); EDDIE DAVIS' ork; MAGGIE HATHAWAY; and a host of other stars! . . . BE-BOP (the record-boy) is a fine cat, and has anything in the line of discs you want. From Swing to Be-Bop! . . . NO doll we know is more interesting to chat with than LUCILLE O'DANIEL, of the BACKSTAGE club. And she's as nice as she is fine! . . . MAYBELLE JACKSON (Ciggie gal at the Word) is in love way up to her heart. His name is JAMES DIGGS! . . . EURANIUS JACKSON (she's a cute little thing no bigger than a soft whisper) would be so nice to come home to. Her loveliness leaves me limp! . . . BILLIE HOLIDAY will follow BILLIE ECKSTINE into the CRICKET CLUB. BILLIE follows SARA VAUGHN who follows the RAVENS. . . . And it's people like HORACE CLARK, JR. who make it a fine old world to live in. A really GRAND GUY, and his friendship is as sincere as a handclasp from the late FDR! . . . That being that, period.

The qualifications for both the Presidential and Vice-Presidential candidates as stated in the Constitution, are that they be at least 35 years of age, natural born citizens, and residents in the U. S. for more than 14 years.

Nature Boy Suit

NEW YORK — Eden Ahbez, bearded nomad of the California hills who wrote the jukebox favorite, "Nature Boy," was named defendant in a copyright suit filed last week in State Supreme Court.

An actor-composer, Herman Yablokoff, said Ahbez stole the song from one he wrote in 1935, entitled "Be Calm, My Heart." He asked for an injunction to stop further publication of "Nature Boy," pending a determination of damages.

Chic Chick Clicks As Miss Owens Turns to Photography

By JT GIPSON

Jeannette Owens is a dancer turned photographer, and I decided to drop in on the comely lass at the Downbeat club, on Central avenue, where she takes your picture, and find out why the sudden desire to get in back of the camera instead of remaining in front of one.

Escorting her into a far corner of the room, away from the noise of the intermission blues singer, I ordered a round of drinks and let her talk about herself.

"The theatrical profession is okey," she said, "but I have acquired a daily habit that can't be broken and I find it necessary in order to support my habit to turn something with more of a future in it." all out of breath and with no puncuation is how she said it.

A bit confused, and thinking Oh No!—the kid's too young and pretty for that sort of thing, I asked a bit bewildered: "Just what kind of HABIT it is you're supporting, Miss Owens?"

"Why EATING, of course, what else did you think?"

I looked like the biggest fool they all say I am, and changed the subject.

I asked Miss Owens, a California cutie with copper-colored tresses, if during the course of an evening she sometimes encounters men who make passes at her.

"Well," she said, looking at me slyly, "Men are wolves all over the world, whether you're taking their picture or sitting for a newspaper interview."

It should have said something in defense of my profession, but I merely smiled charmingly.

Miss Owens said that she enjoys her work because it gives you a chance to meet people, and she likes people more than anyone else.

I listened carefully to her voice, as it dripped with honey.

"Right now," she said, "I'm seriously interested in this work, and it would take a mighty tempting offer for me to return to dancing."

Prior to entering her new profession Miss Owens danced in some of the top hot spots, and was a member of the famed Alabam chorus of cuties. Miss Owens is a college graduate, and majored in Home Economics, and if you wonder how she wound up as a nightclub photographer the answer is very simple.

Any of the Home Economists in your neighborhood earning a C note a week?

Nellie Lutcher

That "real gone gal" moved in on the Red Feather in Los Angeles May 18, has a date in Vancouver up Canada way on June 14. She'll be back in New York, at the Apollo Theater, August 27, and goes into Cafe Society Downtown on September 7 for a 10-week stay.

Salute to 'Fats' Flops in East; 'Concert' Cold

NEW YORK — (CNS) — In a three-hour, dragged-out affair, entitled "Salute to Fats Waller," composers De Falla, Ravel and other lesser known modern ones somehow managed to come in for a share of honoring along with the tuneful Fats, for whose birth this Carnegie Hall concert was designed to commemorate. Whether the error was because Fats did not compose enough to enrich a three-hour concert, or simply because poor management failed to garner artists knowing enough Waller music, we have our doubts.

High spot of the program was the first performance of the London Suite as arranged and conducted by the talented Calvin Jackson. This intriguing music in six movements was needlessly interrupted six times with hackneyed explanations that should have been program notes, else entirely dispensed with as the music was self-explanatory.

Bill Robinson's soft shoe dancing to "Ain't Misbehavin'" was done as Waller would have liked it, though we wondered about Robinson's extra added attraction: Long jokes and act on how he would dance 40 years hence.

Bob Howard, a wonderful rolypoly replica of Fats, somehow stuck to the theme of the evening with ten Waller tunes, in the Waller manner.

Benny Goodman

Patrons of Philadelphia's Click club get another listen at the Benny Goodman clarinet when he moves in with his sextet on May 24. Oddity of this combo is that two "sticks" will be featured, Benny and Stan Hasselgard, young Swedish artist, both giving out on the clary.

ANNIE LAURIE headlines the June show at the Downbeat Club, opening there with the Paul Gayten Trio June 17. Miss Laurie, who looks almost as pretty as she sings, rose to sing-sational heights with her recording of "Since I Fell for You." Her singing has sex appeal!

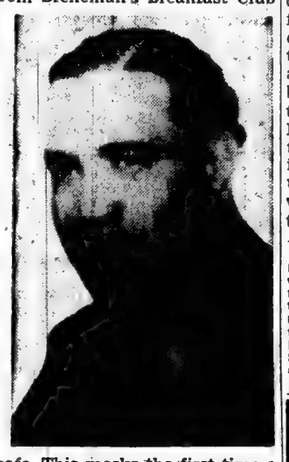
LaBeach Victor in Pattonless 100



MODESTO — With Mel Patton watching from the sidelines, Lloyd LaBeach easily won the 100-yard dash that was supposed to be the feature of the California Relays held here Saturday night before 7000 dismayed fans.

Scratched minutes before the race by his coach, Dean Cromwell, on the pretense of being bothered with "tight muscles," Patton watched the rangy LaBeach turn back Barney Ewell, Ernest Lighter of UCLA, and Herb McKenley in the comparatively slow time of 9.7.

Outstanding times were recorded by the University of Texas' fast 440 and 880 relay teams that established two meet records of 40.9 and 1:25.3; Los Angeles City College's 440 relay team of Baker, Ross, Williams and Sims, that established a new national junior college record of 42.1; and UCLA's Craig Dixon, who toured the high hurdles in 14.3.

Erskine Hawkins Breaking Records

NEW YORK CITY.—When Erskine Hawkins started on his current tour of the country, the band business was faced with one of the worst business slumps since before the war. The top orchestras were flopping in dance halls that usually were good for as much as $10,000. Faced with the problems of either cutting his orchestra to the bone or coming up with a new idea, the Hawk chose the latter and introduced a Dance Carnival, and with this idea has been setting box office records from coast to coast.

He started out in February with his band revamed to fit the Dance Carnival idea, which gave away free RCA Ictor merchandise and presented an intimate revue as well as dance music, and the public immediately took a liking to the gimmick. All along the way, halls and clubs have been packed with new idea-hungry audiences. And Hawkins found out one of the big reasons the band business was dying.

"Bands like the Sammy Kaye and Horace Heidt groups are still doing top business on all of their dates," explains the famed bandleader, "and the reason is that they have new ideas in how to present music. All of the other bands still just get on a bandstand and play music. There is no novelty and the public is currently hungry for novelties in music. I think that's why my band is clicking wherever we go. The Dance Carnival is the first new novelty offered the public since the war ended."

Spots to Ciro's

PHILADELPHIA — One of the country's most exclusive nightclub's, Ciro's, signed the Ink Spots to a contract for an appearance beginning June 14. Frank Palumbo, fabulous owner of the club announced. Famed for being the home of the smartest entertaining units, Ciro's is the Palace Theatre of today. All acts dream of someday being booked there. Starting June 14, the mink and tails citizenry of Philadelphia will be able to listen to the vocal antics of America's most popular quartet at the ultra-exclusive Ciro's. Which is what we were trying to say in the first place.

Prayer Changes Things

To believe is to have faith, to have faith is to believe in one that can help us gain a greater faith through PRAYER.

We pray that someday we will attain that goal or achieve that desire and find the peace and happiness that we once longed for.

Whether the problem is large or small, he will help you, and never fail you, if you are sincere. Why not give him a chance? Those of you that have strayed away from his teachings and have lost all faith and belief, why not try prayer, for it really changes things.

R.J. Dear Prof. Herman: I have been hearing about your wonderful works and blessings, and would like to have you write me at your earliest convenience. Again I wish to thank you for answering my question in the column last week, for I realize that due to the limited amount of space and the many questions you have coming in from time to time, it is impossible to answer all of them.

H.C.W. What happened to the money?

ANSWER: After giving your question careful thought and money jointly and have discovered the sum of $10.00 missing. It seems that your husband thinks you took this money, but to avoid any further difficulty I suggest your placing this money in a bank or post office for safekeeping.

A.V. Does he love me?

ANSWER: Probing into the matter I find that your friend is indeed very fond of you and will prove this as time goes on. You need not have any doubt regarding his sincerity.

Mrs. E.E. Will I get married? Will I have a house of my own? Will my plans prove successful?

ANSWER: Only one question is answered in the column due to the limited amount of space.

LOCATION

This is a new Country Homesite Subdivision located within forty miles of, or one hour's drive from Los Angeles, a few hundred feet east of Highway No. 99 - the busiest highway in the world. Where cars pass every second and buses pass every few minutes, where you have the convenience of city life, but only county taxes; no city taxes. Where you are actually in the front or back yard of Los Angeles, being only thirteen (13) miles from the City Limits of Los Angeles, one mile south of Castaic, Calif., where there are schools and where you can purchase most of the dire necessities of life. Work may be obtained in nearby communities, such as Castaic, Saugus, Newhall, San Fernando, Burbank, Van Nuys, Glendale and parts of North Hollywood.

PROPOSED ATTRACTIONS

Here in this beautiful terraced Subdivision, we are geographically located from twenty-five to two hundred feet higher elevation than the highway, therefore most of the homesites overlook the highway. Just far enough away not to be bothered with noise and traffic, but close enough to enjoy the benefits of transportation. Here in this secluded spot, at the very opening of Charley and Tapia Canyons, we propose to erect, build, and maintain as permanent attractions; 1st, community club house; 2nd, a large swimming pool finished with tile and shower bath building annexed; 3rd, a full double-sized tennis court; 4th, parking area of approximately one and one-half acres; 5th, a five acre lake for fishing and boating; 6th, riding academy with access to five miles of Canyon Riding trail; 7th, picnic grounds; 8th, baseball park for the kiddies just opposite and adjoining the picnic grounds.

Over 100 Lots Now For Sale

Free Barbecue, Sunday, May 30—1:00 P. M.

UTILITIES

At present, we have perhaps one of the very best water wells in the Community. The well is located in one of the highest water basins in Southern California, where you can get surface water three feet deep. The well is only 112 feet deep, but water stands within six (6) feet from the top surface. It has produced 1550 gallons of water per minute, without phasing the source of supply. Enough water to supply a community of several hundred families. Electricity is now on the property. Natural gas is only a few hundred feet away, right on Highway 99. Approximately two and one quarter (2¼) miles of four inch water pipe is already placed over the property involving an expenditure of approximately Thirty Thousand dollars ($30,000). The roads will be put in according to the requirements of the County Road Department. These subdivision roads will be from forty (40) to sixty (60) feet wide, which will prevent traffic congestion and permit curbs and sidewalks if desired in the future.

PROTECTIVE BUILDING AND OTHER RESTRICTIONS

We propose to protect the lot or homesite buyers in this subdivision by and through certain building restrictions, business and residential sections, uniform building set backs, sanitary septic cesspools and other portective features which are designed to protect property owner's investments; also enhance and secure the values, architectural approval and supervision on all buildings.

O. L. BANKS, OWNER & SUBDIVIDER

May 25, 1948

J. B. Murray, licensed surveyor, 333 West 2nd Street, Los Angeles, Calif., says of "Bank's Terrace":

During the past two weeks I have doubled my crew of Field Surveyors at Banks Terrace in staking off lots in this beautiful subdivision, because the demand for lots has far exceeded the supply of them by my former crew. However, there are now over one hundred (100) staked off and numbered lots for sale, and available to the buying public.

Sincerely,
Signed, J. B. MURRAY,
Surveyor of Banks Terrace

MODERATE PRICES FOR HOMESITES

Prices of the large lot country homesites range from $400 to $650; with terms at 10% down and $10.00 per month including 6% (Six per cent) interest. A $10.00 deposit will be sufficient to secure your lot, the balance of 10% in 30 days will give you a contract payable $10.00 (Ten dollars) per month at a bank. Title insurance furnished by a reputable Title Company.

DIRECTIONS: HOW TO GET THERE

Go out North Figueroa, turn to left at Last Tunnel (See sign "Riverside Drive") Stay on Riverside Drive past Griffith Park; cross Lockheed Airplane Factory to San Fernando Blvd., then stay on Highway 99 through the town of San Fernando. When you get to Castaic Junction or Tips Cafe; go straight North on 99 approximately 2 (two) miles, then turn to right off Highway, where you will see a sign "Banks Terrace"; then only a few hundred feet to sub-division.

Smuts' Defeat Perils Britain's African Empire

By Jay Morgan

LONDON—With the victory of Dr. D. F. Malan over Field Marshal Jan Christian Smuts still having an incredulous ring in the ears of thousands throughout the world, speculation is already rife as to the effect the amazing election upset in the Union of South Africa Parliamentary contest will have on the future of the British Empire.

It is no secret that Malan fa-

ON THE SIDEWALK
By C. A. B.

HOW SHALL I VOTE?

This question coming over the wire Tuesday morning, gave the tone for one of the busiest days in my newspaper experience.

"How did you register?" I flashed back.

"What I want to know from you," she continued, without answering my question, "How can I vote for Wallace?"

After much patient questioning I ascertained that the lady had registered Democratic, and had to vote the Democratic ticket, using her "write-in" preogative, however.

This was the type of question that went on and off until 20 minutes before closing time for the polls; when a prospective voter complained that she had been denied an Independent Progressive ballot, I finally wrang from her that she, too, had registered Democrat and later had a change of heart, but had not had time to change her registration.

This day's experience gave me an insight as to what is actually going on in the minds of the voters.

The people are fed up with lies in the newspapers, on the radios, at political meetings, to the extent that they are frusterated confused, and bewildered.

THE MUNDT-NIXON BILL

That monster, the Mundt-Nixon police state bill, which dogs the heels of all liberty loving people every step of the way, has virtually been endorsed by the people of the 12th Congressional District, California, when they nominated Richard Nixon, co-author of the bill, on both the Democratic and Republican tickets.

That means according to our queer California election law, he is virtually re-elected by a large majority.

Did the people of the 12th District know what they were voting for when they voted for Nixon? We don't believe it. They were told it would outlaw Communism. It probably will, if adopted and it becomes a law. But it can also outlaw the Catholic Church. It can send to jail the very persons who voted for Nixon, if they dare to criticize, as is their Constitutional right, anything our government or any government representative does of which they may not approve.

Surely they knew not what they were doing. It is just another example of the confusion with which the voters of California voted last Tuesday.

Harbor Unions Meet to Define Strike Picture

The Joint Maritime Committee of the Los Angeles-Long Beach harbors representing CIO Maritime Unions, met last week in the Longshoremen's office, in Wilmington, California, and approved a conference call to be sent to all unions in the harbor area. The conference will be held at 11 a.m. Friday, June 4, in the Operating Engineers Hall (AFL) for the purpose of explaining the issues confronting the harbor in a possible shutdown of shipping activity June 15.

Reports on negotiations were made by representatives of the various unions present. W. S. Lawrence, reporting for the ILWU, said a bad situation exists with negotiations broken off in San Francisco. Dennis Hooper, Marine Cooks and Stewards, reported a stalemate in negotiations for that union. Ken Osthimer, speaking for NMU Agent Anthony Lucio, stated that the

Mundt Police State Bill Condemned At Hearing

Two men of traditional American stature, sat with a Committee of the United States Senate this week and reaffirmed their belief in democracy and in so doing, established the right of the common man to defy even the forces of government when their basic freedom is threatened. Appearing as leaders of the great mass of solid American citizens who are uncompromisingly opposed to the Mundt-Nixon Bill, Paul Robeson and Henry Wallace, People's Candidate for president of the United States, sounded the theme for resistance against the attempt to silence the criticism being levelled against government leaders who are subtly paving the way for domestic fascism.

Paul Robeson electrified the nation when he testified and defied the efforts of committee members to disclose his political affiliation. Standing firmly against the angry prodding of committee members, Robeson repeatedly declared he would not answer any question that was an invasion of his right to secrecy of the ballot. Threats of contempt charges failed to move Robeson and he completed his testimony at the hearing with a stature of leadership that has been growing through the years.

Henry Wallace, declaring to the committee that the "Mundt-Nixon Bill is a block to peace," continued the role he has been playing as the champion of genuine American freedom and democracy. Assailing the bill as a threat to peace, and a "declaration of war on the right of free speech and asembly," Wallace said he was a believer in "old-fashioned Americanism."

The group that is in Washington this week to oppose passage of the Mundt-Nixon Bill is the vanguard of the great masses of citizens who are slowly realizing that the bill is designed as a control, not only for communism, but for anything its makers desire to control.

A detailed plank demanding complete abolition of Jim Crow from America is certain to be adopted by the 2500 delegates who will attend, Robeson said.

The platform and other committees will meet on July 21 and 22. Two Negro leaders—Roscoe Dunjee, Oklahoma city editor, and Mrs. Charlotta A. Bass, Los Angeles, Cal., publisher of the California EAGLE, are among the 10 committee officers.

American Women Deny Subversive List Inference

Emphatically denying that the Congress of American Women is "subversive," the local chapter of the CAW today issued a statement protesting its inclusion on Attorney-General Clark's list of subversive organizations. Calling attention to its program in the interest of all American women, the Congress statement said:

"That there is anything subversive about the Congress of American Women, either in the national organization or the Los Angeles chapter, we categorically deny.

"Exactly one hundred years ago, in 1848, women in America first organized to demand an improvement in their status, the right to vote, to own property, to speak from a public platform, to receive equal pay for equal work. They were denounced by the press as "ism-izers of the rankest stamp.

"The Congress of American Women is carrying on in the best tradition of the noble and far seeing women who began that women's rights movement to which all women of America now owe so many of their present rights and privileges."

Canal Zone Jim-Crow Hit By Congressman

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Congressman A. Clayton Powell Jr. of New York stated this week that the Jim-Crow conditions faced by the co-called "silver" workers on the Panama Canal Zone are as bad as the system of discrimination faced by the Negro in Mississippi.

Mr. Powell made the statement at a reception which he held in his office for a group of "silver" workers who are in the United States as delegates from Local 713, UPW-CIO, to the Second National Convention of the United Public Workers of America, CIO. Present with Mr. Powell were the following Congressmen: Mr. Celler, (N.Y.); Mr. Klein, (N.Y.); Mr. Havenner, (Cal.); Mr. Sadowski, (Mich.); Mr. Blatnick, (Minn.); Mr. Isaacson, (N.Y.); Mr. Buchanan, (Pa.); and Mr. Huber, (Ohio).

The Congressmen heard the story of the Jim-Crow "silver-gold" system. (The "silver-gold" system designates all non-U.S. citizens as "silver" employees and all U. S. citizens as "gold" employees resulting in segregatio and discrimination on a social and economic basis).; the 22c per hour minimum wage; the $25 a month pension and the inadequate housing, health, recreational and educational facilities which are offered to the silver workers on the Canal Zone. The majority of "silver" workers are West Indian Negroes, citizens of Panama and other Latin American countries, and Hindus and Chinese. They are all employees of the U. S. Government.

The delegates stated that the cost of living on the Canal Zone was little less than the cost of living in the U. S. with butter at 85c a pound, eggs at 65c a dozen and milk at 27c a quart. (This is not Grade A milk.) The silver workers pay the same price for commodities on the Canal Zone that are paid by the gold workers who earn from $250 to $500 a month. The average monthly wage of a silver worker is between $40 and $60 a month.

Congressman Powell told the delegates that he intended to visit the Panama Canal Zone in the not too far distant future to make a further study of the discriminatory conditions. In the meanwhile, he and the other Congressmen promised to take every possible step to improve the conditions of these employees of the U. S. government. The following legislation has been introduced: 1. A bill to establish a 40c an hour minimum wage; 2. A bill to establish an adequate retirement system; 3. A bill to establish equality of opportunity.

The delegation which was headed by Pascual Ampudia of Local 713, UPW, consisted of D. Alexis, F. G. Bournes, G. Lewis, C. Green, Mr. J. Sachs and Max Brodsky. They were accompanied by Thomas Richardson and William Hays of the UPW national office.

Classes are now forming for Civil Service Preparation at the 28th St. branch of the YMCA. Professor R. C. Jackson, instructor and coordinator, will be assisted by civil service employees who will place emphasis on preparation for current examinations for policeman, fireman, mail carrier and mail clerk. Registration continues June 3 3, at 7:30 p.m. in Room B, 2nd Floor.

peared in Washington last week to testify against this monstrous piece of injustice were Henry A. Wallace and Paul Robeson.

Said Wallace: "The Mundt-Nixon bill is a block to peace. We can't have peace with Russia if we approach Russia with the atom bomb in one hand and the Mundt bil in the other."

Wallace took half an hour to read his prepared 3000-word statement. He called this bill "a declaration of war on the rights of free speech and free assembly in the United States. He said he is a believer in "old-fashioned Americanism," and noted that Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, William O. Douglas, has said there are less than 100,000 Communists in this country.

Why should the great United States of America be so scared of such a mere handful of idealists- was the question he seemed to imply.

The people know, too, that Paul Robeson, their brother in the fight for freedom and liberty, also appeared before this same Senate Judiciary Committee. He told them in no uncertain terms that he believed this bill to be the most flagrant transgression of liberty to freedom-loving peoples since the days of slavery.

"You have already placed 19 Americans in jail," he told the Committee, "for believing in the Constitution of the United States and for standing upon the rights guaranteed them in the Constitution. I'll go there, too, if necessary, to prove I believe in liberty and in real Americanism."

The people of America know Paul Robeson is an advocate not only of freedom and liberty for dark Americans, but, for the people everywhere in the world who are in a state of oppression, because of their race, color, religion, or nationality.

Among the 14,000,000 Negro people in the United States, Paul Robeson stands out as the one who above all others has championed not only the cause of the Negro but of all the oppressed people everywhere. He should be almost adored by his fellow Negroes. He has given up fame, honor, a position netting him thousands of dollars. For Robeson is an artist not only among Negroes, but an artist among all Americans, among all the artists of the world.

All this acclaim and glory and honor he has gladly pushed aside that he may work for a better world for me and for you, for all the people everywhere.

Shall we believe those, then, who would tell us that Robeson is an enemy of government and as such should be frowned upon by his own, in radio and newspaper?

A million-dollar plant for production of malleable iron castings is being erected by General Metals Corp., Frank N. Rush, chairman of the industrial development committee of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, announced this week.

Rush said he was informed by William A. DeBidder, president of the corporation, that the plant, adjoining the firm's facilities in Vernon, is scheduled for completion next September and that it will produce between 400 and 500 tons of casting per month.

"The corporation plans to make this the largest and most modern malleable iron factory in the west," Rush said, 'and it will be the most highly mechanized one in the country.

5 Congressmen Elected In Primary Due to Cross Filing; Other Vote Returns

From the latest reports as we go to press, it seems that, due to California's unusual cross-filing system, at least five members of Congress from Southern California were nominated on both the Democratic and Republican tickets. In no other state in the Union can a Republican file on the Democratic ticket, or a Democrat on the Republican ticket, and so confuse the voters no end.

But as it is the following candidates were nominated on both the Republican and Democratic tickets, and so their election in November is virtually assured. They are: Richard Nixon, Republican, filed on the Democratic ticket, and won both nominations in the 12th district; Gordon L. McDonough, R., likewise won both nominations in the 15th; Carl Hinshaw, R., won both nominations in the 20th; Cecil R. King, D., won both nominations in the 17th; and Harry R. Sheppard, D., won both nominations in the 21st.

Helen Gahagan Douglas, our Congresswoman from the 14th, won the Democratic nomination, but lost to Wallace Braden for the Republican ticket. Chet Holifield in the 19th district won the Democratic nomination, but lost the Republican to Joseph Quigley. Ned Healy, former Congressman from the 13th district, won the Democratic nomination, but will have to face Norris Poulson on the Republican ticket in November. Poulson, however, had hoped to capture both nominations, but failed.

In the 16th district, according to returns to date, Ellis Patterson is fighting a battle for the nomination on the Democratic ticket with Republican Donald L. Jackson. Jackson was nominated on the Republican ticket.

In Long Beach, Clyde Doyle was fighting for the Democratic nomination against the Republican Willis W. Bradley. Bradley, like Jackson, has the nomination of his own party.

William S. Baird was elected to the judgeship, and William E. Simpson as district attorney of Los Angeles County. Roger W. Jessup was also re-elected supervisor.

Returns for assembly seats had not yet been fully counted, but Gus Hawkins, assemblyman for the 62nd district, "our assemblyman," was almost sure of winning on all tickets. He had filed on Democratic, Republican and Independent Progressive.

How many votes the candidates on the IPP ticket received has not yet been determined. They, however, were unopposed in most instances. Their purpose was merely to make sure of the IPP ticket in November, when they expect to have candidates for president, vice-president, and those who filed for congress and assembly.

The fight is not over. It has really only just begun. And even if too many candidates were virtually elected in last Tuesday's primary, when they should only have been nominated on their own ballot, there are still many arduous fights to be fought and won before anyone can say how the next administration will be—liberal or reactionary.

● Girl's Confession

Both were placed in jail. Tom confessed that the stuff was his. Upon his confessing, Cora was released.

Later it was learned that Tom was on parole from San Quentin and he stated to his counsel, Earl C. Broady, that his confession was given under duress, as the officers had cuffed and beaten him and accused him of being a "lying ex-con." At Tom's trial the claim of the accused regarding third degree methods was gone into at length, and several inconsistencies in the officers' stories were brought out during Attorney Broady's cross-examination.

Just as it appeared that the defense was about to rest, Attorney Broady dramatically called, "Miss Cora Banks, please come forward." Miss Banks, a very beautiful young woman, testified that Tom knew nothing of the narcotics, and that the "stuff" was brought into her house by another man whose name she mentioned. Her story could not be shaken, and Tom was found "not guilty" by Judge McKay, who heard the case.

Upon finding "Tom" not guilty, the judge promptly ordered the arrest of Miss Banks. At her trial Attorney Broady announced that he was pleading the young woman "not guilty," so that the court could hear all of the facts. Miss Banks testified that "Tom" was not her boy friend, that she admitted the crime because she could not rest as long as she knew an innocent man was suffering for something for which she was responsible.

Miss Banks received 90 days in jail, the minimum sentence possible under the California law for possession of narcotics.

Wallace Challenges Truman's Sincerity

NEW YORK—Henry Wallace has called on Senate leaders for immediate passage of the anti-lynch bill and at the same time challenged President Truman to issue an executive order against discrimination in federal agencies.

Declaring President Truman had broken his promise made in February to issue such an order, Wallace told a Portland, Oregon audience that "this is one cat which doesn't require congressional approval."

"There is no legitimate excuse for delay. If the President's message was more than an attempt to woo votes with lip service, he would issue that executive order—a good strong executive order—and he would issue it without further needless delay.

"We ask Mr. Truman—which is tt? Lip service of human service?"

Meanwhile, in a letter to Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg and Senator Alben Barkley, the Republican and Democratic Senate leaders, Wallace said that "on behalf of the members of our new party I must protest with all the force at my command the failure of the Senate Judiciary Committee to vote on the anti-lynch bill."

Prodded Truman

The new party has already brought public attention to the problem of civil rights and helped "get the civil rights measures out of President Truman," Wallace said in Portland. He added that we "hope we can force out of the Administration and the Republicans more than a message, more than their new, better-than-ever, lip service.

"I hope the presence of the new party will force them to act, and that it can bring action on anti-lynch and anti-poll tax and other legislation in this session of Congress."

In his letter to the Senate leaders Wallace said:

No Legislation

"The inaction of the judiciary committee emphasizes the continued delay of the Senate on two other vital civil rights measures promised this session, the anti-poll tax bill and the Fair Employment Practices bill. Unless the Senate leadership of both parties acts, there will be no legislation during the present session of the Congress to redeem repeated promises of both Republican and Democratic leaders to the Negro people."

Declaring that "no legislation could be of greater importance to the protection of millions of Negro citizens," Wallace said that he was confident that "determined action of the leadership of both parties will defeat a filibuster."

A year ago, on May 27, 1947, I was stricken ill and was practically out of the picture for the rest of the year. On January 1st, my doctor, Dr. W. Adrian Freeman, after careful examination supported by tests made by specialists, said, I am in better shape now than I've been in years.

"On the basis of that, I went to work immediately. I am proud now that there hvae been fifty votes taken in the past four months and out of fifty votes, you will find only two where I have been recorded, not voting. I have increased my work in the Church so that now I have two complete Sunday services at ten and at twelve, preaching every Sunday to over 5,000 people."

by three members of the board—Mary Church Terrell, John Latouce and Henry Arthur Callis—of retreating politically on the question of freedom for the African peoples and on the question on colonial exploitation. He repeatedly accused council members who insisted upon the defense of the African people with "Communism." And questions he had previously supported he now opposed directly.

A meeting of the executive board of the council was called for May 26. Dr. Yergan was notified of this meeting. He refused to attend or to open his office for the meeting, so it was held elsewhere in the building, and without the attendance of Dr. Yergan.

It was here that the executive board adopted the resolution, asking that Dr. Yergan be suspended and that he relinquish to the secretary of the council, Dr. W. A. Hunton, all records of the Council on African Affairs, and that he also cease to occupy the premises of the council as of May 27, 1948.

This action of the executive board will be passed upon by the members of the council at their next regular meeting this month.

In a statement issued by the board, its action was explained as follows:

"Current happenings of great importance in Africa demand that the council's total failure to address itself to these events for almost four months be immediately ended. There is no other organization in the United States focusing public attention upon the wanton imperialistic exploitation currently practiced in Africa. There is no other organization working to make Americans conscious of why and how they must ally themselves with the African people in order to win the common goals of democracy, security and peace.

"These tasks are the direct responsibility of the Council on African Affairs, and they must be fulfilled—without further delay.

"The Executive Board of the Council on African Affairs therefore proposes that:

"1. The publication of NEW AFRICA, issuance of news releases, and other functions under the direction of the educational director, Dr. W. A. Hunton, shall be resumed at once.

"2. Appropriate action shall be taken to deal with current African developments, including the taking of immediate steps to protest and give wide publicity to the grossly undemocratic for-whites-only elections held in the Union of South Africa on May 26.

"3. Information shall be disseminated through pamphlets, public meetings, and other media, concerning the role of the United States itself in Africa today, through the expanding operations of American corporations there and through the important consequences for Africa of the Marshall-Truman program for Western Europe."

Ross Killed In Crossing Accident

An accident that took three lives, which might have been prevented had a less confusing signal system been in effect shocked the friends and family of Marian Arthur Ross, 38 year old employee in the Veterans Re-Training Program at the Veteran's Administration Hospital at Van Nuys. Ross, who was killed with two others when his 1947 Chevrolet was struck by the Southern Pacific Coaster last Friday and hurled forty feet into the air according to eye witnesses was the only Negro employed in the Veterans's Educational Re-Training Program.

According to a reconstruction of the accident, and the testimony of witnesses, Edward Kroutil, a former Army Colonel, who was in charge of the Educational Re-Training Program was driving Ross' car. With them as a passenger was 24 year old Pearl Finegold of 1945 Grandville Avenue, West Los Angeles, a dietician at the Veteran's Hospital. Kroutil halted at a railroad crossing on Sepulveda at the warning of the Wig-Wag signal there. Because the signal continued to move for some time and because there was no traffic in sight except a train of freights moving on a siding, it is believed Kroutil proceeded across directly into the path of the Pacific Coaster. All three passengers were killed instantly.

Ross who was married and lived with his wife, Margaret Louise, and their two children, at 1847 E. 18th Street in Santa Monica, had been on the Re-Training job for just two weeks. He had previously been employed in the Santa Monica Post Office, and he had been working part time as a recreation supervisor there. Prior to the war, Ross was a principal of a Junior High School in Kansas. He was drafted and served four years in all threatres, achieving the rank of 2nd lieutenant. Funeral services will be held Friday at 1 p.m. at the Calvary Baptist church in Santa Monica. Rev. Carter will officiate.

the company's executive committee, resulted from an agreement signed this week between the club and the insurance firm.

The month-long campaign which has been labeled "Greater Golden State Month," is part of an overall program to raise standards and employment conditions among Golden State Mutual agents, a desire shared mutually by the agency club and company directors.

In appreciation of this cooperative view, George A. Beavers, Jr., board chairman and agency director, issued a directive to all supervisors to cooperate with the club's district relations committees to "develop and execute such progressive and educational programs as will be mutually beneficial."

Dermaculture Therapist Opens New Offices

Announcement of the formal opening this week of her new offices at 2122½ W. Jefferson, was made by Lenore Sledge, prominent physical therapist, and only Negro dermaculturist in the United States today. According to her, the most modern scientific equipment now in use has been installed.

Demaculture (skin culture) is a system of renewing not only the skin, but rebuilding underlying tissues and glandular functions, to restore to unhealthy skins and sagging lines the natural facial beauty of normal, youthful features, Lenore Sledge says.

The union charges that under the recommendation, City employes' standards would be lower than standards established in private industry last year.

In the letter, signed by the local union's business manager, Samuel J. Berland and president, H. H. Farnsworth, they indicated their disbelief that the members of the Council knew the contents of the report upon which they were voting.

lace and Taylor will be entitled to seat observers at the convention. Adoption of the party platform and election of party officers is scheduled for July 28.

The convention call declared that "the two old parties have conspired to deny "Americans the right to vote for a program in which they believed and for candidates whom they can trust with its execution."

Declaring that "control of the Republican and Democratic parties alike has passed into the hands of the economic royalists," the Wallace leaders charged that the old party leaders "owe their allegiance to profit, not to people; to private power, not to the national interest. They will present the electorate with two sets of candidates, but a single program. They will offer the people no choice."

The Wallace leaders said that "under the leadership of Henry Wallace and Glen H. Taylor, the New Party has already taken firm root as the party of the common people of America."

Democrats and Republicans were charged with a foreign policy of undermining the UN, financing dictatorships and intervening in free elections abroad, and with a bi-partisan policy "which demands the militarization of the country through the draft and compulsory military training" while attacking civil rights and trade unions.

"If leadership of the two old parties were to go unchallenged," the convention call said, "the course on which they have embarked our nation would lead to the loss of our democratic liberties at home and to a 'preventative war which would be catastrophic for all mankind."

The Wallace leaders said the call was issued "in full confidence that by the devoted efforts of its members and with the support of the people, the New Party will defeat the instigators of reaction, war and race hatred, and secure for ourselves and our children the blessings of a peaceful, and America."

Signing the call were Elmer A. Benson, chairman; Anita McCormick, Blaine Jo Davidson, Albert J. Fitzgerald, Paul Robeson and Rexford G. Tugwell, co-chairman, and Clark Foreman, treasurer.

Cooperation Offered In Rat Control Drive

In connection with annual spring clean-up by residents of Los Angeles County, Dr. Roy O. Gilbert, Los Angeles county health officer, has called attention to the National Rat Control program now under way, wherein the Federal government and national and local organizations of all types are entering into a concerted effort to control this threatening health and economic menace.

Many homes and business establishments have rat harborages which, in addition to being unsightly, are breeding places for these destructive animals, Doctor Gilbert points out. The Health Department will give free advice on rat control.

Youthful Tailor Signed By Studio In Wardrobe Dep't.

Joe King, youthful fashion expert and creator of stylish custom-made clothes, has been signed by one of the major studios as assistant to the wardrobe master. In addition to Mr. King's duties as assistant wardrobe supervisor of men's wearing apparel, he will create his own designs.

Mr. King will work as a part-time assistant, and refuses to sign a contract in view of the fact that he has opened his own Eastside shop and won't have full time to devote to his studio duties, but must service the customers he has gained during the many years he was associated with the Londonaire Tailors. Mr. King will work three days of every week at the studio, and spend the remaining four in his shop servicing his own customers.

New laurels was heaped upon the youthful designer and style creator last week when he was also given the job of making the personal and working wardrobe for T-Bone Walker and his orchestra and Jim Wynn.

Mr. King, though only 26 years old, is a personal tailor for most of the city's leading business and professional men and musicians. Previous to opening his own shop Mr. King had been associated with the firms of Glover and Londonaire. In branching out on his own Mr. King revealed that he had a complete selection of material and that customers are welcomed under the same friendly policy that prevailed prior to his leaving Londonaire to go in business on his own.

Everybody Gets In The Pollution Act

Not all sources of air pollution are found in large industrial plants, Professor H. F. Johnstone of University of Illinois declared in a report now on file with the Board of Supervisors. The report, titled, "Technical Aspects of the Los Angeles Smog Problem," was the result of a week's research the scientist made here recently at the request of the Board.

"Small industries contribute their share," the report pointed out, "and, in some cases, such as the refuse burners in the woodworking plants and lumber mills, these may be blamed for a good portion of the general atmospheric pollution."

Have An Accident Check All The Facts

SACRAMENTO — Possession of standard automobile liability insurance does not excuse a driver or operator of a motor vehicle from certain responsibilities under the new California Financial Responsibility Law which becomes operative July 1, A. H. Henderson, Director of Motor Vehicles, warned this week.

A standard automobile liability policy calls for minimum $1000 property damage coverage, $5000 for injury or death of one person and $10,000 for injury or death of two persons in any one accident.

Propose Traffic Change Downtown

Councilman Kenneth Hahn introduced a resolution before the City Council last week proposing that a committee be appointed to work out a staggered form of employment hours in the downtown area to relieve the congested traffic situation in downtown Los Angeles at peak hours, notably between 8 and 9 in the morning and 4:30 to 6 in the evening.

Councilman Hahn said that if there were staggered hours, especially for governmental employes including the Federal, State, County and City employes, this would relieve the traffic congestion of street cars, buses and all means of automotive transportation between the hours of 4:30 and 6 in the evening. The resolution was referred to the Industry and Transportation Committee for their investigation and report.

The group of individual statements released follow closely on the heels of the storm of protest aroused by House action on the bill, with another group of notables, including Norman Corwin, George Sklar, Edward Chodorov, Mrs. William Dieterle, Robert Rossen, Vera Caspary and many others stating their opposition to the measure.

THE CALIFORNIA EAGLE

We Have No Obligation!

Mr. Benjamin E. Mays, Columnist
Pittsburgh Courier
2628 Centre Avenue
Pittsburgh 19, Pa.
Dear Mr. Mays:

I was shocked at your column appearing in the Saturday, May 15th issue of the Pittsburg Courier headlined "Obligation to Truman." You argue that you do not agree with those who accuse Truman of playing politics in advocating his Civil Rights Program. You further argue that when we so accuse him, that you think we do violence to facts and injustice to the man.

You base this argument on the assumption that because Truman set up a committee in 1946, instead of 1948, which committee issued a report, and that subsequently Truman appealed to the Congress of the United States to pass the Civil Rights program, this means then that Truman is not playing politics.

It is true that many of the things contained in Truman's Civil Rights program are things that the Negroes and other progressive forces have been fighting to achieve for decades, but to say that one should rely on Truman, or to think that he is serious about the matter is a different thing.

Isn't it a fact, Mr. Mays, that when Truman became President of the United States (by default, it's true) that there was an Executive Order which established FEPC? What happened to this? Truman quietly permitted it to die and then said to the United States Congress, "Please give me an FEPC." Mr. Truman has plenty of war-time powers. He has the same authority to set up an FEPC by Executive Order as he has had to set up an Executive Order providing a so-called "loyalty check".

Mr. Truman and his Civil Rights program talks glibly about discrimination in housing. But isn't it a fact, Mr. Mays, that the Federal Housing Authority is under the Administration's jurisdiction? Yet this authority is the greatest weapon for the spread of restrictive covenants in all areas where new homes are built. Has Mr. Truman done anything about this? No.

A further fact. The Department of Justice and the FBI are likewise under the jurisdiction of the Truman Administration. Yet show me a single case in which the FBI or the Department of Justice, or both, have arrested and prosecuted a single lyncher. As a general rule, both of these departments, when Negroes are lynched, come out with a mealy-mouthed statement that, "It was done by parties unknown," or, "We have no jurisdiction to interfere in state affairs." How in face of this you can say that Negroes owe an obligation to Truman! For what? The so-called Southern revolt that you refer to is nothing more than shadow-boxing, pure and simple. There is not one indication that the Southern bourbons are not supporting Truman to the hilt on domestic and foreign policies.

It is no secret to you that President Truman is the Commander-in-Chief of the Army and Navy. Has Truman taken one step to drive jim-crow out of America's uniform? Not one. And you know that. His Civil Rights proposal not withstanding. Further than that, when Negro people express their disgust towards segregation in the Armed Forces and threaten to call for civil disobedience, it is they who are called traitors, without one single protest from Truman. It is not the Rankins and the so-called Southern "rebels" that you envision, that are branded as traitors.

Incidentally, Mr. Truman is busy spreading democracy all over the world, exporting democracy so rapidly to other lands, that there appears to be none left for Georgia, Mississippi, and other Southern States.

I call to your attention that there was an individual in Georgia by the name of Talmadge who assumed the Governor's seat without having one vote cast for him. Did Truman protest against this? He did not. Yet here was an aroused Ku Kluxer whom everybody knows menaces the Negro people.

Compare this to how Truman fumed and howled when the people of Czechoslovakia demanded that their feudal lords get off the stage of history, as the class that had played its last tune. Truman screamed that America will not tolerate the destruction of democracy anywhere in the world; that American democracy itself is in danger! Or compare how Truman immediately rushed battleships to Italy, to insist that the people of Italy vote for Wall Street. Let me ask you, Mr. Mays, why is it that Truman did not send the battleships to Savannah, Georgia, in view of the fact that he is President of the United States and not President of the world?

You yourself argue that: "I say this, despite the fact that I have grave misgivings about Mr. Truman's foreign policy. I believe we are headed toward war and that Truman is doing more to prepare for war than he is doing to achieve peace. But I think this will be true of any other candidate, with the possible exception of Mr. Wallace, who I think right now hasn't much chance of winning."

Mark Twain once said, ". . . the citizen who thinks he sees that the commonwealth's political clothes are worn out, and yet holds his peace and does not agitate for a new suit, is disloyal; he is a traitor. That he may be the only one who thinks he sees this decay, does not excuse him; it is his duty to agitate anyway, and it is the duty of others to vote him down if they do not see the matter as he does." (A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court).

If you realize that Truman is driving towards war and that every other candidate except Wallace is driving towards war, it should be your duty, as a public citizen, to arouse the Negro people against Truman's war policy, taking into account that the war that Truman is preparing would be a reactionary, imperialist, fascist war in which the Negro would not only not gain, but would lose what little he has at best—for in order to put over such a war program, Truman and his big business backers know that there must be fascism at home. And any pretense of preparing for war and fighting for democracy at home at the same time is sheer demagogy. The record of the past few years shows that the Negro people and all minority groups, together with Labor, have been constantly under attack, without any serious fight on the part of Truman.

It seems to me that when you praise Truman on the one hand and pretend that he is fighting for the rights of the Negro people—even telling the Negroes they are obligated to him; and on the other hand, clearly realize the menacing war danger,—then you are attempting to run with the hare while hunting with the hounds. And you must do one or the other. You cannot do both at the same time. It is my hope that you will realize such a contradictory position and take your place on the side of the 14 million Negro people in a real all-out struggle for complete citizenship without any reliance whatsoever on Truman's demogogy.

I call to your attention that at the 1944 convention of the Democratic Party, Wallace staked his whole future by challenging the whole jim-crow system of the South. This perhaps played a big part in his defeat as vice-President of the U. S. For example, Wallace's courageous stand in the South of refusing to speak to segregated audiences, thus winning the hearts and minds not only of thousands of Negroes, but Southern whites as well.

If Frederick Douglass, for example, would have taken the same position towards Lincoln that you're taking, perhaps the Negroes would still be in slavery. Lincoln was also a third party candidate, but precisely because a large number of progressive forces at that time supported him, he was elected.

The response that Wallace is getting from the thousands of Negro people from coast to coast proves that you are very much in the minority in thinking that he has no chance.

Another thing, if the Negro people would accept your advice of relying on Truman, that would be the surest guarantee that they will remain forever as second class citizens. I'm sure you appreciate the fact that it would be an easy matter for Henry Wallace to behave like Stassen, Dewey, Taft, yes, and even Truman, as far as the Negroes are concerned. But instead of that, he has raised high the banner of the struggle against jim-crow in every form, even going to the extent of saying that he will not accept the support of any group that stands for white supremacy. He has challenged Mr. Truman to do likewise, but on this question Truman is mum. It seems to me therefore, that it is imperative for you as a public spokesman of the Negro people to issue a rallying call for the Negro people to rally around the new party as the best guarantee to achieve their immediate aims.

Sincerely yours,
PETTIS PERRY

W. J. Wheaton Says

We stood in the areaway and listened until Mary Ann had finished, "Jesus am a rock in weary land," and accompanied the usual hum; before making our presence known. After the usual greeting and the satisfying supper, came the after supper chat. I was just thinking about you and how to thank you for them Circus tickets for me 'en the girls, Mary Ann 'en Roberta, I kind'er felt squeamish 'bout going to a Circus 'cause my being a member of the church; but the girls they said "Phooey" or something like that: So I fixed up to go, 'en was I glad: I never laughed so much in my life, 'en the chiles; they sure was tickled.

What name did you say they was that givt tickets to boys and girls that couldn't pay, and had a hospital to make little cripples well?

"Shriners," we told her.

"They's certainly fine men. We told her of the many fine things they accomplished; their annual football game for the benefit of the hospital, and that they did not discriminate. Crippled little Negro boys and girls; all children were treated alike.

"Judith, that's one of Mary Anns classmates, was reading to me 'bout them Arabs fighting to keep the Jews out 'o their country. She says that Palestine is the Jews homeland and many Jews want to live there but the Arabs dont want them to have it and are fighting and killing even in the Holy City of Jerusalem. Too bad I says: But folks nowadays don't have any respect for sacred things, even here in this country. Why "back home" there's them that kill black folk just to be killin. 'Taint so bad as used to be, but it's bad enough. Maybe if there would be enough of the kind 'o men who give circuses and show kindnesses to crippled children, maybe they'd act more like a Christian people 'en not so much like them Arabs. Maybe if they could take the Circus over 'en show that elephant dancing on the barrel 'en them fellers all painted up 'en cuttin' up, making folk laugh, they'd stop fighting 'en killing.

'Sure nuff I aint thru laughing yet, 'en when me 'en Mary Ann gets to talking 'bout them circus actor men 'en women, we say church or no church; circuses is lots o' fun. I was telling the folk I cook for 'bout you being so nice 'en they says they sure would like to meet you. I tell 'em that you are fighting for 'en equal opportunity for all folk, that you say that every man 'en woman should have the opportunity tot fill a job 'cording to their ability, no difference be they black, white, red, or yellow. He says that every child should be given an equal chance for an education, 'en I say's I'm going to see that my grandchild gets a schooling that will fit her for life. I tells all the folks from "back home" to clean up their children 'en see that they go to school clean; heads combed and pants clean, even if they'r patched.

"I knows that we'alls have to work 'en its mighty hard, but we owe something to our children, who have a different, . . . what's that word you said 'while ago? "Environment."

We said; yes that's it environment.

We've got the chance to make a decent living 'en give our children 'en education: Let's take advantage. The papers you give to Mary Ann telling 'bout the young colored girl that won that radio prize for singing 'en the young colored man who, also, won money to further his music. I took the paper to show the folk I cooks for 'en they seemed glad that the young girl got over a $1000. She's going to use it to get a more singing education. The young man he's going to Italy or some foreign place to study opera. We were thinking that should her grandchild inherit her, magnificent, voice, and Atwater Kent give her an audition; there would be no question as to the outcome. The world missed a wonderful gift when it failed to bestow the upon Mary Ann the opportunity for its cultural development.

It is with the greatest of pleasure that we note the appointment of George Cannady as ASS'T U. S. Attorney. We have followed the career of George from the time he won the prize for having the best floral decorated bicycle in the Portland Parade of Roses. Through his high school years, and on through Willamette. That George was bound to succeed is largely due to his energetic mother. More than any other person she was instrumental in lowering the barriers of racial discrimination in Portland. She would search the city for talent of all races; musicians; vocalists, dramatist of every race and national origin. Then with the aid of the daily paper she would advertise, that on a certain date, Mrs. Cannady would present a certain musical programme.

On that appointed date Mrs. Cannady would have the Grand Piano placed out on the veranda, and the thoroughfare would be completely blocked with vehicles. Those Cannady musicales became a popular tradition and were looked forward to with civic interest. Portland was noted for its racial intolerance, and Mrs. Cannady did more, by her musicales to ease that spirit, than any one other feature. Although we give credit to her interest in civic affairs, and the influence she attained through being the first lady of color to be presented at the bar as legal attorney; all those we acknowledge, but we still say, that the musicales did more to assuage racial tension than anything else. Success in your appointment, George, and remember, as we know you will, that service to your fellow man is the attribute of greatness, and that you may achieve greatness is the wish and hope of Yours Truly.

Social Security Lists Increase

"Two million working women and 9½ million working men in the United States are now permanently insured for old-age and survivors insurance," James H. Smiley, Manager of the Los Angeles Social Security Administration office stated recently. "This is three million more people than were parmanently insured a year ago. The great majority of them are in the group under 56 years old."

Figures recently released by the Social Security Administration show that every day more workers are acquiring a permanently-insured status, which will pay them insurance at 65 or their survivors at their death. Mr. Smiley explained that a quick rule of thumb for determining the existence of a permanently insured status is this:

"Count the time between January 1, 1937 and your 65th birthday. As soon as you've worked one-half this time, or as soon as you have worked ten full years, you have a paid-up policy, or what we call a permanently insured status."

Once the permanent status is acquired, a person need not work any more to receive benefits benefits when he is 65 or for his survivors to receive benefits when he dies, "However," Mr. Smiley points out, "I want to be sure to make it clear that the amount of insurance benefit will be more, the longer you keep working."

People Want Action, Not Talk

In an editorial in The Washington Post on the National Health Assembly which met recently in Washington, D. C., great satisfaction was expressed because the conference "built a permanent bridge between the medical profession and the labor unions, the farm organizations, cooperative health federations that have long been fighting for better health protection."

For the first time in medical history the physicians and members of the labor unions sat down together, and discussed their problems! And the doctors were surprised that the labor unions had such "expert" people on their various committees!

But after they got over their surprise that working people knew what they wanted in the matter of health for themselves and their families, the conference got down to business and decided, among other things, that: full-time local health departments are needed in every city and county, if a strong health program is to be carried out effectively. That unless these adequate services for health are established, there will be failure in every othr area of endeavor. That more doctors, nurses, and psychiatrists are needed. And that such a program would cost an immense sum of money, which no one at the conference dared estimate. oneeded

It was a splendid thing for our physicians to meet thus with the lay members of the nation, and to feel the pulse of the people. But if they had kept their fingers a trifle olnger on that pulse, they would have discovered that the people of America are tired of talk and of discussion of their various problems.

They want action. And if we can send billions of dollars to Europe to combat Communism—a part of which plan is to bring health to Europe's sick and wounded—it's about time we thought of spreading a little health throughout our own country. If we want to prevent Communism in America!

The conference was called at the request of President Truman.

What Have We To Offer?

Hundreds of well trained young men and women are among the graduates from our high schools, academies and universities this semester. These young people are ready to enter the field of cial science, applied education and religion. The pioneers in business, in this section of the country, need to ask themselves this question, What Have We to Offer these Young People?

After the glamorous festivities that come with graduation, these young minds will have to realize that life is real and earnest. But if they have no jobs, if no avenues to fit their training are open to them, what must they expect?

It would be a good idea if, particularly, the Negro people would begin to pool their dollars in other than bridge tournaments, annual formal dances, too many picnics, too much night life and get down to the business of doing business making openings for those who come after them.

Read This - Pass It On

Alvin Bladsacker, a Gretna, Louisiana patrolman has been indicted by a grand jury for killing Roy Cyril Brooks, Negro Unionist, May 21.

It is said that this is the first time in Louisiana history that a white policeman has been indicted for killing a Negro.

This must be good news to pass on to our friends in Europe. We do advance a little bit in this country, although at times it seems dishearteningly slow—like taking one step forward and two backward.

We can't shout too much, however. For although this white man has been indicted, he hasn't been tried yet. No jury, no judge has listened to the testimony. And while Louisiana can add a feather to its cap for having merely indicted this policeman accused of murder, the progressive forces there must work increasingly hard to see that justice is done in this case.

The world remembers too well what happened in a similar situation in the deep South, when a mob was tried for lynching a Negro—and set entirely free.

Negro Messiah?

Rev. James M. Webb, evangelist, prophet and author of "The Black Man's Part in the Bible," and "The Coming of the Third World War," gives it as his opinion that a "Colored Man, rocked in the Black Man's Cradle in Africa" is the man God has prepared to "conquer the coming Third World War at Jerusalem and all Palestine on the borders of the Mediterranean Sea."

Rev. Webb declares that the results of "Great Britain's action (in Palestine) is a gateway that will draw every government into the coming Third War." It is all found in Biblical prophecy, says Rev. Webb, and suggests reading Joel 3:9-21. He predicts the United Nations will come to naught, just as the League of Nations did, and that a great crisis is coming upon the Jewish people and of all the world, such as has never happened before.

Well, we agree that if we have another war, the perfidious action of Great Britain in reneging on its promise of supporting the Jewish people in their efforts to regain their home land, may well be the gateway to that war. All the other terrible things Rev. Webb seems to believe will transpire, may also take place.

But we'd like to point out that in every threat of things to come in the Bible, there is an IF attached. Just as there is an IF, expressed or understood, in every promise.

There was no need at all for the Children of Israel to be driven from their homeland in the first place, according to the words of the prophet. They were words of warning, urging the Israelites to forsake their evil ways or suffer the consequences.

It is exactly the same today. There is absolutely no need for another World War, no matter how many prophecies students of the Bible may find to that effect. IF we, the peoples of the world, even IF we, the people of the United States, take more interest in those things that make for peace, instead of keeping our noses in a Book, no matter how good or great that Book is, there will be no more war at any time. There will be instead that New World which Jesus preached almost 2000 years ago, for which we have prayed all that time, which we had hoped would dawn after World War II, but alas, which too few of us work for and so a world we may not attain.

"It is the letter that killeth," said Jesus, "but it is the spirit that maketh alive."

Following the letter of those prophecies is exactly what Jesus condemns. Following the letter only will bring upon us, and also upon those prophets and preachers who predict those dire disasters, the very things they fear.

We do not need to have another war. If we have one it will be our own fault. It will be because we stubornly refuse to DO that which Jesus commanded His followers, and waste our time instead in emoty bickerings about the letter of the law.

We'd better act. You, Brother Webb, and all of us. The Messiah that will save us and this foolish, wounded, dying old world may be a Negro who has been "rocked in the Black Man's Cradle in Africa." But whoever he is, or whatever he comes from, it must be a man—or a woman—who will embody within himself or herself, as Jesus did, the hopes, the dreams, the visions of all the peoples of all the world through all the years.

And this time that Messiah will be a conquering hero, not the victim of His enemies dying on the Cross. If we want to get ready for Him, whoever He may be, we need to concern ourselves actively with the creation of that New World which He has said shall live forever.

It's all up to us. It always has been.

Not What We Say

"Actually the United States is going to make a much deeper impression upon other peoples in other lands by what it does rather than by what it says about itself.

"The United States also is going to make a much more profound and lasting impression upon foreign friends and critics by what foreigners themselves, from their observation posts among us, see and say of American life and American ideals today."

THINGS I SEE

By Marian Inglewood

We Americans have been accused again and again of being utterly complacent and indifferent both about the things that concern our own welfare and about those that concern others.

Oh, of course, when there's an emergency, we can't do enough for that particular person or family. We shower them with gifts and attention if their home burns down. Or if some one in the family is suffering a peculiar kind of sickness, from which he is not expected to recover. But it must be really peculiar. Nothing like tuberculosis, or cancer, or merely suffering from malnutrition. Those ailments are too common.

And even while we are going all out in our efforts to help our neighbor in an emergency, it never seems to occur to us that we might do something to prevent such emergencies from taking place. While we are sharing our own home with the neighbor who has just been burned out of his, we don't think of those people who are being turned out of their homes and have no place to go.

You've met many an American citizen of that kind, if you've been circulating any housing petitions. Folks who grumble about the extra taxes they think housing will entail, but who cheerfully accept the extra burden of paying billions of dollars to bribe Europeans not to become Communists. You can't explain such an attitude in any way except to say, "Well, they're just being Americans." And we say it with a sort of complacent pride, the way we speak of the antics of our children, when we really ought to be hanging our heads in shame.

Of course we Americans are notorious for our indifference to the value of the ballot. Not more than about 50% of us ever vote. Even in a presidential election. And then, after we've elected those "politicians" in Washington by staying at home, how we squeal when they do exactly what we knew or should have known they would do, when we childishly stayed home and let them be elected.

If we had voted, as we should have voted two years ago, there would be no Taft-Hartley law today, no threat of a Mundt-Nixon bill. All the letters and telegrams and telephone calls frantically sent to those "politicians" in Washington now, do not amount in real value to one vote cast for the liberal candidates two years ago.

"There is more than one way to lose your liberty," says Gregory Peck. "It can be torn out of your hands by a tyrant—but it can also slip away, day by day, while you're too busy to notice, or too confused, or too scared."

Or too indifferent, he might have added. Or too stubborn to unite with others who on the whole are fighting for the same principles for which you say you are fighting, but don't belong to the same "party." If those two bills which practically everyone agrees are the greatest menace we have had in years to our liberty, don't arouse us to vote and work unitedly, nothing else but the feel of the chains on our hands and feet can do it.

The indifference and complacency of our churches are well known, too. This, however, takes in the churches in other countries, as well as in America. The Church is all wrought up now because the Holy Places in Palestine are in danger of being destroyed. But the Church doesn't seem to worry much about the fact that human lives are being destroyed. That's an everyday occurrence. Something that goes with war as a natural accompaniment. And since it seems we have to have war, why worry about what war does?

But those Holy Places—that's different. And so the Churches today—Catholic and Protestant and Jewish, have voiced a protest against the destruction of the Places made holy by the association of the leaders of both Christian and Jewish religions. And the missionaries have protested because their work is being destroyed.

"But," as some one has expressed it, "is not human life holy too? Why all this concern about only the Holy Places? All the sacred spots in Palestine are defiled by a world which pretends to be Christian, but refuses to stop wilful, planned aggression against a United Nations decision. The Holy Places run with Jewish blood, and with that Jewish blood America has mixed Arabian oil."

Knowland Explains Segregation Vote; Disgrace Says Capper

NEW YORK—Responding to a letter of inquiry from Walter White, NAACP secretary, three usually liberal United States Senators have set forth their reasons for voting to consider the southern proposal for segregated regional educational institutions. Each of the three—William F. Knowland of California, Harley M. Kilgore of West Virginia, and Elbert D. Thomas of Utah—has a record of supporting civil rights legislation.

Senator Knowland in a letter, the content of which was released here this week by Mr. White, explained that he "felt that the issue could be better met by facing the situation rather than by recommitting the bill to committee for further study and indecisive action."

Upon request of Governor Meadows of West Virginia, Senator Kilgore acted as a sponsor of the resolution because, as he pointed out in his letter, he "was convinced that this resolution would do nothing more than to permit states to establish regional schools. In my opinion, the legislation would not set aside any Supreme Court decision and would not in any way deter the fight for equal educational opportunity for all Americans."

In reply to the Senator's letter, Mr. White asserted that "it has been demonstrated over and over again that there is no possible equality within a segregated pattern."

Senator Thomas referred to his remarks on the Senate floor during debate on the measure, on May 12, in the course of which he said:

"There are those who think the principle of non-segregation is just and right, as I do; but everything cannot be done overnight. The way to solve these questions," he continued, "is not to stand absolutely on a principle which cannot successfully be made dominant in our generation, but to go forward as we have gone forward since the Civil War, doing the best possible under the circumstances."

In addition to communications to these three, Mr. White wrote letters of commendation to those Senators who voted to discard the southern plan. Replying, Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas said "it would have been a disgrace to the Congress, if we had considered that bill. I feel that it was disgraceful that the bill got some votes."

Training Advised For Some Women

Professional training plus a clerical skill increases opportunities for college-trained women, according to observations of Mrs. Elizabeth Roney, supervisor of the professional and technical section of the commercial office, who has been active in public employment administration for the past 12 years.

"Position for women in such professions as advertising, engineering, medicine, personnel work, law, the arts or government administration never are numerous," Mrs. Roney reports, "which means women training for these fields have a real need for a 'plus factor'—an actual skill in an entirely different occupation—in order to gain an entering wedge for themselves in fields where opportunities for women are limited.

Many highly successful women, now engaged in the professions, attribute their first opportunity to their ability to handle a responsible secretarail assignment while waiting for their talents to be appreciated.

About 280,000 nonwhite households, or 10 percent of the total, contain two or more married couples living doubled up.

LABOR ON THE MARCH

By JOHN M. LEE

What's Your Color, Bub?

Are you red, white, brown or black? Do you really know what you are? Most of the manipulaters who want you to vote for them or to work for them aren't quite sure. They've classified people and things on the basis of color, but they don't seem to be able to make the classifications stick. In that respect, they're in the same boat with you—considering the jimcrow barriers, and the half-tone complexions, and the white blacks and the black whites and the loyalty check on the basis of political color.

One dogmatic candidate who ran in the primaries for congress in the 14th District, took a quick look over the field of some 22 candidates and decided that Helen Gahagan Douglas was the one he had to beat. Now, even a Dewey Republican has wit enough to recognize that with 22 candidates in the race, there had to be almost as many shades of opinions as there are candidates, but this enterprising candidate elected to sally forth on the popular note of the day; he set out to chase the radicals.

Having entered the race on a subtle color basis, he introduced the matter of political color. Here is what he had to say in a political ad that opened with some juicy words about an appeal to the American spirit of democracy and fair play to end taxation without representation. He said it, I am certain, without having given it a second thought, otherwise he couldn't have said it. Those are the words: "THE ONLY CANDIDATE WITH SUFFICIENT RESERVE STRENGTH TO OFFSET THE DOUGLAS RADICALS."

What I want to know is, what-inhell are the Douglas radicals; what special breed of men are they? How is it possible to distinguish between them and the so-called Wallace radicals who seemed to have been the target for the baiting until he came along?

Here, then, is an object lesson for all of us. If you don't conform with the plans of the guy next door, you're a RED, and let's not hear any protests about it, either. I do not accuse the gentleman who would sit in congress of having invented this smear tactic; he inherited it from a loftier source, but I can't see how he could bring himself to use it when he knows that Helen Gahagan Douglas has never been considered a "you-know-what" except by the southern race supremists who resent her aggressive fight for the rights of all minority groups.

There ought to be an object lesson of lasting value to all union people in what has happened in the 14th Congressional District race. It is a serious mistake to designate a candidate for office on the basis of color alone—be it racial or political. In these days of witch-hunting and red-baiting, it is necessary that a candidate for public office be the type of American who can understand that a difference in shade of complexion or political opinion is not the issue in an American political campaign.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Here comes a letter from far off Capetown, South Africa, inclosing a money order for one year's subscription to the oldest newspaper of the West — The California Eagle.

Writes P. J. H. Ockondo:

"I hope to have a faithful report on the U.S.A. life, and particularly as it pertains to Afro-Americans.

"South Africa is in an election turmoil. (The letter was dated May 21.) The country is split in two, but not into halves. The majority of the English-speaking whites, and the Africans who support the government body—the United Party, led by General Smuts—seem to have the majority. All industrialists and the people who say they are interested in the country's economic progress as well as in remaining in the British Commonwealth of the nation's group, declare they'll vote United Party.

"The Nationalists say they will either deport all the natives to other territories or enclose them in a small area under stern 'European' supervision whence the males will be carried off to work in the mines, on the farms, as street sweepers, garden boys and other work of this likeness. Their term of service will be ended, of course, by either death or by being checked back into the small territory to die if not of hunger then by ill-treatment while on the farm.

"The Nationalists cloak their aims under color-segregation so as to trap the English-speaking votes.

"The country's fate is to be decided not later than May 26, and we'll have the results on the 28th.

"Studies are proving stiff, especially as winter weather is coming on. These winters are worse in that the rain falls at the same time it is cold. It is an irritating thing and wracks one's nerves.

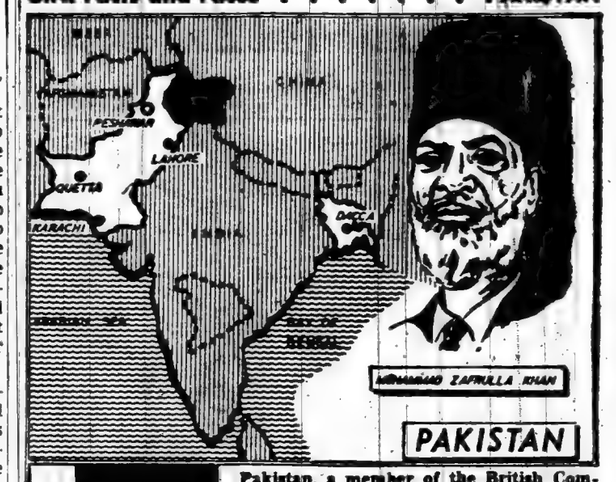
"Cheerio!

"P. J. H. OCKONDO."

(Editor's Note: Gen. Jan Smuts was defeated at the election this writer is speaking of, according to reports from South Africa.)

Dear Mrs. Bass:

May we take this opportunity to thank you for your invaluable participation in the Mundt-Nixon Protest Rally of May 20. Your inspiring address was very warmly appreciated as you must have realized.



We hope to have the opportunity to work with you in the future on other community projects.

Sincerely your,
SAM BATES,
President.

One of the lessons the depression and the recovery from that depression has taught us is that business and industry and labor cannot maintain prosperity while the farmer is bankrupt any more than jobless workers can support farm prosperity.

Farm productivity and farm prosperity have made tremendous gains under Democratic Administrations.

U.N. Facts and Faces . . . . . PAKISTAN

Pakistan, a member of the British Commonwealth of Nations, consists of two areas embracing portions of a number of predominantly Moslem provinces in the northwest and northeast of India and a few of the native States. With about 350,000 square miles and a population over 75,000,000, Pakistan was born on 15 August 1947 as a result of the partition of India after nearly two centuries of British rule. It has an unusually wide range of minerals and its chief industries are agriculture, cotton mills, woodcarving and metal works. H. E. Mohammed Zafrulla Khan represented Pakistan during the General Assembly. Its flag has a white band and a green field with a crescent and a star.

But because only veterans of World War II and their families are eligible for occupancy, the population consists almost exclusively of young married couples and their small children. These are the gentlemen who will decide the fate of the Mundt-Nixon police state bill: chairman, Alexander Wiley, Wisconsin; William Langer, North Dakota; Homer Ferguson, Michigan; Chapman Revercomb, West Virginia; E. H. Moore, Oklahoma; Forrest C. Donnell, Missouri; John C. Cooper, Kentucky — all Republicans; and Pat McCarren, Nevada; Harley M. Kilgore, West Virginia; James O. Eastland, Mississippi; Warren G. Magnuson, Washington; J. William Fulbright, Arkansas; J. Howard McGrath, Rhode Island—all Democrats.

It appears that these gentlement are planning a blitz strategy in sampeding the measure through the Senate before the people are fully awake to what this bill means to their freedom.

Eastland is the senator who degraded the Negro soldier on the floor of the Senate. Many of the other members of this unholy set are enemies of the downtrodden Negro people and all minorities.

And now that we hear Nixon, California member of Congress from the 12th Congressional District, and co-author of this police state bill, has won the nomination on both the Democratic and Republican ticket, we know the fight is made doubly hard. Those gentlemen of the committee now considering the bill seem to have something when they say they are obeying the voice of the people.

Byrnes Believes Russia Seeks Accord With U. S.

ROCK HILL, S. C.—Former Secretary of State, James F. Byrnes believes Russia wants to reach agreement with the United State. In a speech at the Commencement exercises at Winthrop College, Mr. Byrnes (in some disagreement with Secretary of State Marshall who had warned against the United States falling into a peace trap baited with Soviet propaganda) suggested that the United States should be willing to talk with the Russians so long as "questions involving other Allied governments," are not taken up.

"It has always bben my belief," the former Cabinet Officer said, "that the Soviets, in their policy of expansion, will go just as far as the democracies permit them to go. When they conclude they can go no further without fighting, I believe they will abandon their war of nerves and seek a settlement."

Info Asked on Givens

Information is being sought of Clifford Givens on behalf of his wife and two minor children, with whom he has failed to communicate or contribute toward their support since his separation from the family in October, 1946. As a result of his negligence they now find themselves in destitute circumstances and in dire need of his financial assistance. Givens was born in Georgia on Jan. 17, 1918. He is six feet tall, weighs 140 pounds, has black hair, brown eyes, has a slight scar over his right eye and is a bass singer by occupation. Anyone aware of his location is requested to communicate with the National Desertion Bureau, 105 Nassau st., New York 7, N. Y.

Eastside Street To Be Repaired

After personal investigation at the corner of 50th and Wadsworth sts., Councilman Kenneth Hahn immediately recommended to the street maintenance general superintendent, Louis Miller, that he remodel and repair this location.

At this dangerous corner last week Councilman Hahn was told of the dip which caused a fatal accident to Thomas Palmer, past master of the Masons of the Holland Lodge.

Councilman Hahn, with representatives of the street maintenance department, drove an automobile over this intersection at 20 miles an hour and at first hand felt the dangerous dip at this corner. Plans were then drawn for the resurfacing with a survey party going out the week-end and the work will start on Wednesday.

The Right To Tell Lies

By Paul French

It may have escaped your notice that the government of these United States is officially on record for the "right" to tell lies.

That was revealed on May 10, when a U. S. delegation to the United Nations conference in Geneva officially reported to Secretary of State Marshall on the delegation's actions. The delegation was headed by Assistant Secretary of State William Benton, and Marshall accepted and approved the report, so there is no doubt about its official stand.

That U. S. delegation spoke against and voted against a proposal in the United Ntaions conference "On freedom of information and the press," which provided that governments should punish — "the systematic diffusion of deliberately false or distorted reports which undermine friendly relations between peoples and states."

The significance of this U. S. opposition to that proposal is plainly that the U. S. government, under the guise of "freedom of information" insists upon the freedom of mis-information, falsehood and distorted reports, even when such lies lead to war and the death of millions.

This should surprise nobody, even though it be an ironical comment upon the "Father of His Country," whose name of Washington, its capital bears, that he who said: "Father, I cannot tell a lie," is so well forgotten that the government of which he was the first president now declares to th eworld that the right to tell lies, big lies, criminal lies, is written imperishably upon its banner.

It should surprise nobody, because the practice of spreading "deliberately false or distorted reports" which undermine friendship between peoples and nations is the daily custom of the U. S. government itself, and is not merely a "right" of U. S. citizens which the U. S. government feels obliged to defend as part of their rights under the constitution.

One has only to glance at any day's newspaper to observe the proof. However, if specific items are wanted, one may look over "Talk 197" of the "Armed Service Talks," which the government provides army officers who are supposed o use them to propagandize private soldiers, to "pep them up" so they will fight anybody the government declares is "the enemy."

Secretary Forestall and many lesser government officials, generals and brass hats, have already declared the Soviet Union is "the enemy," so it is interesting to see what our sons and brothers who are to be drafted into the army and navy are to be taught about the Soviet Union in "Talk 197."

The soldiers are to be impressed, says Talk 197, that the armies of Hitler which invaded the Soviet Union were defeated only by its "great spaces" and "freezing winters." This pleasant fiction the Hitler generals had to give up during the war. And who does not remember that it was in the "merry month of May," with birds twittering and flowers abloom, when the Soviet armies smashed into Berlin itself and thus ended Hitler's career?

Why do U. S. generals now revive the fiction which the Nazi generals gave up during the war? Because U. S. soldiers are to be "educated" to fight the Soviet people, and made to believe that, with enough sheepskin coats and fast-moving motors, the "great spaces" and "freezing winters" can be overcome.

As to the Soviet people, they will be easily conquered, is the implication, as Talk 197 goes on to explain that—"Soviet people lack the qualities of individual initiative . . . They lack also mechnaical aptitude." It goes on to say that the USSR is "backward in the industrial field," and that—"the Soviet economic system itself is, in the American view, unfavorable to future industrial development of the Soviet Union."

One might ask how "in the American view" that it happens that vast industries are arising all over the Soviet Union if the Soviet people "lack mechanical aptitude"? Perhaps fairies in the night build these huge industrial establishments, equipped with the most modern machinery and furnished with the most delicate scientific instruments.

The current theory of our government liars, that all mechanical acomplishments of Soviet industry is now due to "German engineers" who were kidnapped after the war, does not explain how the Soviet armies were equipped during World War II, when the "German engineers" were o nthe other side, and while Lend-Lease provided only four per cent of the war material used by the Soviet armies.

"But, who expects consistency of our official liars? This same "Talk 197" goes on from belittling Soviet people and their socialist industry, to boasts about "the American competitive system" and "American democracy." It will surely be enlightening to Negro boys called up by conscription, to hear army officers tell them from "Talk 197" of the wonderful "political freedom" they enjoy "in democratic countries like the United States."

Even jim crow is explained in these "Army Talks" as one of the blessings of "American democracy." Talk 197 admits that, in the Soviet Union, there is racial and national equality, but it hastens to say that such equality is "counter to American tradition" and that "few Americans woul dfavor it, least of all the minority groups concerned." American Negroes should be overjoyed at the discrimination they suffer, according to the U. S. Army. Even Almena Davis could say no more.

This official lie of the army to its soldiers is, of course, but one example among thousands. The war-mongers of Wall Street imperialism cannot operate one hour without lies. They confront you in every headline and scream at you from every radio! You have to be vaccinated aginst them!

A Visit to Duarte Reveals Its Value

By MRS. LOTTIE FORRESTER

Mrs. Lottie Forrester and Mrs. Sarah Landis visited the patients at the "Outdoor Life and Health Sanitorium" located in Duarte, California recently, and were pleased to see the patients improving so nicely. Some of the patients were 100% improved; others were cured and will return to their homes in a few more weeks. Last year 21 cases were cured and sent home. There is a long list of Tubercular dases waiting to be admitted as soon as the beds are vacated at the rest home.

The day was lovely and warm when we arrived and many of the patients were out on the well kept lawn enjoying the fresh air and sunshine. As we walked thru the dormitory, kitchen, dining room and wards, we found them spotless. In the kitchen, trays of delicious food were being prepared by two efficient cooks for dinner.

During the rest period from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., we strolled into the rose garden where roses of all colors were in full bloom. Then we saw the many lovely trees that had been recently planted by friends in memory of their loved ones.

We were greatly impressed by the many improvements that have been made, and especially impressed by the flood lights which are very necessary for the night nurses in making their rounds at night to the cottages. We also saw the building which was donated by the Jewish Sanitorium to the "Outdoor Life and Health Sanitorium." This building will house 15 patients when completed by the architect, Mr. Paul Williams.

The rest home has a complete staff of nurses which consist of Miss Sophie Purnell RN, head nurse and Misses Thelma Claghorn, Janice Bowden and Margaret Floyd, nurses. The remainder of the staff consists of Mrs. Jewel Grant, chef cook, Mrs. Ruby Johnson, 2nd cook, Mr. Ezell Thomas, kitchen helper, Mr. Grover Ross, custodian, and Mr. Frank Bailey, gardener.

Won't you please go out and visit the patients and take your friends? You will be surprised and delighted by the many improvements of the "Outdoor Life and Health Sanitorium," 1460 Duarte Road, Duarte, California. Visiting days are Wednesdays and Sundays, 3 to 5 p.m.

Seek Appointment Of Negro Commissioner

The Elks' Civil Liberties League, under the direction of Vince Monroe Townsend Jr., and the Community Political Action Council, under the direction of Adolphus B. Clay, went on record last week, requesting the Los Angeles County oBard of Supervisors to appoint a duly qualified Negro Citizen to the Los Angeles County Civil Service Commission to fill the vacancy recently made by the death of the late George H. Newland of the commission.

In a separate communication addressed to Mr. Leonard Roach, Supervisor of the Second Supervisorial District, Mr. Townsend said in part:

"We are certain that you can appreciate the variety of interests which come within the orbit of responsibility of the Commission, thus, warranting the widest possible representative membership in its personnel.

"You are also aware of the fact that hitherto, there has never been a Negro honored with the appointment to that Commission, and this would be a marvelous beginning point of integration into Offices of Public Administration of all our Citizens."

The beginning of the resort season is giving impetus to hiring by service establishments, but the restaurant industry does not expect any significant increase until July. WHAT'S DOING IN THE SOCIAL SET

By JESSIE MAE BROWN

VERY TIMELY INDEED, is the scheduled Pre-College conference of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority. For the past three years, a varied program of vocational guidance, in the form of a two day confab has been the key order of early summer activities for the Alpha women. The pre-college conference idea, first developed by the members of Alpha Gamma chapter on the UCLA campus, included a full day of lecturing by outstanding persons from lucritive fields that offered a future to any college graduate. A second day of the gathering was given over to a tour of the various campuses, tuition extra circular activities and other notes of import to an expectant college student make up a goodly number of the questions that must be answered.

The pre-college conference this year will be held the week-ends of the 12th and 18th, not only high school seniors, but all high school women are being invited to attend. Advise on program arranging and choosing a career early in school life will be given future high school students. The conference this year, will be under the auspicies of the graduate chapter of the sorority. General chairlady is Dorothea Fearonce, local school teacher. She is being assisted by Earline Shaw, Mary Jackson, school teachers; Lucy Ewing and Earline Hopkins, social workers. Climaxing the entire conference, a big social will be held at the vacation spot Lake Elsinore.

By the way, last Saturday afternoon proved very exciting for coeds Vivian Beck, Phyllis Williams, Mattie Grant and Jean Carroll Cummings, for the UCLA debs were officially pledged to Alpha Gamma Chapter of AKA. The plans for "hell week" are now in the making for the future greeks. Jean Cummings is out going president of the Ivy Leaf club, and she also boasts a past presidency of the Alpha Phraterie interest group on the City College campus . . . Speaking of phrateries, was quite sure the coverage of last Thursday nights annual Sweet Heart Ball, would have been ready for this week's issue, but with the hold up of a vacation week end, the Silhouette will carry full details in next week's issue.

The local club season is rapidly drawing to a close, with election of new officers and a summer vacation in view. The Los Angeles Metropolitan Council of the National Council of Negro Women, will hold a Council Round-Up on Saturday, June 12, at 1:30 p.m. Special attention will be given to Consumer Interests, Women of the Year project and the Memorial to the Forward March of Women. Les Charmantes, charity club; Federated Business Women's club; Beta Pi Sigma Sorority; Silhouettes, Kappas, AKAs, Crop 'N' Tails, at this point the name of the final clubs making he 10th have left my memory. The Fables Old and New theme should prove very interesting. The Epologue and prologue is being worked out by the hostess group.

BREAKFAST FOR NITA

The month of June has showered its way right into our midst, and the bride elects who number plenty, almost hold a monopoly on the social events. Nita Hippard, bride elect of Barry Tate of San Diego, is one of the most widly feted young ladies. Her vows are to be spoken on June 19 at the fashionable Casa Rafael, the bridal dinner will be held on the 18th and other feteings include a very delightful breakfast given Sunday morning by Sis and Rip Russell, a luncheon scheduled for next Saturday afternoon and many other events.

About Sunday's breakfast, believe me it was one of the most colorful and well planned affairs given. The setting was perfect, the Rip Russells abode is done up in the Modern Chinese manner, with a color scheme of greens, greys, pinks, etc. Sis proved a perfect hostess, serving martinis for the toast to the future Barry Tates, and a breakfast that started off with ambrosia fit for the gods and ended with coffee and dainty little coffee cakes. The inbetween went like hot biscuits, ham, fancy eggs, etc. Rip, host of the morning, saw to it that each guest had a very enjoyable time. Bridal place cards were marked for: Elbert and Marilyn Hudson, LaMar and Puffy Hill, Frank and Evelyn Abney, Dr. Frank Peterson and Miss Paulette Coleman, Jo and Ralph Turner, Leonard Beavers, who sat in for LeRoy and of course Yours truly. Nita and Berry will probably live in Diego after the ceremony. However, they are still trying to find the ideal spot in L. A.

Esther Griffith, another much feted bride elect was showered with many personal gifts on last Saturday afternoon, when Maude Foster White played hostess. Arriving in the city next week will be Rev. Merriwether, the bride elects future. On Sunday evening, the former members of the Vesper Choir of the Second Baptist Church showred Miss Griffith with gifts galore.

Now honeymooning are the Henry Miltons, nee Regina Mingleton, the vows were spoken during the early morning of last Friday. The reception will be held tonight . . . From up San Francisco way come the wedding reception invitation for Mr. and Mrs. Howard P. Grant, on Friday, June 18. Howard, now a Civil Engineer, is formerly of L. A. His bride is Julia Catherine Myles, a former University of Cal student.

WELLI WELLI WELLI

The smart affair formed a counterpoint along with other pre-nuptial events that have been given in honor of Miss Brown. Miss Nellie Lutcher Honored at Party

The lovely patio of the Daniel T. Larays was a lovely setting for the meeting and greeting of old and new friends of the well known entertainer, Miss Nellie Lutcher. Over 200 guests attended the grand affair, others expressing their regrets due to trips away over the long weekend.

Too much credit cannot be given the charming lady who so graciously entertained with music that "really sends you." The cities of Lake Charles and Los Angeles are quite proud of Miss Lutcher.

After meeting and greeting old and new friends, the appointed table was arranged a delicious refreshments were served. A very delightful time was enjoyed by all attending.

Local Woman Musician Doing Outstanding Work In North

All roads will lead to Oakland Auditorium on Tuesday, June 8, where the spectacular spring musicale, "I Heard America Singing," will be staged.

Something unique and different for music lovers, sponsored in benefit of BeBee CME Memorial Temple, the mammoth presentation will feature promising concert artists, top-notch musicians, and a program of diversified musical offerings, long to be remembered.

Working diligently for the past two months, Madame A. C. Bilbrew, nationally acclaimed actress, pianist and choral director, has molded the talents of San Francisco Bay Area musicians into a varied, colorful and entertaining program, which promises to be a musical treat.

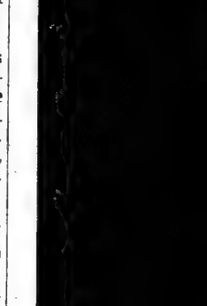
Designed to highlight the works of American composers and display the potentialities of Negro artists, choral arrangements, Spirituals, solos, folk-tunes and ballads will comprise the program, with the exception of the opera sequence, "Duette Misere" from "Il Trovatore."

Traditionally American, no program of this type would be complete without those originators of harmony, the Barber Shop Quartet, so popular at the turn of the century.

Then there's the ever popular male quartet, none of which is more famous that the "Four Chimes" of Richmond, Calif.; and as if the melodious singing of the Rev. G. L. Fauntleroy and his Cathedral Choir is as rare a musical treat as could be offered, the youthful and promising soprano, Lillian Speece, will make her debut as concert artist, and team with the Rev. Fauntleroy in scores written especially for the "Musical."

Adding a note of variety to the elaborate musicale, John D. Blakeley, New York Negro opera tenor, will sing songs which brought him fame, and no program would be complete without the piano genius of Clarabelle Lyons and Royal Gonez.

As a special added treat, and a bit on the sentimental side, "Christmas Eve in Hollywood" will be dramatized to the strains of the familiar Christmas tune, "I'm Dreaming of a White Christmas."



Climax and finale to the grand evening will be a short skit entitled, "It's the Little Things in Life."

Paris Designer Sends Skirts Back Up

NEW YORK (CNS)—Skirts up, skirts down—that is still a question.

Skirts down—and from seven to twelve inches from the floor, depending on the hour of the clock—was thought to be the answer as of Fall, 1947. Fashion Designers hastening to revamp styles in collaboration with the new length tooted the New Look so loudly that by mid-winter, it was the Old Look.

Now at this late date in the fashion trend, Christian Dior, the Parisian designer, showed his Spring collection this week to buyers of the world—with skirts shortened. He has snipped them as high as 15 inches off the ground so that they barely cover the calf. Dior should know where it's proper for ladies' hemlines, for Dior is the designer who launched the longer length in the first place and thereby set off the anger of the male world over.

'Tis said by research analysts that the length ow moen's skirts have augured for years the economic stability of the times. Short skirts have concurred with prosperity, long skirts with depression. Perhaps this fluctuating of hemlines experts would explain as coinciding with the recent spiraling of the stock market.

Accessories Add To Wardrobe

NEW YORK CITY (Calvin's News Service)—Take a dash of originality, add a cupful of color, sprinkle glitter . . . mix well, add to any wardrobe . . . will serve every occasion . . . a recipe that's bound to work if you follow the ABC of handling accessories.

I is for the Accent of drama in accessories. Choose them with an eye to the total effect, with a restraining hand to keep attention focused on on arresting idea . . . the sudden interest last season's suit gets from a swathed scarf . . . add tailored elegance for a day, a wide waist-cincher maybe, glitter by night, all this from your simplest dress, with a cluster of metal star pins on your shoulder . . . the demure charm of a ribbon and a pin under your shirtwaist collar, two clips on your suit lapel . . . black satin twisted through a pearl choker . . . a cheu of striped taffeta pampering the throat of your suit . . . a stocking cap from a mad plaid square . . . a table-talk blouse . . . here's where you star . . . with special ideas of your own that give everything you wear top billing . . .

B is for Basic, the bread and butter clothes that backdrop your on stage accessories . . . stick to one color . . . then everything you own will tie in . . . soot-black, dark brown, newly smart all-year navy . . . Safest bet is for shoes, and best handbag to match . . . then you can spend your pennies on eye-wooing gloves, blouses, scarves, bolts, hats and whatnot . . . to set the mood for daytime simplicity, lady-like softness, and after-dark glamour . . .

C is for Colors, the ones that do the most of you . . . the secret of what's in the pot at the end of the rainbow . . . you've three moods to choose from for your accessories: here's a word on how to use them . . . The pastel family . . . pale blue, aqua, lemon, lime, pink, rose, coral, can be taken in fairly large doses added to your basic black, brown or navy. Blouse and hat, for instance, or scarf and gloves . . . two pasteks and your basic make three that are not a crowd . . . but avoid a spotty checkerboard look . . . at least one matching basic besides your shoes is a good rule to use with pastels. With the vivid colors . . . royal, kelly, red, fuchsia, turquoise, violet, chartruese . . . a little goes a long way in accessories. Best to tone 'em down by adding a neutral . . . beige, brown and turquoise, for example. Then the natural family, underscoring YOU, big news in accessories this year . . . there's beige, and greige, and gray and tapue, and oyster white, cinnamon, mustard, rust . . . yet got with a free hand here . . . . there's practically no way you can't mix them together or with a basic color, a vivid one or a pastel . . . lemon, grey and black for example.

KINLOCH'S ☆ KORNER

Dedicated to the memory of John Kinloch, who died in the struggle to destroy Fascism

Raisin' Cain

By CARL L. CAIN

GOV. WRIGHT ASKS NEGROES LEAVE

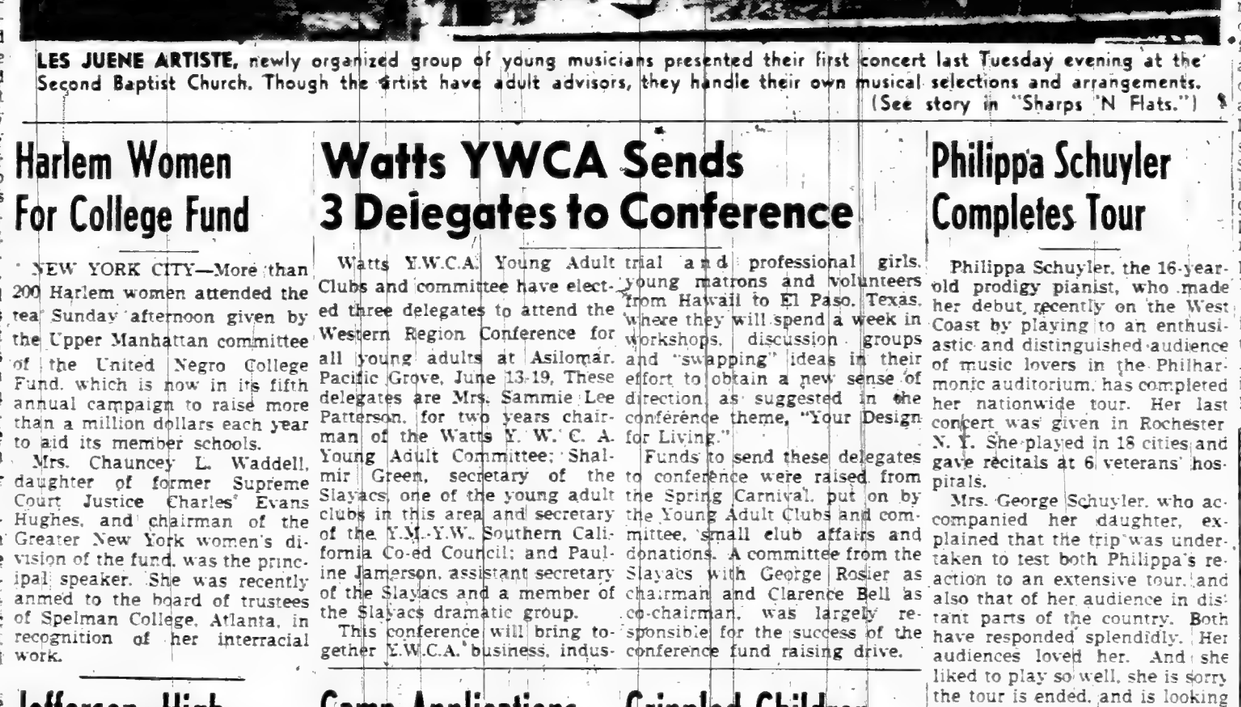
The Honorable Fielding Wright, governor of Mississippi, has asked that all Negroes leave the state and seek homes elsewhere. Although he hesitated to say this outright, he said that all the colored people who thought they would ever live there in equality with the whites should leave; that he asks this out of true sympathy. Now I agree with you, Governor, for the average white Mississipian is quite miserable and poor. I should think that any Negro who did not want to lift himself above these conditions should leave your state.

It seems that the governor's action emerged from the disagreement he harbored toward President Truman's Civil Rights Program, and more recently, the action of the Supreme Court in outlawing Restrictive Covenants. He held on as long as possible, while there was only talk. But when the high court rendered the "no restricted property" decision, the man from Missippi (by their own spelling) up'n had his little say. That's not all. He used the term "true sympathy" in telling the world that he is ungrateful for the contributions Negroes have made to Mississippi, to the United States, and to the world.

Now on two other occasions the Negroes have been asked to leave the south and the United States even. World War I was the first cause, and World War II was the second cause. But they were asked in quite a different manner. They received nice letters from the government of the United States of America asking their services in the Army and the Navy. Well, the Negroes left their homes in Mississippi and all other parts of the nation on those two occasions. They went out and helped to "make the world safe for democracy" and to "destroy fascism." They fought for the state of Mississippi, too, even though it was but a bundle of prejudiced ideals and people; hoping that someday things would be changed, that they too could walk in happiness and security—or America. Even while they fought, however, they lived under the most grotesque forms of discrimination and dictatorial officers. They won the victories and came back—to be lynched and murdered and not even allowed to mention the Bill of Rights or the Constitution; to be cursed and humiliated by the people they had fought and died to defend. More blood to be shed upon the already crimson pages of NEGRO HISTORY IN AMERICA.

THE UNDERLYING CAUSE

At one time, the southerners were rich and proud people—some of them, at least—people from the Old World who had been made wealthy by the Rum and Slave Trade. They had not worked after coming to the new country but had slaves to do their work. Thus they were rich and proud, until God sent forth men like Fedrick Douglass and Abraham Lincoln to teach the Americans their lesson of Freedom. Before long the conscientious Americans realized that slavery was, in addition to its miserable inhumanities, a chain that bound the new country to the stake of illiteracy, shame, and backwardness. When freedom finally did come to all Americans, these southerners were trapped in their laziness and dreams of superiority. To grant full and equal rights to Negroes would be to admit the thing that the south has always fought against, since its unfortunate beginning. It would mean that the white people had at last surrendered and admitted defeat. And the fact that they will not grant equal rights to all Americans will finally destroy the South.



A POOR SHOWING, GOVERNOR

At the present time, Mississippi is out of the race of American progress and achievement. It is in the lowest class educationally. It is a great pool of ignorance, poverty, ghettos and laziness. Here where the people need cooperation and unity is where we find people like the Governor, pulling backwards when he should be pushing forward; we find people who are ruled only by hate in its highest and most magnified degree. There has hardly been a time, except during the periods of the two World Wars, that over half the people of that state were not supported by government relief. Had it not been for the Stamp Act, many of them would have doubtlessly died of disease caused by hunger. These conditions apply to both races. Now your state is making a poor showing, governor, and you, of all people, should be talking unity and taking the lead in the work for improvement. Instead, you lead your people on in their fallacious vision of superiority. Without the labor of the southern Negroes to hold the economic system there together (and to them you should be grateful), your clumsily constructed walls of pride and superiority would fall down upon your head and crush you—you know that.

And there is nothing more disgusting than to hear southern officials use terms such as "true sympathy" and "feeling" to express their shoddy ideals of superiority. What's sympathetic about lynchings, unfair trials, and complete ignorance of Civil Liberties?

Instead of pulling apart, the two predominating races of the south should forget about the old southern tradition of hate and work together. The south is a part of a great nation, and it is not supposed to be the target of jokes and ridicule. But recognition of that part of our nation for what it should be will not come until the people earn it. For the sake of America, may that be soon.

Funds to send these delegates to conference were raised from the Spring Carnival, put on by the Young Adult Clubs and committee, small club affairs and donations. A committee from the Slayacs with George Rosier as chairman and Clarence Bell as co-chairman, was largely responsible for the success of the conference fund raising drive.

Mrs. George Schuyler, who accompanied her daughter, explained that the trip was undertaken to test both Philippa's reaction to an extensive tour, and also that of her audience in distant parts of the country. Both have responded splendidly. Her audiences loved her. And she liked to play so well, she is sorry the tour is ended, and is looking forward to another in the near future.

"In a four months door-to-door survey conducted in the harbor area, the health department found 385 physically handicapped children, 135 of whom were not getting medical care," Dr. Goerke said.

The health department is referring untreated children to proper care facilities where correction of their defects may be possible, he declared.

HOUSTON, Tex.—Final plans for an Administration and Classroom building and a University Auditorium were appoved by the Board of Directors of the Texas State University at a recent meeting, according to an announcement by John H. Robertson, Executive Assistant of the Board.

Mr. Robertson also announced that the Board expects to let the contract on these two buildings at its regular meeting on June 8.

Membership Drive Sets New Record

YMCA Membership Campaigners met at the 28th Street Branch last Thursday evening and reported 156 members for a total of nearly three thousand dollars. This raised the total for the year to above sixteen thousand dollars, an amount far greater than anything the Branch has ever achieved before.

Credit for the success of this effort is largely due to H. A. Howard, Branch Chairman; Reverend M. Frederick Mitchell, who led the annual campaign; Professor Hugh O. Cook, Sr., who spearheaded the "plus" effort; Lorenzo Bowdoin, Special List Chairman; and Division Leaders L. B. Wilson, G. W. McKinney, Dee Hodge, Leon W. Steward, W. J. Hickerson, and Captain James R. Akers, Jr. These leaders were loyally supported by members of the Board of Managers and other friends of the Branch.

In spite of the success attained, the workers state the Branch is still short of funds to conduct an adequate "Y" program to meet the needs of the youth in the South Central Area and they pledged to continue the development of membership income until an adequate budget is balanced.

To impress others we must be earnest; to amuse them, it is only necessary to be kindly and fanciful. —Tuckerman

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By REV. IKE EVANS, D.D.

Subject: Men who dared to stand for God. Lesson Text and Outline. Daniel 3:4-7. 13-18; 6-10. Motto Text Daniel 3:18.

Intriduction

Men who dared to stand for God were Daniel's three friends who, upon their refusal to worship Nebuchadnezzar's golden image, were cast into the fiery furnace, and Danield himself who, because he prayed to God, was cast into the den of lions.

Comments

1. The king does strictly charge and command all manner of persons to fall down and worship the golden image; whatever other gods they worship at other times, now they must worship this. They must all do this just at the same time, in token of their communion with each other in this idolatrous service, and that, in order hereunto, notice shall be given by a concert of music, which would likewise serve to adorn the solemnity and to sweeten and soften the minds of those that were loath to yield and bring them to comply with the king's command.

This mirth and gaiety in the worship would be very agreeable to carnal sensual minds, that are strangers to that spiritual worship which is due to God who is a spirit. That way that sense directs the most will go; there is nothing so bad which the careless world will not be drawn to by a concert of music, or driven to by a fiery furnace. And by such methods as these false worships has been set up and maintained.

2. True devotion calms the spirit, quiets and meekens it; but superstition, and a devotion to false gods, inflame men's passion, inspire them with rage, and fury, and turn them into brutes. The wrath of a king is as the roaring of a lion ... so was the wrath of this king; and yet, when he was in sunch a heat, these three men were brought before him and appeared with an undaunted courage, an unshaken constancy.

The faithfulness of God's servants to him has often been the wonder of their enemies and persecutors, who think it strange that they run not with them to the same excess of riot. The king was willing to admit them to a new trial; if they did on purpose not do it before, yet, if maybe, upon second thought, they will change their minds; it is therefore repeated to them upon what terms they now stand. Those that would avoid sin must not parley with temptation. When that which we are allured or affrighted to is manifestly evil the motion is rather to be rejected with indignation and abhorrence than reasoned with; stand not to pause about it, but say, as Christ has taught us, Get thee behind me, Satan. Those that make their duty their main care need not be careful concerning the event.

The faithful servants of God will find him a Master able to bear them out in his service, and to control and overrule all the powers that are armed against them. Good thoughts of God, and a full assurance that he is with us while we are with him, will help very much to carry us through sufferings; and, if he be for us, we need not fear what man can do unto us, let him do his worst. God will deliver us either from death or in death. A steadfast-denying adherence to God and duty in less instances will qualify and prepare us for the like in greater instances. And in this we must be resolute, never, under any pretense whatsoever, to worship images, or to say "A confederacy" with those that do.

3. Daniel did not retire into the country, nor abscend for some time, though he knew the law was leveled against him; but, because he knew it was so, therefore he stood his ground, knowing that he had now a fair opportunity of honoring God before men, and showing that he preferred his favour and his duty to him, before life itself.

Every house not only may be, but ought to be, a house of prayer; where we have a tent God must have an altar, and on it we must offer spiritual sacrifices. In every prayer he receive thanks. When we pray to God for the mercies we want we must praise him for those we have received. Thanksgiving must be a part of every prayer. When he prayed and gave thangs he kneeled upon his knees, which is the most proper gesture in prayer, and most expressive of humility, and reverence, and submission to God. Kneeling is a begging gesture, and we come to God as beggars, beggars for our lives, whom it concerns to be importunate. It is good to have our hours of prayer, not to bind, but to remind conscience; and, if we think our bodies require refreshment by food thrice a day, can we think less devotion will serve our souls?

Comments on the Motto Text

Here is the courage of consecration to God. Strangers in a strange land, they would not worship a strange god. The God of their fathers, the God of their Bible, the God of heaven and earth, he, and he alone, was their God. Here is the courage of confession. It as made to the monarch who was furious at their disobedience to his decree. Moreover, they refused the overture of escape. Here is the courage of conscience. Why not bow to the golden image and pass on with the crowd? What harm in a formality of external adoration? No! The brave three could not think of such a thing! So here is the courage of consistency. "We will not serve thy gods! They must not incline an inch to idolatry nor walk in the way of the wicked a single step for one moment!

Without earnestness no man is ever great or does realy great things. He may be the cleverest of men; he may be brilliant, entertaining, popular; but he will want weight. —Bayne

Adventist Missionary Honored At Reception; First From His Church

Four hundred and fifty churchmen and friends of Missionary G. Nathaniel Banks, Superintendent of the Liberian Seventh Day Adventist Mission gathered last week in Griffith Hall of the Second Baptist Church in Los Angeles to pay honor to the distinguished California citizen who now calls Liberia his home. Rev. Banks, his wife and their two children plan to return to Liberia in September, and he said that they all refer to Liberia as "home." Mrs. Banks is the former Etta Blue of Los Angeles.

REV. BANKS

Director of five large mission stations in the Africab Republic, the Rev. Mr. Banks was sent to Liberia near the close of the war, and he is the first Negro-American to head a mission field operated by the Seventh Day Adventist Church. Rev. Banks and his associates conduct educational, medical and religious work among the 2,000,000 citizens of Liberia.

Elated by the honor paid him and his wife at the reception, Rev. Banks responded to the many complimentary speeches. He stated, in telling of his experiences in Liberia, "On arriving in Liberia, we and the other two American families that went out with us were heartily welcomed by the Liberians. President Tubman invited us to his mansion for a State dinner and officially welcomed us."

Professor Garland Millet of the Los Angeles Academy was Master of Ceremonies at the reception, and the speakers list included: The Reverends R. H. Robertson, W. C. Webb, A. A. Lindsey, A. A. Esteb, Dr. R. I. Rodriquez, Dr. Carl Dent and Principal Dent. The Rev. Owen Troy was general chairman and introduced the guests of honor. Music arranged by Mrs. Maude Masters included selections by: Harvey Huggins, Sirley Verrett, Malita Phipps, G. Bruton, little Toni Robinson and a trio of ladies. Mrs. Rose Benson, a native Liberian here to complete her education was introduced.

Christian Science Theme God, the only Cause

"God the Only Cause and Creator" will be the Sunday Lesson-Sermon subject in all branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston. The Golden Text is from the Psalms, "All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord; and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone."

The Lesson-Sermon includes this Bible citation from Exodus: "Behold, I send an Angel before thee, to keep thee in the way, . . . And ye shall serve the Lord your God, and he shall bless thy bread, and thy water; and I will take sickness away from the midst of thee." And in The Acts it is recorded, "By the hands of the apostles were many signs and wonders wrought among the people; . . . There came also a multitude out of the cities round about unto Jerusalem, bringing sick folks, and them which were vexed with unclean spirits: and they were healed every one."

Mary Baker Eddy says in "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures:" "Maintain the facts of Christian Science,—that Spirit is God, and therefore cannot be sick; that what is termed matter cannot be sick; that all causation is Mind, acting through spiritnal law."

Golden Gate Four To Publish Book

NEW YORK CITY—The Golden Gate Quartet, who for more than ten years have been the leading exponents of spiritual songs, will author a textbook on the various methods of organizing church choirs and how to lead them. The book, which will be published late in 1948, will also include instruction on how to arrange for church choirs and will deal with the many intricate phases of spritual singing.

The reason for this sudden burst of literary activity is based on a vast number of letters the Golden Gaters have received from church leaders and laymen who asked for information on local choirs.

Rather than try to answer more than 8000 individualy, the famed singers decided to write a simple and compact instruction book which would give as much information on spiritual singing groups as possible.

Already two publishers have entered bids on the textbook, and several other well known book publishing companies are reported very interested.

There is no substitute for thorough-going, ardent, and sincere earnestness. —Dickens
